The Ethiopian Parade Revenge Is Dangerous Intelligent Liberality 'Mercy' Slayings

By ARTHUR BRISBANE

MUSSOLINI'S "WAR" in Ethiopia continues to look more like a parade than a war. Italians appear, flying high in the air, tanks snorting and spitting fire, machine guns popping on the ground, a stream of men, well armed, apparently without end, following after. Ethiopians take one look, or two, and wisely move on.

Friday's news tells of five towns taken, including Makale.

FROM THERE to Addis Ababa, more than ten thousand feet up in the air, is a rough road, on the surface, but smooth for airplanes. Italian soldiers working with pick and shovel, dynamite and road machines, smooth the way for tanks and trucks. If the League of Nations had delayed its sanctions a few days longer it would have been too late; perhaps it had that in mind. England does not want, and France would not have, war with Italy.

THE ETHIOPIANS made a mistake, when according to news agencies they took vengeance on the emperor's son-in-law, Ras Gugsa, who deserted to Mussolini with fifteen hundred fighters.

The revenge, while picturesque, was not pleasing. Vengeful Ethiopians gathered together six thousand wives and children of the deserting warriors, massacred them to the last one and devoted the rest of the evening to "a frenzied war dance."

Now, Ras Gugsa, who also likes revenge, only asks to be allowed to lead his fifteen hundred deserters against any visible Ethiopians. He and his followers would destroy them with great pleasure, providing a good "spear-head" for Italian operations. Gugsa and his warriors feel like MacDuff, after the destruction of his family, "All my pretty chicks, and their dam, at one fell swoop."

IF YOU SUCCEED that's good. If you share success with others, that is better.

Years ago Mr. W. K. Kellogg came from Battle Creek, Michigan, with his advertising agent, to tell this writer, in New York, that he proposed

PEDESTRIAN HIT BY TROLLEY CAR

Foot Amputated After Accident; Condition Reported Serious

Struck by a municipal street car on Jackson street near the Peach street intersection yesterday afternoon, E. D. McGee, 59, of 214 Peach street, suffered a severe injury when a wheel of the car was said to have passed over his left foot. The foot was amputated at St. Francis sanitarium.

McGee also suffered cuts on his right foot, right hand and wrist. His condition was grave, his physician said following the operation.

D. A. Moore was the motorman on the street car.

Reports of the accident said McGee was walking across Jackson street from the east side of the thoroughfare when struck by the car. McGee was walking "at an angle," or in a northwesterly direction, it was stated. The street car was traveling northward.

The motorman was said to have sounded the car bell and to have applied the brakes in an effort to prevent the accident.

McGee could not be reached for his version of the accident.

His occupation was given as that of a buyer and seller of produce.

2 TORNADOES HIT OKLAHOMA REGION; SEVERAL INJURED

MUSKOGEE, Okla., Nov. 9.—(AP)—Two tornadoes struck north of Muskogee late today, one at Porter, the other at Wagoner. Several persons were injured and farm homes damaged over an area of 25 to 30 square miles.

Mr. and Mrs. Twig Johnson, who live five miles southeast of Wagoner, were brought to a hospital here. Their condition was believed critical.

Two other persons were reported injured at Porter.

Johnson and his wife, an invalid, were hurt when their five-room home collapsed. The two were reported to have suffered serious head injuries.

After the tornado struck Porter, it swirled east and south, damaging several farmhouses and barns.

O. K. ALLEN OPENS SENATE CAMPAIGN IN RUSTON SPEECH

Says Election Would Not End His Political Activities In State

CANDIDATE DEFENDS LAW CONTROLLING TEACHERS

Declares Dictator Acts Will Not Be Modified Or Abolished

RUSTON, La., Nov. 9.—(Special)—Addressing a crowd estimated at about 1,200 persons, including about 200 negroes, Governor O. K. Allen today launched his campaign for the unexpired term of the late United States Senator Huey P. Long.

Mr. Allen made a plea for support of the entire state administration ticket, which is headed by himself, Judge Richard Leche, Earl Long and Allen Ellender. He promised to carry on the work in Washington started by Senator Long, and stated that his election to the short term in the United States senate "would not end my political activities in Louisiana," but that he "would be very much in politics in the state as long as my services are desirable."

Governor Allen began his address with an attack upon the opposition of the state administration whom he referred to as the "Sandlin-Dear anti-Long ticket."

In referring to the various laws passed by the present administration in recent years, and especially to the law which gives the state administration control over the school teachers of the state, Mr. Allen freely admitted that the laws were passed with the view of obtaining control over the state school system.

He denied that any teacher so far

ARTISTS PUZZLED BY POLICE VISIT

Mystery Woman Causes Raid On Show Attended By Many Notables

NEW YORK, Nov. 9.—(AP)—A mysterious woman lurked in the background tonight as some of the town's most celebrated artists sought to learn the reason for last night's police raid on their annual show.

Pressed for an explanation of why two detectives halted the performance and arrested five girls on a charge of giving an indecent exhibition, the police said a complaint had been filed by a Miss Jeanette Cice. They refused to identify her further.

Rube Goldberg called the raid an "insult," and Courtney Riley Cooper had demanded that the entire audience of 800 formally attired artists, editors, business and professional men be taken into custody along with the five girls, who had appeared in deshabille, or less.

Fred G. Cooper, manager of the show, which was staged by the Society of Illustrators for the benefit of needy artists, conceded it may have been "risque."

"But it wasn't indecent," he exploded.

"It has been staged privately for 30 years and no one ever got fresh with a girl or made a bawdy remark. The girls are the finest I know and are all from good families."

"It makes no difference," said Po-

BATTERED CORPSE OF WOMAN FOUND

Jealous Suitor Thought To Have Slain Her On Eve Of Marriage

WASHINGTON, Nov. 9.—(AP)—Richard Tear, fiance of Corinna Loring, 26-year-old stenographer, was taken to police headquarters in Mt. Rainier, Md., tonight, a few hours after the young woman's battered body was found in a wooded covert.

No charge was made against Tear. He was taken to police headquarters from the Loring home, to which he had gone shortly after identifying the body of the young woman. He was to have married her last Wednesday, two days after she vanished from her home.

Before an autopsy on the body was completed, it was learned that besides being brutally beaten and strangled, Miss Loring had been shot through the temple.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 9.—(AP)—The battered, garotted body of 26-year-old Corinna Loring, who vanished on the eve of her wedding day, was found today in a clump of pines and grass near Mt. Rainier, Md.

Plice tonight worked on a theory that a jealous suitor might have slain her.

The young woman, who was to have been the bride of Richard Tear, 29, had been beaten over the head and strangled with a piece of heavy wrapping cord.

The body was found by Ted Fletcher, a night watchman, as he trained his rabbit dogs in the lonely Saddleback ridge district. He saw two slippered feet in the grass. Walking ahead he discovered the bruised form. About 50 feet away Fletcher found a pool of dried blood. This indicated the body had been dragged to a more secluded spot after the slaying.

There were two holes above the eyes. Whether they were bullet holes remained for the autopsy to deter-

ROBERT ERVIN IS SERIOUSLY HURT

Young West Monroe Man And Three Companions Injured In Car Crash

Robert Ervin, young West Monroe man, was critically hurt and three other persons, two of them local residents, suffered lesser injuries Saturday morning when the automobile in which they were traveling to Baton Rouge to attend a football game turned over several times on the newly opened highway near Lebeau, in St. Landry parish.

George Fink, young Monroe attorney, and Miss Esther Fair, of Mansfield, cousin of the Ervins, suffered bruises.

Indications were that Ervin suffered a fractured skull. An X-ray picture was to be made this morning.

A Monroe physician who was summoned to Ervin's bedside in a hospital at LeCompte for a consultation with other physicians said last night following his return here that Ervin had "little better than an even chance" to recover.

Following the accident, Ervin and his sister were picked up in an automobile and carried about 40 miles to Bunkie, where they received emergency treatment and later they were removed to the hospital at LeCompte.

Ervin was reported to have regained consciousness early in the afternoon. His condition improved during the afternoon and the Monroe physician said that if the improvement is continued through the night he will be brought to Monroe in an ambulance today for treatment here.

After enjoying many weaks of balmy weather north Louisiana is scheduled to shiver in much lower temperatures this week, according to the weather man's prediction last night.

The forecast said: "Mostly cloudy, local showers in north and central portions (of Louisiana) Sunday; Monday cloudy, probably rain, much colder in west and north portions."

The cold blast is scheduled to descend upon Arkansas this afternoon or tonight, and temperatures are expected to be below freezing.

DISCARDED TOYS WILL BE COLLECTED BY BOY SCOUT

Collections of discarded toys, to be used in providing gifts for underprivileged children at Christmas time, will be made by the Boy Scout troops of Monroe and West Monroe next Saturday, it was announced last night by Olan H. Black, scout executive. The toys will be assembled at the "toy hospital," sponsored by the Council of Social Agencies, which will follow its program of last year in providing toys for children of the two cities who otherwise would have no Christmas gifts. A second collection of discarded toys will be made by the Boy Scouts on November 23.

ARMISTICE DAY TO BE OBSERVED IN CITY MONDAY

War Veterans Will Stage Parade Through Downtown Streets Of Monroe

REV. JOHNS WILL CONDUCT SPECIAL MEMORIAL RITES

Mayors Bernstein And Bell Proclaim Holiday For Big Celebration

The seventeenth anniversary of the armistice that ended the World war will be observed in Monroe and West Monroe Monday. Stores throughout the cities will close during the time of the holding of memorial exercises at the Paramount theater at 10:30 a.m. to noon, and banks will be closed for the entire day. The outstanding features of the day will be the parade starting at 9 a.m., in which veterans from all parts of the fifth congressional district will participate, and the memorial services at the Paramount when Rev. H. L. Johns, presiding elder of the Monroe district of the Methodist church, south, and a World war veteran, will deliver the annual address.

The parade will start at 9 a.m. from the corner of Oak and South Grand streets and will proceed north to DeSiard street, east on DeSiard street to Sixth street, through Sixth street to Oak street, through Oak street to Hall street, thence on Hall street to DeSiard street, and west on DeSiard street to the Paramount theater, where lines will disband and veterans will attend the services in a body.

The parade will lead off with the allied colors, utilizing flags obtained from New Orleans of Great Britain, France, Japan, Belgium and Italy. In each case the flag of the country will be carried by a veteran from that land, with the exception of Japan.

ORLEANS GIRL IS SLAIN BY SUITOR

Young Woman Shot To Death As She Alights From Bus; Dies Quickly

NEW ORLEANS, Nov. 9.—(AP)—Miss May Saucier, 26, a refining company employe, was shot to death by four bullets sent into her back today as she alighted from a bus at St. Bernard avenue and Industry street here. She fell into the street and died almost instantly.

Police immediately started search for a man wearing a brown suit and having dark hair, as her slayer. Police said he was her sweetheart with whom she had quarreled before the shooting, and that he was employed by the same company.

Another bus driver reported to the police that a man fitting the descrip-

HUGE CLIPPER SHIP REACHES SAN DIEGO FROM MEXICAN PORT

SAN DIEGO, Calif., Nov. 9.—(AP)—Pan-American Airways' 62-ton China clipper, destined for trans-Pacific air service, landed in San Diego bay at 4:30 p. m., Pacific standard time, today, completing a 1,660-mile non-stop flight from Acapulco, Mex. The elapsed time was 12 hours and 12 minutes.

En route to Alameda to begin its rule as aerial mistress of the Pacific, the giant flying ship was berthed at the naval air station. With Capt. Edwin C. Musick in command the ship arrived here after a 3,000-mile one-stop flight from Miami, Fla.

A crew of six, plus six engineers and observers, was aboard. The China clipper will proceed to San Pedro tomorrow and return. Monday it is scheduled to leave for Alameda, base for the planes which will begin trans-Pacific air service November 22.

JOHN BARHAM DIES AT HOSPITAL IN MONROE

John Barham, 48, well-known Oak Ridge man, died last night at 8 o'clock at a hospital here where he was brought yesterday afternoon.

The funeral will be held at 11 o'clock this morning at the Oak Ridge cemetery.

Mr. Barham is survived by the following relatives: the widow; his mother, Mrs. Ada Barham, of Oak Ridge; four brothers, Tommie, Eugene, Earl and Gray Barham, of Oak Ridge; a half-brother, Emmett Mott, of Oak Ridge.

Automotive Industry Makes History In Business Revival

Local Concerns Play Large Part In Developing Twin City Progress

The attention of the whole nation has been focused in the last week on the remarkable automobile shows which came to a brilliant close in New York last night. The event has served to still further emphasize the dramatically important part that has been played by the automotive industry in sustaining the economic morale of the country during the recent depression and in leading the United States back to normal business recovery.

Monroe and West Monroe, in common with virtually every other industrial and commercial center of America, have had a very definite part in the advantages that have accrued from the vitality imparted by the automotive industry. A survey of the activities of motor car distributors, dealers in tires and accessories and other phases of the industry, shows considerably over a million dollars invested in these two cities by business interests which deal with a motor-conscious public. These figures do not include the gasoline stations located within the corporate limits of the two cities, which represent investments of at least another half million dollars.

As an agency in helping to solve the unemployment problem, the automotive industry has done conspicuous service. The ten leading automobile distributing concerns of Monroe and West Monroe are today employing 234 persons, with a payroll of $243,404 a year. The number of persons directly dependent on this payroll total 863. Tires, accessories and automobile

RED CROSS ROLL CALL PLANS MADE

Annual Campaign For Funds Will Be Started Here On Tuesday

The annual Red Cross roll call for Ouachita parish will begin Tuesday morning and continue until Thanksgiving day, it was announced Saturday by L. P. Abernathy, chairman of the Ouachita chapter. Joe Isaacman, who served in a similar capacity last year, is general chairman of the campaign. Rev. Ernest Holloway, pastor of the First Presbyterian church, is chairman of the group enrollment division. Mrs. Jonas Selig has charge of the house to house canvass in Monroe and Mrs. D. C. Metcalf will direct the campaign in West Monroe.

Although the campaign does not formally begin until Tuesday, the first 100 per cent enrollment from any business house in the city was reported from the A. & W. Sandwich shop Saturday morning. Every employe of the shop was enrolled, and a contribution to the special gifts was made by I. W. Allen, the manager. This concern has been the first "100 per center" for several successive years.

At a meeting held Friday night in Hotel Virginia group leaders were given instructions regarding the details of the campaign. The workers will begin solicitation of individual memberships Tuesday morning. The business section of the city has been divided into districts and members of the various civic clubs have been assigned to cover that territory. A special committee will solicit the special gifts from business firms and corporations, which will be a separate phase of the campaign, entirely apart from the "dollar membership" roll

KINGSFORD-SMITH NOW FEARED DEAD

Indian Ocean Monsoon Thought To Have Caused Death Of Famed Flier

SINGAPORE, Straits Settlements, Nov. 10.—(Sunday)—(AP)—An Indian ocean monsoon was feared tonight to have brought death to Sir Charles Kingsford-Smith, noted Australian aviator, and his co-pilot, Tom Pethybridge. Nearly two days have passed since their plane disappeared.

A ray of hope remained, however, for the safety of the airmen—lost while attempting to make a record flight from England to Australia—as it was disclosed the plane remain afloat indefinitely if forced down on water.

C. James Melrose, who saw Kingsford-Smith's plane at about 2:25 a. m. Friday (8:01 p. m. Eastern standard time Thursday) over the Bay of Bengal, was participating in a search for the missing fliers along with Royal Air Force planes.

Melrose had discontinued his own flight from England to Australia when he learned of the apparent disaster. He had seen the Kingsford-Smith plane after it left Allahabad at 6:25 p. m. local time Thursday.

(Kingsford-Smith's own solo record for the England-Australia flight was broken even while the search was going on. H. F. Broadbent, an Australian, reached Port Darwin, Australia, six days, 21 hours, 19 minutes after leaving Croyden, England. He surpassed Kingsford-Smith's record, made in 1933, by seven hours, 28 minutes.)

Two Royal Air Force planes soared over jungle-covered islands yesterday but found no trace of the pair.

Their monoplane had a wireless set, but sent out no word. It was recalled, however, he has on previous occasions been lost for days and come out safely.

Kingsford-Smith and Pethybridge left Lympne, England, Wednesday and flew rapidly over Europe to Baghdad, Iraq. Then they went on to Allahabad, northeast India, landing at 5:25 p. m., Thursday (7:25 a. m. Eastern standard time Thursday).

They were reported later over Akyab, Burma, on the Bay of Bengal, and south of Akyab. Then they dropped out of sight.

CHINESE ACCUSED OF SLAYING MAN IN JAP UNIFORM

Troops Ready To Enforce Threat Of Drastic Action By Nipponese

PROMPT SATISFACTION IS DEMANDED BY OFFICIALS

Seriousness Of Incident Aggravated By Effort To Kill Premier

SHANGHAI, Nov. 10.—(Sunday)—(AP)—Nearly 2,000 Japanese marines marched into a demilitarized section of Shanghai today after the assassination of one of their comrades and a showdown in critical Sino-Japanese relations appeared at hand.

Bayonets fixed, a battalion was mobilized from three Japanese warships in the harbor and hurriedly sent into the native quarter where the slaying took place.

They appeared prepared to enforce the threat by the Japanese embassy of drastic action unless satisfaction is quickly forthcoming. Chinese, recalling the hostilities of 1932 when Shanghai was attacked, were panic-stricken.

Political motives were assigned by the Japanese embassy for the slaying of the marine, Hideo Nakayama, 23. He was shot in the neck and fatally wounded, allegedly by a Chinese. The scene was in the Hongkew district, outside the foreign settlement.

Embassy officials immediately called upon Chinese authorities to make demands.

Asserting there had been a huge concentration of Chinese troops in this vicinity, the embassy officials said they suspected the slayer was a member of the Chinese army in plain-clothes.

The seriousness of the incident was aggravated by the fact it follows closely upon an attempt November 1 to assassinate Premier Wang Ching-Wei of China. The attempt, made at Nanking, was attributed to anti-Japanese plotters.

Half a dozen suspects have already been arrested and comrades of the slain marine searched houses for others. The pistol used for the shooting was found.

The embassy demanded the immediate arrest of the assassin and said

ETHIOPIAN TROOP MOVEMENT BEGINS

Black Soldiers Reported Trying To Envelope Italian Invaders

By James A. Mills
(Associated Press Foreign Staff)

ADDIS ABABA, Nov. 9.—The first important aggressive movement by Ethiopian troops since the Italian invasion began was reported tonight.

Ethiopian troops were stated to have attempted enveloping operations on the western end of the northern front, planning to invade Eritrea through the Walkait district in northern Ethiopia.

Emperor Haile Selassie, authoritative quarters said, has ordered Dedjazmatch Ayelu, Ethiopian commander in that area, to cut behind the Italian army which is now established at Makale and is pointed southward.

(A Reuters report from Addis Ababa said an airplane, believed to be Italian, flying high, passed over the city at noon.)

As thousands of black warriors streamed into the section of southern Tigre province which is still held by the Ethiopians, authorities reported

HARRIS SAYS HE WILL ASK REPEAL OF SCHOOL LAWS

BATON ROUGE, Nov. 9.—(AP)—T. H. Harris, state superintendent of education, said today he would personally appear before the legislature next year to ask repeal of the law assertedly "politicalizing" the school system.

The law, passed at the direction of the late Senator Huey P. Long, created a state budget committee with power to hire and fire any teacher.

Harris said the "political" features of the law would not be used.

"I am opposed to any state supervision over the power of local school boards to hire and dismiss their own teachers," Harris said.

"Not a single school employe has been dismissed by order of the state budget committee since these laws were passed," he said.

WPA Must Double Its Pace To Reach Work Relief Goal

WASHINGTON, Nov. 9.—(AP)—With the administration still short of the half-way mark in its drive to provide 3,500,000 jobs, figures made public today showed it must double its recently accelerated work relief pace to meet the December 1 goal.

Harry L. Hopkins, works progress administrator, said the number put to work in the week ending November 2 totaled 194,425, compared with 121,715 in the preceding week.

The total given jobs in place of direct relief November 2, however, was only 1,737,610, in contrast with the original plan to have the entire 3,500,000 employables at work a day earlier.

If the new December 1 goal is attained, 1,762,390 jobs remained to be provided in the four weeks beginning November 2, a weekly average of 440,597.

Hopkins nevertheless expressed renewed confidence that the program would succeed. Simultaneously he cut four additional states—Ohio, South Carolina, Mississippi and Connecticut—off direct relief.

What this actually meant, however, became uncertain when he declined to say how much he had simultaneously allotted these states to supplement earlier November grants. Ohio already had received $2,084,000, South Carolina, $349,688, Mississippi, $442,580, Connecticut, $401,500.

Most of the 13 other states similarly cut off direct relief received supplementary allotments. Hopkins said only that "the allotments have ended for the 17 states because works program employment is either well enough along or will be soon to take care of employables transferred from the relief rolls and also the needs of unemployables are provided for by states and their localities."

Hopkins' employment report indicated that WPA may have to supply

2 Vicksburg Youths Killed After Attending Game Here

Two young residents of Vicksburg, Miss., are dead and three others are believed recovering from injuries as a result of an automobile accident that took place ten miles east of Rayville last Friday night while the party was returning home after attending a football game here between teams of Carr Central High school of Vicksburg and Neville High school of Monroe.

The dead were: Fred Joseph, son of Mrs. Elsie Joseph, killed outright; and Albert McCauley, son of a Mississippi state senator-elect, S. J. McCauley, and Mrs. McCauley. The McCauley youth died at a Vicksburg hospital early Saturday.

L. S. Wilson received several bruises and minor lacerations and was reported resting well. Donald Price was also slightly hurt.

According to reports of the accident, McCauley, who was driving the automobile in which the party was traveling, had slowed down to allow another car to pass. The vehicle swerved off the road and hurtled into a ditch, turning over and throwing the occupants out.

When found shortly afterwards, all except Price were unconscious. The injured were taken to Vicksburg while Joseph's body was taken to a Rayville undertaking establishment.

Rumors concerning the accident here Saturday morning were that a bus bearing the Vicksburg football players had turned over. This was incorrect and an Associated Press dispatch said no member of the automobile party was a member of the football team.

Joseph had played with the Vicksburg team during the early part of the season, but had quit the game.

The funeral for McCauley will be held this afternoon.

Fred G. Cooper, manager of the show, which was staged by the Society of Illustrators for the benefit of needy artists, conceded it may have been "risque."

"But it wasn't indecent," he exploded.

"It has been staged privately for 30 years and no one ever got fresh with a girl or made a bawdy remark. The girls are the finest I know and are all from good families."

"It makes no difference," said Po-

BATTERED CORPSE OF WOMAN FOUND

WASHINGTON, Nov. 9.—(AP)—Richard Tear, fiance of Corinna Loring, 26-year-old stenographer, was taken to police headquarters in Mt. Rainier, Md., tonight, a few hours after the young woman's battered body was found in a wooded covert.

No charge was made against Tear. He was taken to police headquarters from the Loring home, to which he had gone shortly after identifying the body of the young woman. He was to have married her last Wednesday, two days after she vanished from her home.

Before an autopsy on the body was completed, it was learned that besides being brutally beaten and strangled, Miss Loring had been shot through the temple.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 9.—(AP)—The battered, garotted body of 26-year-old Corinna Loring, who vanished on the eve of her wedding day, was found today in a clump of pines and grass near Mt. Rainier, Md.

Plice tonight worked on a theory that a jealous suitor might have slain her.

The young woman, who was to have been the bride of Richard Tear, 29, had been beaten over the head and strangled with a piece of heavy wrapping cord.

The body was found by Ted Fletcher, a night watchman, as he trained his rabbit dogs in the lonely Saddleback ridge district. He saw two slippered feet in the grass. Walking ahead he discovered the bruised form. About 50 feet away Fletcher found a pool of dried blood. This indicated the body had been dragged to a more secluded spot after the slaying.

There were two holes above the eyes. Whether they were bullet holes remained for the autopsy to deter-

ROBERT ERVIN IS SERIOUSLY HURT

Young West Monroe Man And Three Companions Injured In Car Crash

Robert Ervin, young West Monroe man, was critically hurt and three other persons, two of them local residents, suffered lesser injuries Saturday morning when the automobile in which they were traveling to Baton Rouge to attend a football game turned over several times on the newly opened highway near Lebeau, in St. Landry parish.

Indications were that Ervin suffered a fractured skull. An X-ray picture was to be made this morning.

A Monroe physician who was summoned to Ervin's bedside in a hospital at LeCompte for a consultation with other physicians said last night following his return here that Ervin had "little better than an even chance" to recover.

Following the accident, Ervin and his sister were picked up in an automobile and carried about 40 miles to Bunkie, where they received emergency treatment and later they were removed to the hospital at LeCompte.

Ervin was reported to have regained consciousness early in the afternoon. His condition improved during the afternoon and the Monroe physician said that if the improvement is continued through the night he will be brought to Monroe in an ambulance today for treatment here.

COLD WAVE SLATED TO ARRIVE IN THIS SECTION TOMORROW

After enjoying many weaks of balmy weather north Louisiana is scheduled to shiver in much lower temperatures this week, according to the weather man's prediction last night.

The forecast said: "Mostly cloudy, local showers in north and central portions (of Louisiana) Sunday; Monday cloudy, probably rain, much colder in west and north portions."

The cold blast is scheduled to descend upon Arkansas this afternoon or tonight, and temperatures are expected to be below freezing.

DISCARDED TOYS WILL BE COLLECTED BY BOY SCOUT

Collections of discarded toys, to be used in providing gifts for underprivileged children at Christmas time, will be made by the Boy Scout troops of Monroe and West Monroe next Saturday, it was announced last night by Olan H. Black, scout executive. The toys will be assembled at the "toy hospital," sponsored by the Council of Social Agencies, which will follow its program of last year in providing toys for children of the two cities who otherwise would have no Christmas gifts. A second collection of discarded toys will be made by the Boy Scouts on November 23.

WPA Must Double Its Pace To Reach Work Relief Goal

WASHINGTON, Nov. 9.—(AP)—With the administration still short of the half-way mark in its drive to provide 3,500,000 jobs, figures made public today showed it must double its recently accelerated work relief pace to meet the December 1 goal.

Harry L. Hopkins, works progress administrator, said the number put to work in the week ending November 2 totaled 194,425, compared with 121,715 in the preceding week.

The total given jobs in place of direct relief November 2, however, was only 1,737,610, in contrast with the original plan to have the entire 3,500,000 employables at work a day earlier.

If the new December 1 goal is attained, 1,762,390 jobs remained to be provided in the four weeks beginning November 2, a weekly average of 440,597.

Hopkins nevertheless expressed renewed confidence that the program would succeed. Simultaneously he cut four additional states—Ohio, South Carolina, Mississippi and Connecticut—off direct relief.

What this actually meant, however, became uncertain when he declined to say how much he had simultaneously allotted these states to supplement earlier November grants. Ohio already had received $2,084,000, South Carolina, $349,688, Mississippi, $442,580, Connecticut, $401,500.

Most of the 13 other states similarly cut off direct relief received supplementary allotments. Hopkins said only that "the allotments have ended for the 17 states because works program employment is either well enough along or will be soon to take care of employables transferred from the relief rolls and also the needs of unemployables are provided for by states and their localities."

Hopkins' employment report indicated that WPA may have to supply

ARMISTICE DAY TO BE OBSERVED IN CITY MONDAY

War Veterans Will Stage Parade Through Downtown Streets Of Monroe

REV. JOHNS WILL CONDUCT SPECIAL MEMORIAL RITES

The seventeenth anniversary of the armistice that ended the World war will be observed in Monroe and West Monroe Monday. Stores throughout the cities will close during the time of the holding of memorial exercises at the Paramount theater at 10:30 a.m. to noon, and banks will be closed for the entire day. The outstanding features of the day will be the parade starting at 9 a.m., in which veterans from all parts of the fifth congressional district will participate, and the memorial services at the Paramount when Rev. H. L. Johns, presiding elder of the Monroe district of the Methodist church, south, and a World war veteran, will deliver the annual address.

The parade will start at 9 a.m. from the corner of Oak and South Grand streets and will proceed north to DeSiard street, east on DeSiard street to Sixth street, through Sixth street to Oak street, through Oak street to Hall street, thence on Hall street to DeSiard street, and west on DeSiard street to the Paramount theater, where lines will disband and veterans will attend the services in a body.

The parade will lead off with the allied colors, utilizing flags obtained from New Orleans of Great Britain, France, Japan, Belgium and Italy. In each case the flag of the country will be carried by a veteran from that land, with the exception of Japan.

ORLEANS GIRL IS SLAIN BY SUITOR

Young Woman Shot To Death As She Alights From Bus; Dies Quickly

NEW ORLEANS, Nov. 9.—(AP)—Miss May Saucier, 26, a refining company employe, was shot to death by four bullets sent into her back today as she alighted from a bus at St. Bernard avenue and Industry street here. She fell into the street and died almost instantly.

Police immediately started search for a man wearing a brown suit and having dark hair, as her slayer. Police said he was her sweetheart with whom she had quarreled before the shooting, and that he was employed by the same company.

Another bus driver reported to the police that a man fitting the descrip-

HUGE CLIPPER SHIP REACHES SAN DIEGO FROM MEXICAN PORT

SAN DIEGO, Calif., Nov. 9.—(AP)—Pan-American Airways' 62-ton China clipper, destined for trans-Pacific air service, landed in San Diego bay at 4:30 p. m., Pacific standard time, today, completing a 1,660-mile non-stop flight from Acapulco, Mex. The elapsed time was 12 hours and 12 minutes.

En route to Alameda to begin its rule as aerial mistress of the Pacific, the giant flying ship was berthed at the naval air station. With Capt. Edwin C. Musick in command the ship arrived here after a 3,000-mile one-stop flight from Miami, Fla.

A crew of six, plus six engineers and observers, was aboard. The China clipper will proceed to San Pedro tomorrow and return. Monday it is scheduled to leave for Alameda, base for the planes which will begin trans-Pacific air service November 22.

Automotive Industry Makes History In Business Revival

Local Concerns Play Large Part In Developing Twin City Progress

The attention of the whole nation has been focused in the last week on the remarkable automobile shows which came to a brilliant close in New York last night. The event has served to still further emphasize the dramatically important part that has been played by the automotive industry in sustaining the economic morale of the country during the recent depression and in leading the United States back to normal business recovery.

Monroe and West Monroe, in common with virtually every other industrial and commercial center of America, have had a very definite part in the advantages that have accrued from the vitality imparted by the automotive industry. A survey of the activities of motor car distributors, dealers in tires and accessories and other phases of the industry, shows considerably over a million dollars invested in these two cities by business interests which deal with a motor-conscious public. These figures do not include the gasoline stations located within the corporate limits of the two cities, which represent investments of at least another half million dollars.

As an agency in helping to solve the unemployment problem, the automotive industry has done conspicuous service. The ten leading automobile distributing concerns of Monroe and West Monroe are today employing 234 persons, with a payroll of $243,404 a year. The number of persons directly dependent on this payroll total 863. Tires, accessories and automobile

Annual Campaign For Funds Will Be Started Here On Tuesday

The annual Red Cross roll call for Ouachita parish will begin Tuesday morning and continue until Thanksgiving day, it was announced Saturday by L. P. Abernathy, chairman of the Ouachita chapter. Joe Isaacman, who served in a similar capacity last year, is general chairman of the campaign. Rev. Ernest Holloway, pastor of the First Presbyterian church, is chairman of the group enrollment division. Mrs. Jonas Selig has charge of the house to house canvass in Monroe and Mrs. D. C. Metcalf will direct the campaign in West Monroe.

Although the campaign does not formally begin until Tuesday, the first 100 per cent enrollment from any business house in the city was reported from the A. & W. Sandwich shop Saturday morning. Every employe of the shop was enrolled, and a contribution to the special gifts was made by I. W. Allen, the manager. This concern has been the first "100 per center" for several successive years.

At a meeting held Friday night in Hotel Virginia group leaders were given instructions regarding the details of the campaign. The workers will begin solicitation of individual memberships Tuesday morning. The business section of the city has been divided into districts and members of the various civic clubs have been assigned to cover that territory. A special committee will solicit the special gifts from business firms and corporations, which will be a separate phase of the campaign, entirely apart from the "dollar membership" roll

CHARLES KINGSFORD-SMITH

KINGSFORD-SMITH NOW FEARED DEAD

Indian Ocean Monsoon Thought To Have Caused Death Of Famed Flier

SINGAPORE, Straits Settlements, Nov. 10.—(Sunday)—(AP)—An Indian ocean monsoon was feared tonight to have brought death to Sir Charles Kingsford-Smith, noted Australian aviator, and his co-pilot, Tom Pethybridge. Nearly two days have passed since their plane disappeared.

A ray of hope remained, however, for the safety of the airmen—lost while attempting to make a record flight from England to Australia—as it was disclosed the plane remain afloat indefinitely if forced down on water.

C. James Melrose, who saw Kingsford-Smith's plane at about 2:25 a. m. Friday (8:01 p. m. Eastern standard time Thursday) over the Bay of Bengal, was participating in a search for the missing fliers along with Royal Air Force planes.

Melrose had discontinued his own flight from England to Australia when he learned of the apparent disaster. He had seen the Kingsford-Smith plane after it left Allahabad at 6:25 p. m. local time Thursday.

(Kingsford-Smith's own solo record for the England-Australia flight was broken even while the search was going on. H. F. Broadbent, an Australian, reached Port Darwin, Australia, six days, 21 hours, 19 minutes after leaving Croyden, England. He surpassed Kingsford-Smith's record, made in 1933, by seven hours, 28 minutes.)

Two Royal Air Force planes soared over jungle-covered islands yesterday but found no trace of the pair.

Their monoplane had a wireless set, but sent out no word. It was recalled, however, he has on previous occasions been lost for days and come out safely.

Kingsford-Smith and Pethybridge left Lympne, England, Wednesday and flew rapidly over Europe to Baghdad, Iraq. Then they went on to Allahabad, northeast India, landing at 5:25 p. m., Thursday (7:25 a. m. Eastern standard time Thursday).

They were reported later over Akyab, Burma, on the Bay of Bengal, and south of Akyab. Then they dropped out of sight.

CHINESE ACCUSED OF SLAYING MAN IN JAP UNIFORM

PROMPT SATISFACTION IS DEMANDED BY OFFICIALS

Seriousness Of Incident Aggravated By Effort To Kill Premier

SHANGHAI, Nov. 10.—(Sunday)—(AP)—Nearly 2,000 Japanese marines marched into a demilitarized section of Shanghai today after the assassination of one of their comrades and a showdown in critical Sino-Japanese relations appeared at hand.

Bayonets fixed, a battalion was mobilized from three Japanese warships in the harbor and hurriedly sent into the native quarter where the slaying took place.

They appeared prepared to enforce the threat by the Japanese embassy of drastic action unless satisfaction is quickly forthcoming. Chinese, recalling the hostilities of 1932 when Shanghai was attacked, were panic-stricken.

Political motives were assigned by the Japanese embassy for the slaying of the marine, Hideo Nakayama, 23. He was shot in the neck and fatally wounded, allegedly by a Chinese. The scene was in the Hongkew district, outside the foreign settlement.

Embassy officials immediately called upon Chinese authorities to make demands.

Asserting there had been a huge concentration of Chinese troops in this vicinity, the embassy officials said they suspected the slayer was a member of the Chinese army in plain-clothes.

The seriousness of the incident was aggravated by the fact it follows closely upon an attempt November 1 to assassinate Premier Wang Ching-Wei of China. The attempt, made at Nanking, was attributed to anti-Japanese plotters.

Half a dozen suspects have already been arrested and comrades of the slain marine searched houses for others. The pistol used for the shooting was found.

The embassy demanded the immediate arrest of the assassin and said

ETHIOPIAN TROOP MOVEMENT BEGINS

Black Soldiers Reported Trying To Envelope Italian Invaders

By James A. Mills
(Associated Press Foreign Staff)

ADDIS ABABA, Nov. 9.—The first important aggressive movement by Ethiopian troops since the Italian invasion began was reported tonight.

Ethiopian troops were stated to have attempted enveloping operations on the western end of the northern front, planning to invade Eritrea through the Walkait district in northern Ethiopia.

Emperor Haile Selassie, authoritative quarters said, has ordered Dedjazmatch Ayelu, Ethiopian commander in that area, to cut behind the Italian army which is now established at Makale and is pointed southward.

(A Reuters report from Addis Ababa said an airplane, believed to be Italian, flying high, passed over the city at noon.)

As thousands of black warriors streamed into the section of southern Tigre province which is still held by the Ethiopians, authorities reported

HARRIS SAYS HE WILL ASK REPEAL OF SCHOOL LAWS

BATON ROUGE, Nov. 9.—(AP)—T. H. Harris, state superintendent of education, said today he would personally appear before the legislature next year to ask repeal of the law assertedly "politicalizing" the school system.

The law, passed at the direction of the late Senator Huey P. Long, created a state budget committee with power to hire and fire any teacher.

Harris said the "political" features of the law would not be used.

"I am opposed to any state supervision over the power of local school boards to hire and dismiss their own teachers," Harris said.

"Not a single school employe has been dismissed by order of the state budget committee since these laws were passed," he said.

2 Vicksburg Youths Killed After Attending Game Here

Two young residents of Vicksburg, Miss., are dead and three others are believed recovering from injuries as a result of an automobile accident that took place ten miles east of Rayville last Friday night while the party was returning home after attending a football game here between teams of Carr Central High school of Vicksburg and Neville High school of Monroe.

The dead were: Fred Joseph, son of Mrs. Elsie Joseph, killed outright; and Albert McCauley, son of a Mississippi state senator-elect, S. J. McCauley, and Mrs. McCauley. The McCauley youth died at a Vicksburg hospital early Saturday.

L. S. Wilson received several bruises and minor lacerations and was reported resting well. Donald Price was also slightly hurt.

According to reports of the accident, McCauley, who was driving the automobile in which the party was traveling, had slowed down to allow another car to pass. The vehicle swerved off the road and hurtled into a ditch, turning over and throwing the occupants out.

When found shortly afterwards, all except Price were unconscious. The injured were taken to Vicksburg while Joseph's body was taken to a Rayville undertaking establishment.

Rumors concerning the accident here Saturday morning were that a bus bearing the Vicksburg football players had turned over. This was incorrect and an Associated Press dispatch said no member of the automobile party was a member of the football team.

Joseph had played with the Vicksburg team during the early part of the season, but had quit the game.

The funeral for McCauley will be held this afternoon.

LONGSHOREMAN IS SLAIN BY OFFICER

Strikebreaker Shot To Death After Seizing Pistol Of Guard

HOUSTON, Texas, Nov. 9.—(AP)—A strikebreaking longshoreman was shot and killed instantly tonight when he seized an officer's pistol after an argument in a warehouse at Pier 13 at the turning basin. Harvey Parker, about 30, was shot once through the heart with a .45 caliber pistol. He died instantly.

H. (Pat) Patterson, special officer stationed at Pier 13, declared he shot Parker in self defense.

Parker, who was identified through papers in his possession, has been working at the docks for a short while, and is believed to have come to Houston from Florida.

Patterson in a statement to officers following the shooting declared that early tonight Parker crossed a line which separates the warehouse in two sections, one for White and one for negro workers, and started to use the telephone on the negro side of the building.

"It is against the rules for either a white man or a negro to cross the line and I told Parker to get back on his side of the line.

"Parker rushed at me and attempted to strike me with a pair of boots that he had in his hand," Patterson declared.

"I began backing up and tripped over a sack of grain and fell on my back.

"I was wearing two .45 caliber pistols and one of the guns slipped out of its holster when I fell and skidded across the floor.

"Harvey Parker grabbed it up off the floor and began brandishing it at me and other men who were in the building and cursing at all of us."

"He ordered the men to 'get back,' at the same time waving the pistol and shouting and cursing.

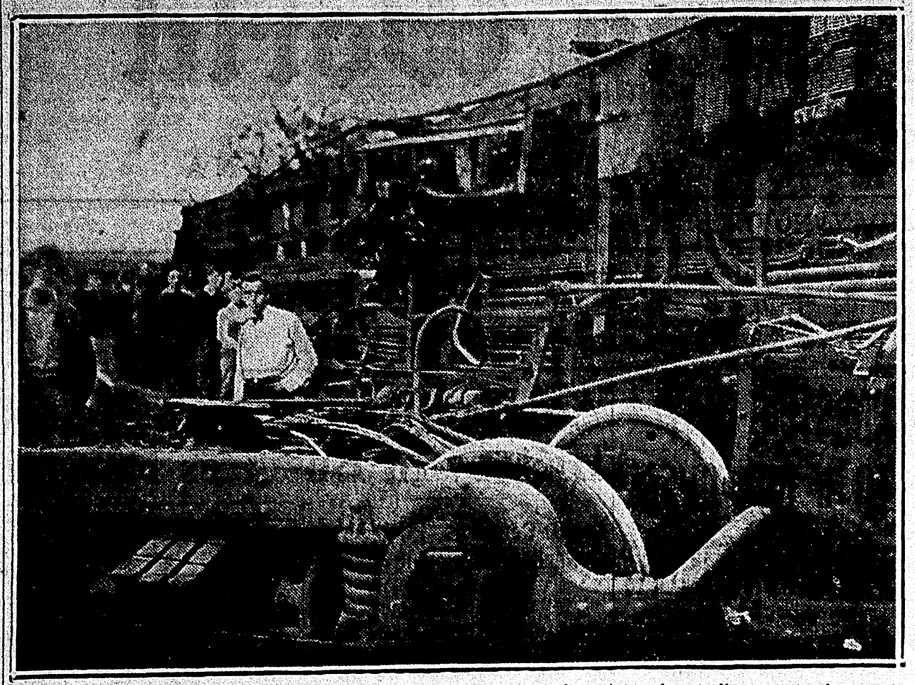

"I pulled my other pistol and fired one time. Parker was dead when we got to him. I was still lying on the floor when I shot Parker," Patterson said.

54 ESCAPE DEATH AS CRASH DERAILS TROLLEY

Racing along the lake shore near Toledo with 54 passengers aboard, an interurban trolley car struck an automobile, jumped its tracks and overturned. Although having so much momentum that the huge car was torn from its trucks, as shown above, none of the 54 passengers was injured and even the driver of the auto, which was demolished, escaped with only broken ribs.

City Briefs

The legion home in Forsythe park will be open from 2 p.m. to 6 p.m., Sunday afternoon for members only. This plan will be put into effect at once it was stated Saturday. The purpose is to provide a place where Legionnaires can go and enjoy the comforts of a luxurious clubhouse.

Sons of the legion will hold a special meeting at the clubhouse, Forsythe park, at 2:30 p.m. today to formulate plans for participating in the Armistice day parade tomorrow morning.

The Missouri Pacific railroad operated a special train from Little Rock to New Orleans via Monroe Saturday afternoon. The train comprised 17 cars and was run to accommodate delegates going to the convention in the Crescent City of the American Bankers' association. Delegates from Monroe who left on the train were President F. F. Millsaps, and Vice-president Ben Downing of the Ouachita National bank, and President Travis Oliver of the Central Savings Bank and Trust company.

Assurance was given to unemployed teachers who operated adult schools here during the past year that the schools will be reopened in the near future. J. E. Keeney, representing this state project under the WPA, was in Monroe Friday when he conducted a meeting with the teachers at the courthouse when he assured that the work will be resumed, and is expected to continue for seven months.

Armistice day will not be observed at the postoffice as a holiday, as it is not classed as a postal holiday, it was stated Saturday. All mail will be received and dispatched and all windows in the office will be operated as usual.

FUNERAL IS HELD FOR OPERATOR OF MANGHAM GROCERY

MANGHAM, La., Nov. 9.—(Special)—Funeral services for W. S. Sayre, 33, Mangham grocery store operator who died of heart trouble Friday night at his residence, were held here this afternoon at the home of his mother, Mrs. May Sayre. Burial was made in the Mangham cemetery.

The services were in charge of Rev. D. W. Poole, pastor of the Mangham Methodist church, assisted by Rev. D. C. Barr, Methodist minister of Oak Ridge, and Rev. Roger Baxter, pastor of the Mangham Baptist church.

Rites of the Masonic organization were held at the grave.

Surviving relatives, besides the mother, are the following: The widow, four children, Mary Catherine, William Simmie, Louis Stanley and Patricia Anne Sayre; a sister, Miss Katie Mae Sayre, of Mangham; and a brother, Dr. Morrow Sayre, of Rayville.

MISSISSIPPI ROAD FIGHT IS BREWING

Week-End Lull Settles Over Conflict After Warm Verbal Battles

JACKSON, Miss., Nov. 9.—(AP)—A week-end lull settled over Mississippi's brewing battle over a proposed $46,000,000 road building program today after proponents and opponents of a citizens' highway association paving bill relieved themselves of a crossfire of statements during the past week.

Governor Sennett Conner, who holds the key to the entire controversy, was not in his office today. The governor was attending an out-of-state football game.

The chief executive is expected to decide next week whether or not he will submit the controversial road building legislation to a special session of the legislature, which returns to the capitol Tuesday to begin the seventh week of an "emergency session."

The chief opposition to the highway bill centers over the question of the propriety of offering the important road legislation to a "lame duck" legislature, over 70 per cent of whose members relinquish their seats in January, and on the eve of the inauguration of a new governor.

Officials of the citizens highway association issued a statement last night declaring that the "ccoperation" of both the governor and governor-elect had been sought in the road building program, and asserting that Governor Conner was being urged to submit the road bill at the present session in order to hasten action in order that the state may obtain earmarked PWA funds

LONGSHOREMAN IS SLAIN BY OFFICER

Strikebreaker Shot To Death After Seizing Pistol Of Guard

HOUSTON, Texas, Nov. 9.—(AP)—A strikebreaking longshoreman was shot and killed instantly tonight when he seized an officer's pistol after an argument in a warehouse at Pier 13 at the turning basin. Harvey Parker, about 30, was shot once through the heart with a .45 caliber pistol. He died instantly.

H. (Pat) Patterson, special officer stationed at Pier 13, declared he shot Parker in self defense.

Parker, who was identified through papers in his possession, has been working at the docks for a short while, and is believed to have come to Houston from Florida.

Patterson in a statement to officers following the shooting declared that early tonight Parker crossed a line which separates the warehouse in two sections, one for White and one for negro workers, and started to use the telephone on the negro side of the building.

"It is against the rules for either a white man or a negro to cross the line and I told Parker to get back on his side of the line.

"Parker rushed at me and attempted to strike me with a pair of boots that he had in his hand," Patterson declared.

"I began backing up and tripped over a sack of grain and fell on my back.

"I was wearing two .45 caliber pistols and one of the guns slipped out of its holster when I fell and skidded across the floor.

"Harvey Parker grabbed it up off the floor and began brandishing it at me and other men who were in the building and cursing at all of us."

"He ordered the men to 'get back,' at the same time waving the pistol and shouting and cursing.

"I pulled my other pistol and fired one time. Parker was dead when we got to him. I was still lying on the floor when I shot Parker," Patterson said.

54 ESCAPE DEATH AS CRASH DERAILS TROLLEY

Racing along the lake shore near Toledo with 54 passengers aboard, an interurban trolley car struck an automobile, jumped its tracks and overturned. Although having so much momentum that the huge car was torn from its trucks, as shown above, none of the 54 passengers was injured and even the driver of the auto, which was demolished, escaped with only broken ribs.

City Briefs

The legion home in Forsythe park will be open from 2 p.m. to 6 p.m., Sunday afternoon for members only. This plan will be put into effect at once it was stated Saturday. The purpose is to provide a place where Legionnaires can go and enjoy the comforts of a luxurious clubhouse.

Sons of the legion will hold a special meeting at the clubhouse, Forsythe park, at 2:30 p.m. today to formulate plans for participating in the Armistice day parade tomorrow morning.

The Missouri Pacific railroad operated a special train from Little Rock to New Orleans via Monroe Saturday afternoon. The train comprised 17 cars and was run to accommodate delegates going to the convention in the Crescent City of the American Bankers' association. Delegates from Monroe who left on the train were President F. F. Millsaps, and Vice-president Ben Downing of the Ouachita National bank, and President Travis Oliver of the Central Savings Bank and Trust company.

Assurance was given to unemployed teachers who operated adult schools here during the past year that the schools will be reopened in the near future. J. E. Keeney, representing this state project under the WPA, was in Monroe Friday when he conducted a meeting with the teachers at the courthouse when he assured that the work will be resumed, and is expected to continue for seven months.

Armistice day will not be observed at the postoffice as a holiday, as it is not classed as a postal holiday, it was stated Saturday. All mail will be received and dispatched and all windows in the office will be operated as usual.

FUNERAL IS HELD FOR OPERATOR OF MANGHAM GROCERY

MANGHAM, La., Nov. 9.—(Special)—Funeral services for W. S. Sayre, 33, Mangham grocery store operator who died of heart trouble Friday night at his residence, were held here this afternoon at the home of his mother, Mrs. May Sayre. Burial was made in the Mangham cemetery.

The services were in charge of Rev. D. W. Poole, pastor of the Mangham Methodist church, assisted by Rev. D. C. Barr, Methodist minister of Oak Ridge, and Rev. Roger Baxter, pastor of the Mangham Baptist church.

Rites of the Masonic organization were held at the grave.

Surviving relatives, besides the mother, are the following: The widow, four children, Mary Catherine, William Simmie, Louis Stanley and Patricia Anne Sayre; a sister, Miss Katie Mae Sayre, of Mangham; and a brother, Dr. Morrow Sayre, of Rayville.

NEGRO INJURED

Mose Johnson, 46, Oak Ridge negro, was receiving treatment at St. Francis sanitarium yesterday for a leg injury sustained when he was struck by a cross-cut saw while cutting timber for the Kellogg Lumber company. The accident occurred near Oak Ridge last Saturday.

NEGRO VETERANS TO MARCH

Negro war veterans will observe Armistice day Monday by marching on parade from the Monroe Negro High school at 10:30 a.m. to Sixth street; through that street to DeSiard, through DeSiard to Fourteenth street, and back to the point of beginning.

MISSISSIPPI ROAD FIGHT IS BREWING

Week-End Lull Settles Over Conflict After Warm Verbal Battles

JACKSON, Miss., Nov. 9.—(AP)—A week-end lull settled over Mississippi's brewing battle over a proposed $46,000,000 road building program today after proponents and opponents of a citizens' highway association paving bill relieved themselves of a crossfire of statements during the past week.

Governor Sennett Conner, who holds the key to the entire controversy, was not in his office today. The governor was attending an out-of-state football game.

The chief executive is expected to decide next week whether or not he will submit the controversial road building legislation to a special session of the legislature, which returns to the capitol Tuesday to begin the seventh week of an "emergency session."

The chief opposition to the highway bill centers over the question of the propriety of offering the important road legislation to a "lame duck" legislature, over 70 per cent of whose members relinquish their seats in January, and on the eve of the inauguration of a new governor.

Officials of the citizens highway association issued a statement last night declaring that the "cooperation" of both the governor and governor-elect had been sought in the road building program, and asserting that Governor Conner was being urged to submit the road bill at the present session in order to hasten action in order that the state may obtain earmarked PWA funds

Several times in the past Johnny and Lupe have had temperamental clashes that threatened their marriage. But from the way things look here, everything's all right now. (Associated Press Photo)

OUACHITA BAPTIST ASSOCIATION GROUP HOLDS CONFERENCE

JENA, La., Nov. 9.—(Special)—At a meeting of a pastors' and workers' conference of the Ouachita Baptist association at the First Baptist church at Jena, Rev. B. A. Miley, pastor of Harrisonburg Baptist church, was elected president and Rev. E. M. Daffin of Olla was elected secretary. Meetings will be held on Monday after the third Sunday in each month, and the next meeting is to be at Harrisonburg on December 16.

The men of the Jena and Midway churches have organized a brotherhood society. Fourteen charter members were enrolled at the first meeting.

The town council of Olla has voted a fifteen mill tax for general and special purposes. Seven mills is advalorem tax and the remaining eight mills is set aside to pay on the water works bond issue.

A. B. Ratcliff, representative of Federal Land bank, New Orleans, says the bank will offer for sale, between now and the first of the year, several good farms located in LaSalle parish.

St. Joseph

The home of Misses Bessie and Johnnie Lord was the scene of a reunion of the family of their father, Mr. John L. Lord, of Carey, Miss., recently. Members of the family present were Mrs. Chapman and daughter, Thelma Chapman, of Hermanville, Miss.; Mrs. Victor Oliver and three children, Victor, Jr., Betty, Jr., and Lenore, of Wilmot, Ark.; Mr. Lynn Ellis Lord of Natchez, Miss.; Mrs. Cora Lord of Hermanville, Miss., and Mr. and Mrs. Robert Lee Lord of St. Joseph.

The Cosmopolitan club entertained recently with a dance at the Masonic hall. Tables placed at the edge of the dance floor gave the hall the appearance of a night club. An interesting floor show was presented by Miss Carolyn Ratcliff and Mr. Curry MacPherson, Jr., Misses Mary Ellen and Marjorie Allen and Miss Annie Mae Rummage.

During intermission refreshments were served to Mr. and Mrs. Philip Watson, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph T. Curry, Mr. and Mrs. Harold Monnot, Mr. and Mrs. Newton Wilds, Mr. and Mrs. Blanton Evans, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Rush and Miss Carolyn Ratcliff, Marion Curry, Leah Knott, Anne Noble and Messrs. Jimmie Smith and Aubrey Clarke of New Orleans and others.

Dr. Denson of Newellton, was toastmaster at the banquet and speakers on the occasion were Mr. Joseph T. Curry, Philip Watson, Ralph Aly, German Baker, Howard Netterville and James Wilkerson.

Plans were formulated to organize an auxiliary of the American Legion in St. Joseph and officers elected were as follows: Mrs. Edward MacDonald, president; Mrs. Joseph T. Curry, secretary and treasurer; Mrs. Marion Guthrie, first vice-commander; Mrs. Annette Rummage, second vice-commander; Mrs. Harold Monnot, historian; Mrs. Ralph Aly, chaplain, and Mrs. Denson, sergeant-at-arms.

Mrs. Eugene Stevens and Mrs. V. C. Rives were hostesses to members of the Cosmopolitan club at the Farror town house recently. Mrs. Newton Wilds was the leader at this meeting and a delightful talk on "Negro Spiritual" was delivered by Mrs. Curry MacPherson and a program of negro spirituals was rendered by students of the Tensas Training school.

The Episcopal auxiliary met with Mrs. Magruder Adams, with the newly-elected officers presiding for the first time. Those present included Mrs. Thomas M. Wade, Mrs. Joseph Whitaker, Mrs. John Hughes, Mrs. Joseph Curry, Mrs. Laura Beaubien, Mrs. Willie Hudnall, Mrs. Albert Bondurant, Mrs. Marable Harper, Mrs. William Watson, Mrs. Annie Crothers and Mrs. Richard Whitney.

Mrs. Susie D. Adams was the guest of the auxiliary at the meeting.

Mrs. Joseph Whitaker was appointed delegate to the state meeting of women's auxiliaires of the Episcopal church, which will be held in New Orleans within the near future.

The Catholic Altar society met with Mrs. Joseph Curry. Those present were Mrs. Samuel G. Manning, Mrs. Elizabeth Davis, Mrs. Santo Baragona, Mrs. George Camors of New Orleans, and Miss Olivia Scott. Refreshments were served at the conclusion of the meeting.

CANADIAN PREMIER VISITS U. S.

MARION, La., Nov. 9.—(Special)—The fourth quarterly conference of the Sterlington-Marion charge of the Methodist church was held at Sterlington recently, with the Rev. H. L. Johns, presiding elder of the Monroe district, in charge.

Reports covering the year's work were made by the pastor, Rev. S. S. Holladay, Jr., the presidents of the women's missionary societies, the superintendents of the Sunday schools and other officials. These reports showed a good increase in membership, and that the financial condition of the three churches at Sterlington, Marion and Bird's Chapel was good. The presiding elder said the charge was the first in the Monroe district to pay its benevolences in full. Approximately $150 was raised during the year for the orphanage at Ruston.

Grayson Guthrie of Sterlington was elected district steward, with B. K. Watson of Marion as alternate. H. J. Eyre was reelected superintendent of the Sunday school at Sterlington and B. K. Watson was reelected superintendent at Marion. Stewards and other officials were elected for the three churches.

VOTE RALLY SLATED

MARION, La., Nov. 9.—(Special)—A political rally and box supper will be held at Downsville next Friday night, at which time all district, parish and ward candidates will be given an opportunity to make addresses, the time allotted to each speaker depending upon the number participating. The program will be held in the high school auditorium and the general public has a special invitation to attend.

'HOUSE OF TARZAN' CALM AGAIN

"Jo'nee! Jo'nee! Jo'nee!" squealed Lupe Velez, pepper pot stage and screen actress, to her husband, Johnny Weismuller, when the "Tarzan" of the screen greeted her in New York on her arrival from a personal appearance tour of South America. Several times in the past Johnny and Lupe have had temperamental clashes that threatened their marriage. But from the way things look here, everything's all right now. (Associated Press Photo)

OUACHITA BAPTIST ASSOCIATION GROUP HOLDS CONFERENCE

JENA, La., Nov. 9.—(Special)—At a meeting of a pastors' and workers' conference of the Ouachita Baptist association at the First Baptist church at Jena, Rev. B. A. Miley, pastor of Harrisonburg Baptist church, was elected president and Rev. E. M. Daffin of Olla was elected secretary. Meetings will be held on Monday after the third Sunday in each month, and the next meeting is to be at Harrisonburg on December 16.

The men of the Jena and Midway churches have organized a brotherhood society. Fourteen charter members were enrolled at the first meeting.

The town council of Olla has voted a fifteen mill tax for general and special purposes. Seven mills is advalorem tax and the remaining eight mills is set aside to pay on the water works bond issue.

A. B. Ratcliff, representative of Federal Land bank, New Orleans, says the bank will offer for sale, between now and the first of the year, several good farms located in LaSalle parish.

St. Joseph

The home of Misses Bessie and Johnnie Lord was the scene of a reunion of the family of their father, Mr. John L. Lord, of Carey, Miss., recently. Members of the family present were Mrs. Chapman and daughter, Thelma Chapman, of Hermanville, Miss.; Mrs. Victor Oliver and three children, Victor, Jr., Betty, Jr., and Lenore, of Wilmot, Ark.; Mr. Lynn Ellis Lord of Natchez, Miss.; Mrs. Cora Lord of Hermanville, Miss., and Mr. and Mrs. Robert Lee Lord of St. Joseph.

The Cosmopolitan club entertained recently with a dance at the Masonic hall. Tables placed at the edge of the dance floor gave the hall the appearance of a night club. An interesting floor show was presented by Miss Carolyn Ratcliff and Mr. Curry MacPherson, Jr., Misses Mary Ellen and Marjorie Allen and Miss Annie Mae Rummage.

During intermission refreshments were served to Mr. and Mrs. Philip Watson, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph T. Curry, Mr. and Mrs. Harold Monnot, Mr. and Mrs. Newton Wilds, Mr. and Mrs. Blanton Evans, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Rush and Miss Carolyn Ratcliff, Marion Curry, Leah Knott, Anne Noble and Messrs. Jimmie Smith and Aubrey Clarke of New Orleans and others.

Dr. Denson of Newellton, was toastmaster at the banquet and speakers on the occasion were Mr. Joseph T. Curry, Philip Watson, Ralph Aly, German Baker, Howard Netterville and James Wilkerson.

Plans were formulated to organize an auxiliary of the American Legion in St. Joseph and officers elected were as follows: Mrs. Edward MacDonald, president; Mrs. Joseph T. Curry, secretary and treasurer; Mrs. Marion Guthrie, first vice-commander; Mrs. Annette Rummage, second vice-commander; Mrs. Harold Monnot, historian; Mrs. Ralph Aly, chaplain, and Mrs. Denson, sergeant-at-arms.

Mrs. Eugene Stevens and Mrs. V. C. Rives were hostesses to members of the Cosmopolitan club at the Farror town house recently. Mrs. Newton Wilds was the leader at this meeting and a delightful talk on "Negro Spiritual" was delivered by Mrs. Curry MacPherson and a program of negro spirituals was rendered by students of the Tensas Training school.

The Episcopal auxiliary met with Mrs. Magruder Adams, with the newly-elected officers presiding for the first time. Those present included Mrs. Thomas M. Wade, Mrs. Joseph Whitaker, Mrs. John Hughes, Mrs. Joseph Curry, Mrs. Laura Beaubien, Mrs. Willie Hudnall, Mrs. Albert Bondurant, Mrs. Marable Harper, Mrs. William Watson, Mrs. Annie Crothers and Mrs. Richard Whitney.

Mrs. Susie D. Adams was the guest of the auxiliary at the meeting.

Mrs. Joseph Whitaker was appointed delegate to the state meeting of women's auxiliaires of the Episcopal church, which will be held in New Orleans within the near future.

The Catholic Altar society met with Mrs. Joseph Curry. Those present were Mrs. Samuel G. Manning, Mrs. Elizabeth Davis, Mrs. Santo Baragona, Mrs. George Camors of New Orleans, and Miss Olivia Scott. Refreshments were served at the conclusion of the meeting.

CANADIAN PREMIER VISITS U. S.

MARION, La., Nov. 9.—(Special)—The fourth quarterly conference of the Sterlington-Marion charge of the Methodist church was held at Sterlington recently, with the Rev. H. L. Johns, presiding elder of the Monroe district, in charge.

Reports covering the year's work were made by the pastor, Rev. S. S. Holladay, Jr., the presidents of the women's missionary societies, the superintendents of the Sunday schools and other officials. These reports showed a good increase in membership, and that the financial condition of the three churches at Sterlington, Marion and Bird's Chapel was good. The presiding elder said the charge was the first in the Monroe district to pay its benevolences in full. Approximately $150 was raised during the year for the orphanage at Ruston.

Grayson Guthrie of Sterlington was elected district steward, with B. K. Watson of Marion as alternate. H. J. Eyre was reelected superintendent of the Sunday school at Sterlington and B. K. Watson was reelected superintendent at Marion. Stewards and other officials were elected for the three churches.

VOTE RALLY SLATED

MARION, La., Nov. 9.—(Special)—A political rally and box supper will be held at Downsville next Friday night, at which time all district, parish and ward candidates will be given an opportunity to make addresses, the time allotted to each speaker depending upon the number participating. The program will be held in the high school auditorium and the general public has a special invitation to attend.

Responsibility Of Motherhood

There are highwaymen and racketeers, burglars and confidence men. And then there are mothers.

Perhaps, to the average mind, mothers have little to do with these others except as innocent sufferers, when their children go wrong. But there's a certain type more like them than is generally believed.

She it is who gives birth to a child and little else, seems perfectly satisfied with that achievement and rests on her laurels. She is absolutely satisfied with her child, gives it little of her time, none of her patience, expects it to just grow up, like a famous character in literature, know right from wrong, what is best for it, how to plan its own future, develop its own character, all with no trouble to her. She isn't always an unkind woman. Sometimes she is too kind (if that means being indulgent) to save herself bother. Often she is amiable and easy-going, so follows the line of least resistance, wherever it leads.

But when her child begins to show the fruits of her carelessness, lack of training, general failure to be on the job, how she does wail and blame the child! And lean on her motherhood! She seems to think the accident of birth alone entitles her to all the perquisites belonging to motherhood.

Then she demands from the general public the pity and protection shown motherhood, uses it as an excuse for undeserved sympathy, as a tool to filch from her children consideration she has not earned, and uses the fact she is physically a mother to get the same amount of veneration due the mother who realized that the birth of her child was only the beginning of a long, arduous task, at which she must everlastingly keep busy, if she wants to turn out a creditable finished product after—well, after the basting threads are all puffed out, we might say.

Motherhood is a deep experience. It is revered the world over. But not just because a woman happens to have a child. It is because of the real mothers whose care, love, loyalty and faithfulness never swerved after the child came. That kind of motherhood is the only kind deserving reverence.

The woman who merely has given birth to a child doesn't belong by the side of the one who has developed her motherhod as the child grew. Having a child is merely fulfilling a physical destiny. But being a mother is accepting a trust in full. And just having a child can certainly never make a real mother. It isn't so easy as that!

TASTE IN FISTIANIA

Some verities tax, if they do not stupefy, the imagination. Here, for instance, is Mr. Gene Tunney, former monarch of the squared circle, nonchalantly admitting to an admiring Waterbury, Conn., audience that the afternoon of his Philadelphia fight with Jack Dempsey he spent reading W. Somerset Maugham's "Of Human Bondage." Because the mill will never grind with the water that is past, it is idle to speculate how much worse would have been the licking Mr. Dempsey took had Mr. Tunney chosen to read from the jubilating works of some other Britisher, say P. G. Wodehouse or W. W. Jacobs, instead of from the heavy Maugham depressent.

However, human bondage was just the thing that the calculating Mr. Tunney would have none of, and he may have got his inspiration that very afternoon. At all events, he cleaned up in the ring and abdicated his throne as heavyweight champion while yet his nose was straight and only one ear cauliflowered, to live the pleasanter life of a moneyed socialite.

"Gentleman Jim" Corbett was not a literary figure in the accepted sense, but he could write with force on occasion in days when the ghost-writer was unknown, and as a raconteur he was unsurpassed by any member of the fistic craft. Bob Fitzsimmons read few books, but he was a phrase maker of sorts. One of his expressions may survive as long as the English language lasts for it to grace: "The bigger they are, the harder they fall."

WORLD'S BIGGEST INVESTOR

Regardless of its other activities, our federal government seems to have established itself as the greatest investor in the history of the world.

Treasury department figures show that government credit agencies have loans outstanding for more than $8,250,000,000, and have assets to the dizzy sum of $11,500,000,000. This is by all odds the largest single accumulation of capital ever gotten together in America. The country's 10 largest banks do not have resources enough to buy it out.

Even more interesting than the size of these figures is the question how long Uncle Sam is going to stay in his present position. Sooner or later he will want to get out from under this load. Will he be able to do it without upsetting things?

And when he gets through, will he find himself in the position of so many hopeful investors—with a drawer full of pretty but worthless pieces of paper as the sole return for the money he has put out?

More Truth Than Poetry

AN UPSET IN PARADISE

(On learning that some of the Maoris have had to mortgage their houses)

The South Sea Islander, I thought
Loafed hard, as good Maoris ought.
His dinner dish
Was chiefly fish,
Whenever he could get it;
And when he was advised to work,
As he preferred a lot to shirk,
He smiled a smile
Of South Sea guile,
And merely said, "Forget it."

His habits, so I understand,
Were commonly extremely good,
He had his house,
He had his spouse,
But lacked all care and worry.
He was serene and trouble free
As all Maoris ought to be—
Serene and calm
With much aplomb,
And never in a hurry.

But now he cannot lie at ease
And listen to the rolling seas,
He moans and groans
In mournful tones,
His eyes with tears are welling.
No more has he a happy home
Beside the hissing, creaming foam.
Today he's got
No house or lot,
And mortgaged is his dwelling.

Odds Against Martial Joy

By BRUCE CATTON

Comes now a college professor who has been looking into the state of holy wedlock, and announces that the chances are two to one against a lifelong happy marriage for any given set of newlyweds.

The professor—Dr. Lewis M. Terman of Stanford university's psychology department—has studied 300 marriages. Of these, he found that 100 developed into the "happy ever after" stage, another 100 brought definite unhappiness to one or both parties, and the third hundred resulted in divorces.

So he deduces his odds and hands out the result, for the dismay and guidance of ardent young folk who may be contemplating matrimony.

It is typical of the present age, perhaps, to believe that there is something new in a set of figures like these.

Whether we did it through over-much reading of sappy novels, through too much staring at saccharine moving pictures, or simply through a process of wishful thinking, we do seem to have persuaded ourselves that a marriage ought to glide along with the utmost smoothness.

If it doesn't, we pity ourselves intensely and audibly; and if that gets us nowhere we decide that the other party to the domestic equation is an impossible person and a no-good, and we go hiking off for the nearest divorce court.

By looking on marriage through the eyes of romantic 16-year-olds, we leave ourselves utterly unable to meet the inevitable disillusionment; and so we roll up one of the most remarkable divorce records in all history, and when some professor soberly announces that the chances for a happy marriage are only one in three we are shocked and saddened.

What we need to understand is that, while these chances may be slim, they are probably as good now as they ever were or ever will be, and that no one who deserves to be called an adult ought to let such odds worry him.

We get out of marriage just about what we put into it. If we are men and women enough to accept the disillusionments, the petty annoyances, and the occasional quarrels as part of the game and rise superior to them, we can make a go out of marriage—and, in the end, discover that the effort was worth making.

The reason our divorce rate is so scandalously high is that too many people enter into marriage in the spirit of spoiled children, ready to pick up their toys and quit at the first sign of trouble.

So the chances are two to one against a happy marriage? Well, they are at least that great against a happy outcome to any other form of human endeavor. If we would simply realize that fact in advance, and guide ourselves accordingly, we would get along a great deal better.

New Deal In Washington

By Rodney Dutcher

WASHINGTON—If the late Senator Huey Long—who was a strong admirer of the late Bronson Cutting—were still alive, the next session of congress might be an uncomfortable one for Senator Dennis Chavez of New Mexico.

As a matter of fact, the position of Senator Chavez isn't any too comfortable even right now. For a senator from New Mexico must have many and frequent contacts with the department of interior and it is to his advantage that the relations be amiable. The inside story is this:

Chavez was the Democratic ex-congressman who contested the election of Cutting and was appointed to the seat after Cutting had been killed in an airplane crash. Secretary Ickes subsequently hired Edward F. Puryear, Cutting's secretary, as his director of personnel. Much to the disgust of Chavez.

Very soon Chavez was appearing at the White House and the Democratic national committee with charges that Puryear was secretly active in Republican politics. He demanded Puryear's dismissal.

That put the valiant Ickes, who likes Puryear and his ability, more than ever on the spot. Not long ago the interior secretary fought off White House and other influence which had demanded the scalp of his valued aide, Ebert K. Burlew, and his battles with Jim Farley have been notorious.

If he were found to be harboring a G. O. P. spy in a key position, it would be just too bad.

Called Fake And "Frame"

Chavez submitted as evidence a purported contract in which the Republican national committee was represented as offering one William Wightman Phillips $100 a week for political publicity work in New Mexico and other southwestern states. Accompanying this was a typewritten memorandum in which the writer said if the terms weren't satisfactory to Phillips, "Mrs. C." (which Chavez insisted meant Cutting's mother) probably would be glad to contribute something extra.

The memo was signed by typewriter with the letter "P." (which Chavez insisted was the signature of Puryear).

Ickes assigned Louis Glavis, the New Deal's most celebrated investigator, to the case. Glavis assumed he had a frameup on his hands. Neither "contract" nor memo, he found, could have come from any typewriter in or near Puryear's office.

Government paper had been used, but bureau of standards experts said it wasn't any of the types used in interior. Republican national committee officials snorted at the documents as a "fake."

"Evidence" Falls Flat

Then the Glavis sleuths located Phillips. By a remarkable coincidence it turned out that Phillips was living in the apartment occupied by Joseph Martinez, secretary to Senator Chavez, and at times by Dennis Chavez, Jr. The home of Mr. Phillips was, in fact, a sort of hangout for the Chavez clan.

Phillips was taken aside. He said he didn't know Puryear and had never seen him. He had had a couple of telephone calls from a man who said he was Puryear. He had found the "contract" in his mailbox and had shown it to Martinez, who urged him to show it to Senator Chavez, which he did.

Another man who had been mentioned in the document as a possible candidate for a Republican national committee job turned out to be a taxi driver.

And on the basis of a report from Glavis, Ickes completely exonerated his director of personnel.

Feud Likely To Go On

High officials in the Ickes organization and other friends of Puryear are feeling pretty hot about the incident. Relations with the office of Senator Chavez are distinctly strained.

It may or may not be significant that young Mr. Teabot Chavez, a cousin of the senator, very recently resigned his minor job in the interior department.

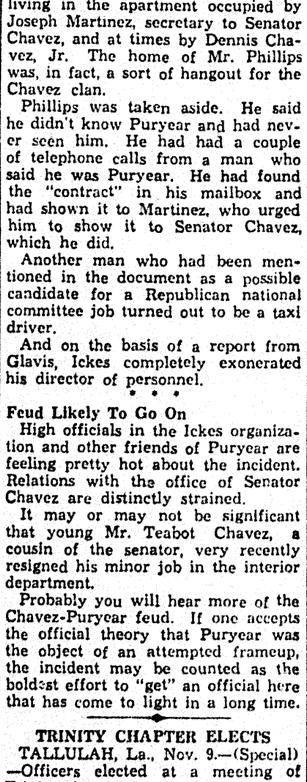

Probably you will hear more of the Chavez-Puryear feud. If one accepts the official theory that Puryear was the object of an attempted frameup, the incident may be counted as the boldest effort to "get" an official here that has come to light in a long time.

EXPLANATION OF YESTERDAY'S CARTOON

SCANDALOUS BILL.—Thirty-eight years ago a baby was born to Mr. and Mrs. Bill, then living in Porcupine, S. D. They had wanted a little girl, and thought it scandalous that their new baby was a boy. So disappointed were the parents that they named him "Scandalous," and the name was never changed. Scandalous Bill, now a California cowboy of no mean reputation as a rider and rodeo star, lives with his family in Aluras, Calif.

CHARITY LEAGUE TO STAGE CARNIVAL FOR BABY CLINIC FUNDS

The final event of this year's activities designed to raise funds for the Junior Charity league will be held Saturday, November 23, when a carnival will be staged at the Lakeside Country club under the auspices of the league.

All the features of the old-fashioned carnival, "from pink elephants to pink lemonade," will be introduced, it was announced by Mrs. Prioleau Ellis, chairman of the league finance committee. One of the most interesting phases will be a "Dance of the Days of '49," when members of the league will be costumed according to the styles that obtained amongst the Argonauts who thronged San Francisco during the "gold fever" days. Miss Sue Graves will direct the dance program.

The carnival will begin at 6:30 p.m., to permit children to enjoy the event. Supper will also be served to those who desire it. Mrs. Harold Mouk will have charge of the carnival arrangements. All of the proceeds will go toward maintaining the baby clinic sponsored by the Junior Charity league.

Lights Of New York

NEW YORK—Foibles of the famous: Elizabeth Bergner saves triangular pieces of broken mirrors as luck pieces. (So do 1,654 other well-known people) . . . Katharine Cornell is as fastidious about her chauffeur's uniform as she is about her own stage costumes . . . And it seems Edna St. Vincent Millay, the poetess, takes the potted plants from her windowsill with her, whenever she is traveling.

Although he doesn't dote on color schemes, George M. Cohan will write his plays only on yellow paper and with a yellow pencil . . . Hospital attaches tell me Dr. Leo Berger, the famed surgeon, always wears a red flower in his lapel when he arrives to perform an operation . . . Eugene O'Neill refuses to attend first nights and is generally at a movie when one of his plays opens on Broadway . . . Count Felix von Luckner, the sea devil, rarely gets through a whole sentence without a "By Joe" somewhere in it . . . Culinary quirk: Gladys Swarthout, the opera's songbird, must almost forcefully be restrained from ordering kidneys en brochette every evening . . .

The only society man I've ever seen dare to affect colored tuxedos is Huntington M. S. Watts, who acts, occasionally . . . Tallest starch collar seen in town of late: The high one worn by Alfred P. Sloan, automotive king . . . Charles Dana Gibson has become rich and famed for his pen and ink sketches but he spends most of his time painting serious stuff in oils . . . Marilyn Miller who confesses she couldn't explain why it is worth all the trouble, pulls strings and red tape, to have balanced low numbers on her limousine license plates. Her new ones are 12-12 . . . Moss Hart claims he gets his best notions for his scintillating musical comedies while prowling the river front between 4 and 6 a.m.

Off Stage

The Venuses & Adonises of stagedom, filmdom and the political rings get their bodies brawny or beautiful at Al Roon's Broadway gymnasium which on almost any evening resembles Celebrities' Night in a Turkish Bath. Richard Barthelmess dropped in the other evening for a mild workout and Harry Richman rides the hobby horse between cues onstage. But Muscle Man Al's specialty is bringing down the weight of well-knowns who have to tip the scales at a given time. His most recent triumph was the removal of 22 pounds of superflous flesh from the frame of Buddy Rogers. Less recently, he deprived Goldie, the comedian in Paul Whiteman's band, of thirteen pounds within a week.

They call Roon in for most of the beauty pageant events and entrust to his charge the proper avoirdupois of the comely contestants. At call, he will proudly bring out photographs of Miss Irene Ware, Miss Universe of 1929, and tell how he helped the pulchritudinous maid to keep her perfect dimensions. He holds himself responsible for the bodily fitness of America's Best Built Man, Murray Geller, and not long ago when Peggy Rich had to lose 12 1-2 pounds in order to oblige a motion picture contract or else, Al Roon brought her through in time.

Physical Training Instructor Roon's costliest client, he believes, was Dr. Miguel Gomez, erstwhile mayor of Havana, who came down for a steady regimen of exercise, while strife-ridden Cuba offered a $10,000 reward for his capture, dead or alive. Roon put the Cuban refugee through his daily dozens every afternoon and never mentioned the other thing. Says it's the easiest ten grand he ever let slip through his hands.

Now And Then

How Some Successes Didn't Get Where They Are: Walter O'Keefe sold Florida real estate at $25 a week at one time . . . Ted Husing was a furniture salesman . . . John Boles, Lawrence Tibbett and Lily Pons started their vocal careers singing in church choirs . . . Nelson Eddy was a cub reporter on the Philadelphia Ledger . . . and Fred Keating, the magic man turned movie idol, once served as a leg man on the Morning World.

Responsibility Of Motherhood

There are highwaymen and racketeers, burglars and confidence men. And then there are mothers.

Perhaps, to the average mind, mothers have little to do with these others except as innocent sufferers, when their children go wrong. But there's a certain type more like them than is generally believed.

She it is who gives birth to a child and little else, seems perfectly satisfied with that achievement and rests on her laurels. She is absolutely satisfied with her child, gives it little of her time, none of her patience, expects it to just grow up, like a famous character in literature, know right from wrong, what is best for it, how to plan its own future, develop its own character, all with no trouble to her. She isn't always an unkind woman. Sometimes she is too kind (if that means being indulgent) to save herself bother. Often she is amiable and easy-going, so follows the line of least resistance, wherever it leads.

But when her child begins to show the fruits of her carelessness, lack of training, general failure to be on the job, how she does wail and blame the child! And lean on her motherhood! She seems to think the accident of birth alone entitles her to all the perquisites belonging to motherhood.

Then she demands from the general public the pity and protection shown motherhood, uses it as an excuse for undeserved sympathy, as a tool to filch from her children consideration she has not earned, and uses the fact she is physically a mother to get the same amount of veneration due the mother who realized that the birth of her child was only the beginning of a long, arduous task, at which she must everlastingly keep busy, if she wants to turn out a creditable finished product after—well, after the basting threads are all puffed out, we might say.

Motherhood is a deep experience. It is revered the world over. But not just because a woman happens to have a child. It is because of the real mothers whose care, love, loyalty and faithfulness never swerved after the child came. That kind of motherhood is the only kind deserving reverence.

The woman who merely has given birth to a child doesn't belong by the side of the one who has developed her motherhod as the child grew. Having a child is merely fulfilling a physical destiny. But being a mother is accepting a trust in full. And just having a child can certainly never make a real mother. It isn't so easy as that!

TASTE IN FISTIANIA

Some verities tax, if they do not stupefy, the imagination. Here, for instance, is Mr. Gene Tunney, former monarch of the squared circle, nonchalantly admitting to an admiring Waterbury, Conn., audience that the afternoon of his Philadelphia fight with Jack Dempsey he spent reading W. Somerset Maugham's "Of Human Bondage." Because the mill will never grind with the water that is past, it is idle to speculate how much worse would have been the licking Mr. Dempsey took had Mr. Tunney chosen to read from the jubilating works of some other Britisher, say P. G. Wodehouse or W. W. Jacobs, instead of from the heavy Maugham depressent.

However, human bondage was just the thing that the calculating Mr. Tunney would have none of, and he may have got his inspiration that very afternoon. At all events, he cleaned up in the ring and abdicated his throne as heavyweight champion while yet his nose was straight and only one ear cauliflowered, to live the pleasanter life of a moneyed socialite.

"Gentleman Jim" Corbett was not a literary figure in the accepted sense, but he could write with force on occasion in days when the ghost-writer was unknown, and as a raconteur he was unsurpassed by any member of the fistic craft. Bob Fitzsimmons read few books, but he was a phrase maker of sorts. One of his expressions may survive as long as the English language lasts for it to grace: "The bigger they are, the harder they fall."

WORLD'S BIGGEST INVESTOR

Regardless of its other activities, our federal government seems to have established itself as the greatest investor in the history of the world.

Treasury department figures show that government credit agencies have loans outstanding for more than $8,250,000,000, and have assets to the dizzy sum of $11,500,000,000. This is by all odds the largest single accumulation of capital ever gotten together in America. The country's 10 largest banks do not have resources enough to buy it out.

Even more interesting than the size of these figures is the question how long Uncle Sam is going to stay in his present position. Sooner or later he will want to get out from under this load. Will he be able to do it without upsetting things?

And when he gets through, will he find himself in the position of so many hopeful investors—with a drawer full of pretty but worthless pieces of paper as the sole return for the money he has put out?

More Truth Than Poetry

By JAMES J. MONTAGUE

AN UPSET IN PARADISE

(On learning that some of the Maoris have had to mortgage their houses)

The South Sea Islander, I thought
Loafed hard, as good Maoris ought.
  His dinner dish
  Was chiefly fish,
Whenever he could get it;
And when he was advised to work,
As he preferred a lot to shirk,
  He smiled a smile
  Of South Sea guile,
And merely said, "Forget it."

His habits, so I understand,
Were commonly extremely good,
  He had his house,
  He had his spouse,
But lacked all care and worry.
He was serene and trouble free
As all Maoris ought to be—
  Serene and calm
  With much aplomb,
And never in a hurry.

But now he cannot lie at ease
And listen to the rolling seas,
  He moans and groans
  In mournful tones,
His eyes with tears are welling.
No more has he a happy home
Beside the hissing, creaming foam.
  Today he's got
  No house or lot,
And mortgaged is his dwelling.

Odds Against Martial Joy

By BRUCE CATTON

Comes now a college professor who has been looking into the state of holy wedlock, and announces that the chances are two to one against a lifelong happy marriage for any given set of newlyweds.

The professor—Dr. Lewis M. Terman of Stanford university's psychology department—has studied 300 marriages. Of these, he found that 100 developed into the "happy ever after" stage, another 100 brought definite unhappiness to one or both parties, and the third hundred resulted in divorces.

So he deduces his odds and hands out the result, for the dismay and guidance of ardent young folk who may be contemplating matrimony.

It is typical of the present age, perhaps, to believe that there is something new in a set of figures like these.

Whether we did it through over-much reading of sappy novels, through too much staring at saccharine moving pictures, or simply through a process of wishful thinking, we do seem to have persuaded ourselves that a marriage ought to glide along with the utmost smoothness.

If it doesn't, we pity ourselves intensely and audibly; and if that gets us nowhere we decide that the other party to the domestic equation is an impossible person and a no-good, and we go hiking off for the nearest divorce court.

By looking on marriage through the eyes of romantic 16-year-olds, we leave ourselves utterly unable to meet the inevitable disillusionment; and so we roll up one of the most remarkable divorce records in all history, and when some professor soberly announces that the chances for a happy marriage are only one in three we are shocked and saddened.

What we need to understand is that, while these chances may be slim, they are probably as good now as they ever were or ever will be, and that no one who deserves to be called an adult ought to let such odds worry him.

We get out of marriage just about what we put into it. If we are men and women enough to accept the disillusionments, the petty annoyances, and the occasional quarrels as part of the game and rise superior to them, we can make a go out of marriage—and, in the end, discover that the effort was worth making.

The reason our divorce rate is so scandalously high is that too many people enter into marriage in the spirit of spoiled children, ready to pick up their toys and quit at the first sign of trouble.

So the chances are two to one against a happy marriage? Well, they are at least that great against a happy outcome to any other form of human endeavor. If we would simply realize that fact in advance, and guide ourselves accordingly, we would get along a great deal better.

New Deal In Washington

By Rodney Dutcher

WASHINGTON—If the late Senator Huey Long—who was a strong admirer of the late Bronson Cutting—were still alive, the next session of congress might be an uncomfortable one for Senator Dennis Chavez of New Mexico.

As a matter of fact, the position of Senator Chavez isn't any too comfortable even right now. For a senator from New Mexico must have many and frequent contacts with the department of interior and it is to his advantage that the relations be amiable. The inside story is this:

Chavez was the Democratic ex-congressman who contested the election of Cutting and was appointed to the seat after Cutting had been killed in an airplane crash. Secretary Ickes subsequently hired Edward F. Puryear, Cutting's secretary, as his director of personnel. Much to the disgust of Chavez.

Very soon Chavez was appearing at the White House and the Democratic national committee with charges that Puryear was secretly active in Republican politics. He demanded Puryear's dismissal.

That put the valiant Ickes, who likes Puryear and his ability, more than ever on the spot. Not long ago the interior secretary fought off White House and other influence which had demanded the scalp of his valued aide, Ebert K. Burlew, and his battles with Jim Farley have been notorious.

If he were found to be harboring a G. O. P. spy in a key position, it would be just too bad.

Called Fake And "Frame"

Chavez submitted as evidence a purported contract in which the Republican national committee was represented as offering one William Wightman Phillips $100 a week for political publicity work in New Mexico and other southwestern states. Accompanying this was a typewritten memorandum in which the writer said if the terms weren't satisfactory to Phillips, "Mrs. C." (which Chavez insisted meant Cutting's mother) probably would be glad to contribute something extra.

The memo was signed by typewriter with the letter "P." (which Chavez insisted was the signature of Puryear).

Ickes assigned Louis Glavis, the New Deal's most celebrated investigator, to the case. Glavis assumed he had a frameup on his hands. Neither "contract" nor memo, he found, could have come from any typewriter in or near Puryear's office.

Government paper had been used, but bureau of standards experts said it wasn't any of the types used in interior. Republican national committee officials snorted at the documents as a "fake."

"Evidence" Falls Flat

Then the Glavis sleuths located Phillips. By a remarkable coincidence it turned out that Phillips was living in the apartment occupied by Joseph Martinez, secretary to Senator Chavez, and at times by Dennis Chavez, Jr. The home of Mr. Phillips was, in fact, a sort of hangout for the Chavez clan.

Phillips was taken aside. He said he didn't know Puryear and had never seen him. He had had a couple of telephone calls from a man who said he was Puryear. He had found the "contract" in his mailbox and had shown it to Martinez, who urged him to show it to Senator Chavez, which he did.

Another man who had been mentioned in the document as a possible candidate for a Republican national committee job turned out to be a taxi driver.

And on the basis of a report from Glavis, Ickes completely exonerated his director of personnel.

Feud Likely To Go On

High officials in the Ickes organization and other friends of Puryear are feeling pretty hot about the incident. Relations with the office of Senator Chavez are distinctly strained.

It may or may not be significant that young Mr. Teabot Chavez, a cousin of the senator, very recently resigned his minor job in the interior department.

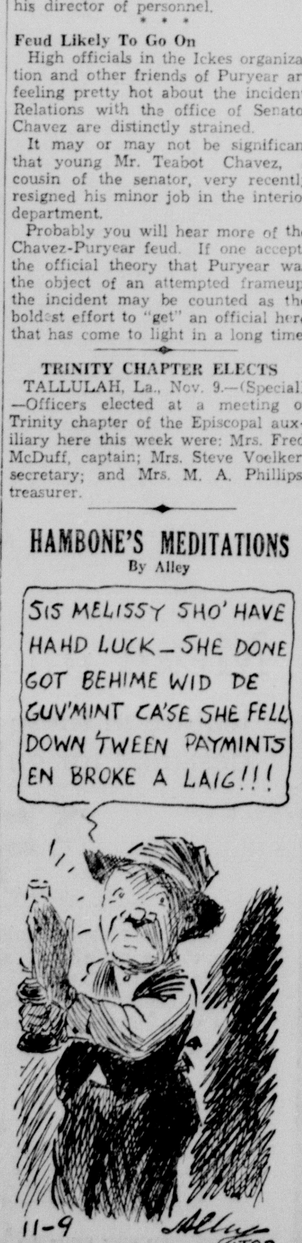

Probably you will hear more of the Chavez-Puryear feud. If one accepts the official theory that Puryear was the object of an attempted frameup, the incident may be counted as the boldest effort to "get" an official here that has come to light in a long time.

CHARITY LEAGUE TO STAGE CARNIVAL FOR BABY CLINIC FUNDS

The final event of this year's activities designed to raise funds for the Junior Charity league will be held Saturday, November 23, when a carnival will be staged at the Lakeside Country club under the auspices of the league.

All the features of the old-fashioned carnival, "from pink elephants to pink lemonade," will be introduced, it was announced by Mrs. Prioleau Ellis, chairman of the league finance committee. One of the most interesting phases will be a "Dance of the Days of '49" when members of the league will be costumed according to the styles that obtained amongst the Argonauts who thronged San Francisco during the "gold fever" days. Miss Sue Graves will direct the dance program.

The carnival will begin at 6:30 p.m., to permit children to enjoy the event. Supper will also be served to those who desire it. Mrs. Harold Mouk will have charge of the carnival arrangements. All of the proceeds will go toward maintaining the baby clinic sponsored by the Junior Charity league.

Lights Of New York

NEW YORK—Foibles of the famous: Elizabeth Bergner saves triangular pieces of broken mirrors as luck pieces. (So do 1,654 other well-known people) . . . Katharine Cornell is as fastidious about her chauffeur's uniform as she is about her own stage costumes . . . And it seems Edna St. Vincent Millay, the poetess, takes the potted plants from her windowsill with her, whenever she is traveling.

Although he doesn't dote on color schemes, George M. Cohan will write his plays only on yellow paper and with a yellow pencil . . . Hospital attaches tell me Dr. Leo Berger, the famed surgeon, always wears a red flower in his lapel when he arrives to perform an operation . . . Eugene O'Neill refuses to attend first nights and is generally at a movie when one of his plays opens on Broadway . . . Count Felix von Luckner, the sea devil, rarely gets through a whole sentence without a "By Joe" somewhere in it . . . Culinary quirk: Gladys Swarthout, the opera's songbird, must almost forcefully be restrained from ordering kidneys en brochette every evening . . .

The only society man I've ever seen dare to affect colored tuxedos is Huntington M. S. Watts, who acts, occasionally . . . Tallest starch collar seen in town of late: The high one worn by Alfred P. Sloan, automotive king . . . Charles Dana Gibson has become rich and famed for his pen and ink sketches but he spends most of his time painting serious stuff in oils . . . Marilyn Miller who confesses she couldn't explain why it is worth all the trouble, pulls strings and red tape, to have balanced low numbers on her limousine license plates. Her new ones are 12-12 . . . Moss Hart claims he gets his best notions for his scintillating musical comedies while prowling the river front between 4 and 6 a.m.

Off Stage

The Venuses & Adonises of stagedom, filmdom and the political rings get their bodies brawny or beautiful at Al Roon's Broadway gymnasium which on almost any evening resembles Celebrities' Night in a Turkish Bath. Richard Barthelmess dropped in the other evening for a mild workout and Harry Richman rides the hobby horse between cues onstage. But Muscle Man Al's specialty is bringing down the weight of well-knowns who have to tip the scales at a given time. His most recent triumph was the removal of 22 pounds of superflous flesh from the frame of Buddy Rogers. Less recently, he deprived Goldie, the comedian in Paul Whiteman's band, of thirteen pounds within a week.

They call Roon in for most of the beauty pageant events and entrust to his charge the proper avoirdupois of the comely contestants. At call, he will proudly bring out photographs of Miss Irene Ware, Miss Universe of 1929, and tell how he helped the pulchritudinous maid to keep her perfect dimensions. He holds himself responsible for the bodily fitness of America's Best Built Man, Murray Geller, and not long ago when Peggy Rich had to lose 12 1-2 pounds in order to oblige a motion picture contract or else, Al Roon brought her through in time.

Physical Training Instructor Roon's costliest client, he believes, was Dr. Miguel Gomez, erstwhile mayor of Havana, who came down for a steady regimen of exercise, while strife-ridden Cuba offered a $10,000 reward for his capture, dead or alive. Roon put the Cuban refugee through his daily dozens every afternoon and never mentioned the other thing. Says it's the easiest ten grand he ever let slip through his hands.

Now And Then

How Some Successes Didn't Get Where They Are: Walter O'Keefe sold Florida real estate at $25 a week at one time . . . Ted Husing was a furniture salesman . . . John Boles, Lawrence Tibbett and Lily Pons started their vocal careers singing in church choirs . . . Nelson Eddy was a cub reporter on the Philadelphia Ledger . . . and Fred Keating, the magic man turned movie idol, once served as a leg man on the Morning World.

PLEAS FOR PEACE MADE IN PULPITS

Religious Services Open Observance Of Seventeenth Armistice Day

(By Associated Press)

The blessing of world peace was being beseeched today in thousands of pulpits as religious services opened observance of the 17th anniversary of the World war armistice—tomorrow.

The Federal Council of Churches of Christ and many other denominational and non-sectarian groups had urged universal expression of the prayer.

Pastors pointed to the conflict raging in Ethiopia and the still not completely extinguished threat of its spread to other nations as evidence that the lesson of the World war had not been grasped.

"Can we forget the joy of that day (November 11, 1918)?" asked Bishop George Craig Stewart of the Protestant Episcopal diocese of Chicago in a statement pleading peace's cause.

He said that in spite of the battling in Ethiopia, and perhaps an impending more general conflagration, "the movement for eventual peace which must be established is gaining momentum."

For tomorrow's celebration of the termination of the great conflict in 1918, World war veterans everywhere planned military and memorial gatherings.

In Washington, the traditional honors to the thousands of World war dead included an address by President Roosevelt at Arlington national cemetery. The president was to start his speech at 10:45 a. m. (eastern standard time) and finish at 11 a. m., the hour at which the thunder of the guns on the western front in France was stilled forever.

From Paris the bugler who sounded that call to "cease firing" was to blow again the same bugle in a holiday broadcast at 3:45 p. m. (eastern standard time). Marshal Weygandt, French World war commander, was to speak.

World war days of allied camaraderie will be recalled in New York's celebration of the holiday by the current visit of the British cruiser "York."

Rival organizations planned parades in several cities tomorrow. At Tulsa, veterans arranged to honor "the colors" in a procession in opposition to another "without flag waving" which the Christian youth council called to minimize "the romantic side of war." Peace rallies by anti-Fascist and communist organizations in Milwaukee and other cities denounced war.

Flush Poisonous Waste And Acid From Kidneys

GAIN IN HEALTH

If you aren't feeling just right—are nervous—have dizzy spells and occasional backache—study your kidneys and learn more about yourself.

Through the delicate filters of the kidneys, acid and poisonous waste are drawn from the blood and discharged from the body thru the bladder—sometimes these filters become clogged with poisonous waste and kidneys do not function properly—they need a good cleaning.

One reliable medicine, highly efficient and inexpensive is GOLD MEDAL Haarlem Oil Capsules—you can't go wrong on this grand medicine for it has been helping people for 50 years—to correct their aches and pains and to banish uric acid conditions, the aggravation of sciatica, neuritis, neuralgia, lumbago and rheumatism.

So if you have such symptoms of Kidney trouble as backache, nervousness, getting up two or three times during the night—scanty, burning or smarting passage—leg cramps—moist palms or puffy eyes get a 35 cent package of this grand and harmless diuretic at any modern drugstore—it starts the first day on its errand of helpfulness.

The BLUE DOOR

CHAPTER XXVI

Upstairs, in the room which had been hers for eight days, Ruth Woodson was getting ready to leave. She was debating a question of ethics with herself. Could she conscientiously take away with her the clothes Penny had turned over to her?

"No, I can't," was her first decision. "They really belong to those women of St. Stephen's church who held the rummage sale. To take them would be like stealing from the church itself."

Then common sense overrode ethics. "I need them to keep me warm and decent. To save myself from pneumonia and help me to get a job. If St. Stephen's Guild had them to sell they'd turn around and use the money to help some 'needy and worthy girl' exactly like me. So why all the fuss? . . . Yes, I'll take a few of them. Not the evening clothes, of course. Not the navy blue satin, though I'd give my head for that one. Just the knit dresses and the suit and a couple of felt hats. I'll take an extra pair of shoes, too, besides the oxfords on my feet. Those are the things I need."

The thin sunshine of the early morning had disappeared and the day promised to be damp and exceedingly raw. Thankful for the warmth of the fur-trimmed sport suit, Ruth put it on. She pulled a felt hat jauntily over her left eye.

"Now I think I'll carry a couple of books, so I'll look like a college girl beating a ride." Once, when riding with John McNeill, she had seen girls asking for rides to and from the little college which lay 20 miles away. No one had seemed to think less of them for their boyish independence. Very nice-looking people picked them up.

As she had no suitcase, Ruth used a heavy cardboard suit box from Bertha's storeroom. It exactly held the extra clothes. She tied it with a stout string. And then there was nothing left to do but gather up her box, her purse, and the two books which she had selected as appropriate.

"They'll be Duncan Hunter's gift to me," she thought, "for saving his life!" She knew that he was still sleeping. "My strangest adventure of all," she decided, thinking of last night.

But there was yet another adventure in store for Ruth Woodson before she should pass through the blue door into the world again. As she descended the last step of the stairway and stood cautiously listening to Penny's heavy footfall in the kitchen, a girl came through the dining room door and confronted her. The stranger was as graceful as a tiger and wore a brown tweed suit, a loose fur at her neck and a small brown hat. She had gold-brown hair and dark eyes. Her features were breath-takingly perfect.

Ruth noticed all this. She also noticed that the girl had been eating her breakfast. She carried a toasted roll in her hand. It must be Elaine Chalmers, of course. Ruth said, "Good morning!"

Elaine said, "Oh. Leaving us so soon?"

Ruth thought, in panic, "Why did this have to happen to me!" She looked at Elaine Chalmers pleadingly. She thought, "If only she'll let me go and not badger me!"

It was too much to ask, of course. Fate never had let her off easily. Elaine said, "You've been using my name, I hear. Like it?"

Ruth forced a smile. "It's a pretty name and it's helped me out a lot. Thank you for the use of it."

"You're not welcome," Elaine replied coldly. She laid the roll down on the hall table and daintily wiped her fingers on a brown and white sport handkerchief. That done, she looked at Ruth with cool detachment. She remarked, "I gave Penny quite a start when I arrived this morning. No wonder."

"No wonder!" Ruth echoed. For a moment she was carried away by the drama of the thing. She wished she might have seen old Bertha's face when it happened.

Elaine said, "It seems foolish of you to leave when our friend John McNeill is in Washington." She watched Ruth's face closely, hoping to discover how deep the other girl's interest lay. At breakfast Penny had said, in response to a question from Elaine, "Mr. John and his mother went to Washington sudden-like Monday evenin'. I don't know what for." Perhaps this girl knew more.

Ruth answered calmly, "His going to Washington has nothing to do with my going away. I had decided to go today, whatever happened."

"Oh, yes," replied Elaine. "You knew I was expected soon, of course."

"Yes," said Ruth.

"But you didn't get off quite soon enough."

"No, I'm sorry to say." This with a spark of defiance.

Elaine said, "I hear you've been seeing quite a lot of John McNeill. Is he attractive?"

"Tastes differ," Ruth told her. "You'll have to decide that for yourself. I found him attractive."

Elaine felt an unwilling flare of admiration for this unknown person whom she was heckling. She thought, "She's better looking than I expected. She knows how to handle herself. I've got her in a corner, but she hasn't knuckled under. Maybe John's really fallen for her."

Ruth murmured, "I'd like to go now, please."

Elaine retorted, eyebrows raised, "In my suit?"

Ruth's cheeks flamed. She had forgotten that she was wearing this girl's clothes from head to feet. She wished that the earth might open and swallow her. Since that could not happen, she desired nothing so much as to burst into tears and cry her heart out. Yet, even as the tears stung her eyelids, she fought them back. She would not bow down in defeat before this golden, stinging creature who was tormenting her. Not yet! It was more than a personal thing. It was a class conflict—the poor girl against the rich, fighting a duel of wits and self-control.

Ruth said, "They were your clothes once. All of them. But you gave them to St. Stephen's Guild. I'm indebted to the church, I believe. One doesn't mind that so much."

Elaine remarked, "You're terribly clever, aren't you? Or terribly tricky? Have you always lived by cheating and lying?"

Ruth answered, "You can say those things to me, of course. There's nobody to stop you."

"Perhaps John McNeill would if he were here?"

"No," replied Ruth with a shake of her head. "I think he'd agree with you."

"So he's found you out!" Elaine remarked thoughtfully. It was something she'd been wanting to know. "And he's the sort of man to be disgusted by a crooked play."

"Yes," admitted Ruth. "Disgusted. Not that it matters now."

"No?" Elaine retored. "You mean you've lost interest?"

"I'll never lose interest in him," Ruth said clearly. "I'll never forget him. And I don't think he'll ever forget me."

Elaine's face flushed. "Do you think a man remembers all his episodes with girls and women? With your sort of girls, I mean?"

Ruth looked at her, wide-eyed. "So you believe I've had an affair with him! I suppose when a girl's as rich and fashionable as you are it's smart to be evil-minded."

Elaine said, ignoring the thrust, "How did you come to this town and how do you expect to leave—providing I decide to let you leave without turning you over to the police?"

"I came by bus," Ruth told her. I'll leave by hitch-hiking." She felt defiant and hard and furiously angry.

"One more question; who are you?"

Ruth said, "My name doesn't matter. I'm just a girl without a job and without a dollar to my name. My mother was a lady and my father was a brave man—an officer who died in France at the battle of the Argonne."

Elaine's eyes flashed. "Careful there! You've borrowed my name. Don't try to borrow my parents, too!"

Ruth answered, with lips trembling with rage. "What I said is true. You—you wasp!"

"You tramp," Elaine retorted. "Now get out!"

"Not until I've left these clothes behind," Ruth said coldly and steadily. "I don't want anything that has ever been yours to touch my body." She turned and went upstairs, carrying the box with her.

Ten minutes later she came down again, dressed in a wrinkled blue suit and matching hat, both of which seemed shrunken from a hard rain. Besides her purse and the two books, she carried a parcel wrapped in paper—the meager extras she had brought with her to this house.

Elaine had her back turned, powdering her nose at the long mirror. She suddenly felt panic-stricken and regretful. She reached for her purse which was lying on the table, opened it quickly and extended a $20 bill. "You'd better take this," she said briskly.

Ruth brushed it away as if it had been an annoying insect. Without looking at Elaine Chalmers she went out of the blue door and down the steps, her eyes still clear of the tears that longed to cloud them utterly.

She was not striving for an effective exit. She only wanted to get away before she broke.

Flush Poisonous Waste And Acid From Kidneys

GAIN IN HEALTH

If you aren't feeling just right—are nervous—have dizzy spells and occasional backache—study your kidneys and learn more about yourself.

Through the delicate filters of the kidneys, acid and poisonous waste are drawn from the blood and discharged from the body thru the bladder—sometimes these filters become clogged with poisonous waste and kidneys do not function properly—they need a good cleaning.

One reliable medicine, highly efficient and inexpensive is GOLD MEDAL Haarlem Oil Capsules—you can't go wrong on this grand medicine for it has been helping people for 50 years—to correct their aches and pains and to banish uric acid conditions, the aggravation of sciatica, neuritis, neuralgia, lumbago and rheumatism.

So if you have such symptoms of Kidney trouble as backache, nervousness, getting up two or three times during the night—scanty, burning or smarting passage—leg cramps—moist palms or puffy eyes get a 35 cent package of this grand and harmless diuretic at any modern drugstore—it starts the first day on its errand of helpfulness.

CHAPTER XXVI

Upstairs, in the room which had been hers for eight days, Ruth Woodson was getting ready to leave. She was debating a question of ethics with herself. Could she conscientiously take away with her the clothes Penny had turned over to her?

"No, I can't," was her first decision. "They really belong to those women of St. Stephen's church who held the rummage sale. To take them would be like stealing from the church itself."

Then common sense overrode ethics. "I need them to keep me warm and decent. To save myself from pneumonia and help me to get a job. If St. Stephen's Guild had them to sell they'd turn around and use the money to help some 'needy and worthy girl' exactly like me. So why all the fuss? . . . Yes, I'll take a few of them. Not the evening clothes, of course. Not the navy blue satin, though I'd give my head for that one. Just the knit dresses and the suit and a couple of felt hats. I'll take an extra pair of shoes, too, besides the oxfords on my feet. Those are the things I need."

The thin sunshine of the early morning had disappeared and the day promised to be damp and exceedingly raw. Thankful for the warmth of the fur-trimmed sport suit, Ruth put it on. She pulled a felt hat jauntily over her left eye.

"Now I think I'll carry a couple of books, so I'll look like a college girl beating a ride." Once, when riding with John McNeill, she had seen girls asking for rides to and from the little college which lay 20 miles away. No one had seemed to think less of them for their boyish independence. Very nice-looking people picked them up.

As she had no suitcase, Ruth used a heavy cardboard suit box from Bertha's storeroom. It exactly held the extra clothes. She tied it with a stout string. And then there was nothing left to do but gather up her box, her purse, and the two books which she had selected as appropriate.

"They'll be Duncan Hunter's gift to me," she thought, "for saving his life!" She knew that he was still sleeping. "My strangest adventure of all," she decided, thinking of last night.

But there was yet another adventure in store for Ruth Woodson before she should pass through the blue door into the world again. As she descended the last step of the stairway and stood cautiously listening to Penny's heavy footfall in the kitchen, a girl came through the dining room door and confronted her. The stranger was as graceful as a tiger and wore a brown tweed suit, a loose fur at her neck and a small brown hat. She had gold-brown hair and dark eyes. Her features were breath-takingly perfect.

Ruth noticed all this. She also noticed that the girl had been eating her breakfast. She carried a toasted roll in her hand. It must be Elaine Chalmers, of course. Ruth said, "Good morning!"

Elaine said, "Oh. Leaving us so soon?"

Ruth thought, in panic, "Why did this have to happen to me!" She looked at Elaine Chalmers pleadingly. She thought, "If only she'll let me go and not badger me!"

It was too much to ask, of course. Fate never had let her off easily. Elaine said, "You've been using my name, I hear. Like it?"

Ruth forced a smile. "It's a pretty name and it's helped me out a lot. Thank you for the use of it."

"You're not welcome," Elaine replied coldly. She laid the roll down on the hall table and daintily wiped her fingers on a brown and white sport handkerchief. That done, she looked at Ruth with cool detachment. She remarked, "I gave Penny quite a start when I arrived this morning. No wonder."

"No wonder!" Ruth echoed. For a moment she was carried away by the drama of the thing. She wished she might have seen old Bertha's face when it happened.

Elaine said, "It seems foolish of you to leave when our friend John McNeill is in Washington." She watched Ruth's face closely, hoping to discover how deep the other girl's interest lay. At breakfast Penny had said, in response to a question from Elaine, "Mr. John and his mother went to Washington sudden-like Monday evenin'. I don't know what for." Perhaps this girl knew more.

Ruth answered calmly, "His going to Washington has nothing to do with my going away. I had decided to go today, whatever happened."

"Oh, yes," replied Elaine. "You knew I was expected soon, of course."

"Yes," said Ruth.

"But you didn't get off quite soon enough."

"No, I'm sorry to say." This with a spark of defiance.

Elaine said, "I hear you've been seeing quite a lot of John McNeill. Is he attractive?"

"Tastes differ," Ruth told her. "You'll have to decide that for yourself. I found him attractive."

Elaine felt an unwilling flare of admiration for this unknown person whom she was heckling. She thought, "She's better looking than I expected. She knows how to handle herself. I've got her in a corner, but she hasn't knuckled under. Maybe John's really fallen for her."

Ruth murmured, "I'd like to go now, please."

Elaine retorted, eyebrows raised, "In my suit?"

Ruth's cheeks flamed. She had forgotten that she was wearing this girl's clothes from head to feet. She wished that the earth might open and swallow her. Since that could not happen, she desired nothing so much as to burst into tears and cry her heart out. Yet, even as the tears stung her eyelids, she fought them back. She would not bow down in defeat before this golden, stinging creature who was tormenting her. Not yet! It was more than a personal thing. It was a class conflict—the poor girl against the rich, fighting a duel of wits and self-control.

Ruth said, "They were your clothes once. All of them. But you gave them to St. Stephen's Guild. I'm indebted to the church, I believe. One doesn't mind that so much."

Elaine remarked, "You're terribly clever, aren't you? Or terribly tricky? Have you always lived by cheating and lying?"

Ruth answered, "You can say those things to me, of course. There's nobody to stop you."

"Perhaps John McNeill would if he were here?"

"No," replied Ruth with a shake of her head. "I think he'd agree with you."

"So he's found you out!" Elaine remarked thoughtfully. It was something she'd been wanting to know. "And he's the sort of man to be disgusted by a crooked play."

"Yes," admitted Ruth. "Disgusted. Not that it matters now."

"No?" Elaine retored. "You mean you've lost interest?"

"I'll never lose interest in him," Ruth said clearly. "I'll never forget him. And I don't think he'll ever forget me."

Elaine's face flushed. "Do you think a man remembers all his episodes with girls and women? With your sort of girls, I mean?"

Ruth looked at her, wide-eyed. "So you believe I've had an affair with him! I suppose when a girl's as rich and fashionable as you are it's smart to be evil-minded."

Elaine said, ignoring the thrust, "How did you come to this town and how do you expect to leave—providing I decide to let you leave without turning you over to the police?"

"I came by bus," Ruth told her. I'll leave by hitch-hiking." She felt defiant and hard and furiously angry.

"One more question: who are you?"

Ruth said, "My name doesn't matter. I'm just a girl without a job and without a dollar to my name. My mother was a lady and my father was a brave man—an officer who died in France at the battle of the Argonne."

Elaine's eyes flashed. "Careful there! You've borrowed my name. Don't try to borrow my parents, too!"

Ruth answered, with lips trembling with rage. "What I said is true. You—you wasp!"

"You tramp," Elaine retorted. "Now get out!"

"Not until I've left these clothes behind," Ruth said coldly and steadily. "I don't want anything that has ever been yours to touch my body." She turned and went upstairs, carrying the box with her.

Ten minutes later she came down again, dressed in a wrinkled blue suit and matching hat, both of which seemed shrunken from a hard rain. Besides her purse and the two books, she carried a parcel wrapped in paper—the meager extras she had brought with her to this house.

Elaine had her back turned, powdering her nose at the long mirror. She suddenly felt panic-stricken and regretful. She reached for her purse which was lying on the table, opened it quickly and extended a $20 bill. "You'd better take this," she said briskly.

Ruth brushed it away as if it had been an annoying insect. Without looking at Elaine Chalmers she went out of the blue door and down the steps, her eyes still clear of the tears that longed to cloud them utterly.

She was not striving for an effective exit. She only wanted to get away before she broke.

BANK OFFICIALS TO MAKE TALKS

High Government Men Will Attend Annual Convention At Orleans

WASHINGTON, Nov. 9.—(AP)—Addresses by government officials will be a feature of the sixty-first annual convention of the American Bankers association which meets in New Orleans next week.

The roster of speakers includes several porminent government finance officials as a result, bankers said, of the part the federal administration has taken in banking and financial affairs of the nation.

Speakers who plan to put aside their official work here to participate in conferences of the banking group include Jesse H. Jones, chairman of the Reconstruction Finance corporation; Leo T. Crowley, chairman of the Federal Deposit Insurance corporation; J. F. T. O'Connor, comptroller of currency; Marriner S. Eccles, federal reserve chairman, and Richard R. Quay of the counsel of the federal housing administration.

Senator Glass, Democrat, Virginia, member of the senate banking and currency committee, was scheduled to address the convention but had to decline because of physician's advice.

The city of Washington's banking circles will send one of its largest delegations to the New Orleans meeting. The extra large delegation from here is attributed to the belief discussions will be particularly vital and to the fact that the new president to be elected is from this city.

Robert V. Fleming, president of the Riggs National bank here, and vice president of the association, will be elevated to the presidency now held by R. S. Hecht, president of the Hibernia Bank and Trust company of New Orleans.

Approximately 75 delegates are expected to go from Washington, this number being triple the group first expected to attend.

Living in the national capital, Fleming has been in a position to render particular service in recent years when the banks were passing through the depression and when legislation presented to congress was of more than ordinary significance.

CLASS OFFICERS NAMED

MARION, La., Nov. 9.—(Special)—Officers have been elected by the tenth grade students of Linville High school. They are Edwin Pace, president; Ruby Roberson, vice president; Marjorie Smith, secretary; Eugene Love, reporter. R. O. Sutton, principal of the school, was chosen faculty adviser.

MONROE LADY CAN NOW WALK WITHOUT HELP

Rheumatism Yields To Gly-Cas; Action After All Else Tried Had Failed In Her Awful Case; Stomach, Kidneys Regulated Too.

"Too much praise cannot be given Gly-Cas for it is one medicine that does exactly what it claims to do," said Mrs. Sarah E. Bynum, 2603 Lee avenue, Monroe, well known local lady and highly respected throughout this entire section, recently in talking with the Gly-Cas man at the Phoenix Drug company, 348 DeSiard street, this city:

"I had no idea there was such a good medicine as this new Gly-Cas."

continued Mrs. Bynum, "It has proven to be the very medicine I should have had years before. For the past eight years rheumatism had settled in my left leg until I could hardly walk and it was impossible without assistance. The pain was so severe that at night when I would just try to turn over in bed I could hardly stand it. My kidneys were disordered too and my feet and ankles became badly swollen, sleep was impossible many nights and I realized that complications were developing. My stomach soon became disordered and regardless of my diet indigestion and acid stomach was sure to follow each meal I ate. My throat would actually burn all the way down to my stomach and I felt as if I had swallowed strong acid. Of course I tried many different kinds of medicines during these years—and did my best to find relief—but met only with repeated failure as seemingly everything lost their power when they were put to the severe test in my case. I was about ready to give up hope of ever recovering when I began to hear praise for Gly-Cas on every side—all who had tried it said Gly-Cas was different—and I found it just that."

"Terrible poisons and gases were removed from my system as never before," continued Mrs. Bynum, "My kidneys began to act normally and my bowels were regulated. Then, too, my stomach now digests foods properly until I now enjoy my meals without any distress afterwards. But best of all—that dreadful rheumatism that actually had the best of me is hardly noticeable. I now walk wherever I want without any assistance, get around with ease and am freed of that terrible pain. I enjoy perfect sleep and rest each night now and am feeling like a new person. There is only ONE GLY-CAS and every sufferer should realize it and profit by it."

Gly-Cas is sold by Phoenix Drug Co., 348 DeSiard street, and by leading druggists in surrounding towns. Price $1.00 box—6 boxes for $5.00. Orders sent on receipt of price.—Adv.

RED CROSS ROLL CALL PLANS MADE

call, which will be directed to individuals.

A goal of $10,000 to provide for the various activities of the Ouachita chapter for 1936 has been set by the campaign leaders. According to the annual report covering the year ending June 30 last, the receipts from all sources, including roll call, appropriations by the city and parish and special gifts, totaled $10,580.86, it was stated by Chairman Isaacman. Of this amount only $2,687.74 came from the annual roll call.

Chairman Isaacman in a statement Saturday, made it clear that, contrary to a widespread misunderstanding that a large portion of the local Red Cross receipts go to the national organization at Washington, only a small portion is devoted to that purpose.

"The only portion of Red Cross receipts that goes to the national organization," Mr. Isaacman said, "is 50 cents of each individual membership. Every penny of the special gifts as well as all of the general donations from city and parish is spent in the work of the Red Cross here. In other words out of $2,687 subscribed by individual donations of $1 each last year, $1,262 went to the national Red Cross. When we consider that the national Red Cross has in the past contributed unstintedly from its resources to aid Ouachita parish in time of drouth, flood and other disasters, the little we contribute to its funds is the finest insurance we can have for our own protection in times of overwhelming distress."

Mayor Arnold Bernstein Saturday issued a proclamation asking the cooperation of the citizens of Monroe in making the coming roll call a success.

The proclamation follows:

"The date for the annual roll call for the Ouachita chapter of the American Red Cross has been set for the period beginning on Tuesday, November 12, and ending Thanksgiving day.

"The Red Cross comes to us with another appeal for membership that will finance the work of another year. Since our Red Cross asks so little from the community, and contributes so much itself to the general welfare, I hope and urge those who are asked for the relatively small participation of paying the annual membership fee will respond promptly again this year.

"The relief program of the Red Cross is recognized by city officials as a potent factor in meeting present needs, and as an agency of incalculable value in the event of possible emergency.

"I, therefore, as mayor of Monroe, La., hereby set aside the designated period as the time when all past members will be asked to renew their memberships and those who have not enrolled before to add their names to the ranks of Red Cross members in Ouachita parish.

(Signed) "ARNOLD BERNSTEIN, "Mayor."

TAMMANY HALL SEES WALKER AS 'WHITE HOPE' OF POLITICS

NEW YORK, Nov. 9—(AP)—Tammany Hall feels that happy days are here again with the return of former Mayor James J. Walker, its "white hope."

"Walker always has recognized that Tammany has made him," a high Democratic leader said today. "He won't desert the hall now."

Nobody in the wigwam would say definitely what the tribe expects of its prodigal son, who resigned as mayor three years ago and only recently ended a self-imposed exile in Europe.

"No more politics," Walker greeted New York last week.

One of the hall's spokesmen, however, declared that "Jimmy's" return will produce another Democratic mayor in 1937.

In the squat, brick tepee off Union Square Tammany leaders feel certain Walker will lend his vote-getting personality in the '37 campaign, even now under preliminary preparations.

the city about 6 o'clock yesterday morning to attend a game between Louisiana State university and Mississippi State college. The accident in which they were injured occurred when the driver of their automobile, young Fink, attempted to avoid a truck coming out of a side road, it was reported. Swerving, the automobile ran off the road and turned over several times.

Dr. and Mrs. John G. Leftwisch, of Tulsa, Okla., returning from the national dental convention at New Orleans, picked up Ervin and his sister and took them to Bunkie.

Ervin is a stenographer in the law offices of Paul and George Fink. He is a son of Mr. and Mrs. H. C. Ervin, of 202 Filhiol avenue, West Monroe.

Other members of the football party planned last night to return here today, and in a communication with relatives here expressed confidence that Ervin's condition would improve during the night to such an extent that he also will be able to return today.

Miss Ervin remained at the hospital as a patient last night. George Fink and Miss Fair were not patients. The latter suffered an injury to her back and the former suffered an injury which caused him to limp, but neither injury was of such a nature as to confine either person to the hospital.

mine. It was not immediately learned if she had been assaulted.

Miss Loring, a stenographer, disappeared from her Mt. Rainier home about 8 o'clock Monday night, shortly after she had completed preparations for her marriage. Tear, a former enlisted man in the marine corps, is employed in St. Elizabeth's hospital.

On what was to have been his wedding night, Tear gave photographs of Miss Loring to newspapers and asked them to help him find her. He said he had called at her home about a half hour after she had disappeared. When the girl's mother, Mrs. G. A. Loring, returned after a brief absence, Tear still was waiting.

When the young woman had not returned Thursday, Tear expressed belief she had met with violence. Tear and the girl's father identified the body at the murder scene.

Working on the jealous suitor theory, police expressed the view the girl might have been accosted as she was taking a walk. The spot where the body was found is about five blocks from the Loring home.

Acting Coroner Gilbert Hughes ordered the body removed to a Hyattsville morgue where the autopsy was to be performed. An inquest will be held in the Mt. Rainier town hall tomorrow night.

MRS. LARRECIE HUDSON, OF WEST MONROE, DIES

Mrs. Larrecie Hudson, 44, wife of H. G. Hudson, died late yesterday at her residence, 206 North Sixth street, West Monroe.

The funeral will be held at 3 o'clock this afternoon at the Walnut Grove cemetery. Rev. E. E. Huntsberry, pastor of the West Monroe Baptist church, will officiate.

Surviving relatives, besides the widower, are: three daughters, Cleola, Eunice and Maud Hazel Hudson; a son, H. G. Hudson, Jr.

Up the street a little piece the suspicious passenger had the bus stopped at a taxicab station and alighted. He hailed a taxicab with instructions to the driver to "drive to Canal and South Rampart as fast as you can." The driver said the passenger said he was "nervous."

He crouched on the floor of the cab as the driver, Vernon Irons, drove away, and at the designated stop the man left the cab, telling the driver to wait for him while he went into a loan office, and then disappeared.

MONROE LADY CAN NOW WALK WITHOUT HELP

"Too much praise cannot be given Gly-Cas for it is one medicine that does exactly what it claims to do," said Mrs. Sarah E. Bynum, 2603 Lee avenue, Monroe, well known local lady and highly respected throughout this entire section, recently in talking with the Gly-Cas man at the Phoenix Drug company, 348 DeSiard street, this city:

"I had no idea there was such a good medicine as this new Gly-Cas,"

continued Mrs. Bynum, "It has proven to be the very medicine I should have had years before. For the past eight years rheumatism had settled in my left leg until I could hardly walk and it was impossible without assistance. The pain was so severe that at night when I would just try to turn over in bed I could hardly stand it. My kidneys were disordered too and my feet and ankles became badly swollen, sleep was impossible many nights and I realized that complications were developing. My stomach soon became disordered and regardless of my diet indigestion and acid stomach was sure to follow each meal I ate. My throat would actually burn all the way down to my stomach and I felt as if I had swallowed strong acid. Of course I tried many different kinds of medicines during these years—and did my best to find relief—but met only with repeated failure as seemingly everything lost their power when they were put to the severe test in my case. I was about ready to give up hope of ever recovering when I began to hear praise for Gly-Cas on every side—all who had tried it said Gly-Cas was different—and I found it just that."

"Terrible poisons and gases were removed from my system as never before," continued Mrs. Bynum, "My kidneys began to act normally and my bowels were regulated. Then, too, my stomach now digests foods properly until I now enjoy my meals without any distress afterwards. But best of all—that dreadful rheumatism that actually had the best of me is hardly noticeable. I now walk wherever I want without any assistance, get around with ease and am freed of that terrible pain. I enjoy perfect sleep and rest each night now and am feeling like a new person. There is only ONE GLY-CAS and every sufferer should realize it and profit by it."

Gly-Cas is sold by Phoenix Drug Co., 348 DeSiard street, and by leading druggists in surrounding towns.

NEW JOB FOR HAMMERSTEIN!

Arthur Hammerstein, the New York theatrical producer, found a new sort of job waiting for him when he arrived at West Palm Beach, Fla., for the winter. These two comely boxers called upon him to referee and of course he accepted. We forgot to inquire who won the bout. (Associated Press Photo)

call, which will be directed to individuals.

A goal of $10,000 to provide for the various activities of the Ouachita chapter for 1936 has been set by the campaign leaders. According to the annual report covering the year ending June 30 last, the receipts from all sources, including roll call, appropriations by the city and parish and special gifts, totaled $10,580.86, it was stated by Chairman Isaacman. Of this amount only $2,687.74 came from the annual roll call.

Chairman Isaacman in a statement Saturday, made it clear that, contrary to a widespread misunderstanding that a large portion of the local Red Cross receipts go to the national organization at Washington, only a small portion is devoted to that purpose.

"The only portion of Red Cross receipts that goes to the national organization," Mr. Isaacman said, "is 50 cents of each individual membership. Every penny of the special gifts as well as all of the general donations from city and parish is spent in the work of the Red Cross here. In other words out of $2,687 subscribed by individual donations of $1 each last year, $1,262 went to the national Red Cross. When we consider that the national Red Cross has in the past contributed unstintedly from its resources to aid Ouachita parish in time of drouth, flood and other disasters, the little we contribute to its funds is the finest insurance we can have for our own protection in times of overwhelming distress."

Mayor Arnold Bernstein Saturday issued a proclamation asking the cooperation of the citizens of Monroe in making the coming roll call a success.

The proclamation follows:

"The date for the annual roll call for the Ouachita chapter of the American Red Cross has been set for the period beginning on Tuesday, November 12, and ending Thanksgiving day.

"The Red Cross comes to us with another appeal for membership that will finance the work of another year. Since our Red Cross asks so little from the community, and contributes so much itself to the general welfare, I hope and urge those who are asked for the relatively small participation of paying the annual membership fee will respond promptly again this year.

"The relief program of the Red Cross is recognized by city officials as a potent factor in meeting present needs, and as an agency of incalculable value in the event of possible emergency.

"I, therefore, as mayor of Monroe, La., hereby set aside the designated period as the time when all past members will be asked to renew their memberships and those who have not enrolled before to add their names to the ranks of Red Cross members in Ouachita parish.

(Signed) "ARNOLD BERNSTEIN,
"Mayor."

TAMMANY HALL SEES WALKER AS 'WHITE HOPE' OF POLITICS

NEW YORK, Nov. 9—(AP)—Tammany Hall feels that happy days are here again with the return of former Mayor James J. Walker, its "white hope."

"Walker always has recognized that Tammany has made him," a high Democratic leader said today. "He won't desert the hall now."

Nobody in the wigwam would say definitely what the tribe expects of its prodigal son, who resigned as mayor three years ago and only recently ended a self-imposed exile in Europe.

"No more politics," Walker greeted New York last week.

One of the hall's spokesmen, however, declared that "Jimmy's" return will produce another Democratic mayor in 1937.

In the squat, brick tepee off Union Square Tammany leaders feel certain Walker will lend his vote-getting personality in the '37 campaign, even now under preliminary preparations.

ROBERT ERVIN IS SERIOUSLY HURT

the city about 6 o'clock yesterday morning to attend a game between Louisiana State university and Mississippi State college. The accident in which they were injured occurred when the driver of their automobile, young Fink, attempted to avoid a truck coming out of a side road, it was reported. Swerving, the automobile ran off the road and turned over several times.

Dr. and Mrs. John G. Leftwisch, of Tulsa, Okla., returning from the national dental convention at New Orleans, picked up Ervin and his sister and took them to Bunkie.

Ervin is a stenographer in the law offices of Paul and George Fink. He is a son of Mr. and Mrs. H. C. Ervin, of 202 Filhiol avenue, West Monroe.

Other members of the football party planned last night to return here today, and in a communication with relatives here expressed confidence that Ervin's condition would improve during the night to such an extent that he also will be able to return today.

Miss Ervin remained at the hospital as a patient last night. George Fink and Miss Fair were not patients. The latter suffered an injury to her back and the former suffered an injury which caused him to limp, but neither injury was of such a nature as to confine either person to the hospital.

Practically all larger airports of the United States now have airport radio traffic-control apparatus and employ this system.

mine. It was not immediately learned if she had been assaulted.

Miss Loring, a stenographer, disappeared from her Mt. Rainier home about 8 o'clock Monday night, shortly after she had completed preparations for her marriage. Tear, a former enlisted man in the marine corps, is employed in St. Elizabeth's hospital.

On what was to have been his wedding night, Tear gave photographs of Miss Loring to newspapers and asked them to help him find her. He said he had called at her home about a half hour after she had disappeared. When the girl's mother, Mrs. G. A. Loring, returned after a brief absence, Tear still was waiting.

When the young woman had not returned Thursday, Tear expressed belief she had met with violence. Tear and the girl's father identified the body at the murder scene.

Working on the jealous suitor theory, police expressed the view the girl might have been accosted as she was taking a walk. The spot where the body was found is about five blocks from the Loring home.

Acting Coroner Gilbert Hughes ordered the body removed to a Hyattsville morgue where the autopsy was to be performed. An inquest will be held in the Mt. Rainier town hall tomorrow night.

MRS. LARRECIE HUDSON, OF WEST MONROE, DIES

Mrs. Larrecie Hudson, 44, wife of H. G. Hudson, died late yesterday at her residence, 206 North Sixth street, West Monroe.

The funeral will be held at 3 o'clock this afternoon at the Walnut Grove cemetery. Rev. E. E. Huntsberry, pastor of the West Monroe Baptist church, will officiate.

Surviving relatives, besides the widower, are: three daughters, Cleola, Eunice and Maud Hazel Hudson; a son, H. G. Hudson, Jr.

PROTECT SHRUBS

When exterior painting work is being done it is advisable for painters to use drop cloths to cover any shrubbery or walls that may be defaced by paint spots. In hiring a painting contractor skilled workmanship and quality materials are of tremendous importance. Skimping on either is foolish economy.

tion of the suspected slayer had entered his bus shortly after the shooting and that he was "practically breathless and nervous."

Up the street a little piece the suspicious passenger had the bus stopped at a taxicab station and alighted. He hailed a taxicab with instructions to the driver to "drive to Canal and South Rampart as fast as you can." The driver said the passenger said he was "nervous."

He crouched on the floor of the cab as the driver, Vernon Irons, drove away, and at the designated stop the man left the cab, telling the driver to wait for him while he went into a loan office, and then disappeared.

The woman victim of the shooting died within a few minutes after she was shot. As she lay in the street a crowd gathered and traffic was held up.

At a late hour police were still trailing the suspect whose name they withheld.

Now is the Time For This Help in Preventing Colds

Formula Especially Designed to Aid Nature's Defenses in Nose and Upper Throat, Where Most Colds Start.

PART OF COLDS-CONTROL PLAN

Don't wait for a cold to develop—or get you down. After any unusual exposure, heed that first warning nasal irritation or sneeze—apply a few drops of Vicks Va-tro-nol up each nostril. Used in time, Va-tro-nol helps to avoid many colds.

Va-tro-nol is especially designed to aid and gently stimulate the functions provided by Nature—in the nose—to prevent colds, and to throw off head colds in the early stages.

Where irritation has led to a clogged-up nose (a stuffy head cold or nasal catarrh) Va-tro-nol spreads through the nasal passages—reduces swollen membranes—clears clogging mucus—brings comforting relief.

For Fewer and Shorter Colds

Note for your family: Vicks has developed, especially for home use, a practical Plan for Better Control of Colds. This commonsense guide to fewer and shorter colds has been clinically tested by practicing physicians and further proved in everyday home use by millions. otherwise it would be forced to take drastic action. It issued this statement:

"The affair is serious because it was an attack on a uniformed member of the Japanese navy. We hope the Chinese authorities will speedily arrest the assailant.

"In view of the rumors circulating in the last few days, it is hoped the Chinese authorities will make an effort to dispel the dark clouds seeming to hover over Sino-Japanese relations."

(Feeling has been tense because of Japanese activities in northern China and reports, denied by the Japanese, that they intended to make new demands upon the Nanking government.)

Japanese naval officers said "Nakayama was shot as he was proceeding along the sidewalk of Darroch road. He suffered a bullet wound piercing the skull from the back of his neck.

"While we have no clue regarding the assailant, we consider the attack a provocation directed at the special naval landing party.

"We shall demand not only a thorough investigation by the bureau of public safety but shall demand that a complete inquiry be made by the Shanghai municipal police. The landing party was immediately mobilized and still remains on that footing."

DUBACH TOWN MARSHAL SHOOTS DRUNKEN NEGRO

DUBACH, La., Nov. 9.—(AP)—Albert Jackson, negro, about 45 years of age, was shot twice, probably seriously, by City Marshal W. E. Neal of Dubach, about 8 p. m. today. The shooting occurred in the business section of town when Neal attempted to arrest the negro for being drunk.

The negro attacked Neal, trying to get his gun. Neal fired one shot in his left arm, but that did not stop the advancing negro. He than shot him the second time, hitting him in the abdomen.

Monroe on Saturday issued the following proclamation in connection with the Armistice day celebration:

"Proclamation

"Monday, November 11, is Armistice day, marking another anniversary of the termination of the World war.

"We, as mayors of the Twin Cities, do therefore declare this day a holiday and urge our citizens to set aside this day to pay homage to our sailors and soldiers of the World war, memorializing those of their comrades who gave their lives in this cause and paying tribute to those with us.

"This ninth day of November, 1935.
(Signed)
"ARNOLD BERNSTEIN,
"Mayor of Monroe.
"C. C. BELL,
"Mayor of West Monroe."

Various committees from the veterans' organizations here have been busily engaged in preparing the program for several weeks, and have exerted every energy to make a complete success of the day.

The parade committee comprises R. J. Goza, marshal; B. A. Trousdale, and C. A. Hunt. The program committee comprises John Bailey, M. L. Padgett, S. A. Collins, R. J. Goza and L. F. Rolleigh.

Executive committee, Nick Bruno, Sam Rubin, John Bailey; custodian of home, Dick Daugherty; purchasing officer, W. C. Oliver; publicity, B. A. Trousdale; Americanism, H. F. Madison, Jr.; George Lester, Warren Taylor; school awards, Charles Mitchell, Rev. Ernest Holloway, C. E. McKenzie, Sons of Legion, Sam Orchard, W. S. Savage; veterans' council, C. E. McKenzie, Isador Liebreich; entertainment committee, Bill Perhamus, Florent Hammonds; membership, general chairman, H. F. Madison; team chairmen, Harry Stein, Isador Liebreich, Florent Hammonds; flag committee, W. W. Cooper.

The concluding event of the day's festivities will be a dance at Three Mile inn in which all veterans are invited to participate.

A striking window display, commemorative of the World war and the significance of Armistice day, is shown in the J. C. Penney store on DeSiard street. The display, which was arranged by J. J. Martin, manager of the store, includes an impressive assembly of mementos of the war and a variety of features in keeping with the historic anniversary. The display attracted wide attention from the throngs of Saturday shoppers who crowded DeSiard street yesterday.

HONOR THE FLAG

Armistice day is in a special sense an occasion to honor the American flag. Respect that is due the national ensign is more frequently honored in the breach than in the observance, by American people, who are not given to outward displays of their patriotic feelings, unless it be under the excitements incidental to wartime emotion.

But it should be remembered that honoring the flag by the simple act of baring the head as Old Glory goes by is in a particular degree a mark of respect to the men who fought under its folds and who died that it might survive. Saluting the flag should be regarded as a precious rite, an expression of loyalty to an emblem that stands for the greatest nation in the world, and symbolizes the ideal which Americans by right should in every manifestation strive to achieve.

In tomorrow's demonstrations memory of the peace that came 17 years ago, after the greatest war in history, citizens can do no less than stand at attention with bared heads as the flag goes by.

to manufacture a new kind of food, and thought he could succeed. He asked suggestions for advertising, did not, then, have much to spend, although he has spent millions since.

THE WRITER advised him, 'Since you plan to make a food out of corn, why not offer $1,000 for the biggest ear of corn grown in the United States? That would attract attention, without much cost, and advertising means to attract attention."

Mr. Kellogg did that and other things, more intelligent.

Now, he does the most intelligent thing of all, raising the wages of his workers by 12.5 per cent and making the 36 hour week permanent. Nothing is wiser than intelligent liberality.

ON MONDAY, this and other countries will celebrate Armistice day. On Thursday, Josef Stalin, standing beside Lenin's mausoleum in Kremlin square, reviewed the Red army celebrating the eighteenth anniversary of the Bolshevik revolution.

Two million Russians witnessed the military spectacle, which included 420 war "tanks" with fighting machines able to travel on the water, climb up on land, continuing on their way, and "land battleships" mounting three heavy guns each with numerous machine guns, and a crew of eight machines never before exhibited.

After that came a great street ball in Sverdloff square, with jazz bands, suggesting "capitalism." Perhaps Russia is getting ready to enjoy herself in bourgeois fashion.

AN ELDERLY DOCTOR, in England, confesses to Lord Rothmer's London Daily Mail that he killed five of his patients. Hopelessly ill, put them out of their misery, and is willing to be tried for the "mercy killings."

To four men he gave poison at their request. The fifth, an imbecile infant, born without a cranium, was strangled by the doctor.

THE "MERCY" DOCTOR says "If I permitted a dog to suffer, as these patients were suffering, I should be prosecuted for causing unnecessary cruelty, not putting it out of misery."

British medical men, under the leadership of one of the most distinguished surgeons in England, demand a law to put those hopelessly ill and suffering out of their misery, legally, with the approval of a medical commission and presumably, the sufferer, himself.

Such a law might discourage the constant striving of science to conquer disease, which would be a pity.

BURT HENRY RESIGNS AS HEAD OF BALLOT LEAGUE

NEW ORLEANS, Nov. 9.—(AP)—Burt W. Henry, New Orleans attorney, announced today his resignation as chairman of the Honest Election league.

His announcement stated that he would be succeeded by Charles E. Dunbar, also an attorney.

"My resignation," Mr. Henry said, "was prompted because of the fact that I have been chairman since the organization of the Honest Election league, and believing in rotation in office I requested the acceptance of my resignation."

FORMER CONVICT IS HELD AS SUSPECT IN SLAYING OF TROOPER

ELIZABETH, N. J., Nov. 9.—(AP)—An ex-convict with a long police record was held on a suspicion of murder tonight by state and county authorities investigating the highway slaying of State Trooper Warren G. Yenser.

The prisoner, identified by police as Edward Witowski, alias Metelski, 26, of Newark, was arrested two hours after the 28-year-old trooper was killed by a shotgun blast fired by one of two occupants of a speeding automobile.

Major H. Schoeffel, deputy superintendent of the state police, announced in Trenton that fingerprints found on a whisky bottle left in the car abandoned by the two men had been identified as those of Witowski.

Witowski steadfastly denied any connection with the shooting, but his first statement that he slept at home last night was declared untrue, police said, by his mother.

Monroe on Saturday issued the following proclamation in connection with the Armistice day celebration:

"Proclamation

"Monday, November 11, is Armistice day, marking another anniversary of the termination of the World war.

"We, as mayors of the Twin Cities, do therefore declare this day a holiday and urge our citizens to set aside this day to pay homage to our sailors and soldiers of the World war, memorializing those of their comrades who gave their lives in this cause and paying tribute to those with us.

"This ninth day of November, 1935. (Signed)

"ARNOLD BERNSTEIN,
"Mayor of Monroe.
"C. C. BELL,
"Mayor of West Monroe."

Various committees from the veterans' organizations here have been busily engaged in preparing the program for several weeks, and have exerted every energy to make a complete success of the day.

The parade committee comprises R. J. Goza, marshal; B. A. Trousdale, and C. A. Hunt. The program committee comprises John Bailey, M. L. Padgett, S. A. Collins, R. J. Goza and L. F. Rolleigh.

Executive committee, Nick Bruno, Sam Rubin, John Bailey; custodian of home, Dick Daugherty; purchasing officer, W. C. Oliver; publicity, B. A. Trousdale; Americanism, H. F. Madison, Jr.; George Lester, Warren Taylor; school awards, Charles Mitchell, Rev. Ernest Holloway, C. E. McKenzie, Sons of Legion, Sam Orchard, W. S. Savage; veterans' council, C. E. McKenzie, Isador Liebreich; entertainment committee, Bill Perhamus, Florent Hammonds; membership, general chairman, H. F. Madison; team chairmen, Harry Stein, Isador Liebreich, Florent Hammonds; flag committee, W. W. Cooper.

The concluding event of the day's festivities will be a dance at Three Mile inn in which all veterans are invited to participate.

A striking window display, commemorative of the World war and the significance of Armistice day, is shown in the J. C. Penney store on DeSiard street. The display, which was arranged by J. J. Martin, manager of the store, includes an impressive assembly of mementos of the war and a variety of features in keeping with the historic anniversary. The display attracted wide attention from the throngs of Saturday shoppers who crowded DeSiard street yesterday.

HONOR THE FLAG

Armistice day is in a special sense an occasion to honor the American flag. Respect that is due the national ensign is more frequently honored in the breach than in the observance, by American people, who are not given to outward displays of their patriotic feelings, unless it be under the excitements incidental to wartime emotion.

But it should be remembered that honoring the flag by the simple act of baring the head as Old Glory goes by is in a particular degree a mark of respect to the men who fought under its folds and who died that it might survive. Saluting the flag should be regarded as a precious rite, an expression of loyalty to an emblem that stands for the greatest nation in the world, and symbolizes the ideal which Americans by right should in every manifestation strive to achieve.

In tomorrow's demonstrations memory of the peace that came 17 years ago, after the greatest war in history, citizens can do no less than stand at attention with bared heads as the flag goes by.

FORMER CONVICT IS HELD AS SUSPECT IN SLAYING OF TROOPER

ELIZABETH, N. J., Nov. 9.—(AP)—An ex-convict with a long police record was held on a suspicion of murder tonight by state and county authorities investigating the highway slaying of State Trooper Warren G. Yenser.

The prisoner, identified by police as Edward Witowski, alias Metelski, 26, of Newark, was arrested two hours after the 28-year-old trooper was killed by a shotgun blast fired by one of two occupants of a speeding automobile.

Major H. Schoeffel, deputy superintendent of the state police, announced in Trenton that fingerprints found on a whisky bottle left in the car abandoned by the two men had been identified as those of Witowski.

Witowski steadfastly denied any connection with the shooting, but his first statement that he slept at home last night was declared untrue, police said, by his mother.

to manufacture a new kind of food, and thought he could succeed. He asked suggestions for advertising, did not, then, have much to spend, although he has spent millions since.

THE WRITER advised him, 'Since you plan to make a food out of corn, why not offer $1,000 for the biggest ear of corn grown in the United States? That would attract attention, without much cost, and advertising means to attract attention."

Mr. Kellogg did that and other things, more intelligent.

Now, he does the most intelligent thing of all, raising the wages of his workers by 12.5 per cent and making the 36 hour week permanent. Nothing is wiser than intelligent liberality.

ON MONDAY, this and other countries will celebrate Armistice day. On Thursday, Josef Stalin, standing beside Lenin's mausoleum in Kremlin square, reviewed the Red army celebrating the eighteenth anniversary of the Bolshevik revolution.

Two million Russians witnessed the military spectacle, which included 420 war "tanks" with fighting machines able to travel on the water, climb up on land, continuing on their way, and "land battleships" mounting three heavy guns each with numerous machine guns, and a crew of eight machines never before exhibited.

After that came a great street ball in Sverdloff square, with jazz bands, suggesting "capitalism." Perhaps Russia is getting ready to enjoy herself in bourgeois fashion.

AN ELDERLY DOCTOR, in England, confesses to Lord Rothmer's London Daily Mail that he killed five of his patients. Hopelessly ill, put them out of their misery, and is willing to be tried for the "mercy killings."

To four men he gave poison at their request. The fifth, an imbecile infant, born without a cranium, was strangled by the doctor.

THE "MERCY" DOCTOR says "If I permitted a dog to suffer, as these patients were suffering, I should be prosecuted for causing unnecessary cruelty, not putting it out of misery."

British medical men, under the leadership of one of the most distinguished surgeons in England, demand a law to put those hopelessly ill and suffering out of their misery, legally, with the approval of a medical commission and presumably, the sufferer, himself.

Such a law might discourage the constant striving of science to conquer disease, which would be a pity.

MARRIAGES

JONESBORO, La., Nov. 9.—(Special)—Mr. and Mrs. T. E. Wallsworth, of Jonesboro, announce the marriage of their daughter, Vernell, to Willard Caughlin of Jonesboro on Saturday, Nov. 2, at the Baptist parsonage in Winnifield with the Rev. B. C. Land, pastor of the Winnfield church, officiating. They will make their home in Jonesboro.

BURT HENRY RESIGNS AS HEAD OF BALLOT LEAGUE

NEW ORLEANS, Nov. 9.—(AP)—Burt W. Henry, New Orleans attorney, announced today his resignation as chairman of the Honest Election league.

His announcement stated that he would be succeeded by Charles E. Dunbar, also an attorney.

"My resignation," Mr. Henry said, "was prompted because of the fact that I have been chairman since the organization of the Honest Election league, and believing in rotation in office I requested the acceptance of my resignation."

WALL PAPERS KEEP MODERN

Play Important Role In Color Scheme Of Present Day Houses

Bringing the interior decoration of the home or apartment into line with current trends is something every home maker likes to do, especially if the required changes can be made without casting out the existing furniture.

And the color scheme, the foundation of any decorative program and a governing factor in its success, is the second problem for which an easy solution has been found.

This is important news, for even trained decorators have been worried at times to decide just which shade of drape should be selected to harmonize with a certain shade of rug, chair covering or wall finish. The answer is found in the wallpaper. "Select the wallpaper first," decorators advise, "then you have your color scheme. Leading artists designed the better wallpapers and into each they have put a group of harmonizing colors which are your guide."

Selection of the wallpaper should be followed by selection of paint colors for doors, wainscoting, and window trim, etc. Generally these should be matched to one of the quieter tones in the pattern. Drapes can be selected to harmonize with or be in strong contrast to this. Much depends upon the materials selected and the room in which they are to be used.

Painting of furniture is advocated by decorators where improvement with existing furnishings is attempted. In this case the color scheme for the furniture can be the reverse of that in the wallpaper. If the paper is blue with an oyster pattern, paint the chairs and tables oyster and stripe with blue, or use blue for the covering material. The same principle applies in the bedroom or bath. In the latter, washable wallpaper above the tile dado, waxed for extra protection near the shower, also serves as the guide in selecting shower curtain, window curtains and woodwork coloring. Even the tint of the soap can be based on this.

YELLOW PAINT

It is difficult to get a clear yellow paint coat. Yellows do not cover easily and four coats may be needed to cover a fairly dark surface.

Wall Paper "Streamlines" Interiors

Novel and particularly decorative effects may be achieved in any room in the house with a wide selection of "streamlined" wall papers now on the market. As illustrated above, horizontal lines in wall paper produce a modern effect and tend to lengthen the appearance of a room as well as to reduce the suggestion of extreme ceiling height.

Wall papers are available in many color schemes and are appropriate background to rooms furnished in the modern mode. Such papers are washable and materially add to the effectiveness of a home modernization project. Funds to purchase and place such wall papers may be obtained from private financial institutions holding Federal Housing Administration insurance contracts.

HOUSING HINTS

PAINT AND LIGHT

Much can be done with paint to bring sunshine into a room that is discouragingly dark in the daytime. Have the ceiling painted a light yellow. The window sills, together with the rest of the window woodwork, can be painted a slightly darker yellow. Walls, doors, and door frames can be coated with a soft cream color and the floor painted or stained a dark brown.

CONCRETE ASH PIT

What every home needs is a good method of keeping ashes in their place. That place is not all over the basement floor or sifting out of a rusty can where they can be tracked all over the house. A concrete ash pit is the life-long friend of the weary furnace tender. You can throw hot clinkers and ordinary run-of-the-grate ashes into a fireproof ash pit. It won't burn, rust, or turn over. It will take plenty of rough treatment. Anyone can build it. The best method, probably, is to have the contractor working on your other modernizing jobs fixing it up. A fireproof ash pit costs very little.

ROOF REPAIR

In most things it's best to start at the bottom and work up, but when you modernize your home you can go into reverse—and it's not a bad idea at that. The roof of a house is important. It's all there is between the home and rain, snow, and broiling sun.

Of all the house, the roof is probably the most neglected. Just because it's way up out of sight people forget about it, and it goes through the years wearing away. People "hope" it's all right. When a roof starts to look shaggy that's a sign that it has outlived its usefulness. Then is the time to cover up.

The federal housing administration insures modernization loans made by private financial institutions for work of this kind.

REPLACE FLOORS

Many hotels, factories, warehouses, banks and other institutions where floors are exposed to hard usage are taking advantage of the federal housing administration's insured modernization credit program to replace worn-out floors with one of the many improved industrial floorings now on the market. Special types of low- upkeep flooring which are acid resistant are also being utilized in laboratories, battery rooms and the like. These new flooring materials provide a permanently smooth, durable and attractive surface with many possible color combinations where appearance is a factor.

BACK PORCH

America is living more and more on its back porch. Many back porches, however, have not kept pace with this new trend. It may be made into a bright, sunny, new room. It will be remarkably convenient for summer dining, or rest. The federal housing program's insured credit plan allows payment for the work on installments.

CLOCK-HANGER OUTLETS

Electric clocks are being used in new homes and added to old ones as well.

Prepare your house for electric clocks by having clock-hanger outlets installed. Their use eliminates unsightly cords, and the clock may be placed solidly on the wall.

CARPENTER SHOP

Most small boys and many older ones would like to have a private carpenter shop, where they could hammer and saw and scatter shavings and chips to their hearts content without fear of cluttering up the living quarters or of being shooed out of the way.

The modern thing to do in such a case is to partition off a portion of the basement or attic into a bright, pleasant little work room. Here such masculine pursuits as building furniture, model ships, and many other objects can proceed uninterruptedly.

COLORED FLOORS

In a colonial house it may be found effective to stain floors a dull cherry color. Varnish or wax over the color to preserve it. This color makes an appropriate background for bright hooked rugs and light maple furnishings. A proper tone of blue green used as a floor border and recalled in the other furnishings will contrast pleasingly with the dull cherry color.

FURNITURE STORAGE

This is the time of year when the many newly acquired Summer furnishings must be brought into the house. It is usually a problem to decide just where to place them so they will not be in the way and will not get damaged.

Build a special storage room in the basement for Summer furniture. This can be closed and need not be disturbed.

Be sure to provide sufficient ventilation. Also be careful to make it as dry as possible.

UMBRELLA SPACE

Before the rainy season sets in, build a simple umbrella rack on the inside of the hall closet door.

A metal drip pan may be provided below the rack in case someone brings in an umbrella before it has been allowed to dry.

This simple device need not be unattractive, and it can be painted to match the interior of the closet.

Use Of Painted Concrete Now Being Increased

The demand for color and the growing acceptance of concrete as a decorative material have resulted in an increasing use of paints on concrete.

A wide range of color in cement paints are available. These should be distinguished from ordinary cold-water paints which will not resist weather or other adverse conditions and can serve only as interior color coatings. A true portland-cement paint is easily applied and bonds with any surface, which presents a clean surface with some absorption. It is not recommended for application on wood, metal, glazed surfaces, or areas which have been previously coated with oil paints unless such paints are completely removed. It is an advantage that portland-cement paint can be applied to damp surfaces. It should be applied when the wall is wet and can be applied to concrete immediately after the forms are removed.

Before application remove all dirt, oil, grease, or efforescence from the surface to be painted. Oil and grease can be removed by scrubbing with gasoline or naptha. Efforescence can usually be removed by scrubbing with a 10 per cent solution of muriatic acid followed by a thorough rinsing with water.

The surface should be uniformly damp for the first coat and should be moistened with a fine spray before the second coat. During warm or dry weather the paint film will need to be sprayed sooner than during cold or damp weather.

Other types of paints are available for application to concrete, but the above type will be found very useful for winter work.

WADING POOL

There is nothing like a small wading pool to keep youngsters happily engaged in their own back yards. On hot days it's as much fun for them as a swimming pool and far safer if they are small children. Home modernizing plans should not exclude the children, particularly when a wading pool can be built for them at very small cost. The fun they will get splashing around and sailing toy boats in their own pool is worth the cost of providing it. Parents' relief at knowing their children have something to keep them happy at home is pure profit. As a home-modernizing project, a wading pool is a big bargain.

DISHWASHERS

New dishwashers for commercial use are available this fall. Restaurant owners are installing these units, for they are made to handle as high as 150,000 pieces per month.

Dishwashers permit savings through a reduction in breakage and are eligible under the revised modernization credit plan.

In construction of the "Frauenkirche" in Dresden 200 years ago, soft cheese was mixed with mortar to give the mortar more consistency and greater hardness.

FHA STIMULATING TO U. S. BUSINESS

Plan Shows Government's Confidence In People, Editorial Says

OF UNIVERSAL BENEFIT

"One plan about which there is no disagreement and which men of all parties and shades of political beliefs readily endorse is that of the federal housing administration for releasing pent-up funds in the nation's banks into the channels of the building industry. This is not a scheme of 'dealing out government money' but purely one of stimulating into renewed activity business endeavors which have too long been quiescent and upon which, in large measure, the prosperity and well-being of our population rests.

"The federal housing administration plan is simply one which says to the prospective home owner: 'Bring in your plans and tell us your prospects for paying for your house. If these are good, we will guarantee your mortgage and a local bank or building association will advance 80 per cent of our appraisal of the property at a low rate of interest. You will have plenty of time in which to pay off your loan.'

"The system simply is one whereby a government expressed its faith and confidence in the citizens and intimates its belief that condtions will continue to improve and the terms of the contract be carried out.

"Another phase of the federal housing administration program is that whereunder repairs or remodeling can be carried out or permanent or semi-permanent improvements be installed in the home, even down to stoves and refrigerators.

"The capital-goods industries, represented by steel, lumber, brick, stone and other building materials, suffered most during the depression and have not yet regained their normal health. The new life which the federal housing administration program should inject in their veins will be felt indirectly by all interests. The carrying out of the plan presages a new wave of prosperity by spring."

EXTRA BEDROOM

If there were as much waste space on the other floors of your home as there is in the cellar and attic, you would immediately take steps to utilize some of it. This space is neglected because it is comparatively out of sight, yet it is none the less valuable. At surprisingly small cost, by taking advantage of the federal housing program, you can convert your unused attic—or half of it—into an extra bedroom. The basement, which is a place to keep the furnace but is really a dozen times too large for it, will yield in most cases more than enough space for a recreation room, where children and grown-ups can pass many a pleasant hour.

HIRE SKILLED PAINTER

When you're having exterior painting work done, be sure that your painter uses drop cloths to cover any shrubbery or walls that might be defaced by paint spots. Remember when hiring a painting contractor that skilled workmanship and quality materials are of tremendous importance. Skimping on either is foolish economy.

Scholarship

DOROTHEA BARWICK,

Of Providence, R. I., who was awarded a scholarship to Emerson College of Oratory, Boston, Mass., after winning first honors in the Providence District eliminations in the recent National Educational Better Housing Contest conducted under the sponsorship of the Federal Housing Administration. Prior to receiving the scholarship, Miss Barwick was presented with a fountain pen by State Director Arthur Henius. The winner was a senior in St. Mary's Academy, Providence, when she won the essay contest, which was on the general subject, "What Home Means to Me." Similar district contests were held throughout the Nation.

Gas Stations Get Business From Repairs

Gas filling station owners may increase their business by improving the appearance of their buildings and grounds. The primary problem is the attraction of customers, which, of course, must be followed by giving satisfactory service.

An easy, spacious entrance is essential. The building should be substantial, neat and clean. The use of landscaped treatment is an added advantage. While it is necessary that some advertising signs be used, simple, well designed signs need not be large.

If any merchandise is carried, attractive display space should be arranged. This should not be so located that it will interfere with the primary function of the station—the dispensing of gas and oil.

Even though the structure and its ground are attractive when they have just been completed, if they are not properly maintained they will rapidly lose their appearance.

CHECK CHIMNEY

When the wind howls outside do you ever consider the chimney perched aloft on the roof? It might be a good idea to go up, or send someone up, to see how your chimney is standing the years and the heat. Then, while you're up there, examine the coping, the mortar joints, and the flashing. These items, if in bad condition, can be repaired under the modernization credit plan of the Federal Housing administration, and it will help give it added life.

Radio Outlets Convenience To Owner Of Home

The desirability of a house is definitely enhanced if radio outlets are located in convenient places.

Wiring for radios should be considered an integral part of modern house equipment. Exposed wires are unattractive, and radio wires should be added with as much care as any other type used in the house.

Standard installations of radio wiring in a house embody many advantageous features. The ground and aerial are properly and safely connected and provided with convenient wall or baseboard outlets that merely require "plugging in" to insure a good contact. This eliminates such makeshifts as the former flat conductor tape out the window sill which never permitted the window to be tightly closed.

Outlets in various rooms may be provided to allow sets to be located at will, or a master plate may distribute the sound to a series of speaker outlets located in different rooms.

In apartment houses the owner should consider the unsightliness of the tangle of radio antennae so often seen. An installation of such equipment as that described above should materially improve reception for most of the tenants as well as make the apartment more attractive.

BREAKFAST NOOK SHELF

If the breakfast nook in your kitchen is crowded for space, install a shelf on the wall above the electric outlet and paint or enamel it to harmonize or contrast with your breakfast nook furniture. Such a shelf will give you a place to set the toaster during breakfast and will hold bright accessories between meals.

PUTTY WINDOWS

In wood windows the glass is secured by small metal triangles driven into the wood, and putty is used to make the joint tight. If the putty has hardened, it will crack off and the window will leak.

Properly applied, putty should last for long periods. Cracking is often caused by the application of the putty against bare wood, which absorbs the oil and leaves the putty brittle and crumbling. Before putty is applied the wood should be given a coat of linseed oil or of thin paint to seal the pores.

Work the putty in between the edges of the glass and the wood, for it is that point which should be made tight.

WIRING THE HOUSE

If you are contemplating new home wiring remember the benefit of adequate wiring.

If your wiring system is not prepared to take care of all electrical appliances now, it will prove costly to add them later.

A really complete job now will cost much less than an inadequate job with future additions.

WALL EMPHASIS

An effective way to treat special wall spaces—such as the area around the fireplace, the recess at the head of a bed, or the wall space around a dining room sideboard——is to have them painted a different tint or color than the rest of the wall. This decorative treatment gives emphasis to a cherished article of furniture or lends added importance to the room's center of interest.

Play Important Role In Color Scheme Of Present Day Houses

Bringing the interior decoration of the home or apartment into line with current trends is something every home maker likes to do, especially if the required changes can be made without casting out the existing furniture.

And the color scheme, the foundation of any decorative program and a governing factor in its success, is the second problem for which an easy solution has been found.

This is important news, for even trained decorators have been worried at times to decide just which shade of drape should be selected to harmonize with a certain shade of rug, chair covering or wall finish. The answer is found in the wallpaper. "Select the wallpaper first," decorators advice, "then you have your color scheme. Leading artists designed the better wallpapers and into each they have put a group of harmonizing colors which are your guide."

Selection of the wallpaper should be followed by selection of paint colors for doors, wainscoting, and window trim, etc. Generally these should be matched to one of the quieter tones in the pattern. Drapes can be selected to harmonize with or be in strong contrast to this. Much depends upon the materials selected and the room in which they are to be used.

Painting of furniture is advocated by decorators where improvement with existing furnishings is attempted. In this case the color scheme for the furniture can be the reverse of that in the wallpaper. If the paper is blue with an oyster pattern, paint the chairs and tables oyster and stripe with blue, or use blue for the covering material. The same principle applies in the bedroom or bath. In the latter, washable wallpaper above the tile dado, waxed for extra protection near the shower, also serves as the guide in selecting shower curtain, window curtains and woodwork coloring. Even the tint of the soap can be based on this.

"When redecorating this fall, let your new wallpaper be your color guide," is sound advice for anybody to follow.

YELLOW PAINT

It is difficult to get a clear yellow paint coat. Yellows do not cover easily and four coats may be needed to cover a fairly dark surface.

Wall Paper "Streamlines" Interiors

Novel and particularly decorative effects may be achieved in any room in the house with a wide selection of "streamlined" wall papers now on the market. As illustrated above, horizontal lines in wall paper produce a modern effect and tend to lengthen the appearance of a room as well as to reduce the suggestion of extreme ceiling height.

Wall papers are available in many color schemes and are appropriate background to rooms furnished in the modern mode. Such papers are washable and materially add to the effectiveness of a home modernization project. Funds to purchase and place such wall papers may be obtained from private financial institutions holding Federal Housing Administration insurance contracts.

HOUSING HINTS

PAINT AND LIGHT

Much can be done with paint to bring sunshine into a room that is discouragingly dark in the daytime. Have the ceiling painted a light yellow. The window sills, together with the rest of the window woodwork, can be painted a slightly darker yellow. Walls, doors, and door frames can be coated with a soft cream color and the floor painted or stained a dark brown.

CONCRETE ASH PIT

What every home needs is a good method of keeping ashes in their place. That place is not all over the basement floor or sifting out of a rusty can where they can be tracked all over the house. A concrete ash pit is the life-long friend of the weary furnace tender. You can throw hot clinkers and ordinary run-of-the-grate ashes into a fireproof ash pit. It won't burn, rust, or turn over. It will take plenty of rough treatment. Anyone can build it. The best method, probably, is to have the contractor working on your other modernizing jobs fixing it up. A fireproof ash pit costs very little.

ROOF REPAIR

In most things it's best to start at the bottom and work up, but when you modernize your home you can go into reverse—and it's not a bad idea at that. The roof of a house is important. It's all there is between the home and rain, snow, and broiling sun.

Of all the house, the roof is probably the most neglected. Just because it's way up out of sight people forget about it, and it goes through the years wearing away. People "hope" it's all right. When a roof starts to look shaggy that's a sign that it has outlived its usefulness. Then is the time to cover up.

The federal housing administration insures modernization loans made by private financial institutions for work of this kind.

REPLACE FLOORS

Many hotels, factories, warehouses, banks and other institutions where floors are exposed to hard usage are taking advantage of the federal housing administration's insured modernization credit program to replace worn-out floors with one of the many improved industrial floorings now on the market. Special types of low- upkeep flooring which are acid resistant are also being utilized in laboratories, battery rooms and the like. These new flooring materials provide a permanently smooth, durable and attractive surface with many possible color combinations where appearance is a factor.

BACK PORCH

America is living more and more on its back porch. Many back porches, however, have not kept pace with this new trend. It may be made into a bright, sunny, new room. It will be remarkably convenient for summer dining, or rest. The federal housing program's insured credit plan allows payment for the work on installments.

CLOCK-HANGER OUTLETS

Electric clocks are being used in new homes and added to old ones as well.

Prepare your house for electric clocks by having clock-hanger outlets installed. Their use eliminates unsightly cords, and the clock may be placed solidly on the wall.

CARPENTER SHOP

Most small boys and many older ones would like to have a private carpenter shop, where they could hammer and saw and scatter shavings and chips to their hearts content without fear of cluttering up the living quarters or of being shooed out of the way.

The modern thing to do in such a case is to partition off a portion of the basement or attic into a bright, pleasant little work room. Here such masculine pursuits as building furniture, model ships, and many other objects can proceed uninterruptedly.

COLORED FLOORS

In a colonial house it may be found effective to stain floors a dull cherry color. Varnish or wax over the color to preserve it. This color makes an appropriate background for bright hooked rugs and light maple furnishings. A proper tone of blue green used as a floor border and recalled in the other furnishings will contrast pleasingly with the dull cherry color.

FURNITURE STORAGE

This is the time of year when the many newly acquired Summer furnishings must be brought into the house. It is usually a problem to decide just where to place them so they will not be in the way and will not get damaged.

Build a special storage room in the basement for Summer furniture. This can be closed and need not be disturbed.

Be sure to provide sufficient ventilation. Also be careful to make it as dry as possible.

UMBRELLA SPACE

Before the rainy season sets in, build a simple umbrella rack on the inside of the hall closet door.

A metal drip pan may be provided below the rack in case someone brings in an umbrella before it has been allowed to dry.

This simple device need not be unattractive, and it can be painted to match the interior of the closet.

Use Of Painted Concrete Now Being Increased

The demand for color and the growing acceptance of concrete as a decorative material have resulted in an increasing use of paints on concrete.

A wide range of color in cement paints are available. These should be distinguished from ordinary cold-water paints which will not resist weather or other adverse conditions and can serve only as interior color coatings. A true portland-cement paint is easily applied and bonds with any surface, which presents a clean surface with some absorption. It is not recommended for application on wood, metal, glazed surfaces, or areas which have been previously coated with oil paints unless such paints are completely removed. It is an advantage that portland-cement paint can be applied to damp surfaces. It should be applied when the wall is wet and can be applied to concrete immediately after the forms are removed.

Before application remove all dirt, oil, grease, or efflorescence from the surface to be painted. Oil and grease can be removed by scrubbing with gasoline or naptha. Efflorescence can usually be removed by scrubbing with a 10 per cent solution of muriatic acid followed by a thorough rinsing with water.

The surface should be uniformly damp for the first coat and should be moistened with a fine spray before the second coat. During warm or dry weather the paint film will need to be sprayed sooner than during cold or damp weather.

Other types of paints are available for application to concrete, but the above type will be found very useful for winter work.

WADING POOL

There is nothing like a small wading pool to keep youngsters happily engaged in their own back yards. On hot days it's as much fun for them as a swimming pool and far safer if they are small children. Home modernizing plans should not exclude the children, particularly when a wading pool can be built for them at very small cost. The fun they will get splashing around and sailing toy boats in their own pool is worth the cost of providing it. Parents' relief at knowing their children have something to keep them happy at home is pure profit. As a home-modernizing project, a wading pool is a big bargain.

DISHWASHERS

New dishwashers for commercial use are available this fall. Restaurant owners are installing these units, for they are made to handle as high as 150,000 pieces per month.

Dishwashers permit savings through a reduction in breakage and are eligible under the revised modernization credit plan.

FHA STIMULATING TO U. S. BUSINESS

OF UNIVERSAL BENEFIT

"One plan about which there is no disagreement and which men of all parties and shades of political beliefs readily endorse is that of the federal housing administration for releasing pent-up funds in the nation's banks into the channels of the building industry. This is not a scheme of 'dealing out government money' but purely one of stimulating into renewed activity business endeavors which have too long been quiescent and upon which, in large measure, the prosperity and well-being of our population rests.

"The federal housing administration plan is simply one which says to the prospective home owner: 'Bring in your plans and tell us your prospects for paying for your house. If these are good, we will guarantee your mortgage and a local bank or building association will advance 80 per cent of our appraisal of the property at a low rate of interest. You will have plenty of time in which to pay off your loan.'

"The system simply is one whereby a government expressed its faith and confidence in the citizens and intimates its belief that conditions will continue to improve and the terms of the contract be carried out.

"Another phase of the federal housing administration program is that whereunder repairs or remodeling can be carried out or permanent or semi-permanent improvements be installed in the home, even down to stoves and refrigerators.

"The capital-goods industries, represented by steel, lumber, brick, stone and other building materials, suffered most during the depression and have not yet regained their normal health. The new life which the federal housing administration program should inject in their veins will be felt indirectly by all interests. The carrying out of the plan presages a new wave of prosperity by spring."

EXTRA BEDROOM

If there were as much waste space on the other floors of your home as there is in the cellar and attic, you would immediately take steps to utilize some of it. This space is neglected because it is comparatively out of sight, yet it is none the less valuable. At surprisingly small cost, by taking advantage of the federal housing program, you can convert your unused attic—or half of it—into an extra bedroom. The basement, which is a place to keep the furnace but is really a dozen times too large for it, will yield in most cases more than enough space for a recreation room, where children and grown-ups can pass many a pleasant hour.

HIRE SKILLED PAINTER

When you're having exterior painting work done, be sure that your painter uses drop cloths to cover any shrubbery or walls that might be defaced by paint spots. Remember when hiring a painting contractor that skilled workmanship and quality materials are of tremendous importance. Skimping on either is foolish economy.

Scholarship

DOROTHEA BARWICK,

Of Providence, R. I., who was awarded a scholarship to Emerson College of Oratory, Boston, Mass., after winning first honors in the Providence District eliminations in the recent National Educational Better Housing Contest conducted under the sponsorship of the Federal Housing Administration. Prior to receiving the scholarship, Miss Barwick was presented with a fountain pen by State Director Arthur Henius. The winner was a senior in St. Mary's Academy, Providence, when she won the essay contest, which was on the general subject, "What Home Means to Me." Similar district contests were held throughout the Nation.

Gas Stations Get Business From Repairs

Gas filling station owners may increase their business by improving the appearance of their buildings and grounds. The primary problem is the attraction of customers, which, of course, must be followed by giving satisfactory service.

An easy, spacious entrance is essential. The building should be substantial, neat and clean. The use of landscaped treatment is an added advantage. While it is necessary that some advertising signs be used, simple, well designed signs need not be large.

If any merchandise is carried, attractive display space should be arranged. This should not be so located that it will interfere with the primary function of the station—the dispensing of gas and oil.

Even though the structure and its ground are attractive when they have just been completed, if they are not properly maintained they will rapidly lose their appearance.

CHECK CHIMNEY

When the wind howls outside do you ever consider the chimney perched aloft on the roof? It might be a good idea to go up, or send someone up, to see how your chimney is standing the years and the heat. Then, while you're up there, examine the coping, the mortar joints, and the flashing. These items, if in bad condition, can be repaired under the modernization credit plan of the Federal Housing administration, and it will help give it added life.

Radio Outlets Convenience To Owner Of Home

The desirability of a house is definitely enhanced if radio outlets are located in convenient places.

Wiring for radios should be considered an integral part of modern house equipment. Exposed wires are unattractive, and radio wires should be added with as much care as any other type used in the house.

Standard installations of radio wiring in a house embody many advantageous features. The ground and aerial are properly and safely connected and provided with convenient wall or baseboard outlets that merely require "plugging in" to insure a good contact. This eliminates such makeshifts as the former flat conductor tape out the window sill which never permitted the window to be tightly closed.

Outlets in various rooms may be provided to allow sets to be located at will, or a master plate may distribute the sound to a series of speaker outlets located in different rooms.

In apartment houses the owner should consider the unsightliness of the tangle of radio antennae so often seen. An installation of such equipment as that described above should materially improve reception for most of the tenants as well as make the apartment more attractive.

BREAKFAST NOOK SHELF

If the breakfast nook in your kitchen is crowded for space, install a shelf on the wall above the electric outlet and paint or enamel it to harmonize or contrast with your breakfast nook furniture. Such a shelf will give you a place to set the toaster during breakfast and will hold bright accessories between meals.

PUTTY WINDOWS

In wood windows the glass is secured by small metal triangles driven into the wood, and putty is used to make the joint tight. If the putty has hardened, it will crack off and the window will leak.

Properly applied, putty should last for long periods. Cracking is often caused by the application of the putty against bare wood, which absorbs the oil and leaves the putty brittle and crumbling. Before putty is applied the wood should be given a coat of linseed oil or of thin paint to seal the pores.

Work the putty in between the edges of the glass and the wood, for it is that point which should be made tight.

WIRING THE HOUSE

If you are contemplating new home wiring remember the benefit of adequate wiring.

If your wiring system is not prepared to take care of all electrical appliances now, it will prove costly to add them later.

A really complete job now will cost much less than an inadequate job with future additions.

WALL EMPHASIS

An effective way to treat special wall spaces—such as the area around the fireplace, the recess at the head of a bed, or the wall space around a dining room sideboard——is to have them painted a different tint or color than the rest of the wall. This decorative treatment gives emphasis to a cherished article of furniture or lends added importance to the room's center of interest.

They have improved the steering, have designed lighter steel wheels to reduce unsprung weight, and produced a quieter transmission. A longer and more graceful hood appears on the new cars, which are produced in 13 body types and five colors. The coupe is shown above.

HYDRAULIC BRAKES STOP NEW CHEVROLETS

Chevrolet's most significant innovation for 1936 is a perfected hydraulic brake system, for both Master and Standard models. Both types, too, have narrower and higher radiators, more powerful engines with full-length water jacketing, and balanced carburetors for greater fuel economy. MOTOR CARS MAKE ECONOMIC HISTORY supply firms employ 137 persons, whose dependents number 401. The annual payroll of this group totals $121,320.

Complete figures are not available for the retail gasoline phase of the automotive industry, a number of these being included in the business of the supply and accessory concerns. Twenty-eight filling stations, however, report 112 employes with 337 dependents and a payroll totaling $89,600 a year.

Here, then, is an impressive picture of the contribution that is made by the automotive industry to the economic stability of the two communities:

Employes, 483; dependents, 1,600; annual payroll, $468,524; investment (real estate, inventories, etc.) $1,521,700.

These figures do not tell the complete story. The most interesting part of the recital lies in the substantial increase in business during the past year which has been the experience of virtually every concern engaged in any branch of the automotive business. One of the larger distributors reported an increase of 127 per cent for the ten months of 1935 as compared with the volume during the corresponding months of 1932, while another reported 105 per cent increase covering the same periods.

Business increases over 1934 are noteworthy. No names are used, but the figures are authentic. One concern puts the statistics in the following tabulation, which is fairly representative of the majority of the big dealers:

The increase of business during the year 1935, as compared with the first ten months of 1934, is one of the sure marks of recovery from the recent depression. Every one of the ten principal distributors of automobiles in Monroe and West Monroe shows an increase in volume of sales and revenue. In only one case is the increase as low as 10 per cent and in another 15 per cent. The others range from 30 per cent to 100 per cent increase over last year.

In the automobile supply business the increases are also impressive. These range from 13 per cent to 100 per cent over last year. In only two reports out of 12 was there a showing of less than 13 per cent increase in the total volume of business for the ten-month period.

Payrolls have been expanded in conformity with the added volume of business. Unemployment has been lessened and the purchasing power of a large group of citizens has been substantially increased.

The significance in these figures gains new importance in view of the fact that the new automobile season begins two months earlier than is customary. Hitherto the showing of new cars has been held at the turn of the year. However, this year, in response to an appeal by President Roosevelt, who recognized the importance of the automobile industry in the economic set-up of the nation, manufacturers agreed to bring out their new models early in November, putting vast numbers of workers in jobs at the factories and making it possible to insure early deliveries before the autumn months were well advanced. This policy will have the effect of stimulating the sale of new cars in the various distributing areas, which in turn will have its effect in increasing business volume, adding to payrolls and providing a larger circulation of money.

In the opinion of business men generally, as well as that of the automotive leaders themselves, this is bound to have the most favorable reaction on all lines of activity, for the reason that the automobile affects every phase of modern life, whether it be commercial, industrial, agricultural, educational or otherwise.

NEGRO IS STABBED, THREE OTHERS PLACED IN JAIL

One negro was in the St. Francis sanitarium suffering a knife wound in the temple and three negroes were held in the parish jail as a result of two fights yesterday.

Simmie Williams, Monroe negro, was receiving treatment at the sanitarium for the knife wound. Willie Hobbs, also a Monroe negro, was held in the parish jail for allegedly stabbing Williams after the latter "kidded" him at the Union Oil mill in West Monroe about wearing a short overcoat to work.

Williams' condition was not serious, his physician said.

Jessie Riley, Swartz negro, and a woman who had lived at his home for the past four years, Sheriff's officers said, were held in jail after Riley was said to have struck her a blow on the head with a crutch. Trouble between the pair arose from a division of geese when the woman prepared to leave Riley's home, it was reported.

TIDWELL RECOVERING

CROSSBRED SOWS TAKE NEW HONOR

Produce Greater Number And More Healthy Pigs

ST. PAUL, Minn., Nov. 9.—(AP)—The three little pigs would have gone to market sooner, assert University of Minnesota livestock experts, if they had been born of "crisscross" sows.

Crossbred pigs—a mixture of two purebreds—are not unknown to the livestock business. In fact, their superiority as feeders had long been known, L. M. Winters of the university explains. But the discovery that "crossbred sows are better mothers than purebreds completely upsets previous beliefs."

Experiments conducted at the university showed that the crossbreds are superior for breeding purposes, giving their pigs "a better start in life than do purebreds."

The doctrine that crossbred pigs should not be used for further breeding, Winters said, resulted from failure due to disorderly systems.

"Under the old systems," he pointed out, "hogs quickly became mongrels and not true crossbreds. The Minnesota crisscross is a definite system, which limits the mixture of the two breeds but keeps the balance of blood between them alternating between fairly costant levels."

In the experiments a purebred boar of one breed was mated to a purebred sow of another. The resultant crisscross sow may then be bred to a purebred boar of either breed. Its crisscross female offspring in turn are mated to a purebred boar of the opposite breed from the parent. Only purebred boars are used.

"The advantages which crisscross pigs showed over purebreds," Winters says, "are well illustrated by the fact that at weaning age, the crisscross litters averaged 12 per cent more pigs than purebred litters and were 40 per cent heavier. Furthermore they reached 220 pounds in two or three weeks less time with a 3 per cent saving in feed."

Japan Continues Imports Of Sheep From Australia

SYDNEY, Nov. 9.—(AP)—Japan continues to import Corriedale sheep from New South Wales and it is expected that between 2,000 and 3,000 will again be sold to Japanese wool producers in the coming year.

Opposition of graziers' organizations throughout Australia to the export of Merino sheep remains unchanged, but the same attitude is not held as regards Corriedales.

If Japan were unable to purchase Corriedales in Australia, it is pointed out, she could buy all she required in New Zealand or South Africa.

Japan is not regarded here as a serious rival to Australian breeders, it being pointed out that the Japanese, although importing sheep for 40 years, have made little real progress in wool production.

there was severe congestion, making it difficult to provide food, clothing and shelter for the troops.

In the area south of the northern front, the gathering of troops, it was feared, might endanger tactical retreats and other movements.

New long-range artillery and European rifles and cartridges were steadily being brought into Ethiopia.

The emperor is expected to have more than half a million well-armed fighters ready to face the facist soldiers by November 20.

Ras Seyoum and Ras Kassa, northern commanders, have informed the negus they have plenty of soldiers, but the movement of troops from the interior continues. Every man, they said, is a "born soldier," but they did need more guns and ammunition.

The emperor has sent some of his ferocious Danakil tribesmen into the southeastern section of Aussa province, believing that the Italian northern armies are headed for the Addis Ababa-Djibouti railway line in that sector.

The Danakils, said to have slain many Italian supply forces in night movements, were ordered to withstand invasion of the province at any cost.

Leslie Brown, secretary of the International Red Cross, told the king today he had been informed that contributions of $5,380 had been given in the United States for Red Cross work in Ethiopia.

Brown, who recently reached Addis Ababa, said he had enough medical supplies for the present but had insufficient funds for transportation and other expenses. He said his task was to coordinate the operations of the Red Cross units from various countries, and assist the new Ethiopian Red Cross organization.

It is reported Emperor Haile Selassie has found a large quantity of gold in the tomb of the famous Emperor Menelik, with a warning from Menelik that God would crush any person disturbing the gold unless there was a national danger. It had been thought there was only silver in the tomb.

ANGLO-ITALIAN SITUATION TALKED

ROME, Nov. 9. — (AP) — Fascism's steady progress in Ethiopia, with a firm hold on what she has taken, was accompanied today by more talk in diplomatic circles of French, British and Italian efforts to clear up the Anglo-Italian tension.

This is considered necessary as a preliminary to a discussion of the Ethiopian war.

The recent talks of Sir Eric Drummond, the British ambassador, with Premier Mussolini were said in well-informed circles to have laid a good groundwork. From them springs the hope that Britain will soon withdraw a part of her big fleet from the Mediterranean.

Il Duce objects to talking of peace in Africa under the guns of British warships.

Organization to resist sanctions went on with less spectacular but more concrete results than the recent anti-British demonstrations. These outbreaks in the meanwhile seem suddenly to have ceased.

Many national commercial and industrial associations made ready to carry on without imports when sanctions go into effect November 18. Members who raised the prices of hoarded goods were disciplined.

Women began building their "house by house" system of boycotting sanctionist countries.

Howard Chandler Christy, Otto Soglow, Herbert Bayard Swope, Russell Patterson, Denys Wortman and a number of other notables were in the audience, which was composed entirely of men, when the show was halted.

The curtain had just been rung down on the first act when Fred Cooper announced from the stage that the police had taken things over.

Thinking it was a joke, the spectators roared with laughter.

The two detectives shuffled out from the wings and faced the audience.

"I'm a police officer," one of them announced. "The show is stopped. It's an indecent performance. We've seized the girls. I advise all you gentlemen to leave quietly."

Another roar of laughter swept the place and it was some time before Mr. Swope, head the the state racing commission and former executive editor of the New York World, could persuade the spectators that the detectives were not part of the show.

How the two officers got inside the place, an upper Fifth avenue theater, was one of the minor mysteries of the affair. All tickets had been distributed privately.

The last of a series of scenes that had made up Act 1 was a sketch by W. T. Benda called "The Conqueror," in which a Mongolian chieftain was portrayed in the business of selecting a slave from a group of beautiful captives.

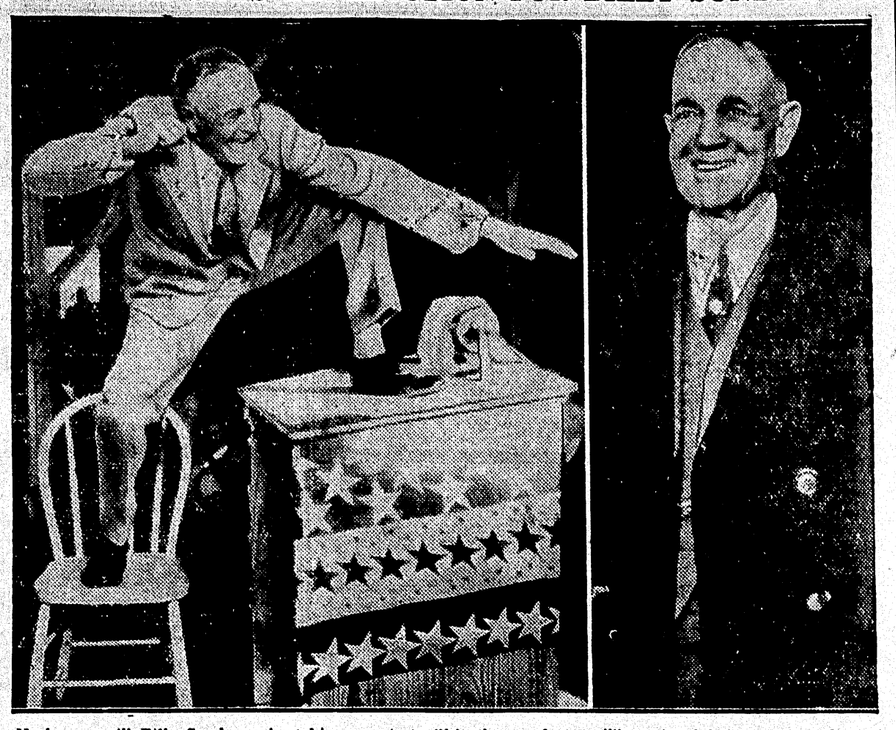

Taken to night court, the five girls who had suddenly become real prisoners, were released in $50 bail each for later hearings.

Other federal agencies were taking care of 174,685, an increase of only 2,656 in the week ending November 8, while the civilians conservation corps showed a 26,697 decline to 555,717.

The WPA, providing employment for the first time in Iowa and Maine, boosted its total in the week by 219,666 jobs to 1,007,208.

Comptroller General J. R. McCarl meanwhile gave WPA another boost by approving an additional $167,010,853 worth of projects. This raised the total of approved projects, available for selection for WPA state administrators to, $3,097,347,250. Release of $4,684,349 in WPA allotments made $1,023,785,632 available for expenditure.

Among states for which projects were approved was Arizona, which so far has no WPA employment. The total actually employed in the work relief program declined during the week in that state, the District of Columbia, Idaho, Massachusetts, and Montana.

In all except Arizona, the lag by other agencies accounted for these declines, and talk was renewed in some quarters of new cancellations to increase WPA's present earmarking of $1,250,000,000.

To date continuance of direct relief has cost more than $300,000,000 above the $880,000,000 first estimated. In addition, many activities of the old relief administration, such as transient aid, help for college students, and emergency education, will simply be continued under the name of WPA projects.

The first public indication that the program would not reach its 3,500,000 job goal by November 1 came from President Roosevelt. Although Hopkins insisted at the time that this schedule would be maintained, he later acknowledged that not more than 3,150,000 would be at work by the end of October. Today's figures showed the program was 1,412,390 jobs short of his reduced objective.

Swiss Revision Debate Cites U. S. Constitution

BERNE, Switzerland, Nov. 9.—(AP)—The constitution of the United States is probably better known in the Swiss Confederation than in any other European country.

For years Switzerland's 60-year-old constitution has been a political issue and the American constitution has been cited by both sides.

Swiss conservatives point to America as an example of constitutional monogamy, while revisionists charge the Swiss document is more cumbersome than the basic law which has governed the United States since 1789.

Modern French Cavemen Live In Cliffs Of Loire

TOURS, France, Nov. 9.—(AP)—More than 1,200 persons make their homes in artificial caverns their ancestors cut out of the limestone cliffs bordering the Loire river.

Living in the heart of the chateau country, they are cavemen in the literal, if not anthropological sense. Many dwellings are equipped with gas, electricity and radios.

It is not poverty, but economic convenience in most cases that keep these modern troglodytes in their caverns. Many work on the premises as wine-distillers.

INCREASE IN BUILDING PERMITS IS REPORTED

WASHINGTON, D. C.—Permits issued throughout the country for residential construction during September, 1935, were greater in number than those issued during any corresponding month since 1931, according to a report by the Bureau of Labor Statistics, Department of Labor.

In spite of a slight decline over the preceding month, total building permits issued in September, 1935, showed an 88 per cent increase over a similar period a year ago.

Residential permits issued in September, 1935, were 167.4 per cent greater in value than those issued in the same month of 1934, while the number of permits showed an increase of 176.7 per cent.

BOOK CASES

A man who does a great deal of his professional work at home, involving the filing of letters, papers, and drawings, recently bought two second-hand wooden commercial filing cases. He removed the moldings at the top and bottom and took off the metal hardware (replacing it with parallel with the wall, on either side wooden knobs). Then placing the files of the double door leading from his carpenter build book cases on the study to the living room, he had the sides. Painted to match the woodwork, the filing cabinets now almost completely disappear in the background.

had been discharged because of political activities, but made a veiled threat when he said, "The state, which is paying for the school system of Louisiana, is entitled to know upon whom and how the money of the state is going to be spent."

The governor stated that if the ticket sponsored by the present administration is elected to office for the next four years, the laws which were passed during the numerous special sessions of the past few year will not only be continued, but "will be more stringently enforced," instead of being modified or abolished. He made no mention of the election laws, nor of the laws giving the state officials in Daton Rouge control of the various parish sheriffs' personnel.

Mr. Allen made a direct plea to home owners of the state when he called their attention to the state homestead exemption law which he claims will be in force next year. He stated that "if you are a supporter of the administration you are entitled to the exemption. If not, you are honor bound to return the exempted tax payments to the state."

MOTOR CARS MAKE ECONOMIC HISTORY

supply firms employ 137 persons, whose dependents number 401. The annual payroll of this group totals $131,520.

Complete figures are not available for the retail gasoline phase of the automotive industry, a number of these being included in the business of the supply and accessory concerns. Twenty-eight filling stations, however, report 112 employes with 337 dependents and a payroll totaling $89,600 a year.

Here, then, is an impressive picture of the contribution that is made by the automotive industry to the economic stability of the two communities:

Employes, 483; dependents, 1,600; annual payroll, $468,524; investment (real estate, inventories, etc.) $1,521.700.

These figures do not tell the complete story. The most interesting part of the recital lies in the substantial increase in business during the past year which has been the experience of virtually every concern engaged in any branch of the automotive business. One of the larger distributors reported an increase of 127 per cent for the ten months of 1935 as compared with the volume during the corresponding months of 1932, while another reported 105 per cent increase covering the same periods.

Business increases over 1934 are noteworthy. No names are used, but the figures are authentic. One concern puts the statistics in the following tabulation, which is fairly representative of the majority of the big dealers:

The increase of business during the year 1935, as compared with the first ten months of 1934, is one of the sure marks of recovery from the recent depression. Every one of the ten principal distributors of automobiles in Monroe and West Monroe shows an increase in volume of sales and revenue. In only one case is the increase as low as 10 per cent and in another 15 per cent. The others range from 30 per cent to 100 per cent increase over last year.

In the automobile supply business the increases are also impressive. These range from 13 per cent to 100 per cent over last year. In only two reports out of 12 was there a showing of less than 13 per cent increase in the total volume of business for the ten-month period.

Payrolls have been expanded in conformity with the added volume of business. Unemployment has been lessened and the purchasing power of a large group of citizens has been substantially increased.

The significance in these figures gains new importance in view of the fact that the new automobile season begins two months earlier than is customary. Hitherto the showing of new cars has been held at the turn of the year. However, this year, in response to an appeal by President Roosevelt, who recognized the importance of the automobile industry in the economic set-up of the nation, manufacturers agreed to bring out their new models early in November, putting vast numbers of workers in jobs at the factories and making it possible to insure early deliveries before the autumn months were well advanced. This policy will have the effect of stimulating the sale of new cars in the various distributing areas, which in turn will have its effect in increasing business volume, adding to payrolls and providing a larger circulation of money.

In the opinion of business men generally, as well as that of the automotive leaders themselves, this is bound to have the most favorable reaction on all lines of activity, for the reason that the automobile affects every phase of modern life, whether it be commercial, industrial, agricultural, educational or otherwise.

NEGRO IS STABBED, THREE OTHERS PLACED IN JAIL

One negro was in the St. Francis sanitarium suffering a knife wound in the temple and three negroes were held in the parish jail as a result of two fights yesterday.

Simmie Williams, Monroe negro, was receiving treatment at the sanitarium for the knife wound. Willie Hobbs, also a Monroe negro, was held in the parish jail for allegedly stabbing Williams after the latter "kidded" him at the Union Oil mill in West Monroe about wearing a short overcoat to work.

Williams' condition was not serious, his physician said.

Jessie Riley, Swartz negro, and a woman who had lived at his home for the past four years, Sheriff's officers said, were held in jail after Riley was said to have struck her a blow on the head with a crutch. Trouble between the pair arose from a division of geese when the woman prepared to leave Riley's home, it was reported.

WASHINGTON, D. C.—Permits issued throughout the country for residential construction during September, 1935, were greater in number than those issued during any corresponding month since 1931, according to a report by the Bureau of Labor Statistics, Department of Labor.

In spite of a slight decline over the preceding month, total building permits issued in September, 1935, showed an 88 per cent increase over a similar period a year ago.

Residential permits issued in September, 1935, were 167.4 per cent greater in value than those issued in the same month of 1934, while the number of permits showed an increase of 176.7 per cent.

BOOK CASES

O. K. ALLEN OPENS SENATE CAMPAIGN IN RUSTON SPEECH

had been discharged because of political activities, but made a veiled threat when he said, "The state, which is paying for the school system of Louisiana, is entitled to know upon whom and how the money of the state is going to be spent."

The governor stated that if the ticket sponsored by the present administration is elected to office for the next four years, the laws which were passed during the numerous special sessions of the past few year will not only be continued, but "will be more stringently enforced," instead of being modified or abolished. He made no mention of the election laws, nor of the laws giving the state officials in Daton Rouge control of the various parish sheriffs' personnel.

Mr. Allen made a direct plea to home owners of the state when he called their attention to the state homestead exemption law which he claims will be in force next year. He stated that "if you are a supporter of the administration you are entitled to the exemption. If not, you are honor bound to return the exempted tax payments to the state."

L. S. U. TROUNCES MISSISSIPPI STATE ELEVEN, 28 TO 13

TIGERS UNLEASH STRONG RUNNING ATTACK TO WIN

Louisiana State Takes Early Lead To Trounce Maroon Eleven

BATON ROUGE, La., Nov. 9.—(AP)—Mixing a powerful running attack with passes, Louisiana State university today ran up four touchdowns in the first half to beat Mississippi State, the conquerors of Army, 28 to 13.

Mississippi State revealed the dangerous air attack which Louisiana had been fearing and it clicked time and again to perfection, accounting for touchdowns in the second and third periods, but the Maroons showed little ground strength to go with it.

If they had they might have gone back to Starkville with the scalp of the bayou Tigers to add to their victory over Army.

Louisiana State started the game with a driving bang, uncorking the running power that supporters had complained was missing in earlier season clashes anl in eight plays rushed the ball from their 35-yard line over the goal. Reed, stocky, back, scored on a 19 yard right end dash.

Early in the second period Crass, subbing for Mickal, sliced 7 yards off tackle to the Mississippi State's 23 and from there Fatheree started a left end sweep and without changing pace passed to Barrett on the goal line for the second L. S. U. touchdown.

Both points being kicked after the markers placed the score at 14 to 0. Louisiana and thousands of Mississippians who made up a crowd of about 25,000 that saw the game fell into deep mourning.

They snapped to life, however, soon after when Armstrong, as fine a passer as ever flipped a ball in Tiger Stadium, shot one from the 25 yard line to Walters who stepped over the goal. Armstrong kicked the point.

Louisiana came back quickly with line cracking plays, and Crass broke through a tackle hole for 47 yards and a touchdown and kicked the point.

Maroon line plays were stopped cold and gaps opened in their forward wall, and they were powerless to check Rohm, (sub for Fatherree) on a 20-yard touchdown skirt around left end. Mickal converted. Armstrong's brilliant passing kept the Louisianians partly in check and defensive work by him, Hardison, Steadman and others prevented any more tallies, while the Maroons hung up a second touchdown when Armstrong passed 40 yards to Ward who stepped two more over the line.

Louisiana State displayed the best form of the season in today's contest. The driving punch that was lacking in early games this season was present with a vengeance as the tackling and blocking of the Baton Rouge boys set Mississippi State back on its heels numerous times.

Mississippi State was within striking distance of the L. S. U. goal four times during the contest, but the Tigers had the upper hand at nearly every turn of the game.

Armstrong of Mississippi State and Abe Mickal of L. S. U. gave the 25,000 fans a fine exhibition of pass tossing.

Mississippi State then started some of its famous aerial plays that outmanouvered the Army last week. But the Tiger backs broke through on a couple and State reverted to line bucks.

At the start of the second quarter "Pee Wee" Armstrong went in for

WILDCATS DEFEAT RAMBLERS FIRST TIME IN 34 YEARS

Northwestern Comes From Behind To Win With 'Iron Man' Backs

By Paul Mickelson
(Associated Press Sports Writer)

SOUTH BEND, Ind., Nov. 9.—Notre Dame's new wonder team of football, perched on the highest peak since the days of its immortal Knute Rockne, fell into the ruins of an almost unbelievable 14 to 7 defeat today.

Northwestern, a team that hasn't been able to win more than one Big Ten game this season, and a university that hasn't boasted of a triumph over the Fighting Irish in 34 long years, accomplished the stunning upset amidst a setting of rain and twilight before 35,000 spectators who hardly realized it was true.

Trailing by seven points, the Wildcats rushed back to tie the score in the second period, added another touchdown in the third, and then stood like a Gibraltar as the Fighting Irish fought back with the same full fury that brought them from nowhere to victory over Ohio State a week ago.

The defeat, scored by Northwestern's "iron man" backfield, Wally Cruice, Steve Toth, Hugh Duvall and Slippery Don Heap, turned the happiest Notre Dame football dream in five years into a night mare. All hopes of a national championship to match the last Rockne model of 1930 and a place in the Rose Bowl went tumbling.

Paul Tangora, a senior guard from Washington, D. C., was the hero of heroes in the Wildcat camp. As the Fighting Irish flayed the center of the line, Paul was sent in to stop them, and he did it.

Then in the final period, he pounced on Wally Fromhart's fumble to set in motion the winning drive from the enemy's 30-yard stripe. Tangora also recovered another fumble on the Notre Dame 33 to give his mates a chance, but they couldn't cash.

Heap skirted his right end behind brilliant blocking to score the winning touchdown standing up. Duvall kicked his second point after touchdown, and the damage was done.

Bill Shakespeare gave the Notre Dame fans their final big thrill as he raced 48 yards a minute later to Northwestern's 10, but the Wildcats' held. The game ended as Don Geyer hauled down Shakespeare's long, desperate pass and raced it back 40 yards to Notre Dame's 30.

With a holding penalty, Note Dame marched 41 yards on 10 plays in the first period to the one-foot mark from where Fromhart sneaked over for the score.

Fromhart kicked the extra point.

KANSAS STATE WINS 6-0 FROM WILDCATS

AMES, Iowa, Nov. 9.—(AP)—The Kansas State Wildcats scored a touchdown in the first three minutes of play which was good for a 6 to 0 victory over Iowa State before 5,000 persons here today.

NORTH CAROLINA HOLDS CONFERENCE LEAD IN SOUTHERN

(By Associated Press)

North Carolina's Tar Heels, their Rose Bowl hopes soaring as Notre Dame slipped from the ranks of the undefeated, wrote a 56 to 0 triumph over V. M. I. into the records yesterday.

While this was going on at Chapel Hill, Duke's Blue Devils who play North Carolina next week with the Southern conference championship at stake, had very little trouble putting down Davidson, 26 to 7.

Clemson, shut out for the first time this season, was overwhelmed by mighty Alabama, 33 to 0, but Maryland at Baltimore put up a great fight before going down, 13 to 7, before Indiana's invaders in an aerial battle.

Washington and Lee's Generals with an impressive exhibition featured by the superlative performance of Joe Arnold rang up a 20 to 0 victory over Virginia.

NEVILLE GOES TO LAFAYETTE

Tigers To Run Into Another Strong Foe Next Friday Night

The Tigers of Neville high school, whose spectacular end runs and off-tackle slashes of the early season have met strong resistance within the last few weeks, are in for another tough week-end at Lafayette, La., next Friday.

The engagement will be the Bengals' first away from home since their Ruston game. They ended the season locally at Brown field Friday night when they bowed before the onslaught of the Greenies of Carr Central of Vicksburg, Miss. After Lafayette they will still have one more game to play before terminating their season's campaign. That contest will be played at Bastrop against their old Thanksgiving day rivals, the Bastrop Rams.

The Tiger defense which went to pieces in the path of the devastating Vicksburg eleven, and the offense which failed repeatedly to get going will get plenty of attention this week. Lafayette will no doubt be able to meet the invading Bengals with an eleven that would match the Greenies in strength, and the Tigers will have to work hard this week if they expect to get through their remaining schedule without any further defeats.

No serious injuries were suffered in the Vicksburg game and the entire squad should be on hand this week to prep for Lafayette.

MOORE SIGNED TO PILOT CRAX AGAIN

ATLANTA, Nov. 9.—(AP)—Eddie Moore, manager of Atlanta's first championship Southern association team since 1925, was signed by the Atlanta Baseball corporation today to pilot the club again next season.

The fiery little Kentuckian who played for many seasons in the major leagues, took over management of the Crackers late in the 1934 season upon the death of Wilbert Robinson and was selected to manage the team for the 1935 campaign.

Under Moore's leadership the Crackers finished far out in front during the regular season, easily won the Shaughnessy playoff series for the pennant and attracted record-breaking crowds. They lost to Oklahoma City, however, in the Dixie series.

XAVIER WINS FROM PRAYING COLONELS

CINCINNATI, Nov. 9.—(AP)—Xavier university's Musketeers crushed Centre college of Danville, Ky., 27 to 0 today, John Koprowski leading the way with two touchdowns to break a jinx Centre has exercised in recent years.

MINNESOTA BEATS IOWA WITH RALLY IN FINAL QUARTER

Gophers Turn On The Power To Remain Undefeated In Big Ten

IOWA CITY, Iowa, Nov. 9.—(AP)—Minnesota's mighty football force, stalled for 30 minutes by a furious Iowa offensive, let loose a crushing counter-charge in the second half today to whip the Hawkeyes 13 to 6 in their battle for the western conference leadership.

Fifty thousand homecoming fans saw the Gopher horde rise up for a two touchdown rally in the last half after Iowa surprised the Norsemen with a first quarter touchdown.

The Gophers assumed control of the contest immediately after the start of the third period.

Georgie Roscoe, Sheldon Beise and Tuffy Thompson, the burly Gopher backs, were the big features as Minnesota piled up 209 yards from scrimmage, most of it in the last half, while Iowa collected 103 yards by rushing.

Oze Simmons, the Iowa negro star, could not break through the heavy Minnesota line for any of his celebrated touchdown sprints today, but the Texas lad was a constant threat.

Oze started the Iowa touchdown drive when he returned a punt from his 10-yard line to his own 35. Minnesota received its only penalty for roughing the Iowa back, and was set back to mid-field when Thompson piled on Simmons after he was downed.

Hild crashed over left guard for the Iowa touchdown but Simmons missed the try for the extra point.

Minnesota started to march in the second half. Roscoe slipped a long toss to Babe Levoir who was downed on the nine yard mark.

The Gophers opened their winning drive a few minutes after the start of the last period. They got possession of the ball when Crayne kicked out of bounds on the Minnesota 23 yard line and let loose a sustained march down field.

Beise and Thompson drove through the line to the six yard mark and then the latter went wide around the Iowa left end for the touchdown. Levoir's kick for the extra point split the posts, and Minnesota led 13 to 6.

The lineups and summary:

Minnesota	Pos.	Iowa
Reed	LE	Lannon
Smith	LT	Walker
Oech	LG	Liggett
Rennebohn	C	Osmalosaki
Wilkinson	RG	Kelley
Widseth	RT	Deheer
King	RE	Harris
Levoir	QB	Hild
Thompson	LH	Akin
Roscoe	RH	Crayne
Beise	FB	Bowlin

Score by periods:

Minnesota	0	0	6	7	—13
Iowa	6	0	0	0	— 6

Iowa scoring: touchdown, Hild.

KENTUCKY DEFEATS FLORIDA, 15 TO 6

LEXINGTON, Ky., Nov. 9.—(AP)—While 8,000 Homecoming day fans shouted themselves hoarse, Bob Davis, flashy University of Kentucky halfback, executed one of his spectacular long runs here today to lead the wildcats to a well-earned 15 to 6 grid victory over the University of Florida Alligators.

Davis' 59-yard touchdown sprint, while not the margin of the Kentuckians' victory, their first in their last three starts, came at the psychological moment and stifled a fourth period Florida rally that already had put the 'Gators within striking distance of victory.

The lanky backfield ace stole the show from his running mate, Bert Johnson, who had hard going against the Floridians and was taken out after his fumble paved the way for the Alligators' only score.

MR. TURNER IS BIG HERO OF TECH TODAY

RUSTON, La., Nov. 9.—(Special)—Archie Turner is spending the week-end at his home in Ferriday.

Local sports fans who want his autograph will have to wait until Monday.

Turner, a Louisiana Tech halfback, swathed himself in gridiron glory here Friday night, by dashing off two spectacular runs in the game with Mississippi college, which Tech won, 21-7. One of the runs measured 62 yards and the other 68 yards. Both sprints gave the Techmen touchdowns. In both of the hitches, totaling 130 yards, Turner took the ball from center and sped around his left end.

PRINCETON ROUTS HARVARD, 35 TO 0

Tigers Use Nearly Three Complete Teams To Whip Crimsons

PRINCETON, N. J., Nov. 9.—(AP)—Princeton's football juggernaut, using nearly three complete teams outclassed Harvard today and handed the Crimson an artistic shellacking, 35 to 0, before 45,000 spectators.

The Crimson penetrated Princeton territory only three times and made its deepest advance, to the Tiger 33-yard mark, in the last few moments of the game.

Princeton put over five touchdowns by an assortment of methods. Paul Pauk, who shored the ball-carrying honors with Jack White, plunged across the Crimson goal line twice as the climax of dazzling Tiger marches. Big Fred Ritter, a 60-minute man, who was the standout in Princeton's powerful line, intercepted a pass and ran 57 yards for a touchdown. Gil Lea blocked a Harvard punt and scooped up the ball to tally another. Chick Kaufman plunged for the final touchdown after Charley Toll, sophomore tackle, recovered a fumbled punt near the Harvard goal line.

Ken Sandbach, who did a first-class job directing the Tiger attack, made good all five opportunities to boot placements for the extra point.

Lineups:

Harvard	Pos.	Princeton
Knapp	LE	MacMillan
Spring	LT	Stoess
Gaffney	LG	Weller
Jones	C	Cullinan
Kessler	RG	Montgomery
Maser	RT	Ritter
Kelley	RE	Roper
Bilodeau	QB	Sandbach
Moseley	LH	White
Ecker	RH	Pauk
Hedblom	FB	Constable

OHIO STATE WHIPS CHICAGO, 20 TO 13

CHICAGO, Nov. 9.—(AP)—In a blood and thunder thriller, an infuriated Ohio State team came from behind today and fought with all its power to keep its Western conference record unblemished.

Trailing the down-trodden Chicago Maroons, 13 to 0 midway in the third period of their game, the Buckeyes cut loose with a smashing, passing drive that resulted in three touchdowns, and a 20 to 13 triumph. The glory of the game belonged to Jay Berwanger, captain of the Maroons and sometimes called the one-man team.

The great Chicago halfback raced 85 yards down the field through the whole Buckeye team, dodging and twisting in the snakiest gallop seen on Stagg Field since the famed Red Grange sped over the gridiron ten years ago.

That hair raising run gave Chicago its second touchdown and a 13 to 0 lead over the Ohioans in the third. But Berwanger wasn't quite enough to combat the powerful last-period attack. Heekin, Wendt and Williams scored touchdowns while Busich and Belty placekicked the extra points.

INDIANS PREPARE FOR TILT WITH SOUTHEASTERN

Northeast Center Hopes To Keep Perfect Record Friday Night

Negotiations for a special train to convey students of Northeast Center of L. S. U. to the football game this week-end between Center's Indians and the Southeastern Louisiana Junior college eleven at Hammond are under way. Dean C. C. Colvert of Center has announced. It will be definitely known by Tuesday whether or not the special can be chartered, it was said.

Adding more bearing to the impending clash is the fact that neither the Indians nor Southeastern has suffered a defeat this season. The Redmen have been winning their battles in close, hard fought fashion while the south Louisianians have taken in four victories rather easily.

Coach "Red" Swanson, well known in north Louisiana for his former high school connections at Oak Grove, is head coach at Southeastern and has had little trouble building fighting aggregations during the few years he has been at Hammond.

Coach Swanson has a heavy team, one that will outweigh the locals both in the line and backfield, but Coach Malone's warriors have been turning in some impressive performances this year and can be expected to put up an exceptionally hard fight, win or lose.

The tenacity and bulldog determination of the locals in the few games they have played at home has impressed north Louisiana fans with the fact that Northeast Center has a hard working, football minded squad that should be able to handle any situation that may arise in the affair with Coach Swanson's boys.

Last week the locals experienced an off date, created when the game scheduled with Pearl River Junior college, of Mississippi, was cancelled at Pearl River's request. The rest gave the Indians plenty of time to prep for Southeastern and with added zest this week they should be in tip-top shape for the battle by Friday.

The Southeastern engagement will close Center's schedule of road games and they will return home to end their campaign in two games at Brown stadium. They tangle with Arkansas college of Batesville here November 22 and take on their old rivals, Lon Morris of Jacksonville, Texas, here November 26 in their last game of the year.

Success in scheduling the special train to Hammond will depend entirely on the students of Northeast Center and local fans who intend to go to the game. Special round trip rates of $4 per person are available and tickets will have to be purchased by a minimum of 200 persons by Tuesday before the train can be secured, it was announced yesterday at the Illinois Central ticket office. The failure to sell 200 tickets before Wednesday would mean the failure of the special and every effort is being made by college officials and students to make up the train.

According to present plans and in anticipation of the train being secured, the special will leave Monroe at 8 o'clock Friday morning. Arriving in Baton Rouge, the delegation would lunch and spend about four hours or so inspecting the state capital, looking over the city and paying a visit to their mother institution, the Louisiana State university.

OUACHITA MEETS RAYVILLE FRIDAY

Lions Have Only Two More Games On Schedule, Both At Home

The Ouachita parish high school Lions, their hopes of a championship team shattered under a 31 to 0 defeat at the hands of Byrd high school's Yellow Jackets, will come home this week-end to play their remaining games on home soil. They will meet the Rayville high school Hornets at Brown field Friday night, idle through an open date the next week, and then complete their season's campaign against the Bolton Bears of Alexandria here on Thanksgiving day.

Coach "Lefty" Haynes will probably lighten up on his usual heavy workout sessions this week-end so that the Lions can more readily recover from any ailments suffered in the encounter with the Jackets. The defeat by Byrd was Ouachita's first in seven games.

The Lions should get a breathing spell when they meet Rayville as the Hornets don't have the team they have been able to boast in previous years. But after Rayville and another week's rest they will be faced with another hard fight when Bolton's Bears come to town.

JUNIOR TEAMS TIE

FERRIDAY, Nov. 9.—(Special)—The Junior Blue Boys of Natchez high school and the second team of Ferriday battled to a 6 to 6 deadlock on Fisher field before an assembly of local and visiting football fans.

Joe Louis Prepares Winter Schedule To Gain Experience For Title Bout

By John J. Romano

Joe Louis is credited with striking Max Baer 290 times in scoring his four-round knockout. If the expert accountant who went to the trouble of tallying the blows and used them as a basis to determine the punching power of the negro's fists is able to convince the fans that Louis averaged something like 72 blows per round or 24 each minute and was unable to put Max to sleep, it is just as reasonable to presume that champion James J. Braddock will retain his crown next September.

One supposition is just as logical as the other one. If results of fights were determined by the amount of punches landed, Braddock would be a poor second.

The champion is the most deliberate hitter in the game. He paws out lazily, though heavily, with a jab and does not shoot his right until he has something to hit. Louis is a smarter, faster hitter. This does not mean he wastes his blows. And he does not strike as often as 24 times a minute, for in so doing he would defeat his own purpose in weakening a rival for a knockout punch. Fast, busy hitters were never known as finishers. This style is more adapted to one who depends on boxing science to win a contest.

Still Need For Experience

Louis plans three fights during the winter months and another in the summer before he will be ready for Braddock. The fighter and his managers do not need the money—there is more than the money resulting from these fights involved. Other managers would be content to stable their fighter in idleness and await the big fight with the champion. Not so with Louis. Experience is what Joe Louis needs despite his fine work against Carnera, Levinsky and Baer.

It is generally agreed that that trio went into the ring, half-scared. This was apparent in the half-hearted attempt they made to fight back. In spite of this it must be admitted that had Louis failed to strike with punishing force, fear would have turned into confidence and a lively battle resulted. The fact that Joe's first punch was delivered with the spiteful snap of a whip and exploded with the force of a charge of nitro-glycerine simply magnified the dread clouding the wits and strength of his rivals.

Braddock Has No Fear

There must come a time when Louis is opposed by a man who knows no fear. That man is James J. Braddock.

No matter how little one thinks about Jim's boxing ability and slowness of foot and mind, no competent critic will dare accuse the champion of fearing any man in a 20-foot ring. Fear is as foreign to Braddock's mind as a distaste for candy is to a child.

The Jersey Irishman has known his ups and downs. The fact that he was able to win his way to the top when he was considered the poorest challenger for the heavyweight crown since the advent of the Marquis of Queensbury rules is all the more reason why Joe Louis should gain more experience even though he risks breaking his hands on the hard head and shielding elbows of second raters.

Paolino A Good Test

The Detroit negro's first opponent will be that tried and never-found wanting veteran, Paolino Uzcudun. As a fighter Paolino has seen his best day. There has been considerable doubt about the Basque's fighting ability even though he managed to outscore some highly regarded heavyweights of his day. The fact that no one has felled the gold-toothed Basque, or caused him more annoyance than a bleeding mouth, speaks well for his power to absorb punishment without going down.

Max Schmeling is considered the best puncher in the world to test the courage and ability of Louis to take it. If such is true, then Paolino is the one to prove up on Joe's hitting power.

Six years ago when Schmeling was at his best he was unable to do much with the Basque in 15 rounds. Again, several months ago, Paolino, according to the pictures reaching this country, was hog fat, but went the full route of 12 rounds without a semblance of distress, against the same Schmeling.

Now, if Louis penetrates the elbow-defense of the Basque and in knocking him down keeps him there for the full count, it can be taken to mean that Louis is the better puncher of the pair and there will be no further use of bringing Schmeling over to test Louis further.

Joe Risking 'Rep'

Louis is taking great risks in meeting second raters during the winter. Not only because of the danger of breaking his hands or cutting his eyes, but because of his "rep." Should he fail to stop his opponents in jig time, the scoring method employed by the expert accountant would tend to show that Louis lacks a finishing blow.

According to this lad, Joe is a cream puff hitter who must wear his opponent down. A fighter with titular aspirations must be a harder hitter than that to achieve his aim. Jack Dempsey, considered the hardest and fastest hitter of his day, did not approach that figure. His greatest winning fights, against Fred Fulton, Jess Willard and Luis Firpo, were accomplished with considerably less blows. In losing to Gene Tunney, both great battles, Dempsey did not have to use that many punches to stave off inevitable defeat. One punch was all that was needed in the seventh round of the Chicago battle to bring Gene down and almost out.

And so it is with Louis. Thus far, he has shown that more than one good blow is needed to vanquish a worthy antagonist. Several may be needed, but not 24 to the minute.

L. S. U. TROUNCES MISSISSIPPI STATE ELEVEN, 28 TO 13

TIGERS UNLEASH STRONG RUNNING ATTACK TO WIN

BATON ROUGE, La., Nov. 9.—(AP)—Mixing a powerful running attack with passes, Louisiana State university today ran up four touchdowns in the first half to beat Mississippi State, the conquerors of Army, 28 to 13.

Mississippi State revealed the dangerous air attack which Louisiana had been fearing and it clicked time and again to perfection, accounting for touchdowns in the second and third periods, but the Maroons showed little ground strength to go with it.

If they had they might have gone back to Starkville with the scalp of the bayou Tigers to add to their victory over Army.

Louisiana State started the game with a driving bang, uncorking the running power that supporters had complained was missing in earlier season clashes anl in eight plays rushed the ball from their 35-yard line over the goal. Reed, stocky, back, scored on a 19 yard right end dash.

Early in the second period Crass, subbing for Mickal, sliced 7 yards off tackle to the Mississippi State's 23 and from there Fatheree started a left end sweep and without changing pace passed to Barrett on the goal line for the second L. S. U. touchdown.

Both points being kicked after the markers placed the score at 14 to 0, Louisiana and thousands of Mississippians who made up a crowd of about 25,000 that saw the game fell into deep mourning.

They snapped to life, however, soon after when Armstrong, as fine a passer as ever flipped a ball in Tiger Stadium, shot one from the 25 yard line to Walters who stepped over the goal. Armstrong kicked the point.

Louisiana came back quickly with line cracking plays, and Crass broke through a tackle hole for 47 yards and a touchdown and kicked the point.

Maroon line plays were stopped cold and gaps opened in their forward wall, and they were powerless to check Rohm, (sub for Fatherree) on a 20-yard touchdown skirt around left end. Mickal converted. Armstrong's brilliant passing kept the Louisianians partly in check and defensive work by him, Hardison, Steadman and others prevented any more tallies, while the Maroons hung up a second touchdown when Armstrong passed 40 yards to Ward who stepped two more over the line.

Louisiana State displayed the best form of the season in today's contest. The driving punch that was lacking in early games this season was present with a vengeance as the tackling and blocking of the Baton Rouge boys set Mississippi State back on its heels numerous times.

Mississippi State was within striking distance of the L. S. U. goal four times during the contest, but the Tigers had the upper hand at nearly every turn of the game.

Armstrong of Mississippi State and Abe Mickal of L. S. U. gave the 25,000 fans a fine exhibition of pass tossing.

Mississippi State then started some of its famous aerial plays that outmaneuvered the Army last week. But the Tiger backs broke through on a couple and State reverted to line bucks.

At the start of the second quarter "Pee Wee" Armstrong went in for

WILDCATS DEFEAT RAMBLERS FIRST TIME IN 34 YEARS

Northwestern Comes From Behind To Win With 'Iron Man' Backs

By Paul Mickelson
(Associated Press Sports Writer)

SOUTH BEND, Ind., Nov. 9.—Notre Dame's new wonder team of football, perched on the highest peak since the days of its immortal Knute Rockne, fell into the ruins of an almost unbelievable 14 to 7 defeat today.

Northwestern, a team that hasn't been able to win more than one Big Ten game this season, and a university that hasn't boasted of a triumph over the Fighting Irish in 34 long years, accomplished the stunning upset amidst a setting of rain and twilight before 35,000 spectators who hardly realized it was true.

Trailing by seven points, the Wildcats rushed back to tie the score in the second period, added another touchdown in the third, and then stood like a Gibraltar as the Fighting Irish fought back with the same full fury that brought them from nowhere to victory over Ohio State a week ago.

The defeat, scored by Northwestern's "iron man" backfield, Wally Cruice, Steve Toth, Hugh Duvall and Slippery Don Heap, turned the happiest Notre Dame football dream in five years into a night mare. All hopes of a national championship to match the last Rockne model of 1930 and a place in the Rose Bowl went tumbling.

Paul Tangora, a senior guard from Washington, D. C., was the hero of heroes in the Wildcat camp. As the Fighting Irish flayed the center of the line, Paul was sent in to stop them, and he did it.

Then in the final period, he pounced on Wally Fromhart's fumble to set in motion the winning drive from the enemy's 30-yard stripe. Tangora also recovered another fumble on the Notre Dame 33 to give his mates a chance, but they couldn't cash.

Heap skirted his right end behind brilliant blocking to score the winning touchdown standing up. Duvall kicked his second point after touchdown, and the damage was done.

Bill Shakespeare gave the Notre Dame fans their final big thrill as he raced 48 yards a minute later to Northwestern's 10, but the Wildcats held. The game ended as Don Geyer hauled down Shakespeare's long, desperate pass and raced it back 40 yards to Notre Dame's 30.

With a holding penalty, Note Dame marched 41 yards on 10 plays in the first period to the one-foot mark from where Fromhart sneaked over for the score.

Fromhart kicked the extra point.

KANSAS STATE WINS 6-0 FROM WILDCATS

AMES, Iowa, Nov. 9.—(AP)—The Kansas State Wildcats scored a touchdown in the first three minutes of play which was good for a 6 to 0 victory over Iowa State before 5,000 persons here today.

NORTH CAROLINA HOLDS CONFERENCE LEAD IN SOUTHERN

(By Associated Press)

North Carolina's Tar Heels, their Rose Bowl hopes soaring as Notre Dame slipped from the ranks of the undefeated, wrote a 56 to 0 triumph over V. M. I. into the records yesterday.

While this was going on at Chapel Hill, Duke's Blue Devils who play North Carolina next week with the Southern conference championship at stake, had very little trouble putting down Davidson, 26 to 7.

Clemson, shut out for the first time this season, was overwhelmed by mighty Alabama, 33 to 0, but Maryland at Baltimore put up a great fight before going down, 13 to 7, before Indiana's invaders in an aerial battle.

Washington and Lee's Generals with an impressive exhibition featured by the superlative performance of Joe Arnold rang up a 20 to 0 victory over Virginia.

NEVILLE GOES TO LAFAYETTE

Tigers To Run Into Another Strong Foe Next Friday Night

The Tigers of Neville high school, whose spectacular end runs and off-tackle slashes of the early season have met strong resistance within the last few weeks, are in for another tough week-end at Lafayette, La., next Friday.

The engagement will be the Bengals' first away from home since their Ruston game. They ended the season locally at Brown field Friday night when they bowed before the onslaught of the Greenies of Carr Central of Vicksburg, Miss. After Lafayette they will still have one more game to play before terminating their season's campaign. That contest will be played at Bastrop against their old Thanksgiving day rivals, the Bastrop Rams.

The Tiger defense which went to pieces in the path of the devastating Vicksburg eleven, and the offense which failed repeatedly to get going will get plenty of attention this week. Lafayette will no doubt be able to meet the invading Bengals with an eleven that would match the Greenies in strength, and the Tigers will have to work hard this week if they expect to get through their remaining schedule without any further defeats.

No serious injuries were suffered in the Vicksburg game and the entire squad should be on hand this week to prep for Lafayette.

MOORE SIGNED TO PILOT CRAX AGAIN

ATLANTA, Nov. 9.—(AP)—Eddie Moore, manager of Atlanta's first championship Southern association team since 1925, was signed by the Atlanta Baseball corporation today to pilot the club again next season.

The fiery little Kentuckian who played for many seasons in the major leagues, took over management of the Crackers late in the 1934 season upon the death of Wilbert Robinson and was selected to manage the team for the 1935 campaign.

Under Moore's leadership the Crackers finished far out in front during the regular season, easily won the Shaughnessy playoff series for the pennant and attracted record-breaking crowds. They lost to Oklahoma City, however, in the Dixie series.

XAVIER WINS FROM PRAYING COLONELS

CINCINNATI, Nov. 9.—(AP)—Xavier university's Musketeers crushed Centre college of Danville, Ky., 27 to 0 today, John Koprowski leading the way with two touchdowns to break a jinx Centre has exercised in recent years.

MINNESOTA BEATS IOWA WITH RALLY IN FINAL QUARTER

Gophers Turn On The Power To Remain Undefeated In Big Ten

IOWA CITY, Iowa, Nov. 9.—(AP)—Minnesota's mighty football force, stalled for 30 minutes by a furious Iowa offensive, let loose a crushing counter-charge in the second half today to whip the Hawkeyes 13 to 6 in their battle for the western conference leadership.

Fifty thousand homecoming fans saw the Gopher horde rise up for a two touchdown rally in the last half after Iowa surprised the Norsemen with a first quarter touchdown.

The Gophers assumed control of the contest immediately after the start of the third period.

Georgie Roscoe, Sheldon Beise and Tuffy Thompson, the burly Gopher backs, were the big features as Minnesota piled up 209 yards from scrimmage, most of it in the last half, while Iowa collected 103 yards by rushing.

Oze Simmons, the Iowa negro star, could not break through the heavy Minnesota line for any of his celebrated touchdown sprints today, but the Texas lad was a constant threat.

Oze started the Iowa touchdown drive when he returned a punt from his 10-yard line to his own 35. Minnesota received its only penalty for roughing the Iowa back, and was set back to mid-field when Thompson piled on Simmons after he was downed.

Hild crashed over left guard for the Iowa touchdown but Simmons missed the try for the extra point.

Minnesota started to march in the second half. Roscoe slipped a long toss to Babe Levoir who was downed on the nine yard mark.

The Gophers opened their winning drive a few minutes after the start of the last period. They got possession of the ball when Crayne kicked out of bounds on the Minnesota 23 yard line and let loose a sustained march down field.

Beise and Thompson drove through the line to the six yard mark and then the latter went wide around the Iowa left end for the touchdown. Levoir's kick for the extra point split the posts, and Minnesota led 13 to 6.

The lineups and summary:

Minnesota	Pos.	Iowa
Reed	LE	Lannon
Smith	LT	Walker
Oech	LG	Liggett
Rennebohn	C	Osmalosaki
Wilkinson	RG	Kelley
Widseth	RT	Deheer
King	RE	Harris
Levoir	QB	Hild
Thompson	LH	Akin
Roscoe	RH	Crayne
Beise	FB	Bowlin

Score by periods:

Minnesota	0	0	6	7	—13
Iowa	6	0	0	0	— 6

Minnesota scoring: touchdowns, Beise, Thompson; point from try after touchdown, Levoir (placekick).

Iowa scoring: touchdown, Hild.

KENTUCKY DEFEATS FLORIDA, 15 TO 6

LEXINGTON, Ky., Nov. 9.—(AP)—While 8,000 Homecoming day fans shouted themselves hoarse, Bob Davis, flashy University of Kentucky halfback, executed one of his spectacular long runs here today to lead the wildcats to a well-earned 15 to 6 grid victory over the University of Florida Alligators.

Davis' 59-yard touchdown sprint, while not the margin of the Kentuckians' victory, their first in their last three starts, came at the psychological moment and stifled a fourth period Florida rally that already had put the 'Gators within striking distance of victory.

The lanky backfield ace stole the show from his running mate, Bert Johnson, who had hard going against the Floridians and was taken out after his fumble paved the way for the Alligators' only score.

MR. TURNER IS BIG HERO OF TECH TODAY

RUSTON, La., Nov. 9.—(Special)—Archie Turner is spending the week-end at his home in Ferriday.

Local sports fans who want his autograph will have to wait until Monday.

Turner, a Louisiana Tech halfback, swathed himself in gridiron glory here Friday night, by dashing off two spectacular runs in the game with Mississippi college, which Tech won, 21-7. One of the runs measured 62 yards and the other 68 yards. Both sprints gave the Techmen touchdowns. In both of the hitches, totaling 130 yards, Turner took the ball from center and sped around his left end.

PRINCETON ROUTS HARVARD, 35 TO 0

Tigers Use Nearly Three Complete Teams To Whip Crimsons

PRINCETON, N. J., Nov. 9.—(AP)—Princeton's football juggernaut, using nearly three complete teams outclassed Harvard today and handed the Crimson an artistic shellacking, 35 to 0, before 45,000 spectators.

The Crimson penetrated Princeton territory only three times and made its deepest advance, to the Tiger 33-yard mark, in the last few moments of the game.

Princeton put over five touchdowns by an assortment of methods. Paul Pauk, who shored the ball-carrying honors with Jack White, plunged across the Crimson goal line twice as the climax of dazzling Tiger marches. Big Fred Ritter, a 60-minute man, who was the standout in Princeton's powerful line, intercepted a pass and ran 57 yards for a touchdown. Gil Lea blocked a Harvard punt and scooped up the ball to tally another. Chick Kaufman plunged for the final touchdown after Charley Toll, sophomore tackle, recovered a fumbled punt near the Harvard goal line.

Ken Sandbach, who did a first-class job directing the Tiger attack, made good all five opportunities to boot placements for the extra point.

Lineups:

Harvard	Pos.	Princeton
Knapp	LE	MacMillan
Spring	LT	Stoess
Gaffney	LG	Weller
Jones	C	Cullinan
Kessler	RG	Montgomery
Maser	RT	Ritter
Kelley	RE	Roper
Bilodeau	QB	Sandbach
Moseley	LH	White
Ecker	RH	Pauk
Hedblom	FB	Constable

OHIO STATE WHIPS CHICAGO, 20 TO 13

CHICAGO, Nov. 9.—(AP)—In a blood and thunder thriller, an infuriated Ohio State team came from behind today and fought with all its power to keep its Western conference record unblemished.

Trailing the down-trodden Chicago Maroons, 13 to 0 midway in the third period of their game, the Buckeyes cut loose with a smashing, passing drive that resulted in three touchdowns, and a 20 to 13 triumph. The glory of the game belonged to Jay Berwanger, captain of the Maroons and sometimes called the one-man team.

The great Chicago halfback raced 85 yards down the field through the whole Buckeye team, dodging and twisting in the snakiest gallop seen on Stagg Field since the famed Red Grange sped over the gridiron ten years ago.

That hair raising run gave Chicago its second touchdown and a 13 to 0 lead over the Ohioans in the third. But Berwanger wasn't quite enough to combat the powerful last-period attack. Heekin, Wendt and Williams scored touchdowns while Busich and Belty placekicked the extra points.

INDIANS PREPARE FOR TILT WITH SOUTHEASTERN

Negotiations for a special train to convey students of Northeast Center of L. S. U. to the football game this week-end between Center's Indians and the Southeastern Louisiana Junior college eleven at Hammond are under way. Dean C. C. Colvert of Center has announced. It will be definitely known by Tuesday whether or not the special can be chartered, it was said.

Adding more bearing to the impending clash is the fact that neither the Indians nor Southeastern has suffered a defeat this season. The Redmen have been winning their battles in close, hard fought fashion while the south Louisianians have taken in four victories rather easily.

Coach "Red" Swanson, well known in north Louisiana for his former high school connections at Oak Grove, is head coach at Southeastern and has had little trouble building fighting aggregations during the few years he has been at Hammond.

Coach Swanson has a heavy team, one that will outweigh the locals both in the line and backfield, but Coach Malone's warriors have been turning in some impressive performances this year and can be expected to put up an exceptionally hard fight, win or lose.

The tenacity and bulldog determination of the locals in the few games they have played at home has impressed north Louisiana fans with the fact that Northeast Center has a hard working, football minded squad that should be able to handle any situation that may arise in the affair with Coach Swanson's boys.

Last week the locals experienced an off date, created when the game scheduled with Pearl River Junior college, of Mississippi, was cancelled at Pearl River's request. The rest gave the Indians plenty of time to prep for Southeastern and with added zest this week they should be in tip-top shape for the battle by Friday.

The Southeastern engagement will close Center's schedule of road games and they will return home to end their campaign in two games at Brown stadium. They tangle with Arkansas college of Batesville here November 22 and take on their old rivals, Lon Morris of Jacksonville, Texas, here November 26 in their last game of the year.

Success in scheduling the special train to Hammond will depend entirely on the students of Northeast Center and local fans who intend to go to the game. Special round trip rates of $4 per person are available and tickets will have to be purchased by a minimum of 200 persons by Tuesday before the train can be secured, it was announced yesterday at the Illinois Central ticket office. The failure to sell 200 tickets before Wednesday would mean the failure of the special and every effort is being made by college officials and students to make up the train.

According to present plans and in anticipation of the train being secured, the special will leave Monroe at 8 o'clock Friday morning. Arriving in Baton Rouge, the delegation would lunch and spend about four hours or so inspecting the state capital, looking over the city and paying a visit to their mother institution, the Louisiana State university.

OUACHITA MEETS RAYVILLE FRIDAY

Lions Have Only Two More Games On Schedule, Both At Home

The Ouachita parish high school Lions, their hopes of a championship team shattered under a 31 to 0 defeat at the hands of Byrd high school's Yellow Jackets, will come home this week-end to play their remaining games on home soil. They will meet the Rayville high school Hornets at Brown field Friday night, idle through an open date the next week, and then complete their season's campaign against the Bolton Bears of Alexandria here on Thanksgiving day.

Coach "Lefty" Haynes will probably lighten up on his usual heavy workout sessions this week-end so that the Lions can more readily recover from any ailments suffered in the encounter with the Jackets. The defeat by Byrd was Ouachita's first in seven games.

The Lions should get a breathing spell when they meet Rayville as the Hornets don't have the team they have been able to boast in previous years. But after Rayville and another week's rest they will be faced with another hard fight when Bolton's Bears come to town.

FERRIDAY, Nov. 9.—(Special)—The Junior Blue Boys of Natchez high school and the second team of Ferriday battled to a 6 to 6 deadlock on Fisher field before an assembly of local and visiting football fans.

Joe Louis Prepares Winter Schedule To Gain Experience For Title Bout

By John J. Romano

Joe Louis is credited with striking Max Baer 290 times in scoring his four-round knockout. If the expert accountant who went to the trouble of tallying the blows and used them as a basis to determine the punching power of the negro's fists is able to convince the fans that Louis averaged something like 72 blows per round or 24 each minute and was unable to put Max to sleep, it is just as reasonable to presume that champion James J. Braddock will retain his crown next September.

One supposition is just as logical as the other one. If results of fights were determined by the amount of punches landed, Braddock would be a poor second.

The champion is the most deliberate hitter in the game. He paws out lazily, though heavily, with a jab and does not shoot his right until he has something to hit. Louis is a smarter, faster hitter. This does not mean he wastes his blows. And he does not strike as often as 24 times a minute, for in so doing he would defeat his own purpose in weakening a rival for a knockout punch. Fast, busy hitters were never known as finishers. This style is more adapted to one who depends on boxing science to win a contest.

Still Need For Experience

Louis plans three fights during the winter months and another in the summer before he will be ready for Braddock. The fighter and his managers do not need the money—there is more than the money resulting from these fights involved. Other managers would be content to stable their fighter in idleness and await the big fight with the champion. Not so with Louis. Experience is what Joe Louis needs despite his fine work against Carnera, Levinsky and Baer.

It is generally agreed that that trio went into the ring, half-scared. This was apparent in the half-hearted attempt they made to fight back. In spite of this it must be admitted that had Louis failed to strike with punishing force, fear would have turned into confidence and a lively battle resulted. The fact that Joe's first punch was delivered with the spiteful snap of a whip and exploded with the force of a charge of nitro-glycerine simply magnified the dread clouding the wits and strength of his rivals.

Braddock Has No Fear

There must come a time when Louis is opposed by a man who knows no fear. That man is James J. Braddock.

No matter how little one thinks about Jim's boxing ability and slowness of foot and mind, no competent critic will dare accuse the champion of fearing any man in a 20-foot ring. Fear is as foreign to Braddock's mind as a distaste for candy is to a child.

The Jersey Irishman has known his ups and downs. The fact that he was able to win his way to the top when he was considered the poorest challenger for the heavyweight crown since the advent of the Marquis of Queensbury rules is all the more reason why Joe Louis should gain more experience even though he risks breaking his hands on the hard head and shielding elbows of second raters.

Paolino A Good Test

The Detroit negro's first opponent will be that tried and never-found wanting veteran, Paolino Uzcudun. As a fighter Paolino has seen his best day. There has been considerable doubt about the Basque's fighting ability even though he managed to outscore some highly regarded heavyweights of his day. The fact that no one has felled the gold-toothed Basque, or caused him more annoyance than a bleeding mouth, speaks well for his power to absorb punishment without going down.

Max Schmeling is considered the best puncher in the world to test the courage and ability of Louis to take it. If such is true, then Paolino is the one to prove up on Joe's hitting power.

Six years ago when Schmeling was at his best he was unable to do much with the Basque in 15 rounds. Again, several months ago, Paolino, according to the pictures reaching this country, was hog fat, but went the full route of 12 rounds without a semblance of distress, against the same Schmeling.

Now, if Louis penetrates the elbow-defense of the Basque and in knocking him down keeps him there for the full count, it can be taken to mean that Louis is the better puncher of the pair and there will be no further use of bringing Schmeling over to test Louis further.

Joe Risking 'Rep'

Louis is taking great risks in meeting second raters during the winter. Not only because of the danger of breaking his hands or cutting his eyes, but because of his "rep." Should he fail to stop his opponents in jig time, the scoring method employed by the expert accountant would tend to show that Louis lacks a finishing blow.

According to this lad, Joe is a cream puff hitter who must wear his opponent down. A fighter with titular aspirations must be a harder hitter than that to achieve his aim. Jack Dempsey, considered the hardest and fastest hitter of his day, did not approach that figure. His greatest winning fights, against Fred Fulton, Jess Willard and Luis Firpo, were accomplished with considerably less blows. In losing to Gene Tunney, both great battles, Dempsey did not have to use that many punches to stave off inevitable defeat. One punch was all that was needed in the seventh round of the Chicago battle to bring Gene down and almost out.

And so it is with Louis. Thus far, he has shown that more than one good blow is needed to vanquish a worthy antagonist. Several may be needed, but not 24 to the minute.

GEORGIA OVERWHELMS TULANE ELEVEN, 26 TO 13

BULLDOGS RALLY IN 4TH QUARTER TO WIN EASILY

Georgians Work Fake Spinner To Perfection To Whip Greenies

By Ralph Wheatley
(Associated Press Staff Writer)

NEW ORLEANS, Nov. 9.—(AP)—A fake spinner play worked a score of times, mixed with well placed passes, gave the University of Georgia Bulldogs a 26 to 13 victory over Tulane's hard fighting Green Wave here today before a crowd of 12,000.

Tulane's line fell easy prey to the fake spinner that gained ground nearly every time it was called until Georgia's last touchdown was made off of this play with Alf Anderson of Decatur, Ga., carrying the ball.

The first half, ending 13 to 0 for Georgia, looked like murder for Tulane, but Captain Barney Mintz rallied his crew in the third quarter and tied the score with spectacular play.

But in the fourth quarter Georgia started a brilliant passing attack from midfield until the ball was placed on Tulane's 25-yard line. Here Minot shot a lateral to Green, who threw it to Wagnon for Georgia's third touchdown. Treadway tried to carry the ball for the extra point but he was chased about the field by a half dozen Tulane players and was downed on the 15-yard line.

Here Tulane rallied again and opened a rapid fire attack down field. Thames took the kickoff to Tulane's 30-yard line. Mintz moved it to midfield and Thames advanced it to Georgia's 36-yard line. Things looked rosy for Tulane, the passes and line plays were working and the stands saw visions of a tieing touchdown.

But the drive collapsed when Anderson snatched Thames' pass out of the air and raced to Tulane's 29-yard line. Then Anderson started his fake spinner, the first one placed the ball on Tulane's nine-yard line and the second carried it over for a touchdown and Green kicked the goal, sinching victory for the Bulldogs.

Tulane's defeat may be placed mainly at the feet of the line as Georgia depended heavily on its line plays for yardage. Georgia made 198 yards in running plays against Tulane's 92. Tulane tried to make up for the line's weakness with an aerial attack, attempting 21 passes against Georgia's 15, and completing nine against Georgia's four, but three of the four were for touchdowns.

The lineup:

Georgia	Pos.	Tulane
O'Farrell	LE	Memtsas
Shi	LT	Moss
F. Johnson	LG	Smither
McKnight	C	Gould
Moorehead	RG	Watermeier
Harman	RT	Friedrichs
Wagnon	RE	Dirmann
Treadway	QB	Page
Bond	LHB	Mintz
Minot	RHB	Henderson
Green	FB	Andrews

Score by periods:

Georgia	6	7	0	13—26
Tulane	0	0	13	0—13

Georgia scoring: Touchdowns, Bond, Moffett, Wagnon and Anderson; points for try after touchdown Green 4. Tulane scoring: Touchdowns, Mintz and Loftin; point for try after touchdown, Mintz.

Officials: Campbell (University of Miss.) referee; Burghard (Miss. college), umpire; Kalkman (St. Louis university), headlinesman; Bagley (W. and L.) field judge.

BOBBY JONES SAYS

Because of the necessity for giving more time to other duties, some of which will be new to me, I am going to have to discontinue very soon, at least temporarily, the regular appearance of this series of writings.

Before doing so, I am going to devote my last few efforts to a general summarizing of thoughts and suggestions which I believe will help the average golfer if he will stick them somewhere in the back part of his brain.

Bobby Jones putting. In the accompanying article, Jones gives several ideas on winter golf practice that should improve one's game. .

The time of the year is particularly appropriate for a general checking-up. I am going to make an especial plea that this winter you will not, as you have in the past, put your clubs away and try to forget about golf. If you enjoy playing golf you will enjoy thinking about it, and at least one club kept in a handy closet will make a welcome companion on many a winter's evening. This time, don't wait for spring to start all over again. Don't make it necessary to spoil at least a month of the playing season hacking away in an effort to work the kinks out of your muscles and your game. Use the off-season this year to do the tinkering and experimenting which you never will do when you have a chance to really play.

Offers Many Advantages

A practice tee or a driving net is always available. Either will provide an opportunity to try out new clubs and new ideas and will serve to keep your hands and your muscles in usuable condition! There you will have plenty of time really to work on your game, free of the temptation to go back to your old manner of swinging because you are losing a bet to your regular foursome.

Any player's swing can be improved by making it smoother. In a general way, this is always the thing to work on. Merely swinging without a ball can help a lot if only this one idea is kept in mind. And driving balls into a net will come quite close to bringing your practice swing which is always better than your playing swing, into actual use. Because the net removes any responsibility for the result, and the consequent anxiety and tension, it is often a splendid place to form correct muscular habits.

Rug Will Serve As Green

Any lawn is a good place to chip a few balls about and any rug will serve quite well as a practice green. It does not need to have the speed or the true surface of a green, nor do you need any kind of a "hole" at which to putt. Here again the whole thing is smoothness and true hitting. Just drop the balls on the floor, relax completely, and putt away until you can feel the club actually swing back and forth. You can always tell when there is a jerk or an effort to steer.

This winter when you think of something that may help your game, which you must do frequently if you are a golfer, don't say, "I'll remember that." Go get the club and find out how it feels. The chances are that you can tell in a few minutes whether the idea is worth working with. If it is, begin to work on it then instead of waiting for the time when you will want to play. Just a very little time spent in this way will surely bring you to your spring golf better prepared to enjoy it than you have ever been before.

While Bobby Jones will be glad to answer as many reader's questions in this column as possible, it will be impossible for him to answer letters personally. Write your problems to him care of Monroe Morning World.

Are you contemplating adding additional clubs to your bag? Selection of one's golf equipment is often a difficult assignment. Bobby Jones advice on this subject is available on receipt of a three cent stamped self-addressed envelope.

STANFORD NOSES OUT SOUTHERN CALIFORNIA

LOS ANGELES, Calif., Nov. 9.—(AP)—A field goal by Jim (Monk) Moscrip in the last 40 seconds of play enabled Stanford to defeat Southern California 3 to 0 today before 40,000 spectators, including former President Herbert Hoover.

Stanford, heavily favored to win by ten or more points, saw more than 59 minutes of the game pass without a pay-off. The contest was practically over when the big red machine finally threw itself into high gear and gave a great crowd of Stanford rooters their first chance to yell their victory cheer.

Stanford lost the ball on downs on Southern California's one-yard line in the middle of the third quarter and could not get going again until the game progressed to its last five minutes. The winners then completed their first pass. This led to the field goal by the sharpshooter Moscrip from the 15-yard line.

TEXAS OVERPOWERS BAYLOR BEARS, 25-6

WACO, Texas, Nov. 9.—(AP)—The University of Texas touchdown power, bottled up against Rice and Southern Methodist, smothered a hard fighting Baylor university team, 25 to 6, here today.

Struggling to retain a chance at the Southwest conference crown, Baylor tried every defense in the book but Texas' slashing backs and low charging forward wall were too much. Texas scored touchdowns in the first, third and fourth periods for their first 1935 conference victory.

Lloyd Russell, Baylor's one-man backfield, scored the Bears' lone touchdown from the one-yard line in the second period.

INDIANA RALLIES TO NOSE OUT MARYLAND

BALTIMORE, Nov. 9.—(AP)—A long, daring pass, thrown in desperation as a grey dusk settled over the gridiron sailed over the goal into the arms of a substitute here today and brought Indiana a 13 to 7 intersectional football victory over Maryland.

Starting from their 30, Quarterback Vernon Huffman pitched a 38-yard aerial to Oberchain. Then, from the 20, Huffman passed to Vincent Schaefer, a substitute end for a touchdown.

All the game's other scoring was crowded into a few minutes of the second quarter.

NEBRASKA CLINCHES BIG SIX GRID TITLE

LINCOLN, Neb., Nov. 9.—(AP)—Nebraska won the Big Six conference football championship this afternoon by edging out Kansas 19 to 13 before 29,000 fans.

Peterson fell on the opening kickoff to give Kansas a lead before the game was half a minute old.

Nebraska came back with touchdowns by Francis and Cardwell to lead at the half, but the Jayhawkers surged into a 13 to 12 lead again in the third quarter only to see it fade by a crashing drive by Lanoue and Francis.

OTHER UNBEATEN ELEVENS MARCH ON UNMOLESTED

Princeton And North Carolina Win Convincing Grid Victories

By Herbert W. Barker
(Associated Press Sports Writer)

The man with the football scythe caught up with Notre Dame yesterday and lopped the Ramblers right off the undefeated list in the day's biggest surprise.

While all the other unbeaten favorites were marching along in great style, the Ramblers caught a Tartar in Northwestern's fast-improving Wildcats and wound up on the short end of a 14-7 score in a sensational battle at South Bend. Storm signals had been posted in advance on this game but most critics thought the Ramblers would stagger through despite the inevitable let-down after their spectacular triumph over Ohio State a week ago.

Otherwise, all major contenders for the mythical national championship moved on without exception. These include California in the far west; Princeton, Dartmouth and Marquette in the mid-west and North Carolina in the south. Of the southwestern leaders, Texas Christian bowled over Loyola of New Orleans, 14-0, Friday night while Southern Methodist rested preparatory to its clash with U. C. L. A. at Los Angeles Monday.

Princeton, gaining in power the longer the season goes, crushed Harvard, 35-0, while California, flashing an effective passing attack, pulled out a 14-0 triumph over Washington. Minnesota had to come from behind to topple Iowa, 13-6, but North Carolina ran rough-shod over Virginia Military, 56-0.

Marquette struck early to down Michigan State, 13-7, but Syracuse had to overcome a 2-0 deficit to score over Columbia, 14-2. Dartmouth and New York university won by one-sided scores, the former toppling William and Mary, 34-0, while N. Y. U. was routing City College of New York, 45-0.

Although crowds of 60,000 and 45,000 watched the California-Washington and Princeton-Harvard contests, the day's record in that respect went to Philadelphia where 75,000 saw Navy take advantage of the breaks to whip Penn, 13-0. At Pittsburgh, 68,000 were in the stands as Pitt uncorked a brilliant three-touchdown rally in the final quarter to trounce Army, 29-6. About 50,000 were on hand as Fordham battled St. Mary's Gaels to a 7-7 draw.

Form went completely by the boards in the middle west as Wisconsin scored over Purdue, 8-0; Illinois conquered Michigan, 3-0, and Ohio State had to overcome a 13-0 lead to top Chicago's Maroons, led by Jay Berwanger, 20-13. Nebraska clinched the Big Six crown with a 19-13 verdict over Kansas.

Detroit crushed Bucknell, 53-0, but Duquesne gave the east an even break in intersectional combat in the mid-west by downing Oklahoma A. and M., 20-0.

The south's program was marked by Southeastern conference victories for Louisiana State, Georgia and Auburn. L. S. U., beaten only by Rice this year, buried Mississippi State, 28-13, as Georgia conquered Tulane, 26-13, and Auburn swamped Georgia Tech, 33-7. Alabama outpointed Clemson from the Southern conference, 33-0. Maryland gave Indiana a great fight but surrendered finally to a last-minute pass, 13-7. Duke, preparing for its crucial engagement with North Carolina next week, whipped Davidson, 26-7.

Monk Moscrip's educated toe gave Stanford a narrow 3-0 victory over Southern California's fighting Trojans with a field goal in the final minute of play. Oregon trounced Oregon State, 13-0, in another coast conference engagement.

Rice and Texas won Southwest conference games, the former scoring over Arkansas, 20-7, while Texas was routing Baylor, 25-6. Colorado university sprang a big upset in the Rocky Mountain conference by bowling over Utah, 14-0.

WISCONSIN UPSETS PURDUE TEAM, 8-0

MADISON, Wis., Nov. 9.—(AP)—Wisconsin's victory starved Badgers shook off the memory of five straight defeats to hammer out an 8 to 0 decision over Purdue here today in one of the major upsets of the Western conference football season.

A slim Homecoming crowd of 17,000 saw Wisconsin play a brilliant defensive game to check in its first win of the campaign. A light drizzle that fell throughout the game proved advantageous for Wisconsin which recovered several fumbles deep in Purdue territory.

VANDERBILT WALLOPS SEWANEE TIGER, 46-0

NASHVILLE, Tenn., Nov. 9.—(AP)—Vanderbilt university registered its third Southeastern conference victory of the season today, defeating a courageous little band of Sewanee Tigers, 46 to 0, before 4,000 spectators.

Greatly outweighed and outnumbered in reserves, the Tigers never threatened, the entire battle taking place in their territory. It was the 44th meeting of the two teams since 1892.

TENNESSEE NOSES OUT OLE MISS IN STIRRING BATTLE

Substitute Halfback Gives Vols 14-13 Win Over Mississippi

By Don Whitehead
(Associated Press Staff Writer)

MEMPHIS, Tenn., Nov. 9.—With the bullet passes of a slender substitute halfback, Tennessee's Volunteers stormed up the victory trail today with a Garrison finish that left a crowd of 12,000 breathless and shattered the hopes of Mississippi for a Southeastern conference championship—14 to 13.

In two swift thrusts, both engineered by Woodrow Derryberry, understudy for Tennessee's great Phil Dickens, the Vols blasted their way for touchdowns and converted the precious extra points that kept intact their unbroken string of victories over Ole Miss teams.

Outplayed by a more powerful team that apparently had battered them into submission with the crushing thrusts of a 232-pound fullback, Clarence Hapes, the Vols launched an attack born in desperation as they saw an early 7-point lead fade.

The man-mountain, unaided, took the ball on Tennessee's 28-yard line in the third quarter, and methodically, literally heaved the Tennessee line back. Then Rab Rogers, chunky halfback, took up the assault and in the opening minute of the fourth quarter went through right tackle standing up from the one-yard line for a touchdown.

As Bill Richardson tried to kick the extra point from placement, a substitute end, Red Maxwell, crashed through to block it and Tennessee still led, 7 to 6.

Tennessee had scored early in the first quarter. Taking the ball on their own 20-yard line, the Vols marched to the Ole Miss 5, principally on Derryberry's sharpshooting.

There, Derryberry faded for a pass, pivoted and slashed through left tackle for the touchdown. J. Craig's placement was good and the Vols led 7 to 0.

Ole Miss, seeming to get stronger, began another power drive after an exchange of punts when Red Harp of Tennessee kicked short to his own 47-yard line. Ole Miss rushed the ball to the Vols' 25. Then Roy Hapes, on a reverse, tore through right tackle for a touchdown. This time Richardson made his kick good and the 13-7 lead looked insurmountable.

But a booming 55-yard punt by Toby Palmer that bounced out on Mississippi's one-yard line rallied the bruised Volunteers.

Derryberry went to work. He snapped a flat pass to Palmer for 8 yards, two plays failed. With fourth down, Derryberry passed to Tansil, Vol end, on the Ole Miss 8-yard line. Again he faded back, calmly looked over the field, and rifled a pass to Rose, and, standing in the end zone to tie the score, with 15 seconds left to play. J. Craig booted a perfect placement and a few seconds later the game ended as Palmer intercepted an Ole Miss pass and almost broke away for a touchdown.

Line-ups and summary:

Tennessee.	Pos.	Mississippi
Humphreys	LE	Poole
Silberman	LT	Kinard
Weaver	LG	Wilson
Tade	C	Nelson
Dougherty	RG	Breyer
F. Crawford	RT	Richardson

TARHEELS RUN OVER VIRGINIA, 56 TO 0

CHAPEL HILL, N. C., Nov. 9.—(AP)—North Carolina's mighty juggernaut steamrolled the hapless Cadets of Virginia Military institute, 56 to 0, today and continued its bid for national recognition—undefeated and unted.

Don Jackson, triple threat artist of Carl Snaveley's high scoring machine, touched off the fireworks when the game was about a minute old by snagging at Cadet punt and racing it back 55 yards for a touchdown.

From then on the Tar Heel firmament glittered with stars as Snavely sent in substitute after substitute to complete the destruction.

MORE LUCK WITH BEARS

TALLULAH NOSES OUT DELHI, 6-0

Trojans Score In Final Minutes To Win Thrilling Battle

DELHI, La., Nov. 9.—(Special)—The fighting Bears of the Delhi high school went down to defeat Friday afternoon before the Tallulah Trojans in the greatest game of football ever witnessed here.

The hard running of Woods and Ingram for the Bears and the blocking of Copes and Bryan gave the above boys many opportunities for spectacular gains throughout the game. The playing of the Delhi line consisting of Tamburo and Simms, ends; Gilliland and Leggett, tackles, and Halbert and Johnston, guards, and Crawford, was the best thing that could be presented to the fans. This bunch of Bears, seven of which are playing their first year, held the Tallulah Trojans for four downs on the one yard line, only to be scored on later by a pass in the closing minutes of play.

Tallulah received the opening kickoff and returned to their own 20 where they were forced to punt and then the Bears took the ball and marched down the field but failed to score. Then Ingram intercepted a Tallulah pass and ran it back to the Tallulah ten yard line, where again the Bears fumbled their opportunity to score.

The second half was a thriller. First one team then another would be in position to counter but the strong defenses which the two teams offered would bog down the polished offenses of the two teams at the critical moment and the other team would march into a threatening position.

Finally with only two minutes and 45 seconds left to go, Cagnollatti of Tallulah intercepted Wood's pass to Ingram and ran it back to the Delhi 40 yard line. Then with the Trojans coming out of the huddle on the run and snapping into a set formation, Cond passed to Morton deep in Delhi territory and so high that Morton barely touched it on his leap but held it and carried it over for a touchdown. The try for point was blocked by seven Delhi Bears. The Bears received and made a desperate last bid for a tie and possibly a win, carrying the ball deep into Tallulah territory, but time was not long enough and the game ended the battle.

ALABAMA TROUNCES CLEMSON, 33 TO 0

DENNY STADIUM, UNIVERSITY, Ala., Nov. 9.—(AP)—Alabama's Crimson Tide turned on the power today for a Homecoming day crowd of 8,000 to crush Clemson under a score of 33 to 0.

The victory was the first for the Crimsons in their home field this year, but they left no doubt in the minds of the "old grads" who cheered lustily that the power of former years had returned to Alabama.

Clemson was powerless before the power drives once they began with Joe Kilgrow, a sophomore, Clarence Rhordanz, a senior, and Angelich alternating in smashing tackles, hipping over guards, and occasionally shooting a pass to give variety.

ILLINOIS DEFEATS MICHIGAN, 3 TO 0

CHAMPAIGN, Ill., Nov. 9.—(AP)—The fighting Illini of Illinois wrecked whatever Western conference gridiron title hopes Michigan may have entertained by whipping the Wolverines, 3 to 0, in rain-swept Memorial stadium today.

The lethal blow was delivered by Lowell Spurgeon, sophomore halfback from Centralia, Ill., who booted a 31-yard place kick in the waning minutes of the second period.

The game will go into the books as a mild upset.

LOUISIANA TIGERS TAKE UNDISPUTED LEAD IN S'EASTERN

(By Associated Press)

Louisiana State's powerful football machine took undisputed command of the Southeastern conference championship race Saturday by blasting Mississippi State 28 to 13, while Tennessee edged out Mississippi 14-13. Ole Miss was undefeated in conference play.

A crowd of 12,000 sat in on Tennessee's close victory over Mississippi in the first big conference game at Memphis in years.

In a conglomeration of good, bad and indifferent football Auburn beat Georgia Tech on Grant field in Atlanta 33 to 7. The Plainsmen and Yellow Jackets played before a crowd of 14,000 which witnessed numerous fumbles and intercepted passes on both sides.

A homecoming audience of 8,000 saw Alabama overwhelm a Southern conference foe, Clemson, by a score of 33 to 0 at Tuscaloosa.

Favored to win, Tulane went down before a superior Georgia attack at New Orleans. The Bulldogs won 26 to 13, counting three times with passes.

Kentucky came to life in the final minutes to protect its lead and beat Florida, 15 to 6, at Lexington.

Vanderbilt's strong air and ground game was too much for Sewanee, the Commodores rolling up a 46 to 0 victory.

RUTGERS NOSES OUT BOSTON U., 12 TO 6

BOSTON, Nov. 9. — (AP) — Rutgers football team conquered a fighting Boston university eleven, previously undefeated but twice tied, 12-6 today. Morris Grossman, substitute left half, led Rutgers' offense and scored both touchdowns, one in the second and one in the closing period. Boston university scored in the first quarter.

TECHMEN POINT TOWARD BATTLE WITH WILDCATS

Victorious Bulldogs Get Two Weeks To Prep For Important Tilt

RUSTON, La., Nov. 9.—(Special)—Perched on the pedestal of victory again, the Louisiana Tech gridmen will lean on their laurels for a fortnight before tackling the Wildcats of Louisiana college at Pineville on Saturday afternoon, November 23.

No game for the coming week-end gives the Techmen their first lay-off of the season in which they have established an enviable record, totalling 169 points to their foes' 28. In six conference battles, five teams have surrendered. Only Millsaps has the distinction of beating the Red and Blue, and that was by the narrow margin of 21-20. Tech goose-egged its first four opponents. At Ruston this past Friday, the Mississippi college Choctaws were defeated by a score of 21-7.

Among the features of the statistics on the Tech-Choctaw contest is the record of 34 forward passes attempted by the Clinton eleven. Nine of the throws were completed for substantial gains. One of them, a 20-yard heave from Winsted to Fred Green, gave the latter a chance to step about three yards for the Choctaws' only touchdown in the third quarter. Tech tried six passes and connected two, but the locals' three counters were made by running plays.

Records show that both teams made eight first downs. Tech was penalized 60 yards, including four 15-yard setbacks. The visitors were assessed one five-yard and one 15-yard penalty.

All of the Techmen are reported to have come out of the Choctaw clash in good shape. While they go through their practice routine the coming week and the next, the freshman Pups will have a couple of games. On Wednesday afternoon at Natchitoches, the local frosh will meet the State Normal Imps. On November 22, they are booked to oppose the Louisiana college beginners at Pineville. The Tech yearlings probably will not do any home playing this fall, according to Coach George (Blue) Hogg. Their latest accomplishment was to lick the Mississippi college freshmen at Clinton on November 2 by a score of 38-0. They previously had held the Wingmen of Barksdale Field to a scoreless tie, and had fallen before the Junior Gents of Shreveport, 18-0.

While the varsity Techsters have their minds on their skirmish with the Louisiana college eleven, local football followers are thinking about the same thing. They are planning to invade Pineville on a special train. The ticket campaign is scheduled to start within the next few days, and if the required number of students and other fans sign up for the trip, there will be a holiday dessertion of the campus here, it has been announced.

RICE OVERWHELMS ARKANSAS, 20-7

HOUSTON, Texas, Nov. 9.—(AP)—Relying on sheer power, supplemented by an occasional long broken field sprint by Bill Wallace, the Rice Owls trounced the University of Arkansas, 20 to 7, in a Southwest conference game today.

"Big Jawn" McCauley led a 50-yard drive which culminated in one touchdown and crashed 20 yards through the center of the line for another. Bill Wallace scored the third on a weaving, 26-yard sprint.

When Arkansas found pay dirt in the fourth quarter on a pass from Jack Robbins to Keen, the Ricemen eliminated all possibility of a tie by coming back with a 35-yard touchdown march.

GEORGIA OVERWHELMS TULANE ELEVEN, 26 TO 13

BULLDOGS RALLY IN 4TH QUARTER TO WIN EASILY

Georgians Work Fake Spinner To Perfection To Whip Greenies

By Ralph Wheatley
(Associated Press Staff Writer)

NEW ORLEANS, Nov. 9.—(AP)—A fake spinner play worked a score of times, mixed with well placed passes, gave the University of Georgia Bulldogs a 26 to 13 victory over Tulane's hard fighting Green Wave here today before a crowd of 12,000.

Tulane's line fell easy prey to the fake spinner that gained ground nearly every time it was called until Georgia's last touchdown was made off of this play with Alf Anderson of Decatur, Ga., carrying the ball.

The first half, ending 13 to 0 for Georgia, looked like murder for Tulane, but Captain Barney Mintz rallied his crew in the third quarter and tied the score with spectacular play.

But in the fourth quarter Georgia started a brilliant passing attack from midfield until the ball was placed on Tulane's 25-yard line. Here Minot shot a lateral to Green, who threw it to Wagnon for Georgia's third touchdown. Treadway tried to carry the ball for the extra point but he was chased about the field by a half dozen Tulane players and was downed on the 15-yard line.

Here Tulane rallied again and opened a rapid fire attack down field. Thames took the kickoff to Tulane's 38-yard line. Mintz moved it to midfield and Thames advanced it to Georgia's 36-yard line. Things looked rosy for Tulane, the passes and line plays were working and the stands saw visions of a tieing touchdown.

But the drive collapsed when Anderson snatched Thames' pass out of the air and raced to Tulane's 29-yard line. Then Anderson started his fake spinner, the first one placed the ball on Tulane's nine-yard line and the second carried it over for a touchdown and Green kicked the goal, cinching victory for the Bulldogs.

Tulane's defeat may be placed mainly at the feet of the line as Georgia depended heavily on its line plays for yardage. Georgia made 198 yards in running plays against Tulane's 92. Tulane tried to make up for the line's weakness with an aerial attack, attempting 21 passes against Georgia's 15, and completing nine against Georgia's four, but three of the four were for touchdowns.

The lineup:

Georgia	Pos.	Tulane
O'Farrell	LE	Memtsas
Shi	LT	Moss
F. Johnson	LG	Smither
McKnight	C	Gould
Moorehead	RG	Watermeier
Harman	RT	Friedrichs
Wagnon	RE	Dirmann
Treadway	QB	Page
Bond	LHB	Mintz
Minot	RHB	Henderson
Green	FB	Andrews

Score by periods:

Georgia	6	7	0	13—26
Tulane	0	0	13	0—13

Georgia scoring: Touchdowns, Bond, Moffett, Wagnon and Anderson; points for try after touchdown Green 2. Tulane scoring: Touchdowns, Mintz and Loftin; point for try after touchdown, Mintz.

BOBBY JONES SAYS

Because of the necessity for giving more time to other duties, some of which will be new to me, I am going to have to discontinue very soon, at least temporarily, the regular appearance of this series of writings.

Before doing so, I am going to devote my last few efforts to a general summarizing of thoughts and suggestions which I believe will help the average golfer if he will stick them somewhere in the back part of his brain.

Bobby Jones putting. In the accompanying article, Jones gives several ideas on winter golf practice that should improve one's game.

The time of the year is particularly appropriate for a general checking-up. I am going to make an especial plea that this winter you will not, as you have in the past, put your clubs away and try to forget about golf. If you enjoy playing golf you will enjoy thinking about it, and at least one club kept in a handy closet will make a welcome companion on many a winter's evening. This time, don't wait for spring to start all over again. Don't make it necessary to spoil at least a month of the playing season hacking away in an effort to work the kinks out of your muscles and your game. Use the off-season this year to do the tinkering and experimenting which you never will do when you have a chance to really play.

Offers Many Advantages

A practice tee or a driving net is always available. Either will provide an opportunity to try out new clubs and new ideas and will serve to keep your hands and your muscles in usuable condition. There you will have plenty of time really to work on your game, free of the temptation to go back to your old manner of swinging because you are losing a bet to your regular foursome.

Any player's swing can be improved by making it smoother. In a general way, this is always the thing to work on. Merely swinging without a ball can help a lot if only this one idea is kept in mind. And driving balls into a net will come quite close to bringing your practice swing which is always better than your playing swing, into actual use. Because the net removes any responsibility for the result, and the consequent anxiety and tension, it is often a splendid place to form correct muscular habits.

Rug Will Serve As Green

Any lawn is a good place to chip a few balls about and any rug will serve quite well as a practice green. It does not need to have the speed or the true surface of a green, nor do you need any kind of a "hole" at which to putt. Here again the whole thing is smoothness and true hitting. Just drop the balls on the floor, relax completely, and putt away until you can feel the club actually swing back and forth. You can always tell when there is a jerk or an effort to steer.

This winter when you think of something that may help your game, which you must do frequently if you are a golfer, don't say, "I'll remember that." Go get the club and find out how it feels. The chances are that you can tell in a few minutes whether the idea is worth working with. If it is, begin to work on it then instead of waiting for the time when you will want to play. Just a very little time spent in this way will surely bring you to your spring golf better prepared to enjoy it than you have ever been before.

While Bobby Jones will be glad to answer as many reader's questions in this column as possible, it will be impossible for him to answer letters personally. Write your problems to him care of Monroe Morning World.

Are you contemplating adding additional clubs to your bag? Selection of one's golf equipment is often a difficult assignment. Bobby Jones advice on this subject is available on receipt of a three cent stamped self-addressed envelope.

STANFORD NOSES OUT SOUTHERN CALIFORNIA

LOS ANGELES, Calif., Nov. 9.—(AP)—A field goal by Jim (Monk) Moscrip in the last 40 seconds of play enabled Stanford to defeat Southern California 3 to 0 today before 40,000 spectators, including former President Herbert Hoover.

Stanford, heavily favored to win by ten or more points, saw more than 59 minutes of the game pass without a pay-off. The contest was practically over when the big red machine finally threw itself into high gear and gave a great crowd of Stanford rooters their first chance to yell their victory cheer.

Stanford lost the ball on downs on Southern California's one-yard line in the middle of the third quarter and could not get going again until the game progressed to its last five minutes. The winners then completed their first pass. This led to the field goal by the sharpshooter Moscrip from the 15-yard line.

TEXAS OVERPOWERS BAYLOR BEARS, 25-6

WACO, Texas, Nov. 9.—(AP)—The University of Texas touchdown power, bottled up against Rice and Southern Methodist, smothered a hard fighting Baylor university team, 25 to 6, here today.

Struggling to retain a chance at the Southwest conference crown, Baylor tried every defense in the book but Texas' slashing backs and low charging forward wall were too much. Texas scored touchdowns in the first, third and fourth periods for their first 1935 conference victory.

Lloyd Russell, Baylor's one-man backfield, scored the Bears' lone touchdown from the one-yard line in the second period.

INDIANA RALLIES TO NOSE OUT MARYLAND

BALTIMORE, Nov. 9.—(AP)—A long, daring pass, thrown in desperation as a grey dusk settled over the gridiron sailed over the goal into the arms of a substitute here today and brought Indiana a 13 to 7 intersectional football victory over Maryland.

Starting from their 30, Quarterback Vernon Huffman pitched a 38-yard aerial to Oberchain. Then, from the 20, Huffman passed to Vincent Schaefer, a substitute end for a touchdown.

All the game's other scoring was crowded into a few minutes of the second quarter.

NEBRASKA CLINCHES BIG SIX GRID TITLE

LINCOLN, Neb., Nov. 9.—(AP)—Nebraska won the Big Six conference football championship this afternoon by edging out Kansas 19 to 13 before 29,000 fans.

Peterson fell on the opening kickoff to give Kansas a lead before the game was half a minute old.

Nebraska came back with touchdowns by Francis and Cardwell to lead at the half, but the Jayhawkers surged into a 13 to 12 lead again in the third quarter only to see it fade by a crashing drive by Lanoue and Francis.

OTHER UNBEATEN ELEVENS MARCH ON UNMOLESTED

Princeton And North Carolina Win Convincing Grid Victories

By Herbert W. Barker
(Associated Press Sports Writer)

The man with the football scythe caught up with Notre Dame yesterday and lopped the Ramblers right off the undefeated list in the day's biggest surprise.

While all the other unbeaten favorites were marching along in great style, the Ramblers caught a Tartar in Northwestern's fast-improving Wildcats and wound up on the short end of a 14-7 score in a sensational battle at South Bend. Storm signals had been posted in advance on this game but most critics thought the Ramblers would stagger through despite the inevitable let-down after their spectacular triumph over Ohio State a week ago.

Otherwise, all major contenders for the mythical national championship moved on without exception. These include California in the far west; Princeton, Dartmouth and Marquette in the mid-west and North Carolina in the south. Of the southwestern leaders, Texas Christian bowled over Loyola of New Orleans, 14-0. Friday night while Southern Methodist rested preparatory to its clash with U. C. L. A. at Los Angeles Monday.

Princeton, gaining in power the longer the season goes, crushed Harvard, 35-0, while California, flashing an effective passing attack, pulled out a 14-0 triumph over Washington. Minnesota had to come from behind to topple Iowa, 13-6, but North Carolina ran rough-shod over Virginia Military, 56-0.

Marquette struck early to down Michigan State, 13-7, but Syracuse had to overcome a 2-0 deficit to score over Columbia, 14-2. Dartmouth and New York university won by one-sided scores, the former toppling William and Mary, 34-0, while N. Y. U. was routing City College of New York, 45-0.

Although crowds of 60,000 and 45,000 watched the California-Washington and Princeton-Harvard contests, the day's record in that respect went to Philadelphia where 75,000 saw Navy take advantage of the breaks to whip Penn, 13-0. At Pittsburgh, 68,000 were in the stands as Pitt uncorked a brilliant three-touchdown rally in the final quarter to trounce Army, 29-6. About 50,000 were on hand as Fordham battled St. Mary's Gaels to a 7-7 draw.

Form went completely by the boards in the middle west as Wisconsin scored over Purdue, 8-0; Illinois conquered Michigan, 3-0, and Ohio State had to overcome a 13-0 lead to top Chicago's Maroons, led by Jay Berwanger, 20-13. Nebraska clinched the Big Six crown with a 19-13 verdict over Kansas.

Detroit crushed Bucknell, 53-0, but Duquesne gave the east an even break in intersectional combat in the midwest by downing Oklahoma A. and M., 20-0.

The south's program was marked by Southeastern conference victories for Louisiana State, Georgia and Auburn. L. S. U., beaten only by Rice this year, buried Mississippi State, 28-13, as Georgia conquered Tulane, 26-13, and Auburn swamped Georgia Tech, 33-7. Alabama outpointed Clemson from the Southern conference, 33-0. Maryland gave Indiana a great fight but surrendered finally to a last-minute pass, 13-7. Duke, preparing for its crucial engagement with North Carolina next week, whipped Davidson, 26-7.

Monk Moscrip's educated toe gave Stanford a narrow 3-0 victory over Southern California's fighting Trojans with a field goal in the final minute of play. Oregon trounced Oregon State, 13-0, in another coast conference engagement.

Rice and Texas won Southwest conference games, the former scoring over Arkansas, 20-7, while Texas was routing Baylor, 25-6. Colorado university sprang a big upset in the Rocky Mountain conference by bowling over Utah, 14-0.

WISCONSIN UPSETS PURDUE TEAM, 8-0

MADISON, Wis., Nov. 9.—(AP)—Wisconsin's victory starved Badgers shook off the memory of five straight defeats to hammer out an 8 to 0 decision over Purdue here today in one of the major upsets of the Western conference football season.

A slim Homecoming crowd of 17,000 saw Wisconsin play a brilliant defensive game to check in its first win of the campaign. A light drizzle that fell throughout the game proved advantageous for Wisconsin which recovered several fumbles deep in Purdue territory.

VANDERBILT WALLOPS SEWANEE TIGER, 46-0

NASHVILLE, Tenn., Nov. 9.—(AP)—Vanderbilt university registered its third Southeastern conference victory of the season today, defeating a courageous little band of Sewanee Tigers, 46 to 0, before 4,000 spectators.

Greatly outweighed and outnumbered in reserves, the Tigers never threatened, the entire battle taking place in their territory. It was the 44th meeting of the two teams since 1892.

TENNESSEE NOSES OUT OLE MISS IN STIRRING BATTLE

Substitute Halfback Gives Vols 14-13 Win Over Mississippi

By Don Whitehead
(Associated Press Staff Writer)

MEMPHIS, Tenn., Nov. 9.—With the bullet passes of a slender substitute halfback, Tennessee's Volunteers stormed up the victory trail today with a Garrison finish that left a crowd of 12,000 breathless and shattered the hopes of Mississippi for a Southeastern conference championship—14 to 13.

In two swift thrusts, both engineered by Woodrow Derryberry, understudy for Tennessee's great Phil Dickens, the Vols blasted their way for touchdowns and converted the precious extra points that kept intact their unbroken string of victories over Ole Miss teams.

Outplayed by a more powerful team that apparently had battered them into submission with the crushing thrusts of a 232-pound fullback, Clarence Hapes, the Vols launched an attack born in desperation as they saw an early 7-point lead fade.

The man-mountain, unaided, took the ball on Tennessee's 28-yard line in the third quarter, and methodically, literally heaved the Tennessee line back. Then Rab Rogers, chunky halfback, took up the assault and in the opening minute of the fourth quarter went through right tackle standing up from the one-yard line for a touchdown.

As Bill Richardson tried to kick the extra point from placement, a substitute end, Red Maxwell, crashed through to block it and Tennessee still led, 7 to 6.

Tennessee had scored early in the first quarter. Taking the ball on their own 20-yard line, the Vols marched to the Ole Miss 5, principally on Derryberry's sharpshooting.

There, Derryberry faded for a pass, pivoted and slashed through left tackle for the touchdown. J. Craig's placement was good and the Vols led 7 to 0.

Ole Miss, seeming to get stronger, began another power drive after an exchange of punts when Red Harp of Tennessee kicked short to his own 47-yard line. Ole Miss rushed the ball to the Vols' 25. Then Roy Hapes, on a reverse, tore through right tackle for a touchdown. This time Richardson made his kick good and the 13-7 lead looked insurmountable.

But a booming 55-yard punt by Toby Palmer that bounced out on Mississippi's one-yard line rallied the bruised Volunteers.

Derryberry went to work. He snapped a flat pass to Palmer for 8 yards, two plays failed. With fourth down, Derryberry passed to Tansil, Vol end, on the Ole Miss 8-yard line. Again he faded back, calmly looked over the field, and rifled a pass to Rose, and, standing in the end zone to tie the score, with 15 seconds left to play.

J. Craig booted a perfect placement and a few seconds later the game ended as Palmer intercepted an Ole Miss pass and almost broke away for a touchdown.

TARHEELS RUN OVER VIRGINIA, 56 TO 0

CHAPEL HILL, N. C., Nov. 9.—(AP)—North Carolina's mighty juggernaut steamrolled the hapless Cadets of Virginia Military institute, 56 to 0, today and continued its bid for national recognition—undefeated and unted.

Don Jackson, triple threat artist of Carl Snaveley's high scoring machine, touched off the fireworks when the game was about a minute old by snagging at Cadet punt and racing it back 55 yards for a touchdown.

From then on the Tar Heel firmament glittered with stars as Snavely sent in substitute after substitute to complete the destruction.

TALLULAH NOSES OUT DELHI, 6-0

Trojans Score In Final Minutes To Win Thrilling Battle

DELHI, La., Nov. 9.—(Special)—The fighting Bears of the Delhi high school went down to defeat Friday afternoon before the Tallulah Trojans in the greatest game of football ever witnessed here.

The hard running of Woods and Ingram for the Bears and the blocking of Copes and Bryan gave the above boys many opportunities for spectacular gains throughout the game. The playing of the Delhi line consisting of Tamburo and Simms, ends; Gilliland and Leggett, tackles, and Halbert and Johnston, guards, and Crawford, was the best thing that could be presented to the fans. This bunch of Bears, seven of which are playing their first year, held the Tallulah Trojans for four downs on the one yard line, only to be scored on later by a pass in the closing minutes of play.

Tallulah received the opening kickoff and returned to their own 20 where they were forced to punt and then the Bears took the ball and marched down the field but failed to score. Then Ingram intercepted a Tallulah pass and ran it back to the Tallulah ten yard line, where again the Bears fumbled their opportunity to score.

The second half was a thriller. First one team then another would be in position to counter but the strong defenses which the two teams offered would bog down the polished offenses of the two teams at the critical moment and the other team would march into a threatening position.

Finally with only two minutes and 45 seconds left to go, Cagnollatti of Tallulah intercepted Wood's pass to Ingram and ran it back to the Delhi 40 yard line. Then with the Trojans coming out of the huddle on the run and snapping into a set formation, Coad passed to Morton deep in Delhi territory and so high that Morton barely touched it on his leap but held it and carried it over for a touchdown. The try for point was blocked by seven Delhi Bears. The Bears received and made a desperate last bid for a tie and possibly a win, carrying the ball deep into Tallulah territory, but time was not long enough and the game ended the battle.

ALABAMA TROUNCES CLEMSON, 33 TO 0

DENNY STADIUM, UNIVERSITY, Ala., Nov. 9.—(AP)—Alabama's Crimson Tide turned on the power today for a Homecoming day crowd of 8,000 to crush Clemson under a score of 33 to 0.

The victory was the first for the Crimsons in their home field this year, but they left no doubt in the minds of the "old grads" who cheered lustily that the power of former years had returned to Alabama.

Clemson was powerless before the power drives once they began with Joe Kilgrow, a sophomore, Clarence Rhordanz, a senior, and Angelich alternating in smashing tackles, hipping over guards, and occasionally shooting a pass to give variety.

ILLINOIS DEFEATS MICHIGAN, 3 TO 0

CHAMPAIGN, Ill., Nov. 9.—(AP)—The fighting Illini of Illinois wrecked whatever Western conference gridiron title hopes Michigan may have entertained by whipping the Wolverines, 3 to 0, in rain-swept Memorial stadium today.

The lethal blow was delivered by Lowell Spurgeon, sophomore halfback from Centralia, Ill., who booted a 31-yard place kick in the waning minutes of the second period.

The game will go into the books as a mild upset.

LOUISIANA TIGERS TAKE UNDISPUTED LEAD IN S'EASTERN

(By Associated Press)

Louisiana State's powerful football machine took undisputed command of the Southeastern conference championship race Saturday by blasting Mississippi State 28 to 13, while Tennessee edged out Mississippi 14-13. Ole Miss was undefeated in conference play.

In a conglomeration of good, bad and indifferent football Auburn beat Georgia Tech on Grant field in Atlanta 33 to 7. The Plainsmen and Yellow Jackets played before a crowd of 14,000 which witnessed numerous fumbles and intercepted passes on both sides.

A homecoming audience of 8,000 saw Alabama overwhelm a Southern conference foe, Clemson, by a score of 33 to 0 at Tuscaloosa.

Favored to win, Tulane went down before a superior Georgia attack at New Orleans. The Bulldogs won 26 to 13, counting three times with passes.

Kentucky came to life in the final minutes to protect its lead and beat Florida, 15 to 6, at Lexington.

Vanderbilt's strong air and ground game was too much for Sewanee, the Commodores rolling up a 46 to 0 victory.

RUTGERS NOSES OUT BOSTON U., 12 TO 6

BOSTON, Nov. 9. — (AP) — Rutgers football team conquered a fighting Boston university eleven, previously undefeated but twice tied, 12-6 today. Morris Grossman, substitute left half, led Rutgers' offense and scored both touchdowns, one in the second and one in the closing period. Boston university scored in the first quarter.

TECHMEN POINT TOWARD BATTLE WITH WILDCATS

Victorious Bulldogs Get Two Weeks To Prep For Important Tilt

RUSTON, La., Nov. 9.—(Special)—Perched on the pedestal of victory again, the Louisiana Tech gridmen will lean on their laurels for a fortnight before tackling the Wildcats of Louisiana college at Pineville on Saturday afternoon, November 23.

No game for the coming week-end gives the Techmen their first lay-off of the season in which they have established an enviable record, totalling 169 points to their foes' 28. In six conference battles, five teams have surrendered. Only Millsaps has the distinction of beating the Red and Blue, and that was by the narrow margin of 21-20. Tech goose-egged its first four opponents. At Ruston this past Friday, the Mississippi college Choctaws were defeated by a score of 21-7.

Among the features of the statistics on the Tech-Choctaw contest is the record of 34 forward passes attempted by the Clinton eleven. Nine of the throws were completed for substantial gains. One of them, a 20-yard heave from Winsted to Fred Green, gave the latter a chance to step about three yards for the Choctaws' only touchdown in the third quarter. Tech tried six passes and connected two, but the locals' three counters were made by running plays.

Records show that both teams made eight first downs. Tech was penalized 60 yards, including four 15-yard setbacks. The visitors were assessed one five-yard and one 15-yard penalty.

All of the Techmen are reported to have come out of the Choctaw clash in good shape. While they go through their practice routine the coming week and the next, the freshman Pups will have a couple of games. On Wednesday afternoon at Natchitoches, the local frosh will meet the State Normal Imps. On November 22, they are booked to oppose the Louisiana college beginners at Pineville. The Tech yearlings probably will not do any home playing this fall, according to Coach George (Blue) Hogg. Their latest accomplishment was to lick the Mississippi college freshmen at Clinton on November 2, by a score of 38-0. They previously had held the Wingmen of Barksdale Field to a scoreless tie, and had fallen before the Junior Gents of Shreveport, 18-0.

While the varsity Techsters have their minds on their skirmish with the Louisiana college eleven, local football followers are thinking about the same thing. They are planning to invade Pineville on a special train. The ticket campaign is scheduled to start within the next few days, and if the required number of students and other fans sign up for the trip, there will be a holiday dessertion of the campus here, it has been announced.

RICE OVERWHELMS ARKANSAS, 20-7

HOUSTON, Texas, Nov. 9.—(AP)—Relying on sheer power, supplemented by an occasional long broken field sprint by Bill Wallace, the Rice Owls trounced the University of Arkansas, 20 to 7, in a Southwest conference game today.

"Big Jawn" McCauley led a 50-yard drive which culminated in one touchdown and crashed 20 yards through the center of the line for another. Bill Wallace scored the third on a weaving, 26-yard sprint.

When Arkansas found pay dirt in the fourth quarter on a pass from Jack Robbins to Keen, the Ricemen eliminated all possibility of a tie by coming back with a 35-yard touchdown march.

WESTENBERG MEETS SPARKS AT STADIUM THURSDAY

ALL-STAR CARD SCHEDULED FOR WRESTLING SHOW

Frenchie LaRue To Tangle With Hank Metheney In Semi-Final

Marvin Westenberg, powerful 225 pounder of Tacoma, Wash., who claims the heavyweight wrestling championship of the south, will tangle with Al Sparks, 225, of Alabama, in the feature match of a double main event card at Roosevelt stadium Thursday night, the local promoters announced last night. In the opening match of the all-star program, Frenchie LaRue, the rugged Canadian, will return to the stadium after an absence of several months to meet Hank Metheney, the 230 pound Missouri meanie.

Westenberg is touted as a second Jim Browning. He specializes on a scissors hold, the airplane spin and what he terms a "flying radio hold." The latter is something of a mystery here, but Westenberg says he named it that because it makes his opponents "holler in the air." Just how successful he is with it remains to be seen.

Regardless of that, four comparatively new faces will be seen at the stadium Thursday night, and that's something the fans have been requesting. Westenberg showed here about a year ago and he's plenty good. Sparks is a newcomer who bears an excellent reputation as a crowd pleaser and the promoters believe he will make a great opponent for the claimant of the southern title. LaRue hasn't shown here in several months and Metheney has been absent for a month or more.

It should be a sensational card, with the Westenberg-Sparks match presenting plenty of scientific wrestling and the LaRue-Metheney affair being a battle between two barrelhouse performers.

Al Sparks probably has the best record of any one of the four who have been booked on the big Thursday card. He has defeated Ernie and Rudy Dusek, Jim Browning and Everett Marshall and holds draws with Jim Londos, Ed Don George and other top-notch matmen. In fact, Sparks rates right along with the headliners and the promoters are fortunate in being able to book him for a match at the local stadium.

Westenberg has been going "great guns" in the south and southwest recently, particularly in Shreveport, Houston, Dallas and other mat centers in this section. He has few defeats to mar his record in this territory and Charlie Bruscato, co-promoter in the local business, said last night Westenberg is confident he can beat Sparks, despite Al's great record.

It was announced last night that there will be no advance in admission prices for the all-star show.

All mat shows will be held on Thursday nights in the future, the promoters said.

OREGON GETS BREAKS TO DEFEAT BEAVERS

EUGENE, Ore., Nov. 9.—(AP)—Taking quick advantage of the breaks, the University of Oregon Webfoots defeated the Oregon State college Beavers, 13 to 0, in their Pacific Coast conference football game here today. The Webfoots drove to both of their touchdowns, once in the first period and again in the second, after recovering Oregon State fumbles.

MANY TEAMS ARE CONSIDERED FOR SUGAR BOWL BID

Tangled Situation In South Doesn't Help Matters At Orleans

NEW ORLEANS, Nov. 9.—(AP)—The tangled inconsistencies of upset-ridden southern football are giving Sugar Bowl officials a distinct headache.

Officers of the Mid-Winter Sports association, who sponsor the classic, have the job of picking a southern representative to play an intersectional foe here New Year's day.

"Rice has beaten Louisiana State, Mississippi State has knocked off Alabama, Southern Methodist downed Rice and Vanderbilt blasted Mississippi State," Warren V. Miller, president of the association said here today. "With most teams having four more games to play—and in most cases their toughest games—why, there's no telling how this thing is going to wind up.

"Not that we are [illegible]g about getting a crackerjack [illegible]rn representative. Look at an[illegible] of the ratings around the country. [illegible]uthern Methodist, Rice, Louis[illegible] State, Texas Christian, North Carolina and Mississippi State are all among the best in the land this year.

"I think it's remarkable that half the best teams in the country are packed down here in the comparatively small area between Starkville, Miss., and Fort Worth, Texas," Miller said.

The association is daily receiving answers to preliminary questionnaires sent out to likely candidates for bids to play in the game as "feelers."

"The tenor of the replies are all very satisfactory and thrilling to the organization," Miller said. "They all say they'll give serious consideration to any invitation to the Sugar Bowl."

Miller said that if Notre Dame were asked to come here and accepted the Irish would be able to spend Christmas at home and still have plenty of time to come to New Orleans for sufficient pre-game practice. He said a trip to the west coast would be a good deal more wearing and expensive to the club from South Bend.

"The Notre Dame alumni are running me nuts over the telephone," Miller said.

The comparatively shorter distance between New Orleans and South Bend, Miller said, would enable more Notre Dame students and alumni to come here for the game than to a west coast post-season game.

Miller said that the Mid-Winter Sports association does not take as large a "cut" from the gate receipts as other similar organizations and that with "considerably lower expenses, Notre Dame might realize as much" from a Sugar Bowl conflict as any other post-season game.

Miller emphasized that the committee which selects the opposing teams has not begun any deliberations as yet but that it was his duty to assemble data to present to the committee when it meets around December 1.

FORDHAM, ST. MARY'S BATTLE TO 7-7 TIE

NEW YORK, Nov. 9.—(AP)—Scoring a touchdown each in a thrill-studded second period, Fordham and St. Mary's of California battled to a 7-7 tie in the fifth renewal of their colorful intersectional football rivalry today.

Fifty thousand people filed through the turnstiles of the Polo grounds to see the fun.

Except in the second heat, when almost everything in the football book happened at one time or another, it was mostly a story of two powerful lines which stood shoulder to shoulder and battered away at each other for sixty minutes of savage football.

AUBURN EASILY WINS FROM GEORGIA TECH

ATLANTA, Nov. 9.—(AP)—In a wild afternoon of football, marked by a conglomeration of passes — forwards, laterals and double laterals—the Plainsmen of Alabama Poly crushed Georgia Tech under an avalanche of touchdowns today before 14,000 fans. The score was 33 to 7.

Forced to the air as Auburn's fast-charging line broke up its ground attack, Georgia Tech gambled with everything in its bag of tricks and many times was the loser as the ever-alert Tigers of Alabama drove to touchdowns in each period.

PENN STATE UPSETS VILLANOVA, 27 TO 13

STATE COLLEGE, Pa., Nov. 9.—(AP)—Penn State's fighting Nittany Lions, scored a surprising 27 to 13 victory over a favored Villanova eleven today, before 9,000 fans.

State unloosed a brilliant passing attack, effective in every period, and this, coupled with Bill Cooper's splendid line bucking, was largely responsible for the upset.

GENTLEMEN SCORE DECISIVE VICTORY OVER HURRICANES

Pair Of Sophomores Lead Shreveport Eleven To Lopsided Win

SHREVEPORT, La., Nov. 9.—(AP)—Flashing the most destructive offense a Centenary team has unleashed against a major foe in years—one that brought into play practically every type of attack, and a defense that kept the enemy well beyond their 30 yard line until late in the fourth quarter, the Gentlemen completely overwhelmed the Tulsa Golden Hurricanes in an intersectional clash here today, 22 to 0.

The Shreveporters rode to victory on the feet of a pair of sophomores, Langford Huddleston and D. D. "Grandma" Stone, whose line plunges and end sweeps gained a total of 156 yards, almost one hundred more than made by the whole Tulsa team.

Willie Mozach, another member of the reserve squad, but a junior, entered into battle late in the fray, ran wild at times against the Hurricanes, present pacemakers of the Missouri Valley conference.

The 22 points for the Gents represented three touchdowns, two points after touchdown and one safety. All the scoring was done in the last three quarters, and after the Gents started their point-making with a safety in the second period.

Four other times Centenary was close enough to the scoring station to hang to the ball and be held for downs. The Shreveporters were so completely masters of the situation that they made 17 first downs to Tulsa's four and 14 were made from scrimmage by Centenary to two for the Oklahomans. The Gents passing attack was the best in years and they completed 10 out of 18. Tulsa made five out of 17 trials.

YALE EASILY BEATS BROWN ELEVEN, 20-0

YALE BOWL, NEW HAVEN, Conn., Nov. 9.—(AP)—A Yale football team, heavily sprinkled with reserves, rose in all its fury in the last half to score three touchdowns and down a stubborn Brown Bear, 20 to 0, today.

A crowd of 12,000 sat stunned during the opening half as Brown repulsed five Yale invasions.

SYRACUSE RALLIES TO BEAT COLUMBIA

NEW YORK, N. Y., Nov. 9.—(AP)—Syracuse continued unbeaten and untied today when the orange clad football warriors put on a rousing rally in the third quarter and defeated the Columbia Lions, 14 to 2, before 24,000 spectators at Baker field.

When the vaunted Vannie Albanese crossed the Blue's goal line twice in the third period and kicked both extra points from placement it made the first time Syracuse has scored against Columbia in five years, and, likewise, the first time since 1930 the invaders have trimmed Columbia.

WASHINGTON, LEE WALLOPS VIRGINIA

LEXINGTON, Va., Nov. 9.—(AP)—Washington and Lee flashed back into the form that won Virginia and Southern conference titles for them last year and smashed Virginia, 20 to 0, in a homecoming day game here today.

Only in the first minutes of the opening quarter did the Cavaliers show any real form with the Generals having the advantage the rest of the way. A crowd of approximately 4,500 witnessed the game.

DARTMOUTH WHIPS WILLIAM AND MARY

HANOVER, N. H., Nov. 9.—(AP)—After struggling through a first quarter which threatened destruction to their unbeaten record, the Dartmouth Indians ground out a 34-0 victory over a grimly determined William and Mary team on Memorial Field here today before a crowd of 9,000.

Held to a 7-0 score at the half, a disorganized big Green eleven swung into line to roll up four tallies over the fighting Southerners in the second half. Frank Nairne, lanky halfback, carried the ball across twice.

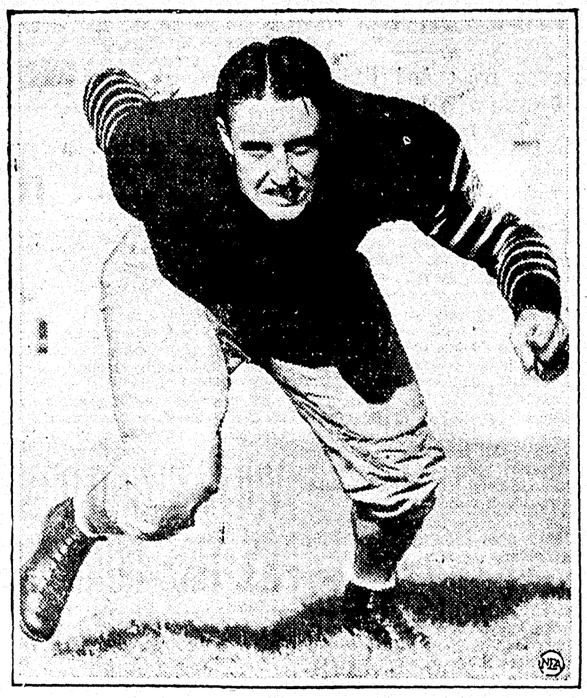

DUKE SHOWS POWER AGAINST DAVIDSON

RICHARDSON FIELD, DAVIDSON, N. C., Nov. 9.—(AP)—Duke university loosened its power, speed and deception against Davidson college here this afternoon to defeat the Wildcats before a Home-Coming crowd of 7,000 under, cool, calm clear conditions. The score was 26 to 7.

FERRIDAY BEATS CHOUDRANT

FERRIDAY, La., Nov. 9.—(Special)—Continuing to click like champions, the Canines of Ferriday high school removed another obstacle, the highly rated Choudrant eleven, at Fisher field Friday afternoon, 10 to 0, and advanced another step in their march toward Coach Hugh Bateman's goal, a victory over Coach Statham Crosby's Waterproof Tigers here Thanksgiving Day in a contest which may have important bearing on the district championship.

PITT ROUTS ARMY ELEVEN, 29 TO 6

Panthers Ram Over Three Touchdowns In Last Period Of Game

PITTSBURGH, Nov. 9.—(AP)—The football hosts of Pittsburgh, blasting through the line and shelling the foe from aloft, scored an amazing 29 to 6 triumph here this afternoon over the grim cadets from West Point.

A gay homecoming throng of 68,000 fans packed Pitt's stadium and roared applause as the Panthers, entering the final period with a 10 to 0 lead, slammed over three touchdowns in the closing minutes of strife.

In the opening period the cadets, full of the "ol' army fight," piled up the Panthers for three downs on their 25-yard line. On the fourth try, Patrick dropped back to his 31 and with Larue holding the oval, he booted it over from a slight angle.

Then the mad, topsy-turvey fourth quarter opened which saw Larue score two touchdowns and Shaw another for the Panthers. Fullback True tallied Army's single touchdown in this action-packed period also.

Charley Meyer's long pass was allowed for interference and Army took the ball on Pitt's 33. True snared Meyer's pass, tight-rope walked down the sideline for 13 yards, and took it over. Grove's kick was low.

PANTHERS DEFEAT SOUTHWESTERN, 13-0

LEGION FIELD, BIRMINGHAM, Ala., Nov. 9.—(AP)—J. B. McClendon, a sophomore end who was not good enough for the first string freshman eleven last year, grabbed two passes for touchdowns here today as Birmingham-Southern upset the favored Southwestern eleven for a 12-0 victory.

Southwestern's hopes for at least a share of the Dixie conference title faded as a result of the game, the first win of the season for Birmingham-Southern.

TIME SUPPLY WINS NEW ENGLAND 'CAP

NARRAGANSETT, PARK, PAWTUCKET, R. I., Nov. 9.—(AP)—In his first start since the Massachusetts Handicap at Suffolk Mrs. F. A. Carreaud's Time Supply won the $10,000 added New England Handicap today by a length and a half from Mrs. Isobel Dodge Sloane's Black Gift. A crowd of 30,000 attended.

Rattling through the mile and an eighth in 1:49 3-5, Time Supply set a new track record for the distance.

Time Supply paid $6.80, $2.50 and $2.20 and the prices place and show on the other horses was $2.20.

WESTERN MARYLAND BEATS EAGLES, 12-6

NEWTON, Mass., Nov. 9.—(AP)—Western Maryland, three times defeated this season, scored an unexpected victory over Boston college's football team here today, 12 to 6. Western Maryland, using only two substitutes, scored in the second and third period, Boston college's last period rally was broken up after the Eagles scored once.

DETROIT STAMPEDES BUCKNELL, 53 TO 0

DETROIT, Nov. 9.—(AP)—The Bucknell Bisons stampeded before the demoralizing overhead and running attack of the University of Detroit here today, and the Titans routed them, 53 to 0, before a homecoming day crowd of 12,000. Detroit scored in every period.

THESE LADS REALLY PLAY THAT FOOTBALL

EMMETSBURG, Iowa, Nov. 9.—(AP)—Two junior East Side football teams piled up at the line of scrimmage. After the pile was unscrambled:

Donald Weir, 14, had a broken leg.

Bill Kushner, 11, had a broken foot.

Robert Brereton, 15, had a sprained ankle.

But at a doctor's office one of the trio exclaimed:

"We'll learn that Notre Dame shift yet!"

LOUISIANA COLLEGE DEFEATS MEXICO U.

MEXICO CITY, Nov. 9.—(AP)—Louisiana college defeated the University of Mexico 27 to 7 today to win its sixth straight victory in the international football series.

Taking advantage of all the breaks, the visitors put over two touchdowns in the first quarter and two more in the fourth. They threatened to score several other times but were stopped within the Mexican's twenty-yard line.

La Marr Williams scored the University of Mexico's only touchdown with a seventy-eight yard runback of a punt in the fourth quarter.

The score:

Louisiana	14	0	0	13	—27
U. of Mexico	0	0	0	7	— 7

CALIFORNIA WHIPS WASHINGTON, 14-0

BERKELEY, Calif., Nov. 9.—(AP)—California's dreams of a great football empire—an undefeated season and the bid to represent the west in the Rose Bowl—came a step closer to reality today. The mightiest Golden Bear eleven in years smashed out a 14 to 0 victory over University of Washington's huskies, before 60,000 fans.

The Bears rammed the Washington defense to score touchdowns in the second and third periods, then staved off a spectacular closing threat.

DUQUESNE TROUNCES OKLAHOMA A. AND M.

STILLWATER, Okla., Nov. 9.—(AP)—The last trick in the Oklahoma A. and M. football deck, an offensive in the air, was trumped today by the driving aces of Duquesne and the Pennsylvanians won 20 to 0, in an intersectional contest.

The Night Riders from Pittsburgh shot through the Aggie line for three touchdowns in the first half, two climaxing long drives and the third a short smash for which a cowboy fumble provided the setting.

MARQUETTE DEFEATS MICHIGAN STATE, 13-7

EAST LANSING, Mich., Nov. 9.—(AP)—Marquette's brilliant Golden Avalanche swept to a bitterly-fought 13 to 7 victory over the Michigan State college Spartans today to keep its undefeated record intact, and mar the Home-Coming which 20,000 fans braved a threatening day to attend.

TIGERS UNLEASH STRONG RUNNING ATTACK TO WIN

Mississippi State and it was his fine tossing that gave State its first marker.

By the end of the half Louisiana State had run up a commanding lead of 21 points and was leading 28 to 7.

A long pass from Armstrong to Ward in the middle of the third quarter ended the scoring for both sides. Ward caught the toss on his own two yard line as the throw barely tipped the fingers of Crass, L. S. U. backfield man.

TENNESSEE JUNIOR GRID PLAYER DIES

MEMPHIS, Tenn., Nov. 9.—(AP)—Injured in a football game at Senatobia, Miss., yesterday, James Long, 19, of Union City, a member of the squad of the University of Tennessee junior college, Martin, Tenn., died at a hospital here early today.

During the third quarter of the game between the junior Vols and the Northwest Mississippi junior college Long, a halfback, was tackled vigorously. His head struck the ground. Teammates helped him to a bench. Apparently not seriously injured, he watched the last few minutes of play. Suddenly he toppled over, and was carried unconscious from the field.

He was suffering from a cerebral hemorrhage when brought to the hospital here. A blood clot on the brain caused his death.

He was the son of Dr. E. M. Long, Union City, dentist.

Long planned to enter the University of Tennessee, Knoxville, next fall.

BASEBALL OFFICIALS TO GET SCHOOLING

DURHAM, N. C., Nov. 9.—(AP)—Baseball players have their schools for instruction in the playing of the game, so why not club officials?

The answer is, they are going to school pretty soon. The baseball magnates have decided to tutor their club officials in administration methods.

The innovation was announced here by the press bureau of the National Association of Professional Baseball Leagues.

N. C. STATE BEATS CAVALIERS, 6 TO 0

PORTSMOUTH, Va., Nov. 9.—(AP)—North Carolina State's Wolves, playing superior football but blocked by a stubborn defense when Virginia Tech's goal was threatened, intercepted a pass to score the lone touchdown and eke out a 6 to 0 victory over the Techmen today.

NAVY TROUNCES PENN, 13 TO 0

Middies Play Smart Football To Win Before Crowd Of 75,000

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 9. — (AP) — Navy's football opportunists, submarined Pennsylvania into a 13 to 0 upset defeat today before 75,000 fans jamming huge Franklin Field to the rafters.

Navy's battlers played the smarter football throughout, to come through for the third straight victory over Penn—and over the best Quaker combination they have met in 5 years.

The two touchdowns—one in the second, the other in the third quarter—both came when lady luck put her finger on the fighting Navy footballers.

Big John Schmidt, a giant on the offense, was the first over the goal line, scoring after a penalty had put Penn deep in the hole on their own nine yard line. An intercepted pass netted the second tally, with Captain Lou Robertshaw galloping 66 yards for his first touchdown in three years in the center berth for Navy.

The Penn powerhouse, in as fine form as it has been all season, had a wide edge in the statistics, 16 first downs to four, but once the Quakers got past the Navy 40 yard line, they were unable to advance with any consistency.

Characteristics of hair may be as individual and unchanging as those of fingerprints, it is believed.

WESTENBERG MEETS SPARKS AT STADIUM THURSDAY

ALL-STAR CARD SCHEDULED FOR WRESTLING SHOW

Marvin Westenberg, powerful 225 pounder of Tacoma, Wash., who claims the heavyweight wrestling championship of the south, will tangle with Al Sparks, 225, of Alabama, in the feature match of a double main event card at Roosevelt stadium Thursday night, the local promoters announced last night. In the opening match of the all-star program, Frenchie LaRue, the rugged Canadian, will return to the stadium after an absence of several months to meet Hank Metheney, the 230 pound Missouri meanie.

Westenberg is touted as a second Jim Browning. He specializes on a scissors hold, the airplane spin and what he terms a "flying radio hold." The latter is something of a mystery here, but Westenberg says he named it that because it makes his opponents "holler in the air." Just how successful he is with it remains to be seen.

Regardless of that, four comparatively new faces will be seen at the stadium Thursday night, and that's something the fans have been requesting. Westenberg showed here about a year ago and he's plenty good. Sparks is a newcomer who bears an excellent reputation as a crowd pleaser and the promoters believe he will make a great opponent for the claimant of the southern title. LaRue hasn't shown here in several months and Metheney has been absent for a month or more.

It should be a sensational card, with the Westenberg-Sparks match presenting plenty of scientific wrestling and the LaRue-Metheney affair being a battle between two barrelhouse performers.

Al Sparks probably has the best record of any one of the four who have been booked on the big Thursday card. He has defeated Ernie and Rudy Dusek, Jim Browning and Everett Marshall and holds draws with Jim Londos, Ed Don George and other top-notch matmen. In fact, Sparks rates right along with the headliners and the promoters are fortunate in being able to book him for a match at the local stadium.

Westenberg has been going "great guns" in the south and southwest recently, particularly in Shreveport, Houston, Dallas and other mat centers in this section. He has few defeats to mar his record in this territory and Charlie Bruscato, co-promoter in the local business, said last night Westenberg is confident he can beat Sparks, despite Al's great record.

It was announced last night that there will be no advance in admission prices for the all-star show.

All mat shows will be held on Thursday nights in the future, the promoters said.

OREGON GETS BREAKS TO DEFEAT BEAVERS

EUGENE, Ore., Nov. 9.—(AP)—Taking quick advantage of the breaks, the University of Oregon Webfoots defeated the Oregon State college Beavers 13 to 0, in their Pacific Coast conference football game here today.

The Webfoots drove to both of their touchdowns, once in the first period and again in the second, after recovering Oregon State fumbles.

MANY TEAMS ARE CONSIDERED FOR SUGAR BOWL BID

Tangled Situation In South Doesn't Help Matters At Orleans

NEW ORLEANS, Nov. 9.—(AP)—The tangled inconsistencies of upset-ridden southern football are giving Sugar Bowl officials a distinct headache.

Officers of the Mid-Winter Sports association, who sponsor the classic, have the job of picking a southern representative to play an intersectional foe here New Year's day.

"Rice has beaten Louisiana State, Mississippi State has knocked off Alabama, Southern Methodist downed Rice and Vanderbilt blasted Mississippi State," Warren V. "I didn't even know those palookas when I went to school," explains Cochrane, who threatens to go to Hollywood, rent a hall, gather in all the powder puffs who claim decisions over him, and dispose of the matter once and for all.

FORDHAM, ST. MARY'S BATTLE TO 7-7 TIE

NEW YORK, Nov. 9.—(AP)—Scoring a touchdown each in a thrill-studded second period, Fordham and St. Mary's of California battled to a 7-7 tie in the fifth renewal of their colorful intersectional football rivalry today.

Fifty thousand people filed through the turnstiles of the Polo grounds to see the fun.

Except in the second heat, when almost everything in the football book happened at one time or another, it was mostly a story of two powerful lines which stood shoulder to shoulder and battered away at each other for sixty minutes of savage football.

AUBURN EASILY WINS FROM GEORGIA TECH

ATLANTA, Nov. 9.—(AP)—In a wild afternoon of football, marked by a conglomeration of passes—forwards, laterals and double laterals—the Plainsmen of Alabama Poly crushed Georgia Tech under an avalanche of touchdowns today before 14,000 fans. The score was 33 to 7.

Forced to the air as Auburn's fast-charging line broke up its ground attack, Georgia Tech gambled with everything in its bag of tricks and many times was the loser as the ever-alert Tigers of Alabama drove to touchdowns in each period.

PENN STATE UPSETS VILLANOVA, 27 TO 13

STATE COLLEGE, Pa., Nov. 9.—(AP)—Penn State's fighting Nittany Lions scored a surprising 27 to 13 victory over a favored Villanova eleven today, before 9,000 fans.

State unloosed a brilliant passing attack, effective in every period, and this, coupled with Bill Cooper's splendid line bucking, was largely responsible for the upset.

GENTLEMEN SCORE DECISIVE VICTORY OVER HURRICANES

Pair Of Sophomores Lead Shreveport Eleven To Lopsided Win

SHREVEPORT, La., Nov. 9.—(AP)—Flashing the most destructive offense a Centenary team has unleashed against a major foe in years—one that brought into play practically every type of attack, and a defense that kept the enemy well beyond their 30 yard line until late in the fourth quarter, the Gentlemen completely overwhelmed the Tulsa Golden Hurricanes in an intersectional clash here today, 22 to 0.

The Shreveporters rode to victory on the feet of a pair of sophomores, Langford Huddleston and D. D. "Grandma" Stone, whose line plunges and end sweeps gained a total of 156 yards, almost one hundred more than made by the whole Tulsa team.

Willie Mozach, another member of the reserve squad, but a junior, entered into battle late in the fray, ran wild at times against the Hurricanes, present pacemakers of the Missouri Valley conference.

The 22 points for the Gents represented three touchdowns, two points after touchdown and one safety. All the scoring was done in the last three quarters, and after the Gents started their point-making with a safety in the second period.

Four other times Centenary was close enough to the scoring station to hang to the ball and be held for downs. The Shreveporters were so completely masters of the situation that they made 17 first downs to Tulsa's four and 14 were made from scrimmage by Centenary to two for the Oklahomans. The Gents passing attack was the best in years and they completed 10 out of 18. Tulsa made five out of 17 trials.

YALE EASILY BEATS BROWN ELEVEN, 20-0

YALE BOWL, NEW HAVEN, Conn., Nov. 9.—(AP)—A Yale football team, heavily sprinkled with reserves, rose in all its fury in the last half to score three touchdowns and down a stubborn Brown Bear, 20 to 0, today.

A crowd of 12,000 sat stunned during the opening half as Brown repulsed five Yale invasions.

SYRACUSE RALLIES TO BEAT COLUMBIA

NEW YORK, N. Y., Nov. 9.—(AP)—Syracuse continued unbeaten and untied today when the orange clad football warriors put on a rousing rally in the third quarter and defeated the Columbia Lions, 14 to 2, before 24,000 spectators at Baker field.

When the vaunted Vannie Albanese crossed the Blue's goal line twice in the third period and kicked both extra points from placement it made the first time Syracuse has scored against Columbia in five years, and, likewise, the first time since 1930 the invaders have trimmed Columbia.

WASHINGTON, LEE WALLOPS VIRGINIA

LEXINGTON, Va., Nov. 9.—(AP)—Washington and Lee flashed back into the form that won Virginia and Southern conference titles for them last year and smashed Virginia, 20 to 0, in a homecoming day game here today.

Only in the first minutes of the opening quarter did the Cavaliers show any real form with the Generals having the advantage the rest of the way. A crowd of approximately 4,500 witnessed the game.

DARTMOUTH WHIPS WILLIAM AND MARY

HANOVER, N. H., Nov. 9.—(AP)—After struggling through a first quarter which threatened destruction to their unbeaten record, the Dartmouth Indians ground out a 34-0 victory over a grimly determined William and Mary team on Memorial Field here today before a crowd of 9,000.

Held to a 7-0 score at the half, a disorganized big Green eleven swung into line to roll up four tallies over the fighting Southerners in the second half. Frank Nairne, lanky halfback, carried the ball across twice.

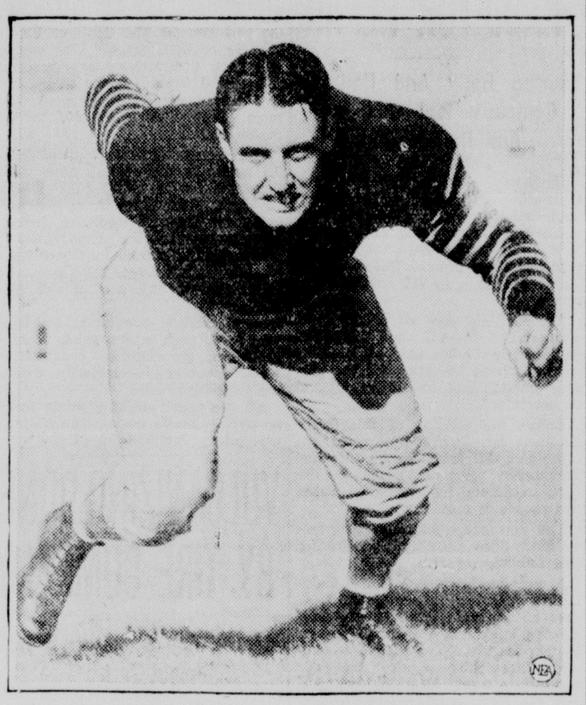

DUKE SHOWS POWER AGAINST DAVIDSON

RICHARDSON FIELD, DAVIDSON, N. C., Nov. 9.—(AP)—Duke university loosened its power, speed and deception against Davidson college here this afternoon to defeat the Wildcats before a Home-Coming crowd of 7,000 under cool, calm clear conditions. The score was 26 to 7.

FERRIDAY BEATS CHOUDRANT

FERRIDAY, La., Nov. 9.—(Special)—Continuing to click like champions, the Canines of Ferriday high school removed another obstacle, the highly rated Choudrant eleven, at Fisher field Friday afternoon, 10 to 0, and advanced another step in their march toward Coach Hugh Bateman's goal, a victory over Coach Statham Crosby's Waterproof Tigers here Thanksgiving Day in a contest which may have important bearing on the district championship.

BULWARK IN BEAR LINE

PITT ROUTS ARMY ELEVEN, 29 TO 6

Panthers Ram Over Three Touchdowns In Last Period Of Game

PITTSBURGH, Nov. 9.—(AP)—The football hosts of Pittsburgh, blasting through the line and shelling the foe from aloft, scored an amazing 29 to 6 triumph here this afternoon over the grim cadets from West Point.

A gay homecoming throng of 68,000 fans packed Pitt's stadium and roared applause as the Panthers, entering the final period with a 10 to 0 lead, slammed over three touchdowns in the closing minutes of strife.

In the opening period the cadets, full of the "ol' army fight," piled up the Panthers for three downs on their 25-yard line. On the fourth try, Patrick dropped back to his 31 and with Larue holding the oval, he booted it over from a slight angle.

Then the mad, topsy-turvey fourth quarter opened which saw Larue score two touchdowns and Shaw another for the Panthers. Fullback True tallied Army's single touchdown in this action-packed period also.

Charley Meyer's long pass was allowed for interference and Army took the ball on Pitt's 33. True snared Meyer's pass, tight-rope walked down the sideline for 13 yards, and took it over. Grove's kick was low.

PANTHERS DEFEAT SOUTHWESTERN, 13-0

LEGION FIELD, BIRMINGHAM, Ala., Nov. 9.—(AP)—J. B. McClendon, a sophomore end who was not good enough for the first string freshman eleven last year, grabbed two passes for touchdowns here today as Birmingham-Southern upset the favored Southwestern eleven for a 12-0 victory.

Southwestern's hopes for at least a share of the Dixie conference title faded as a result of the game, the first win of the season for Birmingham-Southern.

TIME SUPPLY WINS NEW ENGLAND 'CAP

NARRAGANSETT, PARK, PAWTUCKET, R. I., Nov. 9.—(AP)—In his first start since the Massachusetts Handicap at Suffolk Mrs. F. A. Carreaud's Time Supply won the $10,000 added New England Handicap today by a length and a half from Mrs. Isobel Dodge Sloane's Black Gift. A crowd of 30,000 attended.

Rattling through the mile and an eighth in 1:49 3-5, Time Supply set a new track record for the distance.

Time Supply paid $6.80, $2.50 and $2.20 and the prices place and show on the other horses was $2.20.

WESTERN MARYLAND BEATS EAGLES, 12-6

NEWTON, Mass., Nov. 9.—(AP)—Western Maryland, three times defeated this season, scored an unexpected victory over Boston college's football team here today, 12 to 6. Western Maryland, using only two substitutes, scored in the second and third period. Boston college's last period rally was broken up after the Eagles scored once.

DETROIT STAMPEDES BUCKNELL, 53 TO 0

DETROIT, Nov. 9.—(AP)—The Bucknell Bisons stampeded before the demoralizing overhead and running attack of the University of Detroit here today, and the Titans routed them, 53 to 0, before a homecoming day crowd of 12,000. Detroit scored in every period.

THESE LADS REALLY PLAY THAT FOOTBALL

EMMETSBURG, Iowa, Nov. 9.—(AP)—Two junior East Side football teams piled up at the line of scrimmage. After the pile was unscrambled:

Donald Weir, 14, had a broken leg.

Bill Kushner, 11, had a broken foot.

Robert Brereton, 15, had a sprained ankle.

But at a doctor's office one of the trio exclaimed:

"We'll learn that Notre Dame shift yet!"

LOUISIANA COLLEGE DEFEATS MEXICO U.

MEXICO CITY, Nov. 9.—(AP)—Louisiana college defeated the University of Mexico 27 to 7 today to win its sixth straight victory in the international football series.

Taking advantage of all the breaks, the visitors put over two touchdowns in the first quarter and two more in the fourth. They threatened to score several other times but were stopped within the Mexican's twenty-yard line.

La Marr Williams scored the University of Mexico's only touchdown with a seventy-eight yard runback of a punt in the fourth quarter.

The score:

Louisiana	14	0	0	13	—27

CALIFORNIA WHIPS WASHINGTON, 14-0

BERKELEY, Calif., Nov. 9.—(AP)—California's dreams of a great football empire—an undefeated season and the bid to represent the west in the Rose Bowl—came a step closer to reality today. The mightiest Golden Bear eleven in years smashed out a 14 to 0 victory over University of Washington's huskies, before 60,000 fans.

The Bears rammed the Washington defense to score touchdowns in the second and third periods, then staved off a spectacular closing threat.

DUQUESNE TROUNCES OKLAHOMA A. AND M.

STILLWATER, Okla., Nov. 9.—(AP)—The last trick in the Oklahoma A. and M. football deck, an offensive in the air, was trumped today by the driving aces of Duquesne and the Pennsylvanians won 20 to 0, in an intersectional contest.

The Night Riders from Pittsburgh shot through the Aggie line for three touchdowns in the first half, two climaxing long drives and the third a short smash for which a cowboy fumble provided the setting.

MARQUETTE DEFEATS MICHIGAN STATE, 13-7

EAST LANSING, Mich., Nov. 9.—(AP)—Marquette's brilliant Golden Avalanche swept to a bitterly-fought 13 to 7 victory over the Michigan State college Spartans today to keep its undefeated record intact, and mar the Home-Coming which 20,000 fans braved a threatening day to attend.

TIGERS UNLEASH STRONG RUNNING ATTACK TO WIN

Mississippi State and it was his fine tossing that gave State its first marker.

By the end of the half Louisiana State had run up a commanding lead of 21 points and was leading 28 to 7.

A long pass from Armstrong to Ward in the middle of the third quarter ended the scoring for both sides. Ward caught the toss on his own two yard line as the throw barely tipped the fingers of Crass, L. S. U. backfield man.

TENNESSEE JUNIOR GRID PLAYER DIES

MEMPHIS, Tenn., Nov. 9.—(AP)—Injured in a football game at Senatobia, Miss., yesterday, James Long, 19, of Union City, a member of the squad of the University of Tennessee junior college, Martin, Tenn., died at a hospital here early today.

During the third quarter of the game between the junior Vols and the Northwest Mississippi junior college Long, a halfback, was tackled vigorously. His head struck the ground. Teammates helped him to a bench. Apparently not seriously injured, he watched the last few minutes of play. Suddenly he toppled over, and was carried unconscious from the field.

He was suffering from a cerebral hemorrhage when brought to the hospital here. A blood clot on the brain caused his death.

He was the son of Dr. E. M. Long, Union City, dentist.

Long planned to enter the University of Tennessee, Knoxville, next fall.

BASEBALL OFFICIALS TO GET SCHOOLING

DURHAM, N. C., Nov. 9.—(AP)—Baseball players have their schools for instruction in the playing of the game, so why not club officials?

The answer is, they are going to school pretty soon. The baseball magnates have decided to tutor their club officials in administration methods.

The innovation was announced here by the press bureau of the National Association of Professional Baseball Leagues.

N. C. STATE BEATS CAVALIERS, 6 TO 0

PORTSMOUTH, Va., Nov. 9.—(AP)—North Carolina State's Wolves, playing superior football but blocked by a stubborn defense when Virginia Tech's goal was threatened, intercepted a pass to score the lone touchdown and eke out a 6 to 0 victory over the Techmen today.

NAVY TROUNCES PENN, 13 TO 0

Middies Play Smart Football To Win Before Crowd Of 75,000

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 9. — (AP) — Navy's football opportunists, submarined Pennsylvania into a 13 to 0 upset defeat today before 75,000 fans jamming huge Franklin Field to the rafters.

Navy's battlers played the smarter football throughout, to come through for the third straight victory over Penn—and over the best Quaker combination they have met in 5 years.

The two touchdowns—one in the second, the other in the third quarter—both came when lady luck put her finger on the fighting Navy footballers.

Big John Schmidt, a giant on the offense, was the first over the goal line, scoring after a penalty had put Penn deep in the hole on their own nine yard line. An intercepted pass netted the second tally, with Captain Lou Robertshaw galloping 66 yards for his first touchdown in three years in the center berth for Navy.

The Penn powerhouse, in as fine form as it has been all season, had a wide edge in the statistics, 16 first downs to four, but once the Quakers got past the Navy 40 yard line, they were unable to advance with any consistency.

Characteristics of hair may be as individual and unchanging as those of fingerprints, it is believed.

CARPENTER SLAIN AND BODY BURNED

Killing Takes Place In Cellar Of Home; Two Negro Women Held

FREDERICK, Md., Nov. 9.—(AP)—Manuel Silva, 40-year-old ships carpenter, was killed in the cellar of his home at Doub, near here, his body taken to Montgomery county and dumped beside the road, Sheriff Roy M. Hiltner said tonight.

The man's badly charred body was found near Rockville today. His automobile was located two miles away.

No motive had been uncovered but Frederick and Montgomery county officers arrested two negro women for questioning. They declined to give the names of the women or to say what connection they had with the slaying.

Sheriff Hiltner said it was clear that Silva had been killed in the cellar of his home. Blood stains were found there and there were signs that a terrific struggle had taken place. Bits of flesh also were found in the cellar.

Alfred Brown, 25, a negro boxer, was arrested in Montgomery county. He told officers there he was a stepson of Silva, but Sheriff Hiltner said there was no connection between the two men.

Silva was not married and lived a secluded life. A number of negroes live in the immediate vicinity.

Sheriff Hiltner said attempts had been made to burn the body but that he did not know where the attempted burning took place. Hiltner said he was confident, however, that the body was removed from Silva's home in his own automobile.

Parts of the upholstery of the car were singed.

Identification of the mangled body was made by persons who knew Silva, Sheriff Hiltner said.

The officer said Silva bore a good reputation in the community.

IN MAN HUNT

The Miami police have hit upon a beautiful scheme for tracking down suspects. Taking advantage of the known ability of Florida mermaids to get their men, they have equipped Betty Dodge with blood-hounds to assist in the manhunt.

Bernice

Members of the Baptist Women's Missionary society of Bernice held an all day meeting recently for study of "The Conquering Christ." It was taught by Mrs. M. A. Treadwell of Farmerville. Four churches were represented. Noon luncheon was served by members of the Young Woman's auxiliary.

Mr. George Grafton spent a recent week-end in Ruston with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Pool Robison.

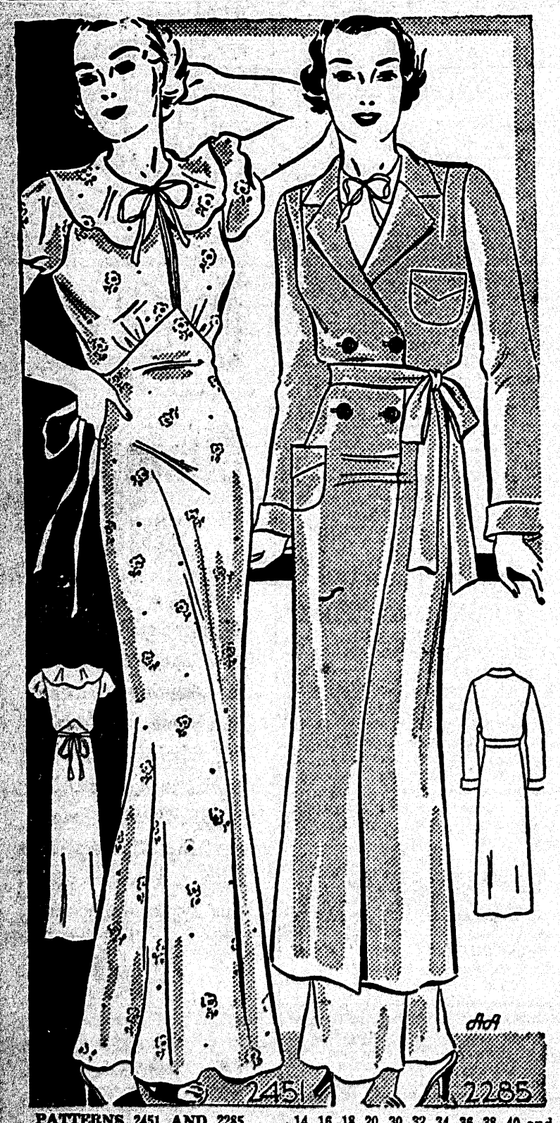

Dr. and Mrs. C. C. Colvin have returned from New Orleans, where they witnessed the Tulane-Colgate football game. Mrs. Colvin had the distinction of being one of the 12 sponsors for the game.

Miss Corty Hicks, a student at Louisiana college in Pineville, spent a recent week-end here with her parents.

A recent survey indicates that 220 cities in the United States with populations of 10,000 or more are adjacent to adequate water landing areas and could greatly benefit by marine air facilities.

INDUSTRIAL AND REVIEW OF THE TWIN CITIES

MOTORISTS BEGIN RADIATOR REPAIR

Monroe Body And Radiator Company Will Call For And Deliver Cars

Many people are beginning to have their automobiles gone over before the cold weather and, of course, this means radiator repairing, according to W. J. "Bill" Sheffield, owner and manager of the Monroe Body and Radiator company, at 712 South Grand street.

Mr. Sheffield does all of the radiator work himself and is well equipped to do this kind of job. The shop has been operating for the past four months and has many jobs to its credit.

Before the opening of this establishment Mr. Sheffield operated another at a different location. He had had seven years experience in his field and knows how to fix all makes and modes of radiators.

The company features acteylene welding, duco painting, upholstering, and radiator repair.

A complete body shop is also maintained. Repairing of major wrecks is part of the main work of the shop. Burned automobiles are also part of the service given to automobile owners. These jobs require the right methods to make them look like new, and the Monroe Body and Radiator company is equipped to do them.

An excellent service of which many customers make use is the delivery of automobiles to any part of town. If you desire you may call telephone number 9178 and your car will be called for and after the work is finished the car will be delivered to any place designated.

Mr. Sheffield urges the automobile owners of Monroe and West Monroe to try his complete service, and pay a visit to his garage at 712 South Grand street.

GRIFFIN STUDIED LATEST METHODS

Commercial Department At Studio In Charge Of Durwood Griffin

Real photography means that the photographer must have complete equipment and know the latest methods. Durwood Griffin, in charge of the commercial photography department at Griffin's studio, has made an extensive study in this field and is capable of handling all types of work.

The school of the American Photographers' association at Winona Lake, Ind., is a school for professional men. Only those who have had some actual experience in the photography field are eligible. It is open a few months each year and the teachers are prominent in the world of photography. Most of them are connected with the larger studios of the country and all are well experienced in their line.

It was under these men that Mr. Griffin studied. Portrait photography was given by Will Tolles. William Gerdes, who was connected with Perie McDonald in New York, presented a course on men's portrait photography.

Commercial work, which Mr. Griffin now specializes in, came under the direction of Mr. Cook of Kaufman-Fabry in Chicago. This course included illustrative and straight commercial work. At the studio Mr. Griffin does some portrait work, but most of his time is devoted to the commercial line.

The commercial department of Griffin studio is the official press photographer for the News-Star—World. All of the pictures for the society and industrial page are made by them.

A specialty of the department is photographing scenes in the smaller towns around Monroe. Trips are made on request to any part of this territory.

Many pictures are taken for lawyers to be used in law suits. Photographs of government construction work are taken periodically during the building process.

All the negatives of pictures made by Griffin studio are kept on file and new prints may be made at any time.

VULCANIZING DONE BY TIRE COMPANY

Monroe Tire Exchange Is Well Equipped To Do Tire Work

Many people find that the Monroe Tire exchange at 2008 DeSiard street can vulcanize their tires and save them money on tire costs. Joseph Cascio is owner and manager.

Two vulcanizing machines are a part of the equipment at the concern. One is used to repair tires and is capable of vulcanizing four at one time. The other is used to vulcanize tubes and as many as four tubes can be repaired.

The vulcanizing process is the latest method and assured a first class job, Mr. Cascio said. It saves money for car operators and gives many more miles to each tire.

The Monroe Tire exchange has been operated by Mr. Cascio for the past 10 years and serves all of the Monroe trade area. Starting with a small place, he has built up a creditable business.

New and used tires are a part of the complete stock. Firestone tires and tubes are kept in stock in all sizes for trucks and passenger cars.

The used tire line is kept complete for those who desire inexpensive tires and tubes.

Sinclair high test gasoline is handled by the Monroe Tire exchange. Sinclair is noted for its fast acceleration and power.

These high quality products and many other items are presented to the motorists of this vicinity by the Monroe Tire exchange. An invitation is extended to all local motorists to drive out and give the concern a chance to show its quality service.

Oak Grove

The Oak Grove Women's club, in its second literary meeting of the year recently at the Methodist Episcopal church, elected delegates to a state convention of Federated Women's clubs, enjoyed an interesting program and discussed other matters, according to Mrs. D. M. Copeland, secretary.

Representatives chosen by the club for the state meeting, which was held at Natchitoches, November 8-9, were: Mrs. C. H. Neely, delegates; Mrs. J. L. Kelley, alternate; Miss Alexina Disch, delegate; Mrs. A. C. Monroe, alternate; Mrs. C. E. Walcott, delegate; Mrs. M. H. O'Conell, alternate.

The club discussed the "Norma Overby scholarship fund" of the fifth district, to which it is contributing. The purpose of the fund is to better equip young women, through education, to fit themselves for teachers and the like.

The club is also interested in and contributing to an art fund. Mrs. Copeland, on behalf of the club, has forwarded checks to the Will Rogers memorial fund and to the art fund of the federated clubs.

The program consisted of: "Divisions of Louisiana", by Mrs. William McG. Dollerhide; piano solo, "Under the Double Eagle," Mrs. D. B. Fiske; "Parishes of Louisiana," by Mrs. R. V. Reeves, who gave a lengthy discussion on the division of the original 12 parishes of the state into the present number of 64. She touched upon early laws and the first settlers of West Carroll parish.

Several hundred small planes selling for around $400 have been produced in France.

CARPENTER SLAIN AND BODY BURNED

Killing Takes Place In Cellar Of Home; Two Negro Women Held

FREDERICK, Md., Nov. 9.—(AP)—Manuel Silva, 40-year-old ships carpenter, was killed in the cellar of his home at Doub, near here, his body taken to Montgomery county and dumped beside the road, Sheriff Roy M. Hiltner said tonight.

The man's badly charred body was found near Rockville today. His automobile was located two miles away.

No motive had been uncovered but Frederick and Montgomery county officers arrested two negro women for questioning. They declined to give the names of the women or to say what connection they had with the slaying.

Sheriff Hiltner said it was clear that Silva had been killed in the cellar of his home. Blood stains were found there and there were signs that a terrific struggle had taken place. Bits of flesh also were found in the cellar.

Alfred Brown, 25, a negro boxer, was arrested in Montgomery county. He told officers there he was a stepson of Silva, but Sheriff Hiltner said there was no connection between the two men.

Silva was not married and lived a secluded life. A number of negroes live in the immediate vicinity.

Sheriff Hiltner said attempts had been made to burn the body but that he did not know where the attempted burning took place. Hiltner said he was confident, however, that the body was removed from Silva's home in his own automobile.

Parts of the upholstery of the car were singed.

Identification of the mangled body was made by persons who knew Silva, Sheriff Hiltner said.

The officer said Silva bore a good reputation in the community.

IN MAN HUNT

The Miami police have hit upon a beautiful scheme for tracking down suspects. Taking advantage of the known ability of Florida mermaids to get their men, they have equipped Betty Dodge with blood-hounds to assist in the manhunt.

Bernice

Members of the Baptist Women's Missionary society of Bernice held an all day meeting recently for study of "The Conquering Christ." It was taught by Mrs. M. A. Treadwell of Farmerville. Four churches were represented. Noon luncheon was served by members of the Young Woman's auxiliary.

Mrs. George Grafton spent a recent week-end in Ruston with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Pool Robison.

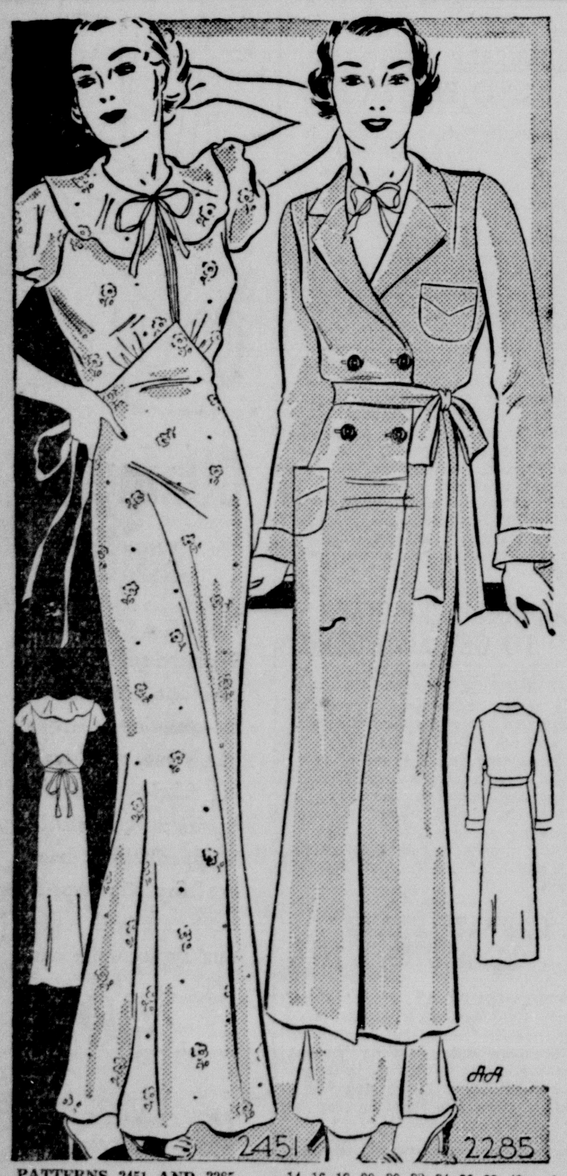

Dr. and Mrs. C. C. Colvin have returned from New Orleans, where they witnessed the Tulane-Colgate football game. Mrs. Colvin had the distinction of being one of the 12 sponsors for the game.

Miss Corty Hicks, a student at Louisiana college in Pineville, spent a recent week-end here with her parents.

A recent survey indicates that 220 cities in the United States with populations of 10,000 or more are adjacent to adequate water landing areas and could greatly benefit by marine air facilities.

MOTORISTS BEGIN RADIATOR REPAIR

Monroe Body And Radiator Company Will Call For And Deliver Cars

Many people are beginning to have their automobiles gone over before the cold weather and, of course, this means radiator repairing, according to W. J. "Bill" Sheffield, owner and manager of the Monroe Body and Radiator company, at 712 South Grand street.

Mr. Sheffield does all of the radiator work himself and is well equipped to do this kind of job. The shop has been operating for the past four months and has many jobs to its credit.

Before the opening of this establishment Mr. Sheffield operated another at a different location. He had had seven years experience in his field and knows how to fix all makes and modes of radiators.

The company features acteylene welding, duco painting, upholstering, and radiator repair.

A complete body shop is also maintained. Repairing of major wrecks is part of the main work of the shop. Burned automobiles are also part of the service given to automobile owners. These jobs require the right methods to make them look like new, and the Monroe Body and Radiator company is equipped to do them.

An excellent service of which many customers make use is the delivery of automobiles to any part of town. If you desire you may call telephone number 9178 and your car will be called for and after the work is finished the car will be delivered to any place designated.

Mr. Sheffield urges the automobile owners of Monroe and West Monroe to try his complete service, and pay a visit to his garage at 712 South Grand street.

GRIFFIN STUDIED LATEST METHODS

Commercial Department At Studio In Charge Of Durwood Griffin

Real photography means that the photographer must have complete equipment and know the latest methods. Durwood Griffin, in charge of the commercial photography department at Griffin's studio, has made an extensive study in this field and is capable of handling all types of work.

The school of the American Photographers' association at Winona Lake, Ind., is a school for professional men. Only those who have had some actual experience in the photography field are eligible. It is open a few months each year and the teachers are prominent in the world of photography. Most of them are connected with the larger studios of the country and all are well experienced in their line.

It was under these men that Mr. Griffin studied. Portrait photography was given by Will Tolles. William Gerdes, who was connected with Perie McDonald in New York, presented a course on men's portrait photography.

Commercial work, which Mr. Griffin now specializes in, came under the direction of Mr. Cook of Kaufman-Fabry in Chicago. This course included illustrative and straight commercial work. At the studio Mr. Griffin does some portrait work, but most of his time is devoted to the commercial line.

The commercial department of Griffin studio is the official press photographer for the News-Star—World. All of the pictures for the society and industrial page are made by them.

A specialty of the department is photographing scenes in the smaller towns around Monroe. Trips are made on request to any part of this territory.

Many pictures are taken for lawyers to be used in law suits. Photographs of government construction work are taken periodically during the building process.

All the negatives of pictures made by Griffin studio are kept on file and new prints may be made at any time.

VULCANIZING DONE BY TIRE COMPANY

Monroe Tire Exchange Is Well Equipped To Do Tire Work

Many people find that the Monroe Tire exchange at 2008 DeSiard street can vulcanize their tires and save them money on tire costs. Joseph Cascio is owner and manager.

Two vulcanizing machines are a part of the equipment at the concern. One is used to repair tires and is capable of vulcanizing four at one time. The other is used to vulcanize tubes and as many as four tubes can be repaired.

The vulcanizing process is the latest method and assured a first class job, Mr. Cascio said. It saves money for car operators and gives many more miles to each tire.

The Monroe Tire exchange has been operated by Mr. Cascio for the past 10 years and serves all of the Monroe trade area. Starting with a small place, he has built up a creditable business.

New and used tires are a part of the complete stock. Firestone tires and tubes are kept in stock in all sizes for trucks and passenger cars.

The used tire line is kept complete for those who desire inexpensive tires and tubes.

Sinclair high test gasoline is handled by the Monroe Tire exchange. Sinclair is noted for its fast acceleration and power.

These high quality products and many other items are presented to the motorists of this vicinity by the Monroe Tire exchange. An invitation is extended to all local motorists to drive out and give the concern a chance to show its quality service.

Davenport, superintendent of Bible and study class; Mrs. Alice Felton, superintendent of local work; and Mrs. E. M. White, superintendent of foreign boxes.

A large air transport powered by steam is reported to be under construction in Germany.

KNEE-ACTION STEPS OVER BUMPS

On city pavement or rough country roads the 1936 Oldsmobile rides smoothly and comfortably. Oldsmobile's knee-action wheels absorb all road shocks. The front wheels operate independently of each other, and step over bumps and holes. Pictured above is the new Oldsmobile Six. Below is shown the roomy rear compartment.

Cotton

New Orleans

NEW ORLEANS, Nov. 9.—(AP)—Cotton added from 25 to 50 cents a bale to Friday's gains in today's short session as speculative buying in all options continued in volume.

Better foreign markets brought a steady tone into the market here and at the start of trading futures showed fair gains.

Early high prices ranging from 7 to 9 points held for most of the dealings, but in the closing minutes of trading distant options sold off from their highs.

Profit-taking and evening up of commitments for the double holiday for armistice day accounted for most of the selling and hedge offerings were extremely light.

Cotton futures closed steady at net advances of 5 to 9 points.

AVERAGE MIDDLING PRICE

NEW ORLEANS, Nov. 9.—(AP)—The average price of middling cotton today at ten southern spot markets was 11.58 cents a pound; government subsidy on today's sales 0.42 cents a pound.

New York

NEW YORK, Nov. 9.—(AP)—A further advance in cotton today was attributed to a continuation of buying on the unexpectedly small crop figures and firmness in the markets abroad. December sold up to 11.41 and after reacting to 11.34, closed at 11.39 with the general market closing steady at net advances of 7 to 10 points.

Cotton futures closed steady 7 to 10 higher.

New York Stocks

By Victor Eubank
(Associated Press Financial Writer)

NEW YORK, Nov. 9.—The stock market sobered today after its utilities spree of yesterday and moderately mixed price movements marked comparatively quiet dealings.

Some of the rails and specialties were firm while mild profit taking appeared in various power and light issues. Fractional changes predominated at the irregular close. Transfers approximated 1,100,000 shares.

Market analysts had expected much more realizing than appeared in the brief session and constructive interpretations were placed on the absence of important selling. All financial markets will be closed Monday for Armistice day.

African war news, as for some time past, was a negligible market influence. Domestic trade developments were cheerful.

Grains furnished no support for equities. Wheat was soft most of the day. Cotton improved. Bonds were slightly mixed. Leading foreign exchanges did little, although for eastern silver currencies sagged.

Shares of Chesapeake Corp. came to life for a gain of about 3 points. Owens-Illinois Glass was up 2 or so on a few transfers. Commercial solvents was a lively performer at a gain of a point. Others, up fractions to more than 1, included Chesapeake & Ohio, Union Pacific, Santa Fe, N. Y. Central, Western Union, Barker Bros., National Acme North American Aviation, and Westinghouse Air Brake. Among the hesitant issues were American Telephone, Consolidated Gas, Public Service of New Jersey, United Corp., Mid-Continental Petroleum, Skelly Oil and Electric Auto-Lite. The steels and motors were a shade either way.

With officials of prominent power and light holding companies silent on whether they will register with the SEC by December 1, as required by the law which was found unconstitutional in Baltimore, Wall Street was guessing as to just what action the federal authorities will take in the event registrations are not forthcoming.

Considerable attention was paid to the statement of Chairman Landis of the SEC in which he said the holding company act "is valid until the supreme court declares otherwise." He also warned holding concerns that if they did not register before the first of next month, much of their corporate activity will be tainted with questionable legality.

MARKETS AT A GLANCE

NEW YORK, Nov. 9.—(AP)—Stocks irregular; week-end profit-taking resisted by specialties. Bonds mixed; U. S. governments improve. Curb uneven; profit-taking in utilities. Foreign exchanges narrow; Hongkong dollars at new low. Cotton steady; trade and foreign buying. Sugar quiet; steady spot market. Coffee inactive; some trade selling.

CHICAGO—.Wheat lower; preholiday selling. Corn easy; influenced by wheat. Cattle nominally steady. Hogs steady to higher; quotable top $9.45.

Chicago Grain

CHICAGO, Nov. 9.—(AP)—Failure of Liverpool to respond to yesterday's sharp price upturn this side of the Atlantic led to early setbacks of wheat values today in Chicago.

Opening 3-8 to 5-8 lower, December 96 1-8, the Chicago wheat market soon showed an additional sag. Corn started unchanged to 3-8 off, December 58 3-4 to 7-8, and then rallied.

Wheat closed easy, 1-4 to 3-8 under yesterday's finish, December 96 to 96 1-8, corn unchanged to 3-8 lower, December 58 3-4 to 7-8, oats unchanged to 1-8 higher, and provisions varying from 2 cents decline to an equal advance.

Cotton

New Orleans

NEW ORLEANS, Nov. 9.—(AP)—Cotton added from 25 to 50 cents a bale to Friday's gains in today's short session as speculative buying in all options continued in volume.

Better foreign markets brought a steady tone into the market here and at the start of trading futures showed fair gains.

Early high prices ranging from 7 to 9 points held for most of the dealings, but in the closing minutes of trading distant options sold off from their highs.

Profit-taking and evening up of commitments for the double holiday for armistice day accounted for most of the selling and hedge offerings were extremely light.

Cotton futures closed steady at net advances of 5 to 9 points.

ORLEANS SPOT COTTON

NEW ORLEANS, Nov. 9.—(AP)—Spot cotton closed steady, 8 points up. Sales 4,344; low middling 10.96; middling 11.76; good middling 12.31; receipts 29,682; stock 714,345.

AVERAGE MIDDLING PRICE

NEW ORLEANS, Nov. 9.—(AP)—The average price of middling cotton today at ten southern spot markets was 11.58 cents a pound; government subsidy on today's sales 0.42 cents a pound.

New York

NEW YORK, Nov. 9.—(AP)—A further advance in cotton today was attributed to a continuation of buying on the unexpectedly small crop figures and firmness in the markets abroad. December sold up to 11.41 and after reacting to 11.34, closed at 11.39 with the general market closing steady at net advances of 7 to 10 points.

Cotton futures closed steady 7 to 10 higher.

New York Stocks

By Victor Eubank
(Associated Press Financial Writer)

NEW YORK, Nov. 9.—The stock market sobered today after its utilities spree of yesterday and moderately mixed price movements marked comparatively quiet dealings.

Some of the rails and specialties were firm while mild profit taking appeared in various power and light issues. Fractional changes predominated at the irregular close. Transfers approximated 1,100,000 shares.

Market analysts had expected much more realizing than appeared in the brief session and constructive interpretations were placed on the absence of important selling. All financial markets will be closed Monday for Armistice day.

African war news, as for some time past, was a negligible market influence. Domestic trade developments were cheerful.

Grains furnished no support for equities. Wheat was soft most of the day. Cotton improved. Bonds were slightly mixed. Leading foreign exchanges did little, although for eastern silver currencies sagged.

Shares of Chesapeake Corp. came to life for a gain of about 3 points. Owens-Illinois Glass was up 2 or so on a few transfers. Commercial solvents was a lively performer at a gain of a point. Others, up fractions to more than 1, included Chesapeake & Ohio, Union Pacific, Santa Fe, N. Y. Central, Western Union, Barker Bros., National Acme North American Aviation, and Westinghouse Air Brake. Among the hesitant issues were American Telephone, Consolidated Gas, Public Service of New Jersey, United Corp., Mid-Continental Petroleum, Skelly Oil and Electric Auto-Lite. The steels and motors were a shade either way.

With officials of prominent power and light holding companies silent on whether they will register with the SEC by December 1, as required by the law which was found unconstitutional in Baltimore, Wall Street was guessing as to just what action the federal authorities will take in the event registrations are not forthcoming.

Considerable attention was paid to the statement of Chairman Landis of the SEC in which he said the holding company act "is valid until the supreme court declares otherwise." He also warned holding concerns that if they did not register before the first of next month, much of their corporate activity will be tainted with questionable legality.

MARKETS AT A GLANCE

NEW YORK, Nov. 9.—(AP)—Stocks irregular; week-end profit-taking resisted by specialties. Bonds mixed; U. S. governments improve. Curb uneven; profit-taking in utilities. Foreign exchanges narrow; Hongkong dollars at new low. Cotton steady; trade and foreign buying. Sugar quiet; steady spot market. Coffee inactive; some trade selling.

CHICAGO—Wheat lower; preholiday selling. Corn easy; influenced by wheat. Cattle nominally steady. Hogs steady to higher; quotable top $9.45.

Chicago Grain

CHICAGO, Nov. 9.—(AP)—Failure of Liverpool to respond to yesterday's sharp price upturn this side of the Atlantic led to early setbacks of wheat values today in Chicago.

Opening 3-8 to 5-8 lower, December 96 1-8, the Chicago wheat market soon showed an additional sag. Corn started unchanged to 3-8 off, December 58 3-4 to 7-8, and then rallied.

Wheat closed easy, 1-4 to 3-8 under yesterday's finish, December 96 to 96 1-8, corn unchanged to 3-8 lower, December 58 3-4 to 7-8, oats unchanged to 1-8 higher, and provisions varying from 2 cents decline to an equal advance.

LEGION HERE HAS EXTENSIVE PLANS

Will Equip Two Hospital Rooms; Other Projects Proposed

The L. B. Faulk post, American Legion, has voted to equip completely two rooms in the new tuberculosis sanatorium to be erected at Pine Top. This will include beds, chairs, tables, and other essentials.

Other features of the legion's program were discussed at the same time. A safety program was approved with Judge D. I. Garrett named as chairman. The other members are Sam Rubin, Sam Orchard and Bill Perhamus. The creation of a separate traffic police department was advocated.

Another legion project is the awarding of a silver loving cup to the Monroe citizen who has accomplished the most the past year in civic development. This will be awarded shortly after Armistice day, it was announced.

Organizing of Sons of the Legion and assistance to Boy Scouts, junior baseball projects, child welfare, and to the Red Cross and Salvation Army in their drives, are all included in the activities of the legion post.

The legion's auxiliary plays an important role in the post's activities. Mrs. Marion H. Huckaby, president, has initiated a membership drive. On Monday, the auxiliary will aid Ouachita Parish High school in its Armistice day program at that school. On Thanksgiving day, the same group will give a program at the veterans' hospital in Alexandria. Christmas boxes will also be sent out to the veterans in this hospital.

TO INCREASE WAGE SCALE FOR BRICK, PLASTER WORK

The scale of wages of the bricklayers, plasterers and tile setters' local union will be raised February 1 from $8 per day to $12, it was announced by Joseph Nelson, treasurer of the union.

The increase in the cost of living was given as the reason for the scale increase.

February 1 was set as the date for the wage advance so that contractors in the intervening period when figuring contracts for work to be done after that date will make their bids accordingly.

APPOINTED SUPERVISOR

COLUMBIA, La., Nov. 9.—(Special)—Mrs. Earl Harris has been appointed supervisor of music in the schools of Caldwell parish. She is visiting each school in the parish once each week.

HEPBURN MARRIED? OR IS IT THE 'BUNK'?

Leland Hayward (left), manager of Katharine Hepburn, screen star, says reports they are married are "bunk." The reports grew from a chance remark of Hayward, who, irritated by questioners, said he was "not a celebrity nor a screen star, but only her husband." They were forced down at Pittsburgh on a cross-country flight. After alighting from the plane, Miss Hepburn narrowly escaped serious injury as she ran near the whirling propellers. She is shown (right) lounging in men's clothes which she prefers on occasions. (Associated Press Photos)

CIVIC CENTER IS ADVOCATED HERE

Central Trades And Labor Council Urging Action By City

The Central Trades and Labor council has approved a resolution approving the establishment of a community center in Monroe, where recreational and educational activities may be carried on.

The resolution recites that the construction of such a center will furnish superior accommodations to meet special needs, and may be done through the use of federal funds.

It further states that the labor council endorses the movement to secure the necessary funds for the construction of the proposed center, if such funds are available from federal sources. Also it is urged that the prevailing wage scale be paid to labor in construction work on the center.

When completed it is advocated that its custody be placed in the hands of the commissioner of streets and parks with the explicit understanding that each year, for two consecutive days, the use of this center shall be dedicated to the exclusive use of the Central Trades and Labor council in its celebration of Labor day.

All social, welfare and civic organizations in the city are urged to similarly endorse the project with a view to obtaining early action on it.

Copies of the resolution were furnished the local municipal authorities and given to the press.

COLLEGE PRESIDENT TO OCCUPY LOCAL PULPIT

Dr. Pierce Cline, president of Centenary college, will preach at the First Methodist church this morning at the 11 o'clock service hour. The service will be in the nature of an Armistice day exercise and it is expected that there will be a large attendance. Veterans of the wars in which the country has been engaged will be specially interested in the service, it was stated.

EPISCOPALIANS TO HEAR BISHOP

Large Monroe And North Louisiana Group To Go To Shreveport

A large delegation from Monroe representing Grace Episcopal church, headed by Rev. E. F. Hayward, rector, and from churches at Bastrop, Alexandria, Rayville, Oak Ridge and Tallulah of this denomination, will attend a series of special services at St. Mark's church in Shreveport conducted by Bishop Hobson of Ohio, chairman of the Forward Movement Commission of Episcopal churches.

The bishop will speak in an Armistice address at 11 a.m. today at the Shreveport church and at 7:30 p.m. today at the same place when a mass meeting will be held.

On Monday conferences will be conducted in Shreveport by the bishop in which rectors and leaders of Louisiana Episcopal churches will participate.

Bishop Hobson has made an outstanding record in his church and also was distinguished in the World war. The distinguished service cross was awarded him for extraordinary heroism in action near St. Mihiel, France, September 12, 1918. Though being twice wounded within 10 minutes from the start of the advance, being in charge of the assault battalion, and realizing the importance of its operations, he directed his command throughout the day until fighting ceased.

GOVERNMENT POSITIONS FOR PHYSICIANS OPEN

Competitive examinations are to be held to fill several physicians' positions in the government civil service, according to information received at St. Francis sanitarium. Physicians desiring to take the examinations are requested to apply to the United States civil service commission, Washington, D. C., before November 25.

The positions open and the salaries of each are as follows: Senior public health consultant, $4,600 a year; public health consultant, $3,800 a year; associate public health consultant, $3,200 a year; assistant public health consultant, $2,000 a year; consultant, $2,000 a year.

RESERVE OFFICERS' MEET SLATED TUESDAY NIGHT

A meeting of reserve officers of Monroe and vicinity will be held Tuesday night 7:30 o'clock in the city courtroom here. Instructors and their subjects will be: First Lt. Robert C. Buckner, "Infantry in Battle—Rules," and Second Lt. William C. Carlton, "Infantry in Battle—Surprise."

PARISH CANNERY PROVES TO BE HIGHLY POPULAR

During the five successive months ending with September, the output of the Ouachita parish canning plant in West Monroe reached the highest peak of production in the history of the operation of the project, according to Mrs. C. A. Kincaid, supervisor. A total of 40,372 pints of vegetables valued at $7,674.70 was canned.

In May, 1,325 pints and 359 quarts were canned; in June 6,415 pints and 3,938 quarts; in July, 13,186 pints and 3,580 quarts; August, 1,886 pints and 548 quarts; September, 206 pints and 252 quarts.

The largest output of any single day was on July 15, when 3,197 No. 2 cans were filled. A total of 162 new families did canning work during the summer.

Starting with October, fall canning of meats was begun. This will continue until the first of the year.

This plant is operated by the Ouachita parish police jury and its facilities are at the disposal of the public free of charge.

MRS. WATSON NAMED HEAD OF CLAIBORNE RED CROSS

HOMER, La., Nov. 9.—(Special)—Mrs. Wideman Watson was appointed chairman of the Claiborne parish chapter of the American Red Cross at a reorganization meeting held Friday afternoon at the city hall.

Other officers elected included Mrs. E. A. Campbell, vice-chairman; Mrs. W. E. Fine, secretary-treasurer; the Rev. C. G. McClure, roll call chairman.

The membership drive will begin November 11 and continue through Thanksgiving day.

No minimum flying experience is required for glider pilot applicants.

EPISCOPALIANS TO HEAR BISHOP

Large Monroe And North Louisiana Group To Go To Shreveport

A large delegation from Monroe representing Grace Episcopal church, headed by Rev. E. F. Hayward, rector, and from churches at Bastrop, Alexandria, Rayville, Oak Ridge and Tallulah of this denomination, will attend a series of special services at St. Mark's church in Shreveport conducted by Bishop Hobson of Ohio, chairman of the Forward Movement Commission of Episcopal churches.

The bishop will speak in an Armistice address at 11 a.m. today at the Shreveport church and at 7:30 p.m. today at the same place when a mass meeting will be held.

On Monday conferences will be conducted in Shreveport by the bishop in which rectors and leaders of Louisiana Episcopal churches will participate.

Bishop Hobson has made an outstanding record in his church and also was distinguished in the World war. The distinguished service cross was awarded him for extraordinary heroism in action near St. Mihiel, France, September 12, 1918. Though being twice wounded within 10 minutes from the start of the advance, being in charge of the assault battalion, and realizing the importance of its operations, he directed his command throughout the day until fighting ceased.

GOVERNMENT POSITIONS FOR PHYSICIANS OPEN

Competitive examinations are to be held to fill several physicians' positions in the government civil service, according to information received at St. Francis sanitarium. Physicians desiring to take the examinations are requested to apply to the United States civil service commission, Washington, D. C., before November 25.

The positions open and the salaries of each are as follows: Senior public health consultant, $4,600 a year; public health consultant, $3,800 a year; associate public health consultant, $3,200 a year; assistant public health consultant, $2,000 a year; consultant, $2,000 a year.

RESERVE OFFICERS' MEET SLATED TUESDAY NIGHT

A meeting of reserve officers of Monroe and vicinity will be held Tuesday night 7:30 o'clock in the city courtroom here. Instructors and their subjects will be: First Lt. Robert C. Buckner, "Infantry in Battle—Rules," and Second Lt. William C. Carlton, "Infantry in Battle—Surprise."

PARISH CANNERY PROVES TO BE HIGHLY POPULAR

During the five successive months ending with September, the output of the Ouachita parish canning plant in West Monroe reached the highest peak of production in the history of the operation of the project, according to Mrs. C. A. Kincaid, supervisor. A total of 40,372 pints of vegetables valued at $7,674.70 was canned.

In May, 1,325 pints and 359 quarts were canned; in June 6,415 pints and 3,938 quarts; in July, 13,186 pints and 3,580 quarts; August, 1,886 pints and 548 quarts; September, 206 pints and 252 quarts.

The largest output of any single day was on July 15, when 3,197 No. 2 cans were filled. A total of 162 new families did canning work during the summer.

Starting with October, fall canning of meats was begun. This will continue until the first of the year.

This plant is operated by the Ouachita parish police jury and its facilities are at the disposal of the public free of charge.

MRS. WATSON NAMED HEAD OF CLAIBORNE RED CROSS

HOMER, La., Nov. 9.—(Special)—Mrs. Wideman Watson was appointed chairman of the Claiborne parish chapter of the American Red Cross at a reorganization meeting held Friday afternoon at the city hall.

Other officers elected included Mrs. E. A. Campbell, vice-chairman; Mrs. W. E. Fine, secretary-treasurer; the Rev. C. G. McClure, roll call chairman.

The membership drive will begin November 11 and continue through Thanksgiving day.

No minimum flying experience is required for glider pilot applicants.

Season To Settle Down And Enjoy Home Life Has Arrived

Fall Is Time Of Year To Hover At Fireside

Monroe Has Number Of Beautiful And Cheery Homes; Large Crowds Attended Carnival Given By Catholic Church

By Eve Bradford

Now is the time to pile the hearth-logs high and to fill the house with fruity cheer from summer's bursting hoard. Now is the time to pop the crackling corn, to heap ruddy apples in a bowl, to settle down among the pillows on a nearby couch or to set up the bridge table for arriving guests. In such a room, where families gather and friends drop in, the whole story of our life is written. There is real feeling and much sentiment associated with chairs and tables where loved ones, who are no longer with us, faced life even as you and I. Some one has said: "A house should be like a deep wood. It should have peace, beauty and ease of soul and body. And always and always the knowledge that whenever and however you come, late or early, in sorrow or in joy, you will find faithful friends waiting with a welcome as sincere as it is silent."

This is the season to trot out the snowy napery, to polish the family silver and to spread the feast at the dinner table, where memories of hundreds of happy evenings cast an imperceptible aurora along the candle-lit board. Hurried snacks and wayside lunches are all right during the summer but winter brings the fuller, richer mode of living. Each year when November and the approaching holiday season rolls around we experience the same thrill in our homes, in arriving guests, the perfectly prepared dinner and the shining brightness around us. Seasons come and go but underneath are the everlasting arms of our homes, waiting to encompass us about when winter comes.

Unless you have seen Cherry Bernstein's home of a late winter afternoon, bathed in the soft firelight glow and exuding peace and beauty, you have missed something that lingers in your memory like sweet music. If you have never seen Vada Bancroft in her spacious, comfortable home, with her lovely little brood of children around her, then you have missed a really beautiful sight. Vada is acknowledged to be the perfect mother, the perfect hostess, and in fact, a really wonderful sort of person.

The home of the Malcolm Biedenharns is new only in the sense that it has just recently been built. In every room, there is a reminder of Francesca's youth. The handsome mahogany dining table, polished like a mirror, belonged to her maternal grandmother. The mahogany dropleaf table of early Georgian period, in the living room, supported her small hands when she was learning to walk and on the handsome Venetian marble mantel in the drawing room are objects of art handed down from generation to generation. Speaking of this handsome home, reminds us how really lovely Francesca looked as she walked down the winding stairway with its iron grill work, reminiscent of French colonial days. In the drawing room the palest shade of blue predominates. The room is lighted by a dozen lamps, softly shaded. It was Francesa's idea that the high paneled ceiling be unmarred by chandeliers. The day we called it happened to be uncomfortably cool outside, so you can imagine our delight to find flames leaping in the great fireplace in the solarium. In this room, with its deep cushioned chairs and divans drawn close to the fireside, many happy moments are spent, en famille.

Another new home that will know sunlight, charm and warmth of hospitality is the one recently occupied by the Thomas Monks, Summie, with her beautiful voice, artistic nature and talent for painting, will soon have this home radiating her own lovely personality. Summie and Tom established themselves last week in their new home, where the picturesque bayou flows past their front door.

A perfect maze of men and women walked up and down the line at St. Matthew's Catholic church carnival last week. Swelling the crowd were politicians, who were everywhere, shaking hands and smiling. At one table, having dinner together, we saw a number of political opponents, seemingly the best of friends. Also saw Dora Anish, looking sartorially perfect in a smart black frock with an enormous gold buckle at the waistline. At the Business and Professional women's luncheon table we saw Beatrice Thurman, in a grey outfit that was most becoming. Lizzie Morris, the most beloved woman in all Monroe, was hurrying hither and yon, welcoming people, showing them their table and, in fact, acting in capacity of hostess. Mable Horuff, of course, was behind the scenes, shouldering the mighty undertaking. When Mable is supporting the props you can rest assured they are steady and secure. We glimpsed Corinne Bernstein in the crowd and hurried over for a little chat. She is so vitally alive and so fond of people. Even a fractured ankle fails to keep her away from her friends.

Winter Reading Season

When the north wind blows and the skies are overcast and grey, the nicest place in the world is your own fireside, where, shut in from the world, you can enjoy a quiet evening with a good book for a companion. Books smile at one from the shelves these first days of early winter and homes take on a more intimate atmosphere when blinds are drawn and doors closed against winter's cold.

The Monroe Public library is again becoming the favorite rendezvous of readers, who, lacking a warm fireside of their own, enjoy the quiet comfort of the spacious reading room.

We discovered several new books on the shelves, prominent among them being Anne Morrow Lindbergh's "North to the Orient." It is a travel narrative which describes the flight the Lindberghs made to the Orient in the summer of 1931.

Mrs. Lindbergh deals with the flight from the point of view of her personal experiences, beginning with the careful preparations and telling in detail the difficulties she met with in learning to be a radio operator. Once the flight is under way, the narrative becomes a dramatic and fascinating one, describing the hours of uncertainty and danger, the friendly encounters along the way, and thousand unexpected things that happened.

The story is about people and places, ice-barriered hamlets, Soviet outposts, a fishermen's hut where hunger overcame Colonel Lindberg's doubt about the food, Chinese peasants caught in the flood, forced landings and the stowaway discovered at Osaka.

Another book we can recommend is "Asylum," by William Seabrook.

Any one familiar with Mr. Seabrooks stories of adventure will know what to expect of "Asylum" in the way of vivid details and interesting analysis of himself and others.

In this story Seabrook has managed to tell the whole amazing story of an asylum. Not only does he gives a detailed record of the group life—routine, walks, work, gym dances, church, card games, movies and so on—and reveal the ideas or ideals behind the methods now used; he also displays an ability to bring the characters of the asylum to life, whether they are patients, doctors, nurses or visitors. Among the many patients he describes are: the man who was too superior to live; the man whose trouble was women; and Seabrook, whose trouble was drink. There are many, many others who come into the story to stay, like the man who ate the Xmas tree ornaments.

Nowadays we call asylums "mental hospitals." But to Mr. Seabrook it was asylum. And he was locked up in one for seven months.

You will turn the last leaf of Ellen Glasgow's "Vein of Iron" reluctantly.

The vein of iron—the will to live, the soundness and fortitudes which draw generations together—this is the theme of Ellen Glasgow's major work, an honest story of modern life.

The book opens in 1901. The Fincastle family had lived for generations in Great Valley, Virginia. They were part of its fields and streams and mountain peaks, of its religion traditions, and laws. To Grandmother Fincastle, heroic Presbyterian, it was tragic that her son John should turn into a free thinking philosopher and be cast out of the ministry for heresy. But she stayed on in the old house caring for him and his delicate wife, Mary Evelyn. The story centers quickly in the love of Ada Fincastle, daughter of John, and Ralph McBride, and follows them through a tragic disappointment, through happiness, a war separation, short prosperous years in Tidewater, and the problems of the 1930's.

Other late books recommended are:

"The Corpse in the Coppice," a murder story by R. A. J. Walling.

"Ripe Breadfruit," an Hawaiian romance, by Von Tempski.

"Mary, Queen of Scotland, and the Isles," biography, by Stefan Zweig.

Old Things Revived

It is easy to travel the road to yesterday in Monroe, where you encounter, here and there, reminders of "befo' de wah" existence. Monroe homes could offer up a rich yield of precious heirlooms if old attics were ransacked and old trunks opened to the light of day. Since the craze for old china and glassware has taken the country by storm, conventional patterns of the seventies have been brought forth from cupboards where they were pushed into the background by owners who preferred the more up-to-date patterns.

So brimming with sentiment is the native Louisianan, everything associated with those days of gracious living has been carefully preserved. Out of sight, perhaps, but nevertheless still in possession of each generation who treasures everything associated with the romantic past.

One of the rarest patterns of glassware now in possession of several Monroe women is the Princess Feather, sometimes called Rochelle. It is a lively sparkling glass with a lacy, feathery design encompassed by fine diamond points. Roman Rosette, its clear pinwheels against a stippled background is again in favor and is being brought to the fore in many homes. Familiar patterns are the fish scale cane, which has the effect of caned chairs; herringbone, resembling the stitch of that name; diamond-quilted, wheat and barley, pleat and panel, basket weave, palmette and thousand eye. The latter pattern has been reproduced, but the old glass is told by its diminishing "eyes" and the tiny diamond points which separate them.

All these are registered patterns and therefore prized by collectors.

From the historical point of view, the most interesting pattern of the sixties is Lincoln Drape. It was made in 1866 following the death of the great emancipator, and there are two designs, one with and one without a tassel. The tassel, it is interesting to note, shows the influences of the Victorian period when draperies pillows and footstools were so adorned.

Jumbo glass, also of the frosted and clear type, harks back to the days of Barnum when a great elephant of the name was particularly beloved by children.

Polar Bear glass with its arctic scene is strikingly beautiful in the forms of pitcher, goblets and tray. Refreshingly cool in appearance, it suggests the grateful sound of clinking ice on a warm summer day. Closely allied to this group, which may be classified as pictorial or frosted and clear, there are the exquisite Cape Cod and Canadian patterns which are similar. Other designs include Dog and Deer, Stork, Eagle, and Pheasant.

Besides there were the milk white glass hens which contained mustard, the odd pieces of marble or slag, and best of all, the gorgeous cranberry reds, the polka dot blues, the translucent ambers, canary yellows and apple greens—old pieces which brightened grandmother's corner cupboard after the Civil war just as the World war period was followed by a vogue for orchid bathrooms and kitchens accented with tomato red.

Know the old glass dishes in your home. If they are 40 or 50 years old they are being collected. Get them out and use them. Serve the breakfast eggs in the old hen-covered dish. Put hard candies in the huge old sugar bowl. Arrange flowers in the spoonholder and celery vase. Give the old opalescent polka dot (inverted thumbprint) water pitcher a place in the sun. Set the old canary-colored compote in a sunless room.

Mr. and Mrs. Alden Shotwell are spending a few days in New Orleans this week.

Mr. and Mrs. S. J. Gianelloni and little daughter, Doris, are spending the week-end in Baton Rouge, where they attended the football game yesterday.

Mrs. Bates Thomas of Houston, Tex., was a guest of Mrs. Annie Sanders on Pine street during the past week-end.

Mr. and Mrs. Carl McHenry and Mr. and Mrs. H. W. Engstrom are guests this week at a house party in the Oscar Nelson home, White Sulphur Springs, Va.

Mr. and Mrs. Ned Wilson are enjoying a few days in Baton Rouge, where they attended the ball game Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter Rhodes and daughter, Phillis, are week-end visitors in Baton Rouge.

Members of the Euchre club enjoyed a delightful evening Friday when they were entertained in the home of Mr. and Mrs. G. B. Cooley on South Grand street, with Mrs. Minnie Ruffin hostess. At the conclusion of the games, prizes were awarded Mrs. Percy Sandel and Mrs. Albert Horuff for high hand. Mrs. B. D. Hodges and Mr. J. R. Gilhula were the recipients of the prizes for low hand. An appetizing supper was served to the members who were present on this occasion.

Friends of Mrs. A. E. Pennfield, 101 Linderman avenue, West Monroe, will be delighted to learn that she is recovering from a recent illness.

Miss Eve Bradford is spending a few days in New Orleans.

Thomas White, member of the Ouachita parish glee club, who recently underwent an operation at the clinic, is improving nicely and friends will be permitted to call during his convalescence.

A cake walk sponsored by the Liberty Home Demonstration club will be given Tuesday evening, November 12, at 7:30 p.m. at the home of Mrs. Steve Sims on the Dixie-Overland highway. The proceeds of this event will go toward the fund for building a cabin for the use of the members of the club.

News of our boys and girls who are attending L. S. U. is always interesting to home folks. Last week, during homecoming week at the university, Milton Coverdale, Jr., who is a student in the law department was selected to be the escort of Miss Helene King, who presided as queen of homecoming week and was also queen of the annual ball given in connection with this event.

Friends of Mr. Edward Strong, who is ill in the Missouri Pacific hospital in St. Louis, Mo., will be delighted to learn that his condition is much improved.

Mrs. Joseph Thomas Cook announce the marriage of her daughter, Frances Ruth, to Mr. Warren Purvis Greer, Tuesday, August sixth, nineteen hundred and thirty-five, in Bastrop, La. Mr. and Mrs. Greer are residing in Rayville.

Mr. and Mrs. Anthony Thebo are expecting as their guests this week-end Mrs. Thomas Sculley and Mrs. R. W. Noble of Temple, Texas, and Mr. and Mrs. H. Tweedy of Houston, Texas, who have been touring south Louisiana through New Orleans and the Teche country. They will be guests in Monroe for several days.

Among the motorists who went to Baton Rouge to attend the Mississippi-Louisiana football game are Mr. and Mrs. Jack Rogers, Mrs. Morris Haas, Mr. Gordon Cummings, Mr. Sam Brown and Mr. Arthur Taliaferro.

Among the members of the younger set who motored over to Shreveport to attend the Ouachita-Byrd game were Miss Garguerite McHenry, Miss Kathleen Roleigh, Miss Louis Fudickar and Miss Martha Jane Hill. While in Shreveport, they were guests of friends and relatives.

Friends of Mr. G. V. Mahoney will regret to learn that it was necessary for him to undergo an operation at St. Francis sanitarium Friday night.

Mrs. Clare Williams and Mrs. Ruth Ross were guests in Shreveport during the past week-end.

The meeting of the Fine Arts club scheduled for last week will be held Monday evening at eight o'clock at the home of Mrs. J. Norman Coon on South Grand street.

Red Embroidery Brightens This Smart Blue Ensemble

From the London fashion scene comes this navy blue zibeline suit, embroidered with bright red soutasche embroidery on the revers, pockets and zibeline fez hat. The fringe hanging from the hat is in blue and the red chiffon blouse, which has a pleated front, repeats the color of the embroidery.

Wrapping Paper Attractive

If you visited certain Monroe shops last week, you no doubt caught your first glimpse of this year's fascinating gift paper for Christmas packages. Never, to our way of thinking, has it been quite so exquisite and quite so decorative.

In six weeks' time the excitement of dressing and wrapping gift packages attractively, to manifest one's ingenuity, will be here again. The shops about town are showing assortments of exquisite wrapping paper, seals, ribbons, and tags with which to do those Christmas gifts up in a tantalizing manner, to hand out when the day of days arrives.

Boxes containing all the paraphernalia, classed as ensembles, contain several sheets of gay wrapping paper, size 20 by 30, about 50 feet of assorted paper tie ribbon, 15 attractive seals and several tags. This is the ideal way to purchase gift dressings, for you have all the necessary accessories in one package, and always are sure of being correct.

Combinations of colors for finishing touches are something to consider. The many gay and handsome selections on the market have replaced the traditional green and red combinations of color. Bright polka dots of huge size, and graceful gold and silver ships sailing over a blue background are new. Flame red cellulose with smart shiny and brilliant black ribbons, also of cellulose are attractive. Cover a white box with uncolored cellulose and note how it puts zip into the otherwise plain whiteness of the box. Then add a cherry red ribbon of sparkling cellulose and the gayest gift box possible is the pleasant result. The attractive holiday designs of store boxes can be enhanced by simply using the uncolored cellulose material. And, of course, one may finish the job with gay ribbons or seals.

A swanky and modern touch to one's gift package is made possible with seals, which give a package glamor. Seals are available in all sizes, designs, and colors. Silhouette seals of maids in voluminous skirts, reindeer, and the popular Scottie in silver or black, instantly glorify a drab, uninteresting package into something mysterious and alluring. Stickers of gold and bronze are good. Peppermint candy cane seals come in lengths from a few inches to almost a yard long. A deft touch of individuality may be accomplished by the addition of tiny metal bells attached to the ribbon which binds together the gift box, making it obvious that said gift must be a ringing good one.

Ribbon and ribbonette tape of cellulose material are being used more and more, not only for Christmas time, but for gifts throughout the year. And it's no wonder. They certainly do things to a gift package which no other ribbon does. This modern ribbon is made in several widths, from a fourth of an inch up, and is available in many sparkling colors, in color combinations, and in special patterns and holiday designs.

Time To Plant

Now is the time to plant your bulbs for spring blooming, according to a member of the Monroe Garden club who is a successful grower of bulbs. She says:

"Such bulbs as narcissus, tulips, hyacinths, crocus and others of the 'Dutch' family should be planted now as soon as possible. If you can plant them immediately after the first real rain or even before, so much the better, for the roots will have time to form before cold weather comes, and the stronger the root system the better the flowers at blooming time.

"A formal bulb bed may be yours if desired, but if you are a wise home owner with only an average garden in which to work you probably will prefer to plant as nature, herself, would have planted had she enjoyed your chance!

"If you want all your bulbs of a given variety to mature to bloom together, you must be sure that each bulb you set out is placed at an identical depth; otherwise there will be a difference in the time of flowering. Yet, first of all you need a plan.

"You will want to select the bulb outlay that will give you the greatest return for the amount of money and labor expended, and to do this you should study current catalogs issued by reputable houses. Most garden enthusiasts agree that the bulb bed affording the greatest pleasure is one which blooms in all seasons, and to get just such a succession of blossoms you will have to set out a variety of bulbs; for instance, a goodly number of ranunculus and anemones with a fore-border of crocus. You will want snowdrops, bulbous iris, tulips, narcissus, hyacinths, watsonias, gladioli and lilies. Practically all of these may be planted now, though "baby glads" are the type of gladiolus for fall planting.

"Now that you have decided just what bulbs you are going to plant in your bed, you can turn to preparation and site selection. As a general rule, it is wise to grow such plants in partial shade. In reality, bulbs require both sun and shade during the day, and the best location for your garden probably will be near large trees or shrubs. At the same time you must see that your planting is so arranged that the shade medium will not rob it of essential moisture!

"In planting bulbs, see that the bottoms are placed directly on a little bed of sand, peat moss, or loose soil. Often there is danger of 'hanging' the bulbs by leaving an air space below them which either causes drying out or allows the water to collect and promote decay.

"There can be no set rule for the distance apart to plant bulbs. However, if they are planted in formal beds where they will be lifted each year and reset, they may be placed as close together as three times their diameter. If the bulbs are planted in groups, a 'natural' arrangement, and are to remain the proverbial three years, then you will need to space them a little farther apart to allow for multiplication."

Now is the time to pile the hearth-logs high and to fill the house with fruity cheer from summer's bursting hoard. Now is the time to pop the cracking corn, to heap ruddy apples in a bowl, to settle down among the pillows on a nearby couch or to set up the bridge table for arriving guests. In such a room, where families gather and friends drop in, the whole story of our life is written. There is real feeling and much sentiment associated with chairs and tables where loved ones, who are no longer with us, faced life even as you and I. Some one has said: "A house should be like a deep wood. It should have peace, beauty and ease of soul and body. And always and always the knowledge that whenever and however you come, late or early, in sorrow or in joy, you will find faithful friends waiting with a welcome as sincere as it is silent."

This is the season to trot out the snowy napery, to polish the family silver and to spread the feast at the dinner table, where memories of hundreds of happy evenings cast an imperceptible aurora along the candlelit board. Hurried snacks and wayside lunches are all right during the summer but winter brings the fuller, richer mode of living. Each year when November and the approaching holiday season rolls around we experience the same thrill in our homes, in arriving guests, the perfectly prepared dinner and the shining brightness around us. Seasons come and go but underneath are the everlasting arms of our homes, waiting to encompass us about when winter comes.

Unless you have seen Cherry Bernstein's home of a late winter afternoon, bathed in the soft firelight glow and exuding peace and beauty, you have missed something that lingers in your memory like sweet music. If you have never seen Vada Bancroft in her spacious, comfortable home, with her lovely little brood of children around her, then you have missed a really beautiful sight. Vada is acknowledged to be the perfect mother, the perfect hostess, and in fact, a really wonderful sort of person.

The home of the Malcolm Biedenharns is new only in the sense that it has just recently been built. In every room, there is a reminder of Francesca's youth. The handsome mahogany dining table, polished like a mirror, belonged to her maternal grandmother. The mahogany dropleaf table of early Georgian period, in the living room, supported her small hands when she was learning to walk and on the handsome Venetian marble mantel in the drawing room are objects of art handed down from generation to generation. Speaking of this handsome home, reminds us how really lovely Francesca looked as she walked down the winding stairway with its iron grill work, reminiscent of French colonial days. In the drawing room the palest shade of blue predominates. The room is lighted by a dozen lamps, softly shaded. It was Francesa's idea that the high paneled ceiling be unmarred by chandeliers. The day we called it happened to be uncomfortably cool outside, so you can imagine our delight to find flames leaping in the great fireplace in the solarium. In this room, with its deep cushioned chairs and divans drawn close to the fireside, many happy moments are spent, en famille.

Another new home that will know sunlight, charm and warmth of hospitality is the one recently occupied by the Thomas Monks, Summie, with her beautiful voice, artistic nature and talent for painting, will soon have this home radiating her own lovely personality. Summie and Tom established themselves last week in their new home, where the picturesque bayou flows past their front door.

A perfect maze of men and women walked up and down the line at St. Matthew's Catholic church carnival last week. Swelling the crowd were politicians, who were everywhere, shaking hands and smiling. At one table, having dinner together, we saw a number of political opponents, seemingly the best of friends. Also saw Dora Anish, looking sartorially perfect in a smart black frock with an enormous gold buckle at the waistline. At the Business and Professional women's luncheon table we saw Beatrice Thurman, in a grey outfit that was most becoming. Lizzie Morris, the most beloved woman in all Monroe, was hurrying hither and yon, welcoming people, showing them their table and, in fact, acting in capacity of hostess. Mable Horuff, of course, was behind the scenes, shouldering the mighty undertaking. When Mable is supporting the props you can rest assured they are steady and secure. We glimpsed Corinne Bernstein in the crowd and hurried over for a little chat. She is so vitally alive and so fond of people. Even a fractured ankle fails to keep her away from her friends.

Winter Reading Season

When the north wind blows and the skies are overcast and grey, the nicest place in the world is your own fireside, where, shut in from the world, you can enjoy a quiet evening with a good book for a companion. Books smile at one from the shelves these first days of early winter and homes take on a more intimate atmosphere when blinds are drawn and doors closed against winter's cold.

The Monroe Public library is again becoming the favorite rendezvous of readers, who, lacking a warm fireside of their own, enjoy the quiet comfort of the spacious reading room.

We discovered several new books on the shelves, prominent among them being Anne Morrow Lindbergh's "North to the Orient." It is a travel narrative which describes the flight the Lindberghs made to the Orient in the summer of 1931.

Mrs. Lindbergh deals with the flight from the point of view of her personal experiences, beginning with the careful preparations and telling in detail the difficulties she met with in learning to be a radio operator. Once the flight is under way, the narrative becomes a dramatic and fascinating one, describing the hours of uncertainty and danger, the friendly encounters along the way, and thousand unexpected things that happened.

The story is about people and places, ice-barriered hamlets, Soviet outposts, a fishermen's hut where hunger overcame Colonel Lindberg's doubt about the food, Chinese peasants caught in the flood, forced landings and the stowaway discovered at Osaka.

Another book we can recommend is "Asylum," by William Seabrook.

Any one familiar with Mr. Seabrooks stories of adventure will know what to expect of "Asylum" in the way of vivid details and interesting analysis of himself and others.

In this story Seabrook has managed to tell the whole amazing story of an asylum. Not only does he gives a detailed record of the group life—routine, walks, work, gym dances, church, card games, movies and so on—and reveal the ideas or ideals behind the methods now used; he also displays an ability to bring the characters of the asylum to life, whether they are patients, doctors, nurses or visitors. Among the many patients he describes are: the man who was too superior to live; the man whose trouble was women; and Seabrook, whose trouble was drink. There are many, many others who come into the story to stay, like the man who ate the Xmas tree ornaments.

Nowadays we call asylums "mental hospitals." But to Mr. Seabrook it was asylum. And he was locked up in one for seven months.

You will turn the last leaf of Ellen Glasgow's "Vein of Iron" reluctantly.

The vein of iron—the will to live, the soundness and fortitudes which draw generations together—this is the theme of Ellen Glasgow's major work, an honest story of modern life.

The book opens in 1901. The Fincastle family had lived for generations in Great Valley, Virginia. They were part of its fields and streams and mountain peaks, of its religion traditions, and laws. To Grandmother Fincastle, heroic Presbyterian, it was tragic that her son John should turn into a free thinking philosopher and be cast out of the ministry for heresy. But she stayed on in the old house caring for him and his delicate wife, Mary Evelyn. The story centers quickly in the love of Ada Fincastle, daughter of John, and Ralph McBride, and follows them through a tragic disappointment, through happiness, a war separation, short prosperous years in Tidewater, and the problems of the 1930's.

Other late books recommended are:

"The Corpse in the Coppice," a murder story by R. A. J. Walling.

"Ripe Breadfruit," an Hawaiian romance, by Von Tempski.

"Mary, Queen of Scotland, and the Isles," biography, by Stefan Zweig.

Old Things Revived

It is easy to travel the road to yesterday in Monroe, where you encounter, here and there, reminders of "befo' de wah" existence. Monroe homes could offer up a rich yield of precious heirlooms if old attics were ransacked and old trunks opened to the light of day. Since the craze for old china and glassware has taken the country by storm, conventional patterns of the seventies have been brought forth from cupboards where they were pushed into the background by owners who preferred the more up-to-date patterns.

So brimming with sentiment is the native Louisianan, everything associated with those days of gracious living has been carefully preserved. Out of sight, perhaps, but nevertheless still in possession of each generation who treasures everything associated with the romantic past.

One of the rarest patterns of glassware now in possession of several Monroe women is the Princess Feather, sometimes called Rochelle. It is a lively sparkling glass with a lacy, feathery design encompassed by fine diamond points. Roman Rosette, its clear pinwheels against a stippled background is again in favor and is being brought to the fore in many homes. Familiar patterns are the fish scale cane, which has the effect of caned chairs; herringbone, resembling the stitch of that name; diamond-quilted, wheat and barley, pleat and panel, basket weave, palmette and thousand eye. The latter pattern has been reproduced, but the old glass is told by its diminishing "eyes" and the tiny diamond points which separate them.

All these are registered patterns and therefore prized by collectors.

From the historical point of view, the most interesting pattern of the sixties is Lincoln Drape. It was made in 1866 following the death of the great emancipator, and there are two designs, one with and one without a tassel. The tassel, it is interesting to note, shows the influences of the Victorian period when draperies pillows and footstools were so adorned.

Jumbo glass, also of the frosted and clear type, harks back to the days of Barnum when a great elephant of the name was particularly beloved by children.

Polar Bear glass with its arctic scene is strikingly beautiful in the forms of pitcher, goblets and tray. Refreshingly cool in appearance, it suggests the grateful sound of clinking ice on a warm summer day. Closely allied to this group, which may be classified as pictorial or frosted and clear, there are the exquisite Cape Cod and Canadian patterns which are similar. Other designs include Dog and Deer, Stork, Eagle, and Pheasant.

Besides there were the milk white glass hens which contained mustard, the odd pieces of marble or slag, and best of all, the gorgeous cranberry reds, the polka dot blues, the translucent ambers, canary yellows and apple greens—old pieces which brightened grandmother's corner cupboard after the Civil war just as the World war period was followed by a vogue for orchid bathrooms and kitchens accented with tomato red.

Know the old glass dishes in your home. If they are 40 or 50 years old they are being collected. Get them out and use them. Serve the breakfast eggs in the old hen-covered dish. Put hard candies in the huge old sugar bowl. Arrange flowers in the spoonholder and celery vase. Give the old opalescent polka dot (inverted thumbprint) water pitcher a place in the sun. Set the old canary-colored compote in a sunless room.

Tweedy of Houston, Texas, who have been touring south Louisiana through New Orleans and the Teche country. They will be guests in Monroe for several days.

Among the motorists who went to Baton Rouge to attend the Mississippi-Louisiana football game are Mr. and Mrs. Jack Rogers, Mrs. Morris Haas, Mr. Gordon Cummings, Mr. Sam Brown and Mr. Arthur Taliaferro.

Among the members of the younger set who motored over to Shreveport to attend the Ouachita-Byrd game were Miss Garguerite McHenry, Miss Kathleen Roleigh, Miss Louis Fudickar and Miss Martha Jane Hill. While in Shreveport, they were guests of friends and relatives.

Friends of Mr. G. V. Mahoney will regret to learn that it was necessary for him to undergo an operation at St. Francis sanitarium Friday night.

Mrs. Clare Williams and Mrs. Ruth Ross were guests in Shreveport during the past week-end.

The meeting of the Fine Arts club scheduled for last week will be held Monday evening at eight o'clock at the home of Mrs. J. Norman Coon on South Grand street.

Red Embroidery Brightens This Smart Blue Ensemble

From the London fashion scene comes this navy blue zibeline suit, embroidered with bright red soutasche embroidery on the revers, pockets and zibeline fez hat. The fringe hanging from the hat is in blue and the red chiffon blouse, which has a pleated front, repeats the color of the embroidery.

Wrapping Paper Attractive

If you visited certain Monroe shops last week, you no doubt caught your first glimpse of this year's fascinating gift paper for Christmas packages. Never, to our way of thinking, has it been quite so exquisite and quite so decorative.

In six weeks' time the excitement of dressing and wrapping gift packages attractively, to manifest one's ingenuity, will be here again. The shops about town are showing assortments of exquisite wrapping paper, seals, ribbons, and tags with which to do those Christmas gifts up in a tantalizing manner, to hand out when the day of days arrives.

Boxes containing all the paraphernalia, classed as ensembles, contain several sheets of gay wrapping paper, size 20 by 30, about 50 feet of assorted paper tie ribbon, 15 attractive seals and several tags. This is the ideal way to purchase gift dressings, for you have all the necessary accessories in one package, and always are sure of being correct.

Combinations of colors for finishing touches are something to consider. The many gay and handsome selections on the market have replaced the traditional green and red combinations of color. Bright polka dots of huge size, and graceful gold and silver ships sailing over a blue background are new. Flame red cellulose with smart shiny and brilliant black ribbons, also of cellulose are attractive. Cover a white box with uncolored cellulose and note how it puts zip into the otherwise plain whiteness of the box. Then add a cherry red ribbon of sparkling cellulose and the gayest gift box possible is the pleasant result. The attractive holiday designs of store boxes can be enhanced by simply using the uncolored cellulose material. And, of course, one may finish the job with gay ribbons or seals.

A swanky and modern touch to one's gift package is made possible with seals, which give a package glamor. Seals are available in all sizes, designs, and colors. Silhouette seals of maids in voluminous skirts, reindeer, and the popular Scottie in silver or black, instantly glorify a drab, uninteresting package into something mysterious and alluring. Stickers of gold and bronze are good. Peppermint candy cane seals come in lengths from a few inches to almost a yard long. A deft touch of individuality may be accomplished by the addition of tiny metal bells attached to the ribbon which binds together the gift box, making it obvious that said gift must be a ringing good one.

Ribbon and ribbonette tape of cellulose material are being used more and more, not only for Christmas time, but for gifts throughout the year. And it's no wonder. They certainly do things to a gift package which no other ribbon does. This modern ribbon is made in several widths, from a fourth of an inch up, and is available in many sparkling colors, in color combinations, and in special patterns and holiday designs.

Time To Plant

Now is the time to plant your bulbs for spring blooming, according to a member of the Monroe Garden club who is a successful grower of bulbs. She says:

"Such bulbs as narcissus, tulips, hyacinths, crocus and others of the 'Dutch' family should be planted now as soon as possible. If you can plant them immediately after the first real rain or even before, so much the better, for the roots will have time to form before cold weather comes, and the stronger the root system the better the flowers at blooming time.

"A formal bulb bed may be yours if desired, but if you are a wise home owner with only an average garden in which to work you probably will prefer to plant as nature, herself, would have planted had she enjoyed your chance!

"If you want all your bulbs of a given variety to mature to bloom together, you must be sure that each bulb you set out is placed at an identical depth; otherwise there will be a difference in the time of flowering. Yet, first of all you need a plan.

"You will want to select the bulb outlay that will give you the greatest return for the amount of money and labor expended, and to do this you should study current catalogs issued by reputable houses. Most garden enthusiasts agree that the bulb bed affording the greatest pleasure is one which blooms in all seasons, and to get just such a succession of blossoms you will have to set out a variety of bulbs; for instance, a goodly number of ranunculus and anemones with a fore-border of crocus. You will want snowdrops, bulbous iris, tulips, narcissus, hyacinths, watsonias, gladioli and lilies. Practically all of these may be planted now, though "baby glads" are the type of gladiolus for fall planting.

"Now that you have decided just what bulbs you are going to plant in your bed, you can turn to preparation and site selection. As a general rule, it is wise to grow such plants in partial shade. In reality, bulbs require both sun and shade during the day, and the best location for your garden probably will be near large trees or shrubs. At the same time you must see that your planting is so arranged that the shade medium will not rob it of essential moisture!

"In planting bulbs, see that the bottoms are placed directly on a little bed of sand, peat moss, or loose soil. Often there is danger of 'hanging' the bulbs by leaving an air space below them which either causes drying out or allows the water to collect and promote decay.

"There can be no set rule for the distance apart to plant bulbs. However, if they are planted in formal beds where they will be lifted each year and reset, they may be placed as close together as three times their diameter. If the bulbs are planted in groups, a 'natural' arrangement, and are to remain the proverbial three years, then you will need to space them a little farther apart to allow for multiplication."

Club Women Of Monroe Are Active In Their Organizations

Annual Convention Climaxes Busy Week

Yearly Meeting Of Louisiana Federation Is Attended By Local Delegation; Groups Are Lively In City

At Women's Meet

The annual convention of the Louisiana Federation of Women's clubs held in Natchitoches on Friday and Saturday climaxed a week of unprecedented activity among the club women of this city. Bridge tables were practically deserted and only one event of prominence marked the social calendar. Club women rolled up their sleeves and went to work with a will. Especially busy were the Catholic ladies, who found at the end of the week a most flattering sum had been realized from their annual bazaar. The Y. W. C. A. annual drive, due to the splendid work accomplished by the young women, who encircled the town, was a success financially.

Delegates attending the annual convention of the Louisiana Federation of Women's clubs found a genuine welcome awaiting them in this historic little city.

A note of festivity with a garden coffee at her beautiful home with the state president, Mrs. R. H. Agate of Lafayette, the guest of honor. Music for this occasion was supplied by the Louisiana State normal school of music.

The presence of the national federation president, Mrs. Roberta Campbell Lawson of Tulsa, Okla., and Mrs. Anna Steese Richardson of New York, editor of the Woman's Home Companion, added considerable luster to the convention.

Among the delegates motoring from this city were Mrs. George Lofton, Mrs. Paul Neal, Mrs. A. R. Bauerfind, Mrs. John Liest, from the Welcome Branch Book club; Mrs. J. P. Brown, Mrs. William and Mrs. A. D. Tisdale, from the Literary Guild; Mrs. Henry Whitfield, Mrs. Flood Madison, Mrs. Louis Hullum, from the Twentieth Century Book club.

Throng At Club

It was a well dressed and charming throng of femininity that chatted across the luncheon table at the Lakeside Country club Wednesday when "Ladies' day" attracted one of the most fashionable gatherings of the season.

Bridge was enjoyed following the luncheon hour and prizes were awarded to the high score holders at each of the 12 tables.

Noted among the guests on this occasion were Mrs. Paul Matthews, Mrs. James A. Noe, Mrs. W. M. Harper, Mrs. Howard Peevy, Mrs. Glen Backschies, Mrs. W. E. Ducote, Mrs. A. J. McGinn, Mrs. John Sherrouse, Mrs. Richard Kellogg, Mrs. Robert Kellogg, Mrs. C. E. McRoberts, Mrs. Sidney Grubbs, Mrs. John Lathram, Mrs. William Lovett, Jr., Mrs. Joe Washburn, Mrs. C. C. Drive Near End

The Y. W. C. A. drive, which claimed the interest of scores of club women during the past week, is nearing its culminaito· with most gratifying results; and when the final reports are made, the board members feel assured that their goal will have been accomplished.

Most encouraging are the reports of the initial gifts committee, which show larger donations then have been made during the past several years.

Too much credit cannot be given Mrs. J. C. Sadler, whose untiring efforts have contributed largely to the success of the drive. Always giving generously of her time and talent to every civic enterprise, Mrs. Sadler occupies an enviable place in civic and social affairs of Monroe.

Board members of the Y. W. C. A. are most grateful to the encouraging support given them by the business men of the city.

Two Books Reviewed

Members of the Welcome Branch Book club met Wednesday afternoon at the Y. W. C. A. for their semi-monthly meeting. Mrs. George Lofton, president, presided, and a most interesting program was presented.

Mrs. W. M. Greenwell reviewed Pearl Buck's "House of Earth," relating details of Mrs. Buck's early life in China, where her close association with Chinese people enabled her to have a rare insight to Oriental life and customs.

In her books "Good Earth," "Sons" and "House Divided," she takes one Chinese family through three generations. During the time China was being revolutionized, she portrays with realistic vividness the effect it had upon family life of China.

Mrs. F. C. Gibson gave a splendid review of "Selah and His America," by Leland Hale. The author describes his travels through Africa with a negro slave and the slave's devotion and utter dependence on him.

Following are the members present: Mrs. Frank Black, Mrs. Henson Coon, Mrs. J. Norman Coon, Mrs. W. C. Faulk, Mrs. E. C. Gibson, Mrs. W. M. Greenwell, Mrs John Leist, Mrs. George Lofton, Mrs. J. D. Petty, Mrs. W. C Scott, Mrs. J. F. Prendergrast, Mrs. Lewis Oyster, Mrs. Dudley Stone, Mrs. Charles Swain and Mrs. J. A. White.

Woman's Club Meets

The Missouri Pacific Woman's club held its monthly meeting October 25 in the Booster clubhouse. There were 49 members present, including three new members. Mrs. George Bruce presided, with Mrs. C. W. Williams taking her place as the new recording secretary.

At the close of the business session, the following program was enjoyed:

Readings by Miss Jerry Juneman.

The members devoted the rest of their time to recreation in the form of bridge and hearts, during which time refreshments were served. Much credit was due the hostesses of the afternoon in carrying out a most attractive Halloween motif in the refreshments. Mrs. John McClellan, Mr. M. R Haushier, Mrs. T. T. Thompson and G. P. Walker were hostesses.

Junior Coterie Meets

The Junior Musical coterie held its first meeting of the season with Miss Neva Worthington. Plans were discussed for the coming year and also for the selection of new members.

Miss Mary Grace Lawn rendered a group of Indian musical gems, followed by a Jewish hymn by Mrs. Henry Whitfield. Miss Worthington gave a reading on music and youth.

The second meeting was held at the home of Miss Avonia and Anna Frances Gerald. "Lighthouse Greece" was given by Avonia Gerald. Mrs. Kate Allison sang "I Have Lost My Euridice" and "Musicians," both by Gluck.

On Friday a meeting was held with Miss Nibby McKenzie. After a short business meeting the following program was presented:

People and music, McGehee, Miss Anna Frances Gerald.

Duet, Pilgrim's Chorus, Misses Avonia and Anna Frances Gerald.

Following the program, delicious refreshments were served to Miss Molly Hill, Miss Bonnie Burden, Miss Anna Frances Gerald, Miss Avonia Gerald, Miss Neva Worthington, Miss Hazel Heller, Miss Dorothy King, Miss Claire Temple, Miss Gerry Wilkes, Mrs. McKenzie acted as counsellor, due to the absence of Mrs. Louis Hullum.

Mrs. Paine Entertains

Mrs. Clyde Paine was a charming hostess Thursday when she entertained the members of her bridge club with a beautifully appointed luncheon bridge at her home in Marie place.

Gorgeous yellow chrysanthemums added an interesting note of color to this lovely affair; and after the luncheon, the guests enjoyed an afternoon of bridge in the living room.

Present at this delightful affair were Mrs. Benjamin Dawkins, Mrs. Allan Sholars, Mrs. John Sherrouse, Mrs. Arthur Dryburgh, Mrs. Louis Milner and Mrs. J. B. Lamkin.

Helen Hayes' New Outfit ...It's All Colored Leather

That personable actress, Helen Hayes, carries the vogue for colored leather to an extreme in her new street and sports outfit. Her hat, blouse, skirt, gloves, bag and shoes are all of antelope suede—the jerkin type blouse and gauntlet gloves of brilliant turquoise, all the rest of the outfit in mulberry shade.

Time Not Ripe

"There isn't much use for American mothers to begin now to tell their little girls to be good and they will be president. Because such a thing as a woman reaching the presidency won't happen for a long time yet.

That is the opinion of Lena Madesin Phillips, who recently reeled off, without hesitation, the names of 12 women she considered fitted to hold the highest office in this country.

"Fitted, yes, but let them try to get it," remarked Miss Phillips, who has just come back from a conference of international business and professional women abroad.

"And the principal reason is that women as a whole are conditioned not to expect success in what they do as a group. They start out on dozens of projects at once and make a noble gesture toward what is supposed to be the end they have in view. Or rather the ends, for that is the worst of it. They undertake too much—peace, crime prevention, smoke abatement, everything—and so nothing really gets finished.

"Do you suppose for a minute that if the ten million club women of the country really put their minds and their energies to it that they couldn't remedy one of our most glaring evils—open up the schools that were closed by the depression? Or elect a woman president? Or that they couldn't see to it that there was no more war? Of course they could."

Miss Phillips, who has just retired as president of the National Council of Women, has been in touch with women's groups all over the country for more than fifteen years. In that time, she has noted changes for the better among women, but they don't come fast enough to suit her.

"What this country really needs," she contended, "is several good committees, each of about five intelligent women, to lay out plans and, from month to month, tell everybody what to do next. Women leaders get so excited about leading that too often they lose sight of what leadership means. We need to concentrate on one task at a time until we put it over."

One thing Miss Phillips has found is that women are growing more and more tolerant, more able to see both sides of a question.

They also are less inclined to be nationalistic than men and that particularly fits them to be peace-makers.

"Women are used to smoothing every situation over," added Miss Phillips, who is a lawyer by profession. "They've been the unrufflers in the home for these many years, and so they undertake it naturally for the world."

Miss Phillips believes that the world's great problem at the moment is not war but jobs enough for everybody. She does not feel, however, that the movement to send women back to their homes so that men may have the jobs thus vacated will help much.

"The advocates of that plan (and there is more of it still going on than we realize) don't seem to remember that the woman who goes back to the home will then begin to do for herself all the things that she now pays the butcher, the baker and the candlestick maker to do for her," Miss Phillips pointed out.

Birthday Party Held

Clayton Campbell, lovely little blonde daughter of Mrs. Newton Knowles, Jr., was responsible for an afternoon of gaiety among the younger beau monde last week, when she welcomed them in the ball room of Lakeside country club. The occasion, prompted by her fourth birthday anniversary, abounded in pleasures, with the fish pond, overflowing with cunning favors, the most popular and the greatest to be desired of all.

Other games resulted in Robert Germany Jones and Ann Brown claiming the attractive boxes of bon-bons for their successful efforts.

A big moment in the festivities came when hundreds of balloons of vivid hue were unleashed and floated over the heads of the children, who reached eagerly for them.

Ices, delicious little cakes and a variety of sweet confections were served during the afternoon to the young celebrant and Harold Dixon, Jr., "Judge" David, Cleta Godfrey, Ardan Girault, Carolyn Goodwin, Billy Harper, Bobby Hardin, Palmer Huey, Stanton Huey, Henry Guerriero, Jr., St. Clair Hayden, Graham Humble, Robert Germany Jones, Peyton Parker, Jr., Tim Pemberton, Polly Jean Phelps, Harry Prophit, III, Mary Gertrude Rodriguez, Edward Seymour, Martha Clayton Sparks, Louisette Trousdale, Sue Ann Windes, Patsy Zeigin, David Young, Richard Troy, Jr., Jacqueline Walker, Betty Stovall, Charles Prophit, Clayton Bennett, Bill Rodriguez, Terri Sue Tidwell, John Wooten, Elmer Slagle, Jr., Ann Shafto, Margaret Dell Horuff, Marguerite Lamkin, Carol Layton, "Dink" Liner, Watkins Leigh, Minnie Madden, Charles Masur, Mary Wilton McHenry, Clara Munholland, Alymer Montgomery, Wyche Ashcraft, Speed Bancroft, Ochiltree Bancroft, Arabella Bancroft, Edel Blanks, Jr., Anne Brown, "Buck" Ferguson Brown, Carol Clark, John Ellis Bryan, Jr., Frances Black, Cherry Louise Bernstein, J. The designers for the styles
The Palace for the low Price

The foremost designers in America contributed their art to the designing of these dresses and when it comes to question of selection, variety of line, color and material, this collection would be hard to beat. . . . BUT when it comes to the low price, The Palace gets the credit for that. We searched the largest markets in the world for these dresses and made careful selection from the best known manufacturers to bring to Monroe dresses in rough crepes, flat crepes, sheer woolens and rough woolens, in the most popular colors, trimmed with the newest trims, at a low price for such quality. We're proud of this achievement and know you will recognize what excellent value is here.

A Bit of Advice On

Quality Furs

Like jewels, furs can fool you, unless you're an expert. And money spent on bad fur is money thrown away. However it may gleam or glitter at first, a month of wear will fit it out—leave it cracked, matted, ratty and unattractive as only a cheap fur can be. So here's our advice. Buy quality furs. It Pays!

That's why we've established a quality standard for every fur coat that enters our store. Regardless of the price you pay at The Palace you know that fur is chosen from the best of its kind and is typical of Palace quality. Our furs this year ARE inexpensive, because we purchased before the price on them went up and we in turn offer you a saving of from $10 to $25 on a coat plus smart style and Palace quality.

Kid and Pony Coats

Trotteur lengths $79.50 to $98.50
Full lengths $98.50 to $129.50

Lapin Coats

Club Women Of Monroe Are Active In Their Organizations

Annual Convention Climaxes Busy Week

Yearly Meeting Of Louisiana Federation Is Attended By Local Delegation; Groups Are Lively In City

At Women's Meet

The annual convention of the Louisiana Federation of Women's clubs held in Natchitoches on Friday and Saturday climaxed a week of unprecedented activity among the club women of this city. Bridge tables were practically deserted and only one event of prominence marked the social calendar. Club women rolled up their sleeves and went to work with a will. Especially busy were the Catholic ladies, who found at the end of the week a most flattering sum had been realized from their annual bazaar. The Y. W. C. A. annual drive, due to the splendid work accomplished by the young women, who encircled the town, was a success financially.

Delegates attending the annual convention of the Louisiana Federation of Women's clubs found a genuine welcome awaiting them in this historic little city.

A note of festivity with a garden coffee at her beautiful home with the state president, Mrs. R. H. Agate of Lafayette, the guest of honor. Music for this occasion was supplied by the Louisiana State normal school of music.

The presence of the national federation president, Mrs. Roberta Campbell Lawson of Tulsa, Okla., and Mrs. Anna Steese Richardson of New York, editor of the Woman's Home Companion, added considerable luster to the convention.

Among the delegates motoring from this city were Mrs. George Lofton, Mrs. Paul Neal, Mrs. A. R. Bauerfind, Mrs. John Liest, from the Welcome Branch Book club; Mrs. J. P. Brown, Mrs. William and Mrs. A. D. Tisdale, from the Literary Guild; Mrs. Henry Whitfield, Mrs. Flood Madison, Mrs. Louis Hullum, from the Twentieth Century Book club.

Throng At Club

It was a well dressed and charming throng of femininity that chatted across the luncheon table at the Lakeside Country club Wednesday when "Ladies' day" attracted one of the most fashionable gatherings of the season.

Bridge was enjoyed following the luncheon hour and prizes were awarded to the high score holders at each of the 12 tables.

Noted among the guests on this occasion were Mrs. Paul Matthews, Mrs. James A. Noe, Mrs. W. M. Harper, Mrs. Howard Peevy, Mrs. Glen Backschies, Mrs. W. E. Ducote, Mrs. A. J. McGinn, Mrs. John Sherrouse, Mrs. Richard Kellogg, Mrs. Robert Kellogg, Mrs. C. E. McRoberts, Mrs. Sidney Grubbs, Mrs. John Lathram, Mrs. William Lovett, Jr., Mrs. Joe Washburn, Mrs. C. C. Drive Near End

The Y. W. C. A. drive, which claimed the interest of scores of club women during the past week, is nearing its culminaito with most gratifying results; and when the final reports are made, the board members feel assured that their goal will have been accomplished.

Most encouraging are the reports of the initial gifts committee, which show larger donations then have been made during the past several years.

Too much credit cannot be given Mrs. J. C. Sadler, whose untiring efforts have contributed largely to the success of the drive. Always giving generously of her time and talent to every civic enterprise, Mrs. Sadler occupies an enviable place in civic and social affairs of Monroe.

Board members of the Y. W. C. A. are most grateful to the encouraging support given them by the business men of the city.

Two Books Reviewed

Members of the Welcome Branch Book club met Wednesday afternoon at the Y. W. C. A. for their semi-monthly meeting. Mrs. George Lofton, president, presided, and a most interesting program was presented.

Mrs. W. M. Greenwell reviewed Pearl Buck's "House of Earth," relating details of Mrs. Buck's early life in China, where her close association with Chinese people enabled her to have a rare insight to Oriental life and customs.

In her books "Good Earth," "Sons" and "House Divided," she takes one Chinese family through three generations. During the time China was being revolutionized, she portrays with realistic vividness the effect it had upon family life of China.

Mrs. E. C. Gibson gave a splendid review of "Selah and His America," by Leland Hale. The author describes his travels through Africa with a negro slave and the slave's devotion and utter dependence on him.

Following are the members present: Mrs. Frank Black, Mrs. Henson Coon, Mrs. J. Norman Coon, Mrs. W. C. Faulk, Mrs. E. C. Gibson, Mrs. W. M. Greenwell, Mrs John Leist, Mrs. George Lofton, Mrs. J. D. Petty, Mrs. W. C Scott, Mrs. J. F. Prendergrast, Mrs. Lewis Oyster, Mrs. Dudley Stone, Mrs. Charles Swain and Mrs. J. A. White.

Woman's Club Meets

The Missouri Pacific Woman's club held its monthly meeting October 25 in the Booster clubhouse. There were 49 members present, including three new members. Mrs. George Bruce presided, with Mrs. C. W. Williams taking her place as the new recording secretary.

At the close of the business session, the following program was enjoyed:

Vocal solo, with guitar accompaniment by Mrs. Edgar Hoskin.

Readings by Miss Jerry Juneman.

The members devoted the rest of their time to recreation in the form of bridge and hearts, during which time refreshments were served. Much credit was due the hostesses of the afternoon in carrying out a most attractive Halloween motif in the refreshments. Mrs. John McClellan, Mr. M. R Haushier, Mrs. T. T. Thompson and G. P. Walker were hostesses.

Junior Coterie Meets

The Junior Musical coterie held its first meeting of the season with Miss Neva Worthington. Plans were discussed for the coming year and also for the selection of new members.

Miss Mary Grace Lawn rendered a group of Indian musical gems, followed by a Jewish hymn by Mrs. Henry Whitfield. Miss Worthington gave a reading on music and youth.

The second meeting was held at the home of Miss Avonia and Anna Frances Gerald. "Lighthouse Greece" was given by Avonia Gerald. Mrs. Kate Allison sang "I Have Lost My Euridice" and "Musicians," both by Gluck.

On Friday a meeting was held with Miss Nibby McKenzie. After a short business meeting the following program was presented:

People and music, McGehee, Miss Anna Frances Gerald.

Duet, Pilgrim's Chorus, Misses Avonia and Anna Frances Gerald.

Following the program, delicious refreshments were served to Miss Molly Hill, Miss Bonnie Burden, Miss Anna Frances Gerald, Miss Avonia Gerald, Miss Neva Worthington, Miss Hazel Heller, Miss Dorothy King, Miss Claire Temple, Miss Gerry Wilkes, Mrs. McKenzie acted as counsellor, due to the absence of Mrs. Louis Hullum.

Mrs. Paine Entertains

Mrs. Clyde Paine was a charming hostess Thursday when she entertained the members of her bridge club with a beautifully appointed luncheon bridge at her home in Marie place.

Gorgeous yellow chrysanthemums added an interesting note of color to this lovely affair; and after the luncheon, the guests enjoyed an afternoon of bridge in the living room.

Present at this delightful affair were Mrs. Benjamin Dawkins, Mrs. Allan Scholars, Mrs. John Sherrouse, Mrs. Arthur Dryburgh, Mrs. Louis Milner and Mrs. J. B. Lamkin.

Helen Hayes' New Outfit ---It's All Colored Leather

That personable actress, Helen Hayes, carries the vogue for colored leather to an extreme in her new street and sports outfit. Her hat, blouse, skirt, gloves, bag and shoes are all of antelope suede—the jerkin type blouse and gauntlet gloves of brilliant turquoise, all the rest of the outfit in mulberry shade.

Time Not Ripe

"There isn't much use for American mothers to begin now to tell their little girls to be good and they will be president. Because such a thing as a woman reaching the presidency won't happen for a long time yet."

That is the opinion of Lena Madesin Phillips, who recently reeled off, without hesitation, the names of 12 women she considered fitted to hold the highest office in this country.

"Fitted, yes, but let them try to get it," remarked Miss Phillips, who has just come back from a conference of international business and professional women abroad.

"And the principal reason is that women as a whole are conditioned not to expect success in what they do as a group. They start out on dozens of projects at once and make a noble gesture toward what is supposed to be the end they have in view. Or rather the ends, for that is the worst of it. They undertake too much—peace, crime prevention, smoke abatement, everything—and so nothing really gets finished.

"Do you suppose for a minute that if the ten million club women of the country really put their minds and their energies to it that they couldn't remedy one of our most glaring evils—open up the schools that were closed by the depression? Or elect a woman president? Or that they couldn't see to it that there was no more war? Of course they could."

Miss Phillips, who has just retired as president of the National Council of Women, has been in touch with women's groups all over the country for more than fifteen years. In that time, she has noted changes for the better among women, but they don't come fast enough to suit her.

"What this country really needs," she contended, "is several good committees, each of about five intelligent women, to lay out plans and, from month to month, tell everybody what to do next. Women leaders get so excited about leading that too often they lose sight of what leadership means. We need to concentrate on one task at a time until we put it over."

District Parent-Teacher Meeting Is Held In West Monroe

125 Representatives Of 27 Units Present

Gathering Takes Place At Crosley School; Addresses Are Deliveerd By State President, Dr. Kenney

With 125 representatives from 27 units present, fifth district Parent-Teacher associations of the Louisiana Congress of Parents and Teachers held an enthusiastic meeting Saturday at Crosley school in West Monroe.

The morning session was featured by inspirational talks by Mrs. Albert L. Smith, state president, and Dr. C. E. Kenney, principal of Neville high school. G. W. Welch, principal of Crosley school, also gave an interesting talk on "What We Can Expect of the P.-T. A."

Mrs. Smith, dealing with "Relation of the State and National to the Local Unit," voiced the opinion that the P.-T. A. is destined to be an international movement which will work for the welfare of all children, and that its objective is to promote a movement and not to simply support an organization.

"The local unit is a motivating power. There are 23,462 units in the United States. Louisiana has 183 units and 16,000 members. The aim of every P.-T. A. is to bring home, school and church together into a unit that will make for an enlightened community.

"The character of a child starts in its first five years of life. All environments educate for good or ill. The P.-T. A. is to unite and cooperate, to do something worth while. It must launch projects and become a power for good in the community. There must be a better understanding between parent and teacher and the home and school must cooperate in character building."

Mr. Kenney talked on the "Value of Home and School Cooperation." He said in part:

"We as teachers will make a failure if we do not get parents to believe definitely in the thing we are doing. We must also get the child interested in what we are doing. The parent must be a few steps ahead of the child and direct his way. Be a companion to the child, inspire his respect and confidence.

"It is specially desirable that fathers be buddies to their children."

The speaker stated that great care ought to be used in the selection of the right sort of teachers, as they are to supplement home training. He declared that they should be better paid and paid for 12 months in the year so that they can be able to take advanced college courses every summer.

After lunch had been served in the school cafeteria, the afternoon session was held at 1 p.m. with Fred Williamson, managing editor of the News-Star and Morning World, speaking on "Publicity."

"You must tell the public what you are doing in order to hold their interest. Write a story of your meetings in interesting style with the highlight of the session narrated in the first paragraph," he said.

Mrs. L. B. Chambers, state safety chairman, told of "safety first" work in the schools and she was followed by Mrs. Fay Walters, state correspondence course chairman, who told of the various courses offered.

Mrs. H. A. McDonald followed with a discussion of "Publications," while Mrs. W. King Hunt told of membership plans. "Study Groups" was the theme of the talk by Mrs. John Calhoun and Miss Julia Wossman, principal of Barkdull Faulk school, discussed "Standard and Superior Associations." She said that the best P.-T. A. unit is the one that best carries out child welfare in school.

Mrs. A. L. Smith gave a brief talk on "Program Building," after which Miss Myrtle E. Rodgers, principal of Georgia Tucker school, told of motion picture progress. Miss Rodgers is state motion picture chairman. She advised use of motion pictures in the schools.

P.-T. A. Council Meets

Chairmen of the three major divisions of activities of the Twin City Parent-Teacher council for the year were appointed by Mrs. E. P. Cudd, president, at a meeting of the council Thursday, and the organization went on record as supporting activity suggestions submitted by Mrs. L. B. Chambers.

The chairmen appointed were: Health division, Mrs. Marvin Johnson; safety, Mrs. Chambers; recreation, Mrs. W. C. Oliver.

The following activities suggested by Mrs. Chambers were endorsed:

Non-partisan cooperation with all efforts to enforce traffic laws.

Police protection at school crossings where necessary.

Organization of safety councils and school patrols in grammar schools.

Traffic clubs and classes in high school so that young people may be taught to observe traffic regulations and to support traffic officers.

That parent-teacher members themselves drive in accordance with traffic rules and realize their responsibility for the driving of members of their families.

Cooperation with Red Cross in survey for prevention of home accidents.

Discourage indiscriminate use of fireworks.

Encourage use of standard student accident reports in school.

Mrs. Chambers said that 99,000 accidents occurred in 1934, one-third of them being traffic accidents, one-third taking place in homes and the remaining third happening in occupational activities and in public activities not involving motor vehicles. She quoted the statistics as having been compiled by Marian Telford, field secretary of the National Safety council and national safety chairman of the P.-T. A.

It was pointed out at the meeting that Monroe is already "safety conscious," the service clubs, American Leagion, Red Cross and other organizations being active in accident prevention activities.

The Twin City P.-T. A. council is especially interested in the safety program from the viewpoint of child welfare.

Mrs. King Hunt, assistant chairman of doll committee, urged all local presidents to have plenty of volunteers for getting dolls ready. The rag doll program is being started now.

Mrs. Carl Couch, fifth district director, thanked the local, P.-T. A. organization for splendid cooperation in the publicity movement.

The legion post here invited the P.-T. A's to cooperate in Armistice day celebration and it was voted to participate.

Mrs. W. H. Armstrong, chairman of correspondence study courses, asked each local member to call her and make plans to take one of the many courses offered.

Mrs. Cudd designated a group of the council members to assist activity chairmen of the various units of the Twin City P.-T. A. The group is as follows:

Publicity, Mrs. Jason Johnson; hospitality, Miss Julia Wossman; program, Mrs. Filmore Meadows; finance, Mrs. T. L. McCoy; membership, Mrs. John Guerriero; motion pictures, Miss Myrtle Rodgers; study courses, Mrs. W. H. Armstrong; standard and superior, Mrs. G. A. Aden; music, Miss Clara Hall; publications, Mrs. H. A. McDonald; Red Cross activities, Mrs. E. G. Waring.

Twenty-six members were present at the meeting, including all officers, who are: President, Mrs. Cudd; first vice-president, Mrs. John Guerriero; second vice-president, Mrs. King Hunt; treasurer, Mrs. D. B. Weil; secretary, Mrs. W. S. Vincent.

Oak Ridge P.-T. A.

OAK RIDGE, La., Nov. 9.—(Special)—A determination to continue free lunches for underprivileged children attending the school and to appropriate money to provide magazines and music for the institution featured the November meeting of the Oak Ridge High school Parent-Teacher association of the Louisiana Congress of Parents and Teachers.

Well attended, the meeting was presided over by Mrs. C. J. Wasson, the president. The report of the chairman of the finance committee, Mrs. B. S. Hammer, was well received. The program was presented under the supervision of Hrs. F. E. Hogan, chairman of the program committee.

Mrs. R. C. Hathcox entertained with a number by a rhythm band composed of children of the primary grades of the school. Miss Ellie Taylor delivered an address on "Teaching the Three R's."

In developing her subject, Miss Taylor compared methods of years ago with those in vogue today. Her talk was well received.

At the conclusion of the address, Mrs. Hathcox gave a demonstration in teaching primary children reading and writing.

A study class in the management of children in the home was held. Mrs. R. B. Wofford presided over this phase of the program.

COUNCIL PRESIDENT

Mrs. E. P. Cudd, president of the Twin City Parent-Teacher council, is a prominent leader in the civic and club life of Monroe and West Monroe. During her regime as president of the Neville high school P.-T. A., Mrs. Cudd had the distinction of being one of the few high school P.-T. A. presidents in the state to be awarded a certificate for having a superior association at the state convention held in Alexandria.

Chic After Nine

By Adelaide Kerr

PARIS, Nov. 9.—(AP)—The Paris fashion mint has coined a new "gadabout" evening costume to wear after the clock strikes nine.

It has a new name "midnight tailleur"—and it spells chic any time and any place where men wear dinner jackets instead of "tails." It goes out to dine and dance, is long skirted and worn with a hat, and combines the distinction of evening clothes with the tailored smartness of a suit.

Heim, who evolved the new name, makes one of the smartest midnight suits shown. It unites a little fitted jacket and an instep-length skirt of black velvet with a blouse of blue violet crepe that is very high in front and a minus quantity in the back. With it goes a little feather beret toque in the same shade of blue as the blouse.

Maggy Rouff makes midnight suits of bottle green velvet or sapphire cloque cire. The jackets, richly collared in silver fox or black lynx, top simple dinner frocks with high front and low back decollettes, some of which are finished with long sleeves. A diamond clasp sparkles from the neckline of some of them.

Schiaparelli contributes to the mode with simple dinner frocks of black ottoman or bottle green satin accompanied by short milk jackets striped in tones of red, blue and green, while Worth shows a black lace suit worn with an oragne blouse.

"Femme fatale" clothes, which bring back memories of Theda Bara and Gaby Deslys add zest to Marcel Rochas' dinner costumes. One gown is of black silk jersey, moulded to fit the figure like a black glove. Another is a long-sleeved floor-length frock of black velvet with a big heart cut out at the top of the bodice to reveal the flesh.

All these costumes are "gadabout" clothes, intended to be worn in smart restaurants, nightclubs—any place but at home.

Engagement Announced

The following formal announcement is of considerable social import and sincere and affectionate interest to a wide circle of friends in this section of the state;

Mrs. Richard Franklin White of Alexandria announces the engagement of her daughter, Harriet Silliman, to Mr. Benjamin Cornwell Dawkins, Jr., the wedding to take place the early part of January.

Miss White is a daughter of the late Mr. Richard Franklin White and Mrs. White. Mr. Dawkins is a son of Judge and Mrs. Benjamin Cornwell Dawkins of Monroe and is engaged in the practice of law in Shreveport.

Ruston

Mr. and Mrs. Herbert L. Bunn of Alexandria, announce the engagement of their daughter, Mary Alice, to John Samuel Griffin, of Ruston. The wedding will be solemnized late this month.

Mrs. E. M. Shirley was elected president of the Ruston Pan-Hellenic society at a special meeting held in the home of Mrs. T. L. James on North Vienna street. Named to serve with Mrs. Shirley were: Mrs. Zollie T. Meadows, vice-president; Mrs. Felton Green, secretary; and Miss Elizabeth Hadley, treasurer.

Other business under discussion by the club were plans looking forward to a building fund with which to establish a Pan-Hellenic center at Louisiana Tech.

New members welcomed into the club were Mrs. Raymond Heard and Miss Martha Vaught.

The following were present: Mrs. Galen Davis, Mrs. Travis Melton, Mrs. E. M. Shirley, Miss Christine Moon, Mrs. Robert Lane Fuller, Mrs. Floyd James, Mrs. Raymond Heard, Mrs. Durwood Lyons, Mrs. Byron Cann, Mrs. Zollie Meadows, Mrs. Floyd Pearce, Miss Charlotte Lewis, Miss Mabel May, Mrs. Glenn Laskey, Miss Marion Scaife, Miss Elizabeth Hadley, Miss Mary Moffett and Miss Betty Bethea.

Much favorable comment is heard regarding the play, "Private Affairs," which was presented at the Rialto theater under auspices of McFarland post No. 2, the local American Legion unit. The cast for the play was composed of more than eighty local people, who, in view of their limited time for rehearsals, gave a very creditable and entertaining performance.

"Private Affairs" was staged by Adeline Edwards and Beatrice Fretwell, and was presented to a packed house.

The Young Women's auxiliary of the First Baptist church held its regular meeting recently with Miss Jane and Ethel Turner acting as hostesses. Those attending were: Misses Louise Davis, Myrtis Sharmon, Christine and Ethel Hardin, Mary Edith Thurmon, Ray Fortson, Nan Morgan, Maude Gunn, Dora Dell Walters and Jane and Ethel Turner.

Capt. E. L. Kidd and L. K. Brooks, two of Ruston's most prominent insurance men, are being welcomed back to work after prolonged illnesses. Capt. Kidd recently returned from Hot Springs, Ark., and Mr. Brooks has just been discharged from the Ruston-Lincoln sanitarium following an appendectomy.

The Arts club held its regular meeting recently at the home of Mrs. L. P. McLane, with Mrs. Fairy C. McBride acting as co-hostess. Three new members were welcomed into the club: E. L. Berdon, Mrs. Eunice C. Williamson and Mrs. G. W. McGinty. Mrs. Berdon is well known in music circles, being co-author of "Song of Louisiana." Mrs. G. H. Duggins was a special guest at the meeting.

An informal social hour, during which refreshments were served, was enjoyed by the 20 members and their guests.

Jonesboro

Jackson parish boys won high honors in the election of class officers recently held at the Louisiana State university.

The 20 students from Jackson parish were well represented in the student government which reigns over 5,000 students now enrolled at L. S. U.

In the recent elections of class officers, four well known boys from Jonesboro were elected to offices.

The garden leaders from three of the H. D. clubs of Jackson parish met with Miss Bertha Lee Ferguson, state extension garden specialist, on October 25 at the courthouse for the purpose of getting information to be used in the various clubs in conducting garden meetings.

Three phases of gardening were discussed by Miss Ferguson: "Construction and Use of Hot-Beds and Cold Frames;" "Propagation and Care of Shrubs;" "Color Harmony in the Flower Garden."

Those attending the meeting were Mrs. J. L. Kelley, Kiddton; Mrs. Donald Sherrard, Kiddton; Mrs. John Cornett, Weston; Mrs. R. B. Robinson, Weston; Mrs. R. E. Wingate, Eros. Miss Sophie Stone, home demonstration agent from Lincoln parish, also attended the meeting.

The Ever Ready circle of the Methodist church met with Mrs. R. C. Jefress for its regular monthly "year book" program.

A playlet entitled "A Worker's Conference" constituted most of the program. Those taking part were Mrs. G. A. Morgan, Mrs. B. Edwards, Mrs. R. C. Jefress, Mrs. W. S. McDonald, Mrs. T. L. Walker and Mrs. J. A. Gaar. Mrs. T. L. Walker gave the devotional and Mrs. W. W. Kavanaugh led the discussion of the program. At the close of the program, the hostess served orangeade and cookies to eight members and two visitors.

The Young Women's circle of the Methodist church met at the home of Mrs. Howard Hearne. The devotional was given by the auxiliary president, Mrs. A. A. Meredith; and Mrs. C. C. Willingham led the discussion of the subject, "Training for Service in Korea."

The hostess served sandwiches and hot chocolate to Mesdames A. A. Meredith, W. E. Walker, J. C. Thomas, C. C. Willingham, Willis Adams, M. L. Dickerson, H. M. Henley, W. L. Garner and David Shively.

The Ruth Brown circle of the Methodist church met in the home of Mrs. T. D. Callaway for the regular monthly program, with Mrs. D. E. Caldwell presiding.

The topic for discussion was "A Workers' Conference on City Evangelistic Work in Korea." A playlet was presented with the following taking part; Mesdames Neil Thomas, W. W. McDonald, Albert Crowson, Sam Walsworth, Henry Scroggin, T. D. Callaway and D. E. Caldwell. Training for Christian service in Korea was discussed by Mrs. V. L. Brumfield, and the devotional was given by Mrs. J. A. Thurman. Mrs. Fred Callaway offered a prayer for the missionaries.

The Jonesboro-Hodge P.-T. A. members of the Louisiana congress of Parent-Teacher associations held the first meeting of the year on October 24 in the auditorium of the high school, with Mrs. E. E. Ramsey presiding. Dr. T. A. Dekle was the speaker of the afternoon.

The Art club met in the home of Mrs. Tom Cox. Myriads of Radiance roses were used as decorations in the reception rooms.

After the business of the afternoon, the club members spent the time sewing and knitting. During the social hour, the hostess served salad, crackers, olives and cake and coffee to Mesdames W. P. Miller, John Dupree, H. W. Ayres, Stanley Lewis, Wade Emery, C. C. Willingham, David Jefress, Brown Traylor, Paul Stinson, Howard Hearne, and Mrs. Carl Lueg of Slidell.

Miss Viola Charles of Jonesboro, daughter of Mrs. F. B. Simpson, of Ruston, and Leonard D. Miller, also of Ruston, were married Thursday, October 24, at 11 a.m., at the home of the bride's mother, Rev. McFadden of the Presbyterian church of Ruston performed the ceremony.

Mrs. Miller is a graduate of the Jonesboro high school and is very popular with the younger set, and Mr. Miller is a treveling salesman for the Raymond Heard Co., of Ruston.

Mr. and Mrs. Louie Boss were hosts to a number of their friends, honoring J. C. Shows, clerk of court of Jackson parish, on his birthday. The guests assembled on the lawn of the Boss home where a chicken gumbo supper was served. The birthday cake was beautifully decorated with fifty-odd candles representing the approximate age of the man for whom the people of Jackson parish always vote for clerk of the district court. He never has an opponent and this coming together of his friends was to celebrate another victory in his political life, as well as another milestone.

Mr. Shows was the recipient of many useful gifts and happy felicitations, not only from those present but from others who were not able to attend.

Those present were Mr. and Mrs. B. B. Bass, Mrs. O. A. Gaar, Mr. and Mrs. S. Kirkland, Mrs. Ben Johnston, Capt. and Mrs. S. A. Hall, Mrs. Leon Mitchell, and Mr. and Mrs. Shows.

An all orange and black motif with silver and crystal table appointments was carried out in the dining room. The table was laid with a lace cloth which was centered with a birthday cake. On either side of the centerpiece were candelabra holding burning orange tapers. Small mint cups of black and orange added to the color scheme.

The honoree received many lovely gifts Those present: Billy and Betty Walsworth, Catherine Sanders, Dixie Catherine Whittemore, Mary Jo Boss, Janice Littlefield, Baby Loyce Moore, Lucy Greene, Ollie Anne Crowson, Louise and Gloria Carson, Billy Ruth Grey, Nell Ruth Palmer, Wayne Wheat, Johnie Mac Dodge, Chas. District Parent-Teacher Meeting Is Held In West Monroe

125 Representatives Of 27 Units Present

Gathering Takes Place At Crosley School; Addresses Are Deliveerd By State President, Dr. Kenney

With 125 representatives from 27 units present, fifth district Parent-Teacher associations of the Louisiana Congress of Parents and Teachers held an enthusiastic meeting Saturday at Crosley school in West Monroe.

The morning session was featured by inspirational talks by Mrs. Albert L. Smith, state president, and Dr. C. E. Kenney, principal of Neville high school. G. W. Welch, principal of Crosley school, also gave an interesting talk on "What We Can Expect of the P.-T. A."

Mrs. Smith, dealing with "Relation of the State and National to the Local Unit," voiced the opinion that the P.-T. A. is destined to be an international movement which will work for the welfare of all children, and that its objective is to promote a movement and not to simply support an organization.

"The local unit is a motivating power. There are 23,462 units in the United States. Louisiana has 183 units and 16,000 members. The aim of every P.-T. A. is to bring home, school and church together into a unit that will make for an enlightened community.

"The character of a child starts in its first five years of life. All environments educate for good or ill. The P.-T. A. is to unite and cooperate, to do something worth while. It must launch projects and become a power for good in the community. There must be a better understanding between parent and teacher and the home and school must cooperate in character building."

Mr. Kenney talked on the "Value of Home and School Cooperation." He said in part:

"We as teachers will make a failure if we do not get parents to believe definitely in the thing we are doing. We must also get the child interested in what we are doing. The parent must be a few steps ahead of the child and direct his way. Be a companion to the child, inspire his respect and confidence.

The speaker stated that great care ought to be used in the selection of the right sort of teachers, as they are to supplement home training. He declared that they should be better paid and paid for 12 months in the year so that they can be able to take advanced college courses every summer.

After lunch had been served in the school cafeteria, the afternoon session was held at 1 p.m. with Fred Williamson, managing editor of the News-Star and Morning World, speaking on "Publicity."

"You must tell the public what you are doing in order to hold their interest. Write a story of your meetings in interesting style with the highlight of the session narrated in the first paragraph," he said.

Mrs. L. B. Chambers, state safety chairman, told of "safety first" work in the schools and she was followed by Mrs. Fay Walters, state correspondence course chairman, who told of the various courses offered.

Mrs. H. A. McDonald followed with a discussion of "Publications," while Mrs. W. King Hunt told of membership plans. "Study Groups" was the theme of the talk by Mrs. John Calhoun and Miss Julia Wossman, principal of Barkdull Faulk school, discussed "Standard and Superior Associations." She said that the best P.-T. A. unit is the one that best carries out child welfare in school.

Mrs. A. L. Smith gave a brief talk on "Program Building," after which Miss Myrtle E. Rodgers, principal of Georgia Tucker school, told of motion picture progress. Miss Rodgers is state motion picture chairman. She advised use of motion pictures in the schools.

P.-T. A. Council Meets

Chairmen of the three major divisions of activities of the Twin City Parent-Teacher council for the year were appointed by Mrs. E. P. Cudd, president, at a meeting of the council Thursday, and the organization went on record as supporting activity suggestions submitted by Mrs. L. B. Chambers.

The chairmen appointed were: Health division, Mrs. Marvin Johnson; safety, Mrs. Chambers; recreation, Mrs. W. C. Oliver.

The following activities suggested by Mrs. Chambers were endorsed:

Non-partisan cooperation with all efforts to enforce traffic laws.

Police protection at school crossings where necessary.

Organization of safety councils and school patrols in grammar schools.

Traffic clubs and classes in high school so that young people may be taught to observe traffic regulations and to support traffic officers.

That parent-teacher members themselves drive in accordance with traffic rules and realize their responsibility for the driving of members of their families.

Cooperation with Red Cross in survey for prevention of home accidents.

Discourage indiscriminate use of fireworks.

Mrs. Chambers said that 99,000 accidents occurred in 1934, one-third of them being traffic accidents, one-third taking place in homes and the remaining third happening in occupational activities and in public activities not involving motor vehicles. She quoted the statistics as having been compiled by Marian Telford, field secretary of the National Safety council and national safety chairman of the P.-T. A.

It was pointed out at the meeting that Monroe is already "safety conscious," the service clubs, American Leagion, Red Cross and other organizations being active in accident prevention activities.

The Twin City P.-T. A. council is especially interested in the safety program from the viewpoint of child welfare.

Mrs. King Hunt, assistant chairman of doll committee, urged all local presidents to have plenty of volunteers for getting dolls ready. The rag doll program is being started now.

Mrs. Carl Couch, fifth district director, thanked the local, P.-T. A. organization for splendid cooperation in the publicity movement.

The legion post here invited the P.-T. A's to cooperate in Armistice day celebration and it was voted to participate.

Mrs. W. H. Armstrong, chairman of correspondence study courses, asked each local member to call her and make plans to take one of the many courses offered.

Mrs. Cudd designated a group of the council members to assist activity chairmen of the various units of the Twin City P.-T. A. The group is as follows:

Publicity, Mrs. Jason Johnson; hospitality, Miss Julia Wossman; program, Mrs. Filmore Meadows; finance, Mrs. T. L. McCoy; membership, Mrs. John Guerriero; motion pictures, Miss Myrtle Rodgers; study courses, Mrs. W. H. Armstrong; standard and superior, Mrs. G. A. Aden; music, Miss Clara Hall; publications, Mrs. H. A. McDonald; Red Cross activities, Mrs. E. G. Waring.

Twenty-six members were present at the meeting, including all officers, who are: President, Mrs. Cudd; first vice-president, Mrs. John Guerriero; second vice-president, Mrs. King Hunt; treasurer, Mrs. D. B. Weil; secretary, Mrs. W. S. Vincent.

School Conducted

TALLULAH, La., Nov. 9.—(Special)—A successful school of instruction for Parent-Teacher association workers was held at the high school here November 2 under the auspices of the Tallulah unit of the Louisiana Congress of Parents and Teachers. Several district and state officers attended and delivered addresses.

Mrs. C. L. Couch of Monroe, fifth district director, spoke on P.-T. A. procedure. Objects and policies, meetings, program planning and committees. Mrs. Julian Newman of Monroe gave a splendid talk on study groups and Miss Lucille Godwin, recreational director of the city of Monroe, gave a most interesting talk on playground recreation and conducted two short recreational periods. Mrs. F. A. Yarborough of Tallulah spoke on the duties of officers. The session closed with a question box.

Mrs. R. C. Leeves directed the musical part of the program, which was featured by vocal solos by E. A. Buckner, Mrs. R. L. Baily and Mrs. E. L. Loe. A luncheon was served at the noon hour in the home economics department rooms of the school. In addition to the workers of the local unit there was a representative attendance from the Mounds P.-T. A. Mrs. R. N. Ware is president of the Tallulah organization.

Oak Ridge P.-T. A.

OAK RIDGE, La., Nov. 9.—(Special)—A determination to continue free lunches for underprivileged children attending the school and to appropriate money to provide magazines and music for the institution featured the November meeting of the Oak Ridge High school Parent-Teacher association of the Louisiana Congress of Parents and Teachers.

Well attended, the meeting was presided over by Mrs. C. J. Wasson, the president. The report of the chairman of the finance committee, Mrs. B. S. Hammer, was well received. The program was presented under the supervision of Hrs. F. E. Hogan, chairman of the program committee.

Mrs. R. C. Hathcox entertained with a number by a rhythm band composed of children of the primary grades of the school. Miss Ellie Taylor delivered an address on "Teaching the Three R's."

In developing her subject, Miss Taylor compared methods of years ago with those in vogue today. Her talk was well received.

At the conclusion of the address, Mrs. Hathcox gave a demonstration in teaching primary children reading and writing.

A study class in the management of children in the home was held. Mrs. R. B. Wofford presided over this phase of the program.

Sherrouse Party

The Halloween carnival held at Sherrouse school under the auspices of the Parent-Teacher association of the institution was a success financially and otherwise.

A program of readings, songs and dances was presented. Fortune telling was a feature of the entertainment. An excellent playlet was given by Mrs. Rust and her two children, David and Mary Pat. The sale of cakes, ice cream, candy and other articles brought profitable returns.

'Get Together Party'

The first grade mothers of the Parent-Teacher association of Lida Benton school entertained the second grade mothers at a "get together party" at the school recently.

Games were played, resulting in a prize being awarded to Mrs. M. Murphy of 3009 Gordon avenue.

Refreshments were served to the 40 persons attending the gathering.

The second grade mothers will entertain the third grade mothers on November 13.

Parties Are Successful

OAK RIDGE, La., Nov. 9.—(Special)—Two recent parties sponsored by the Oak Ridge High school Parent-Teacher association of the Louisiana Congress of Parents and Teachers were successful, financially as well as socially. Both the card party and the Halloween carnival were well attended. The proceeds from the entertainments will be used for school improvements.

Fairbanks P.-T. A.

FAIRBANKS, La., Nov. 9.—(Special)—The Fairbanks Parent-Teacher association held its October meeting with a large attendance present and the president, Mrs. G. B. Wilson, presiding. The meeting opened with the assembly singing a P.-T. A. song. "Get Together." Mrs. George C. Clarke then rendered a prayer, followed by a brief period devoted to business. It was decided to raise the membership dues from 25 cents to 50 cents.

Under the direction of Mrs. Carter, the following program was rendered: Songs by first and second grades; talk on "Efficiency in Reading," Mrs. Wilson; reading, "Mr. Nobody," Addye Lee Harrison; piano solo, Mrs. V. Brazel; reading, Neleye Spizener.

The Tom Thumb wedding contest was closed at the meeting. The bride elected was Doria Beth Montgomery and the bridegroom chosen was Herman Bernard Wilson. The total sum raised by the 11 candidates in the contest was $60.86.

Mrs. Carter's class again won a box of candy awarded for attendance.

At a former meeting, the Fairbanks P.-T. A. voted unanimously to purchase a set of World Books for the school. Mrs. J. D. Sewell rendered a prayer at the opening of the meeting; and after the committee reports were made, the following program was rendered: Songs, by fourth grade; talk on "Comparison of Schools of Long Ago and Today," Mrs. Sewell; talk on "Teaching of First Grade Model Lesson," Mrs. Morgan; reading, Mrs. Bender; poem, Mrs. Roddey.

The prize for the greatest number of parents present went to the third and fourth grades.

Refreshments were served by the hospitality committee.

COUNCIL PRESIDENT

Chic After Nine

By Adelaide Kerr

PARIS, Nov. 9.—(AP)—The Paris fashion mint has coined a new "gadabout" evening costume to wear after the clock strikes nine.

It has a new name "midnight tailleur"—and it spells chic any time and any place where men wear dinner jackets instead of "tails." It goes out to dine and dance, is long skirted and worn with a hat, and combines the distinction of evening clothes with the tailored smartness of a suit.

Heim, who evolved the new name, makes one of the smartest midnight suits shown. It unites a little fitted jacket and an instep-length skirt of black velvet with a blouse of blue violet crepe that is very high in front and a minus quantity in the back. With it goes a little feather beret toque in the same shade of blue as the blouse.

Maggy Rouff makes midnight suits of bottle green velvet or sapphire cloque cire. The jackets, richly collared in silver fox or black lynx, top simple dinner frocks with high front and low back decollettes, some of which are finished with long sleeves. A diamond clasp sparkles from the neckline of some of them.

Schiaparelli contributes to the mode with simple dinner frocks of black ottoman or bottle green satin accompanied by short milk jackets striped in tones of red, blue and green, while Worth shows a black lace suit worn with an oragne blouse.

"Femme fatale" clothes, which bring back memories of Theda Bara and Gaby Deslys add zest to Marcel Rochas' dinner costumes. One gown is of black silk jersey, moulded to fit the figure like a black glove. Another is a long-sleeved floor-length frock of black velvet with a big heart cut out at the top of the bodice to reveal the flesh.

All these costumes are "gadabout" clothes, intended to be worn in smart restaurants, nightclubs—any place but at home.

Engagement Announced

The following formal announcement is of considerable social import and sincere and affectionate interest to a wide circle of friends in this section of the state:

Mrs. Richard Franklin White of Alexandria announces the engagement of her daughter, Harriet Silliman, to Mr. Benjamin Cornwell Dawkins, Jr., the wedding to take place the early part of January.

Miss White is a daughter of the late Mr. Richard Franklin White and Mrs. White. Mr. Dawkins is a son of Judge and Mrs. Benjamin Cornwell Dawkins of Monroe and is engaged in the practice of law in Shreveport.

Ruston

Mr. and Mrs. Herbert L. Bunn of Alexandria, announce the engagement of their daughter, Mary Alice, to John Samuel Griffin, of Ruston. The wedding will be solemnized late this month.

Mrs. E. M. Shirley was elected president of the Ruston Pan-Hellenic society at a special meeting held in the home of Mrs. T. L. James on North Vienna street. Named to serve with Mrs. Shirley were: Mrs. Zollie T. Meadows, vice-president; Mrs. Felton Green, secretary; and Miss Elizabeth Hadley, treasurer.

Other business under discussion by the club were plans looking forward to a building fund with which to establish a Pan-Hellenic center at Louisiana Tech.

New members welcomed into the club were Mrs. Raymond Heard and Miss Martha Vaught.

The following were present: Mrs. Galen Davis, Mrs. Travis Melton, Mrs. E. M. Shirley, Miss Christine Moon, Mrs. Robert Lane Fuller, Mrs. Floyd James, Mrs. Raymond Heard, Mrs. Durwood Lyons, Mrs. Byron Cann, Mrs. Zollie Meadows, Mrs. Floyd Pearce, Miss Charlotte Lewis, Miss Mabel May, Mrs. Glenn Laskey, Miss Marion Scaife, Miss Elizabeth Hadley, Miss Mary Moffett and Miss Betty Bethea.

Much favorable comment is heard regarding the play, "Private Affairs," which was presented at the Rialto theater under auspices of McFarland post No. 2, the local American Legion unit. The cast for the play was composed of more than eighty local people, who, in view of their limited time for rehearsals, gave a very creditable and entertaining performance.

"Private Affairs" was staged by Adeline Edwards and Beatrice Fretwell, and was presented to a packed house.

The Young Women's auxiliary of the First Baptist church held its regular meeting recently with Miss Jane and Ethel Turner acting as hostesses. Those attending were: Misses Louise Davis, Myrtis Sharmon, Christine and Ethel Hardin, Mary Edith Thurmon, Ray Fortson, Nan Morgan, Maude Gunn, Dora Dell Walters and Jane and Ethel Turner.

Capt. E. L. Kidd and L. K. Brooks, two of Ruston's most prominent insurance men, are being welcomed back to work after prolonged illnesses. Capt. Kidd recently returned from Hot Springs, Ark., and Mr. Brooks has just been discharged from the Ruston-Lincoln sanitarium following an appendectomy.

The Arts club held its regular meeting recently at the home of Mrs. L. P. McLane, with Mrs. Fairy C. McBride acting as co-hostess. Three new members were welcomed into the club: E. L. Berdon, Mrs. Eunice C. Williamson and Mrs. G. W. McGinty. Mrs. Berdon is well known in music circles, being co-author of "Song of Louisiana." Mrs. G. H. Duggins was a special guest at the meeting.

An informal social hour, during which refreshments were served, was enjoyed by the 20 members and their guests.

Jonesboro

Jackson parish boys won high honors in the election of class officers recently held at the Louisiana State university.

The 20 students from Jackson parish were well represented in the student government which reigns over 5,000 students now enrolled at L. S. U.

The garden leaders from three of the H. D. clubs of Jackson parish met with Miss Bertha Lee Ferguson, state extension garden specialist, on October 25 at the courthouse for the purpose of getting information to be used in the various clubs in conducting garden meetings.

Three phases of gardening were discussed by Miss Ferguson: "Construction and Use of Hot-Beds and Cold Frames;" "Propagation and Care of Shrubs;" "Color Harmony in the Flower Garden."

Those attending the meeting were Mrs. J. L. Kelley, Kiddton; Mrs. Donald Sherrard, Kiddton; Mrs. John Cornett, Weston; Mrs. R. B. Robinson, Weston; Mrs. R. E. Wingate, Eros. Miss Sophie Stone, home demonstration agent from Lincoln parish, also attended the meeting.

The Ever Ready circle of the Methodist church met with Mrs. R. C. Jefress for its regular monthly "year book" program.

A playlet entitled "A Worker's Conference" constituted most of the program. Those taking part were Mrs. G. A. Morgan, Mrs. B. Edwards, Mrs. R. C. Jefress, Mrs. W. S. McDonald, Mrs. T. L. Walker and Mrs. J. A. Gaar. Mrs. T. L. Walker gave the devotional and Mrs. W. W. Kavanaugh led the discussion of the program. At the close of the program, the hostess served orangeade and cookies to eight members and two visitors.

The Young Women's circle of the Methodist church met at the home of Mrs. Howard Hearne. The devotional was given by the auxiliary president, Mrs. A. A. Meredith; and Mrs. C. C. Willingham led the discussion of the subject, "Training for Service in Korea."

The hostess served sandwiches and hot chocolate to Mesdames A. A. Meredith, W. E. Walker, J. C. Thomas, C. C. Willingham, Willis Adams, M. L. Dickerson, H. M. Henley, W. L. Garner and David Shively.

The Ruth Brown circle of the Methodist church met in the home of Mrs. T. D. Callaway for the regular monthly program, with Mrs. D. E. Caldwell presiding.

The topic for discussion was "A Workers' Conference on City Evangelistic Work in Korea." A playlet was presented with the following taking part: Mesdames Neil Thomas, W. W. McDonald, Albert Crowson, Sam Walsworth, Henry Scroggin, T. D. Callaway and D. E. Caldwell. Training for Christian service in Korea was discussed by Mrs. V. L. Brumfield, and the devotional was given by Mrs. J. A. Thurman. Mrs. Fred Callaway offered a prayer for the missionaries.

The hostess served sandwiches, cakes and coffee to the following members: Mesdames D. E. Caldwell, Fred Calaway, J. J. Briehm, J. A. Thurman, V. L. Brumfield, Sam Walsworth, Albert Crowson, J. E. Cox, Henry Scroggin, W. W. McDonald and Neil Thomas.

The Jonesboro-Hodge P.-T. A. members of the Louisiana congress of Parent-Teacher associations held the first meeting of the year on October 24 in the auditorium of the high school, with Mrs. E. E. Ramsey presiding. Dr. T. A. Dekle was the speaker of the afternoon.

The Art club met in the home of Mrs. Tom Cox. Myriads of Radiance roses were used as decorations in the reception rooms.

After the business of the afternoon, the club members spent the time sewing and knitting. During the social hour, the hostess served salad, crackers, olives and cake and coffee to Mesdames W. P. Miller, John Dupree, H. W. Ayres, Stanley Lewis, Wade Emery, C. C. Willingham, David Jefress, Brown Traylor, Paul Stinson, Howard Hearne, and Mrs. Carl Lueg of Slidell.

Miss Viola Charles of Jonesboro, daughter of Mrs. F. B. Simpson, of Ruston, and Leonard D. Miller, also of Ruston, were married Thursday, October 24, at 11 a.m., at the home of the bride's mother. Rev. McFadden of the Presbyterian church of Ruston performed the ceremony.

Shortly after the ceremony the couple left on their honeymoon for New Orleans. On their return, they will make their home in Ruston.

Mrs. Miller is a graduate of the Jonesboro high school and is very popular with the younger set, and Mr. Miller is a treveling salesman for the Raymond Heard Co., of Ruston.

Mr. and Mrs. Louie Boss were hosts to a number of their friends, honoring J. C. Shows, clerk of court of Jackson parish, on his birthday. The guests assembled on the lawn of the Boss home where a chicken gumbo supper was served. The birthday cake was beautifully decorated with fifty-odd candles representing the approximate age of the man for whom the people of Jackson parish always vote for clerk of the district court. He never has an opponent and this coming together of his friends was to celebrate another victory in his political life, as well as another milestone.

Mr. Shows was the recipient of many useful gifts and happy felicitations, not only from those present but from others who were not able to attend.

Those present were Mr. and Mrs. B. B. Bass, Mrs. O. A. Gaar, Mr. and Mrs. S. Kirkland, Mrs. Ben Johnston, Capt. and Mrs. S. A. Hall, Mrs. Leon Mitchell, and Mr. and Mrs. Shows.

An all orange and black motif with silver and crystal table appointments was carried out in the dining room. The table was laid with a lace cloth which was centered with a birthday cake. On either side of the centerpiece were candelabra holding burning orange tapers. Small mint cups of black and orange added to the color scheme.

The honoree received many lovely gifts Those present: Billy and Betty Walsworth, Catherine Sanders, Dixie Catherine Whittemore, Mary Jo Boss, Janice Littlefield, Baby Loyce Moore, Lucy Greene, Ollie Anne Crowson, Louise and Gloria Carson, Billy Ruth Grey, Nell Ruth Palmer, Wayne Wheat, Johnie Mac Dodge, Chas. Gaar, Bobbie Stewart Paul, Stanley and F. A. Palmer, Jr., Mr. and Mrs. R. S. Kelley, Miss Annis Cawthon, Mrs. Ralph Wheat, Mrs. J. A. Whittemore, Miss Mildred Shows and the honoree's mother, Mrs. Jacqueline Shows Fallon.

Rev. and Mrs. G. A. Morgan were in Ruston last Sunday, where Rev. Morgan filled the pulpit of the Methodist church.

Merell Cox, Stanley Lewis, Ralph Wheat, Lamar McDonald and George Wafer attended the Centenary-T. C. U. football game.

Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Thomas spent the past week-end in Grand Saline, Texas.

One of the most successful singing conventions in the history of the state organization closed its second day of the session late Sunday, at the high school auditorium in Jonesboro, with W. H. Tolar, of Wyatt, La., presiding.

Men and women from all parts of the state were in attendance at this convention, and some of the outstanding male quartets of the south were present and participated in every program during the two days and one night.

Among the out-of-town singers and musicians, were the Vaughn male quartet of Lawrenceburg, Tenn.; Stamps-Baxter male quartet, of Dallas, Texas; the Arkansas Farmer Boys' male quartet, of El Dorado; Crow quartet, of Ansley; Spikes sisters, Montgomery; C. B. Sebron, and Jeff Duncan, of the Hartford Music company, of Atlanta; Frank B. Jones and Jimmie Davis and Will Tarburton, of Shreveport.

Little James Abraham, of Gibsland, was also in demand for every program, with his characteristic songs and readings. The Twin City male quartet of West Monroe were featured throughout the program.

Loud speakers were installed about the school building, so that the overflow crowds could listen to the singing. Every available space in the building was utilized for the enormous crowds attending.

The several local churches of the city, were favored with special selections rendered by the male quartets, on Sunday morning at the eleven o'clock worship hour. It is generally estimated that more than three thousand people were present for the Sunday's session of the convention.

Those enjoying the party were: Barbara and Rosemary Babers, Francis Barnett, Gloria Bell Kirk, Helen Green, Alestine Bagwell, Ruth Dance, Sara O'Neal, Willow Lee Bennett, Claudine Allen, Freddie Pipes, Pauline Nicholson and Mary Taylor.

The executive members of the Choudrant Parent-Teacher association held a joint meeting with the chairmen and their committees Monday evening at the school auditorium for the purpose of acquainting the members with their duties and to begin a membership drive beginning November 4. A prize will be given to the person securing the most members during the campaign. Already 50 have enrolled.

The Methodist Missionary society held its regular business meeting in the attractive home of Mrs. W. G. Kelly. The following program was rendered:

Song, Bless Be the Tie That Binds.
Devotional, Mrs. D. E. Ford.
Roll call of officers.
Minutes of last meeting.
Missionary news, read by Mrs. O. H. Futrell and Mrs. C. L. Madden.

Following the discussion of business, Rev. T. V. Fulton, who has been local pastor for the past four years, was honored with a shower. Numerous gifts were brought in a large basket and placed at his chair. After which sandwiches, ice cream and cake were served to Mrs. O. H. Futrell, Mrs. Hardy Sizemore, Mrs. C. L. Mondart, Mrs. Fannie Frost, Mrs. L. Bryant, Mrs. W. P. Tomlinson, Mrs. E. W. Daniels, Mrs. S. M. Pace, Mrs. W. L. Simpson, Mrs. W. L. Harris, Mrs. J. F. Holstead, Mrs. Jim Prisock, Mrs. J. H. Edmonson, Mrs. R. V. Fulton, Jr, Rev. R. V. Fulton, Mrs. V. O. Williams, Mrs. D. E. Ford, Mrs. C. L. Madden and Mrs. Herman Ford.

Mr. and Mrs. D. F. O'Neal and Mrs. M. E. Kidd, whose birthdays are the 1st, 7th and 4th of November, were complimented at a dinner party recently, when Mrs. C. L. Madden entertained in their honor.

The affair came as a complete surprise. Each honoree was showered with gifts.

A color scheme of orange and yellow prevailed throughout the living and dining room, with bouquets of cosmos and yellow dahlias placed at vantage points. The table was centered with a bowl of yellow dahlias and the places of the honorees were marked with lovely gifts.

The invited guests were Mr. and Mrs. D. S. O'Neal, Mr. and Mrs. M. E. Kidd, Mr. and Mrs. H. M. Bagly, Mr. and Mrs. Harold Willis, Miss Lillian O'Neal and Herman Alexander.

Mrs. O. H. Futrel, with Mrs. W. G. Kelly as co-hastess, entertained members of the junior Sunday school class of the Methodist church of which she is a teacher, with a Halloween party at her home.

It was an outdoor party. Halloween games were enjoyed. The guests were served hot chocolate and cake, popcorn, peanuts and sugar cane.

Those enjoying this delightful party were: Carrie and Jake Williams, Ruby Edwards, Rosemary Babers, Colleen and Morton Parnell, Webb, Herbert and Helen Green, Varie Aulds, Etha and Junior Harris, Ruth Douce, Harlan Futrel, Ernest Simpson, Alistine Bagwell, Bonnie Henry, Bobbie and Billie Kelly and Mary June Brewster.

Vaudeville, Feature Picture Offered At Paramount Today

Revue Heads Double Bill Presentation

'Blue Paradise Revue' And 'Virginia Judge' Headline Program

A big double show is offered Paramount patrons today, with the program featured by six headline vaudeville acts, called "The Blue Paradise Revue," and including a full-length feature picture, "The Virginia Judge."

The latest of the big time revues is presented by Alvira Morton, in "The Blue Paradise Revue," a stage presentation that is so different it is amazing with its beautiful scenic effects, its galaxy of glorious girls. In reality a symphony of styles and smiles.

The beautiful novelty of this revue resembles a story of "Babes in Toyland," interpreted by birds in place of children, as it represents feathered creatures from every land and clime. Cock-a-toos that are funny, parrots that talk, walk and sing, and a varied collection of Mackaws whose beauty and intelligence is astonishing.

Alvira Morton herself offers an act of a "Study in Blue," the greatest spectrum of all ages vividly produced that radiates in lights of melancholy blue.

Alvira Morton was not content with the spectacular stage presentation of modern times, she decided that flash and beauty plus talent must prevail throughout her revue. Therefore, she engaged "The Lovely Carvelle Sisters," late dancing stars of the Great Maestro, Ben Bernie and his band. These two talented and graceful dancers have been special feature attractions with a number of stage bands and have always held the bright spot on all vaudeville bills they appeared on. They will not only introduce the dances they made famous with these bands, but they have new dance sensations, as they dance to the teasing tunes of the "Paradise Boys," miracle of music.

The Seven Paradise Boys play new magic melodies, which is a riot of rhythm, in haunting music of popular composers. The dream disturbing tunes are well in keeping with Alvira Morton's image of blue and the galaxy of bewitching girls.

"The Virginia Judge," film version of Walter C. Kelly's internationally known stage character, is a happy combination of gay comedy, heart-warming drama and unsophisticated romance, a simple story of small town life in the Tidewater country of Virginia.

Kelly himself, in the title role, contributes a noteworthy characterization as the lovable judge whose courtroom is the center of many bits of philosophical, but sarcastic, humor as he pronounces sentence on the many darkies who appear before him.

Marsha Hunt, young screen sensation, makes her film debut in the production and delivers a fine, unaffected portrayal as the attractive belle of the little southern town. Displaying a remarkable gift of naturalness in her acting, Miss Hunt reveals potentialities for future stardom.

Stepin Fetchit, beloved sepian rogue, romps away with the comedy's more amusing moments with an hilarious interpretation as the community's harmless but troublesome bad boy. The negro comedian has one of his best roles to date. Johnny Downs and Robert Cummings, as the two juvenile leads, are pleasing and capable in their respective roles.

The story deals with the life of a small town southern judge, his personal and public problems. All the townsfolk bring their troubles to him with the exception of his own adolescent son who refuses to accept his father's sympathetic understanding. The boy, a proud, arrogant unmanageable but likeable youth, gets involved in a series of difficulties which keeps the film's action going at a swift and exciting pace. Striving to win the admiration and affection of Miss Hunt, he steals a car to take her riding, accidentally wrecks it and tries to get money to pay for its repair. Jealous because his rival, the town's richest boy, takes Miss Hunt to a carnival, he shoots the boy in the midst of an argument. The judge is faced with his duty as a public official and his parental feelings for his own son. A dramatic climax brings the picture to an exciting close.

James Dunn, William Frawley and Arline Judge bring out their best Sunday smiles in this scene from the Fox film comedy, "Welcome Home," coming to the Capitol theater Thursday and Friday. It's a mirth filled story of four gentle grafters who get the shock of their lives when they try to "take" the folks back home.

The Paradise Rhythm Boys and some of the cast in Elvira Morton's "The Blue Paradise Revue," the twenty people novelty and vaudeville revue which plays the Paramount theater today and Monday as the extra added stage attraction with the feature picture "The Virginia Judge," the comedy drama of the old south with Walter C. Kelly, Marsha Hunt, Johnny Downs, Robert Cummings and the colored comedian, Stepin Fetchit, heading a notable cast. This big stage and screen treat is for two days only, today and Monday.

Two big stars make their film debut together. Here's the "grand old lady" of the concert stage, Shumann-Heink, and the rising young luminary, Nino Martini, as they appear at the Fox studio to take part in their first motion picture, "Here's to Romance," the musical attraction at the Paramount theater for one day only, Friday.

A whirl of events from Paramount's gay romance, "Hands Across the Table," coming to the Paramount theater for three days, Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday. Carole Lombard and Fred MacMurray provide the love interest and most of the fun, assisted in both instances by a capable cast of players including Ralph Bellamy, Astrid Allwyn, Ruth Donnelly, Marie Prevost, Edward Gargan and William Demarest.

Here are two of the gorgeous red-heads in the Fox film hit, "Redheads on Parade," coming to the Capitol theater Tuesday and Wednesday. "Redheads on Parade" is a salute to a glorious romance. With forty-eight of the nation's auburn cuties in the supporting cast, John Boles and Dixie Lee are co-starred in the romantic leads in the season's gayest musical extravaganza.

Screen Life In Hollywood

HOLLYWOOD. — Italian money, which Columbus couldn't get when he was alive, is backing a film to be called "The Life of Christopher Columbus."

Herman Mankiewicz expects to leave any day now to write the scenario, but he doesn't yet know where he's supposed to go. He has been contracted to do the story for the Garabaldi Film company, which operates in both England and Italy.

The picture is scheduled to be filmed next summer, with Fredric March in the title role. But even he doesn't know where he will work, nor exactly when.

Shirley Speaks Up

A salesman who was trying to sell the Temples a new car extolled the shock-proof body, the crash-proof glass and the fool-proof brakes.

Young Shirley listened in awe. And when the selling talk was over she shyly inquired:

"Ahd is it arrest-proof, too?"

George Barbier, who hasn't had a vacation in five years—except for an occasional day or two—had to get a cold to get a rest.

Barbier, who inherited the smoky toga of the late Theodore Roberts, has appeared in nearly 100 pictures during the last five years. Bronchial pneumonia confined him for 10 days.

Nature was a long time getting the desert together, but art directors and technicians can make a dandy one in two weeks. They did it for "The Petrified Forest."

They hauled in cacti and sagebrush and bones and stones to scatter on the thousand tons of white sand that was spread over a sound stage floor. Around the stage walls they hung canvasses, painted to resemble desert wastes in the distance.

It actually makes you thirsty to look at the set.

Miriam's Fortune

Miriam Hopkins doesn't believe in fortune tellers, but she consults them regularly. A soothsayer came to her dressing room the other day and gave her a complete reading—crystal, tea leaves, cards and palm—for the bargain price of $2.

"They fascinate me, but I don't believe them," Miriam insists.

By paying the taxes, Allen Jenkins has the use of the lots on either side and in back of his home in nearby Santa Monica. He uses the lot on the right as a garden, the one in back as a shipyard (where he is building a sailboat) and the one on the left as a playground for his chows, his ducks and his cats.

When Marlene Dietrich served tea to the important cast members on the "Desire" set, Gary Cooper sent out for soft drinks for the entire crew. Since they had to sit and wait through tea time, he felt they should be wetting their whistles, too.

CLUB CHOOSES OFFICERS

MARION, La., Nov. 9.—(Special)—Officers have been chosen as follows by the 4-H club of Downsville High school: Laurice Andrews, president; Elaine Edwards, vice president; Helen Platt, secretary-treasurer; Eileen Platt, parliamentarian; Miss Edwards, reporter.

Western Is Presented At Capitol

'The Eagle's Brood' Is Second Of 'Hopalong' Cassidy Films

RED-BLOODED action, hair-raising thrills, spectacular horsemanship and gun battles galore in the typical western manner make the second in the series of the famous Clarence E. Mulford "Hopalong" Cassidy stories to come to the screen, "The Eagle's Brood," an outstanding production, which plays at the Capitol theater today.

Measuring up to the same high standard of the first Mulford film, "Hopalong Cassidy," "The Eagle's Brood' is continuance of fiction's favorite cowboy hero and his adventures as a fearless rider of the range in the days of the oldwest.

William Boyd is again seen in the role of "Hopalong," the same character he created in the first of the series, a fearless, admirable cowboy, quick on the trigger, straight shooting, hard riding hero of Mulford's books who comes to life on the screen. In "Eagle's Brood' he is cast as a peace officer whose duty is to bring law and order to the lawless border town of Hell Center. With him is his devoted admirer and impulsive pal, "Johnny Nelson," another of Mulford's beloved fiction characters.

Jimmy Ellison, new screen discovery, who played his first featured part as "Johnny Nelson" in the first Hopalong western, also portrays the same role he brought to film life in the first Hopalong. Again he is the same impulsive, hot-headed, loyal youth, ready to pull a gun at the drop of a hat in defense of his friend, Cassidy.

While riding the range one day, Boyd is caught in quicksand and is rescued by William Farnum, famous, ex-bandit who is forbidden to cross the border. In return for saving his life, Boyd promises he will find his missing young grandson.

From this point on to a smashing climax, whirlwind action follows in the wake of Boyd and Ellison, Joan Woodbury, cabaret entertainer and sweetheart of Addison Richards, Hell Center's lawless bad man, accidentally finds the boy and hides him. She is murdered before she can reveal his hiding place to Boyd. Ellison, on his own hook, follows a clue to Red mountain and finds the child's hideout, but is seriously wounded before he can make a getaway.

A thrilling, fast moving, finale, with plenty of gun play makes for an exciting finish. An able cast supports the two principals, including George Hayes, Dorothy Revier, George Marl, Howard Bretherton, whose direction distinguished the first Hopalong western, did as fine a directorial job on the second Mulford film.

TECH PROFESSOR IS NEAR COMPLETION OF NEW BOOK

RUSTON, La., Nov. 9.—(Special)—Dr. J. E. McGee, professor of social science at Louisiana Tech, has about completed the writing of his latest book, "A Historical Outline of Civilization in England."

The book is designed to serve as a guide for lecturers and undergraduates in that field of history. The author has done research work for the last three summers, including study at the New York public library and in the Library of Congress at Washington, D. C.

Dr. McGee has written two other books, "A Syllabus in the Teaching of History," published in 1934, and "A Crusade for Humanity," in 1931.

44 PARISHES ARE REPRESENTED AT LOUISIANA TECH

RUSTON, La., Nov. 9.—(Special)—Forty-four parishes of Louisiana are represented in the enrollment of 1,196 college students at Louisiana Tech this fall, according to statistics compiled by the president's office.

Other parishes ranking high in student representation are Union, with 87; Jackson, 86; Bienville, 71; Caddo, 61; Ouachita, 53; and Claiborne, 51.

The enrollment includes 11 out-of-state students. In the total are 583 men and 613 women students.

WORK ON WATER TANK IS FINISHED AT TECH

RUSTON, La., Nov. 9.—(Special)—Work on a water tank at Louisiana Tech, located between the power plant and the athletics field, has just been completed. The tank will serve as a supply for the fire-prevention sprinkler system recently installed in the dormitories at the college.

The structure stands 135 feet high and is 23 feet in diameter and 20 feet deep, with a capacity of 100,000 gallons. It is built about 50 feet above the highest point in the sprinkler system so as to provide constant pressure to force water through the pipes.

The tank has been painted an aluminum color. On one side will be painted the name "Louisiana Tech," which can be seen for considerable distance along the Shreveport-Monroe highway.

Cock-a-toos that are funny, parrots that talk, walk and sing, and a varied collection of Mackaws whose beauty and intelligence is astonishing.

Alvira Morton herself offers an act of a "Study in Blue," the greatest spectrum of all ages vividly produced that radiates in lights of melancholy blue.

Alvira Morton was not content with the spectacular stage presentation of modern times, she decided that flash and beauty plus talent must prevail throughout her revue. Therefore, she engaged "The Lovely Carvelle Sisters," late dancing stars of the Great Maestro, Ben Bernie and his band. These two talented and graceful dancers have been special feature attractions with a number of stage bands and have always held the bright spot on all vaudeville bills they appeared on. They will not only introduce the dances they made famous with these bands, but they have new dance sensations, as they dance to the teasing tunes of the "Paradise Boys," miracle of music.

The Seven Paradise Boys play new magic melodies, which is a riot of rhythm, in haunting music of popular composers. The dream disturbing tunes are well in keeping with Alvira Morton's image of blue and the galaxy of bewitching girls.

"The Virginia Judge," film version of Walter C. Kelly's internationally known stage character, is a happy combination of gay comedy, heart-warming drama and unsophisticated romance, a simple story of small town life in the Tidewater country of Virginia.

Kelly himself, in the title role, contributes a noteworthy characterization as the lovable judge whose courtroom is the center of many bits of philosophical, but sarcastic, humor as he pronounces sentence on the many darkies who appear before him.

Marsha Hunt, young screen sensation, makes her film debut in the production and delivers a fine, unaffected portrayal as the attractive belle of the little southern town. Displaying a remarkable gift of naturalness in her acting, Miss Hunt reveals potentialities for future stardom.

Stepin Fetchit, beloved sepian rogue, romps away with the comedy's more amusing moments with an hilarious interpretation as the community's harmless but troublesome bad boy. The negro comedian has one of his best roles to date. Johnny Downs and Robert Cummings, as the two juvenile leads, are pleasing and capable in their respective roles.

The story deals with the life of a small town southern judge, his personal and public problems. All the townsfolk bring their troubles to him with the exception of his own adolescent son who refuses to accept his father's sympathetic understanding. The boy, a proud, arrogant unmanageable but likeable youth, gets involved in a series of difficulties which keeps the film's action going at a swift and exciting pace. Striving to win the admiration and affection of Miss Hunt, he steals a car to take her riding, accidentally wrecks it and tries to get money to pay for its repair. Jealous because his rival, the town's richest boy, takes Miss Hunt to a carnival, he shoots the boy in the midst of an argument. The judge is faced with his duty as a public official and his parental feelings for his own son. A dramatic climax brings the picture to an exciting close.

James Dunn, William Frawley and Arline Judge bring out their best Sunday smiles in this scene from the Fox film comedy, "Welcome Home," coming to the Capitol theater Thursday and Friday. It's a mirth filled story of four gentle grafters who get the shock of their lives when they try to "take" the folks back home.

The Paradise Rhythm Boys and some of the cast in Elvira Morton's "The Blue Paradise Revue," the twenty people novelty and vaudeville revue which plays the Paramount theater today and Monday as the extra added stage attraction with the feature picture "The Virginia Judge," the comedy drama of the old south with Walter C. Kelly, Marsha Hunt, Johnny Downs, Robert Cummings and the colored comedian, Stepin Fetchit, heading a notable cast. This big stage and screen treat is for two days only, today and Monday.

Two big stars make their film debut together. Here's the "grand old lady" of the concert stage, Shumann-Heink, and the rising young luminary, Nino Martini, as they appear at the Fox studio to take part in their first motion picture, "Here's to Romance," the musical attraction at the Paramount theater for one day only, Friday.

A whirl of events from Paramount's gay romance, "Hands Across the Table," coming to the Paramount theater for three days, Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday. Carole Lombard and Fred MacMurray provide the love interest and most of the fun, assisted in both instances by a capable cast of players including Ralph Bellamy, Astrid Allwyn, Ruth Donnelly, Marie Prevost, Edward Gargan and William Demarest.

Here are two of the gorgeous red-heads in the Fox film hit, "Redheads on Parade," coming to the Capitol theater Tuesday and Wednesday. "Redheads on Parade" is a salute to a glorious romance. With forty-eight of the nation's auburn cuties in the supporting cast, John Boles and Dixie Lee are co-starred in the romantic leads in the season's gayest musical extravaganza.

Screen Life In Hollywood

HOLLYWOOD. — Italian money, which Columbus couldn't get when he was alive, is backing a film to be called "The Life of Christopher Columbus."

Herman Mankiewicz expects to leave any day now to write the scenario, but he doesn't yet know where he's supposed to go. He has been contracted to do the story for the Garabaldi Film company, which operates in both England and Italy.

The picture is scheduled to be filmed next summer, with Fredric March in the title role. But even he doesn't know where he will work, nor exactly when.

Shirley Speaks Up

A salesman who was trying to sell the Temples a new car extolled the shock-proof body, the crash-proof glass and the fool-proof brakes.

Young Shirley listened in awe. And when the selling talk was over she shyly inquired:

"And is it arrest-proof, too?"

George Barbier, who hasn't had a vacation in five years—except for an occasional day or two—had to get a cold to get a rest.

Barbier, who inherited the smoky toga of the late Theodore Roberts, has appeared in nearly 100 pictures during the last five years. Bronchial pneumonia confined him for 10 days.

Nature was a long time getting the desert together, but art directors and technicians can make a dandy one in two weeks. They did it for "The Petrified Forest."

They hauled in cacti and sagebrush and bones and stones to scatter on the thousand tons of white sand that was spread over a sound stage floor. Around the stage walls they hung canvasses, painted to resemble desert wastes in the distance.

It actually makes you thirsty to look at the set.

Miriam's Fortune

Miriam Hopkins doesn't believe in fortune tellers, but she consults them regularly. A soothsayer came to her dressing room the other day and gave her a complete reading—crystal, tea leaves, cards and palm—for the bargain price of $2.

"They fascinate me, but I don't believe them," Miriam insists.

By paying the taxes, Allen Jenkins has the use of the lots on either side and in back of his home in nearby Santa Monica. He uses the lot on the right as a garden, the one in back as a shipyard (where he is building a sailboat) and the one on the left as a playground for his chows, his ducks and his cats.

When Marlene Dietrich served tea to the important cast members on the "Desire" set, Gary Cooper sent out for soft drinks for the entire crew. Since they had to sit and wait through tea time, he felt they should be wetting their whistles, too.

CLUB CHOOSES OFFICERS

MARION, La., Nov. 9.—(Special)—Officers have been chosen as follows by the 4-H club of Downsville High school: Laurice Andrews, president; Elaine Edwards, vice president; Helen Platt, secretary-treasurer; Eileen Platt, parliamentarian; Miss Edwards, reporter.

A colorful scene from the Clarence E. Mulford western for Paramount, "The Eagle's Brood," playing at the Capitol theater today. This exciting action film depicts the further adventures of "Hopalong" Cassidy, featuring William Boyd and Jimmy Ellison in the leading roles. "Hopalong" Cassidy is fiction's favorite cowboy hero and fearless rider of the range of the old west and the picturization of his new adventures has been given an excellent cast.

ZaSu Pitts and Hugh O'Connell, ably assisted by Walter Catlett, find romance, while you laugh, on a roller coaster—love in a plunge—thrills in a "prop" coal mine—and understanding among the clowns of Coney Island in the new fun film, "The Affairs of Susan," coming to the Capitol theater as a special attraction for Armistice day.

Western Is Presented At Capitol

'The Eagle's Brood' Is Second Of 'Hopalong' Cassidy Films

RED-BLOODED action, hair-raising thrills, spectacular horsemanship and gun battles galore in the typical western manner make the second in the series of the famous Clarence E. Mulford "Hopalong" Cassidy stories to come to the screen, "The Eagle's Brood," an outstanding production, which plays at the Capitol theater today.

Measuring up to the same high standard of the first Mulford film, "Hopalong Cassidy," "The Eagle's Brood' is continuance of fiction's favorite cowboy hero and his adventures as a fearless rider of the range in the days of the oldwest.

William Boyd is again seen in the role of "Hopalong," the same character he created in the first of the series, a fearless, admirable cowboy, quick on the trigger, straight shooting, hard riding hero of Mulford's books who comes to life on the screen. In "Eagle's Brood' he is cast as a peace officer whose duty is to bring law and order to the lawless border town of Hell Center. With him is his devoted admirer and impulsive pal, "Johnny Nelson," another of Mulford's beloved fiction characters.

Jimmy Ellison, new screen discovery, who played his first featured part as "Johnny Nelson" in the first Hopalong western, also portrays the same role he brought to film life in the first Hopalong. Again he is the same impulsive, hot-headed, loyal youth, ready to pull a gun at the drop of a hat in defense of his friend, Cassidy.

While riding the range one day, Boyd is caught in quicksand and is rescued by William Farnum, famous, ex-bandit who is forbidden to cross the border. In return for saving his life, Boyd promises he will find his missing young grandson.

From this point on to a smashing climax, whirlwind action follows in the wake of Boyd and Ellison. Joan Woodbury, cabaret entertainer and sweetheart of Addison Richards, Hell Center's lawless bad man, accidentally finds the boy and hides him. She is murdered before she can reveal his hiding place to Boyd. Ellison, on his own hook, follows a clue to Red mountain and finds the child's hideout, but is seriously wounded before he can make a getaway.

A thrilling, fast moving, finale, with plenty of gun play makes for an exciting finish. An able cast supports the two principals, including George Hayes, Dorothy Revier, George Mari, Howard Bretherton, whose direction distinguished the first Hopalong western, did as fine a directorial job on the second Mulford film.

TECH PROFESSOR IS NEAR COMPLETION OF NEW BOOK

RUSTON, La., Nov. 9.—(Special)—Dr. J. E. McGee, professor of social science at Louisiana Tech, has about completed the writing of his latest book, "A Historical Outline of Civilization in England."

The book is designed to serve as a guide for lecturers and undergraduates in that field of history. The author has done research work for the last three summers, including study at the New York public library and in the Library of Congress at Washington, D. C.

Dr. McGee has written two other books, "A Syllabus in the Teaching of History," published in 1934, and "A Crusade for Humanity," in 1931.

44 PARISHES ARE REPRESENTED AT LOUISIANA TECH

RUSTON, La., Nov. 9.—(Special)—Forty-four parishes of Louisiana are represented in the enrollment of 1,196 college students at Louisiana Tech this fall, according to statistics compiled by the president's office.

Other parishes ranking high in student representation are Union, with 87; Jackson, 86; Bienville, 71; Caddo, 61; Ouachita, 53; and Claiborne, 51.

Students from other parishes are as follows:

Acadia, 1; Allen, 2; Avoyelles, 9; Beauregard, 1; Bossier, 14; Calcasieu, 3; Caldwell, 11; Catahoula, 9; Concordia, 7; DeSoto, 30; East Baton Rouge, 2; East Carroll, 5; Franklin, 43; Grant, 7; Jefferson, 1; Jefferson Davis, 9; LaSalle, 13; Livingston, 1; Madison, 10; Morehouse, 30; Natchitoches, 1; Orleans, 3; Rapides, 24; Red River, 8; Richland, 31; Sabine, 3; St. Charles, 1; St. Helena, 2; St. Landry, 1; Tangipahoa, 1; Tensas, 5; Vermilion, 1; Vernon, 1; Washington, 1; Webster, 34; West Carroll, 28; and Winn, 31.

WORK ON WATER TANK IS FINISHED AT TECH

RUSTON, La., Nov. 9.—(Special)—Work on a water tank at Louisiana Tech, located between the power plant and the athletics field, has just been completed. The tank will serve as a supply for the fire-prevention sprinkler system recently installed in the dormitories at the college.

The structure stands 135 feet high and is 23 feet in diameter and 20 feet deep, with a capacity of 100,000 gallons. It is built about 50 feet above the highest point in the sprinkler system so as to provide constant pressure to force water through the pipes.

The tank has been painted an aluminum color. On one side will be painted the name "Louisiana Tech," which can be seen for considerable distance along the Shreveport-Monroe highway.

"they DIED for peace; we who LIVE must preserve it!!!"

"Seventeen years ago, tomorrow, Monday, whistles sounded and bells rang. There was jubilation, rejoicing for those who lived, and, underneath, keen sorrow for those who helped make the celebration possible, yet could not join it.

"Time has mellowed our thoughts for them, but has brought forward their place in observance. Through them we have come to realize the futility of warfare, to keenly appreciate the significance of peace. Their part has been played; our part must lie in remembering it.

"We pause on November 11 to observe the close of a tragic phase in the world's history, to remember those who cannot celebrate its close with us. The significance of that minute lies not only in all that happened, but in all that might have been, as well.

"Time has softened the keen sorrow of 1918, but time can never alter the broken plans, the heartbreak of those times. We cannot change them, but we can remember, and in remembering hope for lasting peace. They DIED for peace; we who LIVE must preserve it!"

The men and firms whose names appear on this page take this opportunity to pay tribute to those who died for peace.

"WE FAVOR SIMBA BY KILLING HIM AT THE HEIGHT OF HIS TRIUMPH. HIS HAPPY WORK IS DONE. HE HAS GIVEN US A VICTIM FOR OUR FEAST."

NOW MENGO ORDERED THAT TARZAN BE UNBOUND FOR ENTRANCE INTO THE FATAL ARENA, FROM WHICH NO MAN EVER RETURNED ALIVE.

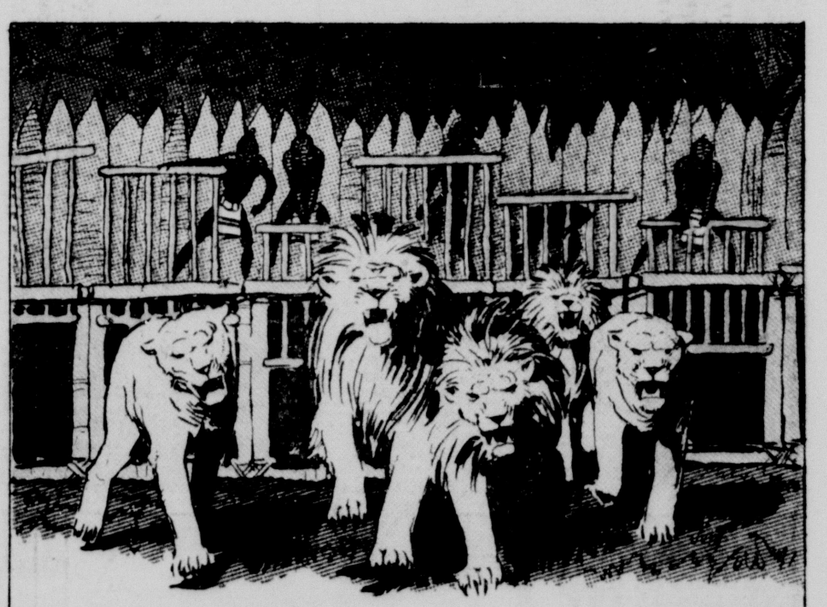

SHARP SPEARS WERE PRESSED AGAINST HIS FLESH. ONE FALSE MOVE, AND THE LANCES WOULD PENETRATE HIS BODY!

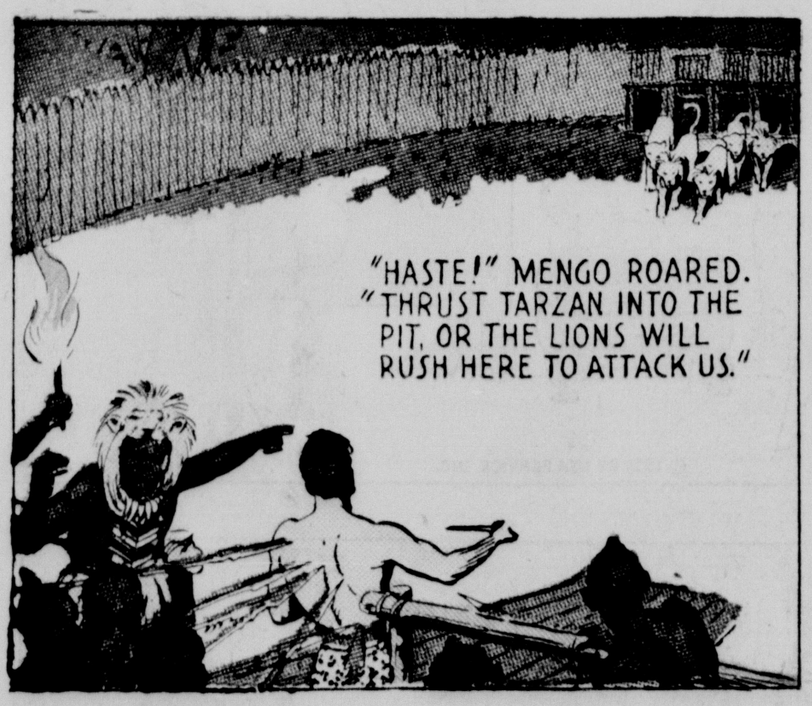

TEARS STREAMED NOW FROM SIGREDA'S EYES AS SHE WHISPERED: "FAREWELL, BELOVED. WE SHALL BE UNITED IN DEATH!"

MENGO RETURNED TARZAN'S HUNTING KNIFE; BUT OF WHAT AVAIL WAS THAT SMALL BLADE IN THE COMING COMBAT!

NOW THE CANNIBAL CHIEF SIGNALED TRIUMPHANTLY AND FIVE RAGING LIONS LEAPED FROM THEIR CAGES.

"HASTE!" MENGO ROARED. "THRUST TARZAN INTO THE PIT, OR THE LIONS WILL RUSH HERE TO ATTACK US."

AS THE SPEARMEN DROVE THE APE-MAN INTO THE ARENA, A CRY AROSE BEHIND HIM. IT WAS SIGREDA, SCREAMING!

"RATHER THAN WITNESS HIS DEATH, I SHALL DIE." AND THE DISTRAUGHT MAIDEN RAN PAST TARZAN TO FACE THE RAGING LIONS!"

FISHER'S HISTORY OF BOXING

WHEN ONLY FOURTEEN, JACK TRIED TO ENLIST IN THE NAVY. THE RESULT WAS A GOOD WHALING FROM HIS FATHER.

WHAT'S THE MATTER FATHER?

I'M ALL IN. I GAVE JACK A WHIPPING.

CARRYING WATER FOR CIRCUS ELEPHANTS, WORKING AS A RAILROAD BRAKEMAN, COAL HEAVER, AND GLASS BLOWER, HELPED DEVELOP THE LAD'S FINE PHYSIQUE.

HE HELPED SUPPORT THE FAMILY DURING THE WAR AND THEN .... THE WAR OVER, JACK ENLISTED IN THE NAVY. HE WAS JUST OLD ENOUGH TO GET IN.

OKAY SON... YOU'RE ACCEPTED.

IT WONT BE NO FUN NOW. THE WAR'S OVER.

JOE AND KNOBBY ARE VISITING THE XXX RANCH IN ARIZONA

I'M GONNA RIDE UP ON THE MESA.

OKAY GIT BACK BEFORE SUPPER.

STICK 'EM UP!!

GRACIOUS SAKES... WHO ARE YOUSE ??

I'M BENNY THE KID, THE SHOOTINEST, TOOTINEST WORST HOMBRE EVER BREEDED IN THE SOUTHWEST! I'M A NASTY COYOTE, A T'RANTULER, A ....

...CATTLE RUSSLIN' DESPERAYDER, KILLER AN' ROAD AGENT. I'M PLUMB NASTY, STRANGER. REACH FER THE SKY... DROP YER GUNS, I'M AGOIN' THRU YA. GIT OFF THAT HOSS!

I AINT GOT NO GUNS. AN' I AINT GOT NO MONEY ON ME. I'M JIST A GUEST DOWN AT CUDNER'S RANCH.

THIS IS VERY DISAPPOINTIN'. AINT'CHA GOT NOTHIN' I KIN TAKE? I REALLY NEED A FEW BUCKS.

YOUSE DON'T SEEM LIKE A BAD FELLER. I'LL TAKE YOUSE DOWN TO THE RANCH AN' GIT YOUSE SOME MONEY.

OH NO, I COULDN'T GO NEAR IT. YA SEE I'M JUST STARTIN' OUT ON MY CAREER AN' I MIGHT GIT CAPTURED. I'D REALLY HATE TO HAFTA SHOOT AT ANYBODY.

THEN YOU NEVER STOLE NOTHIN' OR KILLED NOBODY OR NOTHIN'. ??

NO BUT I AINT HAD NO CHANCE'T. BUT I GOT TH' WHOLE COUNTRY SCARED A ME. I BEEN SENDIN' OUT WARNINS I'M ACOMIN'.

THIS IS A VERY STRANGE C'REER T'CHOOSE I'D SAY IF YOUSE DON'T MIND.

WHY I EVEN BEEN POSTIN' UP BILLS OF A REWARD FER MY CAPTURE. I'M PUBLIC ENEMY NUMBER 34.

I HOPE YOUSE WONT FEEL HURT BUT I NEVER HEARD OF YOUSE. THAT'S A VERY NICE PITCHER.

WANTED DEAD OR ALIVE BENNY THE KID

WELL YA WILL. BUT YA DON'T NEED T'BE SO SMART (KEEP 'EM UP) I NEVER HEARD A YOU NEITHER.

WE WENT TO A PICTURE SHOW AND KAYO TOOK SICK IN THE MIDDLE OF THE PERFORMANCE AND I HAD TO BRING HIM HOME, UNCLE AMBROSE.

TOO BAD. TSK-TSK-TSK- SUCH A WASTE OF MONEY.

I THINK WE'D BETTER CALL A DOCTOR.

DOCTOR ME EYE! I SAY A GOOD LAUGH'S BETTER'N A DOSE OF ANY MEDICINE — GIVE HIM A FUNNY PAPER TO READ, EMMY.

WELL, PERSONALLY I THINK WHAT HE NEEDS IS A GOOD DOSE OF CASTOR OIL.

OKAY- THEN GIVE HIM CASTOR OIL - BUT DON'T EXPECT ME TO PAY FOR IT.

HECK!

ZOK!

LAUGH AT ME, WILL YOU? WHY YOU LITTLE —

DON'TCHA TOUCH ME, AMBROSE! KEEP YER PAWS OFFA ME OR ME BRUDDER MOON'LL KNOCK YOU FOR A LOOP.

IS THAT SO! HA! I AIN'T SEEN A MULLINS YET THAT WAS MY MATCH!

SLAM!

GIT OUT!

POW!

UNCLE AMBROSE! OH UNCLE AMBROSE, PLEASE COME BACK!

AW LET HIM GO! HE'S FULL A BUNK- I TRIED HIS REMEDY OF A GOOD LAUGH, BUT IT DIDN'T DO MY STUMMICK ACHE NO GOOD.

OH YES- I NEARLY FORGOT THAT- TAKE THIS CASTOR OIL, KAYO.

FER TH' LOVA MIKE! WON'T I NEVER LEARN TO KEEP MY BIG MOUTH SHUT?

FURTHERMORE, COUNT HEYLOFF, I PLACE YOU UNDER ARREST.

HO HO! YOU VOULDN'T DARE! I'M DER MUNITIONS KING.

YOU TRY ANY FUNNY BUSINESS MIT ME, YOU PUPPET, UND BOOM GOES DER POWDER PLANT.

BY MY ORDER, YOU WILL BE HANGED FOR MURDER, BEFORE DAWN.

MURDER?

YES, MURDER! TO SATISFY YOUR LUST FOR GOLD, YOU STARTED THIS GHASTLY WAR! IT HAS COST THOUSANDS OF LIVES. YOU'RE RESPONSIBLE—YOU AND WINTERKOFF. AND NO POWER ON EARTH CAN SAVE YOU.

ACH DER LIEBER! GANGVAY!

I'LL FLY TO RUSSIA! I'LL ESCAPE!

SHALL I HEAD HIM OFF, YOUR MAJESTY?

THANKS TO THIS BELL, CAPTAIN, I HARDLY THINK IT NECESSARY.

B-R-R-R-RING!

BANG!

BANG!

A FITTING END, CAPTAIN, TO ONE WHO FATTENS HIMSELF ON THE FLESH AND BLOOD OF HIS FELLOW MEN.

FIVE MINUTES LATER, A FAITHFUL HIRELING HEARS OF HIS MASTER'S DEATH.

DICK TRACY

IN HIS DRIVE TO CLEAN UP CRIME IN HOMEVILLE, DICK TRACY HAS FINALLY CENTERED HIS ACTIVITIES AROUND THE FAMON BROTHERS WHOM HE SUSPECTS OF BEING THE RINGLEADERS OF A VICIOUS GANG OF RACKETEERS.....

MR. JEBBS, THE GROCER, IS HERE TO SEE YOU.

SHOW HIM IN, O'TOOLE.

MR. TRACY, I HAVE A SMALL GROCERY STORE DOWNTOWN ON MAIN STREET THAT I'VE CONDUCTED HONESTLY FOR 15 YEARS. UP TO ABOUT A WEEK OR SO AGO I NEVER HAD TROUBLE OF ANY KIND.

YES- GO ON, MR. JEBBS.

WELL, ABOUT A WEEK AGO-A MAN I DIDN'T KNOW CAME IN AND ASKED ME IF I WOULD LIKE TO ENGAGE A WATCHMAN TO WATCH MY STORE AT NIGHT.

AND YOU TOLD HIM NO?

OF COURSE! I'VE NEVER NEEDED A WATCHMAN AND I TOLD HIM SO. ABOUT TWO DAYS AFTER THAT MY STORE-FRONT WINDOW WAS BROKEN WITH A BRICK.

TELETYPE

THE FOLLOWING DAY, THE SAME MAN CAME AROUND AND ASKED ME IF I'D CHANGED MY MIND. I SAID NO, AND THAT NIGHT THE SHED AT THE REAR OF THE STORE WHERE I KEEP MY OIL WAS SET AFIRE.

DESCRIBE THIS MAN WHO CAME TO YOU, MR. JEBBS.

I WAS JUST GOING TO DO THAT.. HE WAS —

MEANWHILE...

WELL-WHAT HAVE YOU GOT TO SAY FOR YOURSELF, GORDON?

LISTEN "CUT", THESE HICK MERCHANTS WON'T FALL FOR THIS WATCHMAN STUFF. THEY'RE SMART. ONE GUY EVEN CHASED ME OUT OF HIS STORE WITH AN AX HANDLE.

YEAH?

WE'RE USING THIS LITTLE BURG FOR HEAD-QUARTERS-THAT'S ENOUGH. OUR BUSINESS IN THE CITY IS BRINGING ENOUGH DOUGH- LET THESE BOYS ALONE BEFORE THEY GET THE COPS ON US.

HEY! OW--

YOU'RE FOLDING UP ON US, EH? TURNING EASY IN THE PINCHES, ARE YOU? GET UP!

LISTEN, "CUT" YOU CAN'T— OW!

COPS OR NO COPS- WE'RE CUTTING IN ON THESE BABIES. IT WASN'T COPS THAT PUT ME AWAY..... IT WAS INCOME TAX. I KNOW HOW TO HANDLE COPS. NOW GET OUT THERE AND ORGANIZE THESE STORE-KEEPERS BEFORE I...

YES SIR.. ..I GET YOU, "CUT".... I'LL —
